SCOOP'S COLUMN

By SCOOP--HIMSELF

It's a good thing that the days of "ye olde barroom" are passed or there would have been a good many believe that they had the D. T's. Tuesday afternoon in Harned's drug store, when 299 or more tiny frogs were unleashed by an "unknown dirty culprit", at Betty Dawson termed it.

Up until last night Betty and Andalusia, and the proprietor himself, were discovering frogs behind the big Amos 'n' Andy sign and under the frigidaire. They are thinking of saving them all until they grow larger, then open a restaurant department and specialize in frog's legs.

The Amalgamated society will get blamed for the outrage whether they did it or not, but it is a safe bet that its members had a finger in the pie, or rather a hand in the pond.

Don't Take This Seriously Dear Relatives

Archibaldson, feeling the literary urge this week, pleaded with Scoop to let him have expression in his valuable column and Scoop, being naturally chicken-hearted, let him ramble on. Here is what he writes:

June 1 marked the open season for visiting relatives. We have had four at our house already More will follow.

But we're not the kind of folk who stand aghast at such a thing. On the cont ". we welcome visiting relatives. Over eight years' experience in handling them has convinced us that they are an asset rather than a liability, that is, if they are handled right.

This depends on first impressions. If you can get over the idea that they are better off (financially) than you are, you have mounted the worst obstacle.

We do this by dressing Eleanor in her mother's cut down kimona, by dressing Mrs. Archibaldson in a suit she had in Kingwood and by dressing myself in the only suit I have, purchased from Ikey Sincell.

Then, when relatives come and remark what a nice house we have, we admit it but point out that Albert Lee is about ready to advertise it for sale for non-payment of taxes. If they brag on our radio we say that installment buying isn't all that it's cracked up to be.

The next big point to make is that we never eat any breakfast and that I get my noon meal down town. This makes average relatives realize that they are a lot of trouble and if they are half the men and women my relatives are, they will start buying victuals.

Last Friday and Saturday, for example, my grocery bill ran only 25 cents. This little piece of srtategy was pulled off simply by sending the visiting brother-in-law down town to make the purchases. When he came back and I sarted reaching for my pocketbook he said, "forget it," and I did.

In buying cigarets, candy, mailing letters and buying gasoline for your car you are at a big advantage if you have visitors. If you are not too impetuous it is no trouble at all for them to be lined up ahead of you at the box office, or pay window.

The only problem I have not solved is the proper procedure for getting rid of visitors at the right time. The mention of houseclcaning will move all but the hardiest of relatives.

The last lesson on how to be happy though married to relatives, is how to get back at them. For each day spent at my house we spend one day at their house. The count is kept on a little score cord that Jim Nordeck printed during his leisure time. To the left is a place for the names of those visiting. On the right is a series of little blocks large enough to write in dates.

At the end of their visit the blocks are added up, indexed and filed away. Then when we have everyone we are related to under heavy obligations, we start booking open dates and spend the summer months by touring Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

I hope this doesn't make any of my relatives mad if they read this but if it does, then I have discovered another mehod of getting rid of visiting relatives.—Archibaldson.

Banana Rhubarb Layer
First Part

One package Royal Quick Setting Lemon Gelatin, 1 cup boiling water, ½ cup cold water, 2½ cups stewed, sweetened rhubarb and juice.

Dissolve the Royal Quick Setting Lemon Gelatin in the boiling water; add the cold water, and set aside to congeal. When the consistancy of an egg white, add the rhubarb and juice, and transfer to a large shallow pan first rinsed in cold water. The gelatin mixture should be about one inch thick.

Second Part

One package Royal Quick Setting Lemon Gelatin, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup cold water, 2 cups mashed banana pulp, 1 cup whipped cream.

Dissolve a second package of Royal Quick Setting Lemon Gelatin in the boiling water; add the cold water, and set aside to congeal. When the consistency of an egg white, whip to a froth with an egg beater, and fold in the banana pulp and whipped cream. Pour on top of the rhubarb gelatin layer, and chill. When firm, cut in squares, and serve with a garnish of whipped cream and chopped nuts.

This is a recipe that Ida Bailey Allen gave over the Radio Tuesday, June 3, entertaining Maryland's Farm Women and Home Demonstration Agents' party. The guests were served with this delicious dessert with sponge cake and coffee.

American Maple Ice Cream

One pint milk, 2 T. flour, 2 T. water, ¾ c. maple sugar or 1 cup heavy maple syrup, 2 egg yolks, 1 c. heavy cream, ½ t. vanilla.

Method: Scald the milk, stirring constantly. Mix the flour and cold water to a smooth paste, and add to it slowly the scalded milk, continuing the stirring. When thickened, cook over hot water for about 15 minutes. Add syrup or sugar and beaten egg yolks and cook 2 minutes. Strain the custard thru a fine sieve and when cold, add the cream and vanilla. Freeze. This makes a smooth, rich cream.—Roselle Bishoff, Friendsville.

This Maple Ice Cream Recipe was the one Mr. J. A. Conover demonstrated at the County-wide Program and tea on Wednesday, June 11.

THE PRESIDENT'S TARIFF STATEMENT

President Hoover's statement on the tariff act has impressed the country by its political sincerity and its sober, common-sense view of what the act in the main accomplishes, altho conceding imperfections in detail which are inescapable in any tariff revision. As to the mandate given for such legislation in 1928, he says simply: "Platform promises must not be empty gestures." The voters indicated clearly two years ago that they approved the tariff declarations of the Kansas City platform, and the party in power was bound to live up to its pre-election pledges.

There is no justification for saying that the act departs materially from the theory of limited revision for the benefit of agriculture and of certain other industries injuriously affected by foreign competition. As the President points out, studies by the Tariff Commission show that duties on agricultural raw materials average 48.92 per cent under the Hawley-Smoot act and 38.10 per cent under the present law, and that duties on industrial products made from agricultural raw materials and carrying compensatory allowance for the increased duties on such materials average 48.87 under the revision, and 36.15 under the present law. On the other hand, duties on industrial products from other materials average 34.41 per cent under the revision and 31.02 under the present law. The Tariff Commission also reports that 68 per cent of the total increase of duties under the Hawley-Smoot act is on imports of agricultural materials and only 32 per cent is on industrial products.

Average duties collected under the present law were about 13 per cent of the value of all imports, free and dutiable. Under the new law the average will be about 16 per cent, due mainly to the agricultural increases. But under the Wilson law 20.9, under the Dingley law 25.8 and under the Payne-Aldrich law 19.3. The Underwood law, passed just before the war, never had a chance to show how it would have worked under normal conditions.

Many people talk ignorantly about the "Chinese wall" against importations raised by American tariffs. The present law admits free 63.8 percent of all imports. The Hawley-Smoot act will admit free from 61 to 63 per cent. The average under the Underwood law ran from 60 to 73 per cent. But the earlier laws all showed lower averages. Tariff acts nowdays are made on the basis of protection, not of exclusion.

Critics of the Hawley-Smoot art are trying to revive the old foreign retaliation scare. But the flexible tariff provisions of the new law lay down the rule that protection should cover differences in cost of production here and abroad and authorize the Tariff Commission to investigate such differences and to recommend increases or decreases of rates within a limit of 50 per cent, says the New York Herald Tribune, elaborating as follows: The language of this section has been changed, as the President notes, so as to allow the commission to act not only on requests from the President or Congress and on its own initiative, but also "upon application from any interested party." That opens the door to consideration of the complaints of foreign countries or producers and creates a court in which foreign contentions as to differences in cost of production can be heard.

Most of the critics of the new act deal in generalities and repeat arguments which in the past have failed to carry conviction. The President looks ahead. He accepts the act as a fair fulfillment of the Republican platform's promises, and he purposes utilizing the machinery created by it to cure its defects and to lessen the shock to business of periodical rewritings of the tariff schedules. That is a realistic and constructive attitude strongly in contrast with the recklessness of those who have been urging him to veto the act, and thus renew in the next Congress the business uncertainties and tribulations of tariff making. What the country wants most is relief from the legislative indecision and confusion of the last thirteen months, caused by the operations of the Senate bloc.

An Interesting Fact.

General George Washington

Those who have followed this series of articles on interesting facts in history as they relate to Maryland, must have reached the conclusion that this state, from the very beginning, was destined to play a most important part in shaping this republic. This is not alone attributed to her geographical location, but rather to the intelligence, foresight and liberty-loving attributes of our progenitors.

During the American Revolution, Maryland furnished troops for nearly every battle field from Massachusetts to Georgia. In the French and Indian War, had Braddock, the English General, heeded the advice and warnings of General Washington and other American officers, it is highly probable that that war would have been won on Maryland soil, as the defeat of the British and American forces in the attack on Fort Duquesne would have been averted.

It may be truthfully said that Washington "won his spurs" on the soil of the Free State, and Thomas Johnson, a Marylander, must have been directed by an unseen force, when he nominated him for commander-in-chief of the continental forces at Philadelphia on June 15, 1775.

Again it would appear to be the hand of destiny that urged an organized group of Annapolis citizens in 1783 to unite with the Assembly to invite the Congress of the Confederation to permanently make its home in Maryland. For this purpose they offered the "Stadt House and Public Circle in the City of Annapolis" and agreed to build thirteen dwelling houses and other buildings for the residence of the delegates, at an expense "not exceeding thirty thousand pounds specie".

Whiles this hope did not materialize, yet the Congress did meet in Annapolis, and it seems entirely fitting that General Washington, the victorious commander in chief of the Continental armies, should, on December 23, 1783, under impressive ceremonies, at that session, and on Maryland soil, surrender the commission which had been given him on the nomination of a Marylander.

Certificates Presented to 110 Graduates from 15 Schools

"What's the Matter with Sally?" an operetta, was presented Tuesday evening in the High school auditorium at the Central Closing exercises of the elementary schools of this section. The play was under the direction of Miss M. Viola Broadwater, with Miss Vera Ream as pianist.

The cast of characters included Ethel Rae Welling, Edna Platter, Crystal Shaffer, Marguerite Sanders, Irene Shank, Wendel Turney, Marjorie Davis, Kathleen Shaffer. The chorus of orphans included Oneda Johnson, Irene Bittinger, Dorothy Gibson, Dorothy Spoerlein, Jane Rathbun, Dorothy Lower, June Murphy, Violet Martin, Mary Frances Martin, Elogeanne Aronhalt, Stella Lucas, Loraine Weeks, Kermit Jessee, Loran Blamble, William Ewing, Herbert Turney, Lewis Walter, Stanley Calhoun, William Tillett, William Kahl, Clayton Mosser, William Porter.

Certificates were presented by Miss Katharine Conley, principal of Oakland High school. The entire group sang the commencement song, while the Fairsweep school had group singing.

There are 110 graduates from 15 elementary schools of this section, which are divided as follows: Oakland 42, Lynndale 2, Mason 4, Shook Shop 5, Creilin 17, Sand Run 3, Mt. Lake Park 9, Red House 6, Swan Meadow 3, Promised Land 3, Cherry Creek 4, Pleasant Valley 2, Fairsweep 2, Bernard 3, and Highland 5.

HITCH-HIKING GERMS OF TYPHOID CAN BE AVOIDED

Keeping Hands Clean Will Go Long Way in Lessening Disease

As the recreation season opens there is a bit of advice that Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, offers to campers, hikers, and all others who go a-touring. He says: "In order that you may avoid the hitch-hiking germs of typhoid fever and of similar diseases, that may wait anywhere to be picked up, remember that every one of these germs gets into the body by way of the mouth, and base your habits upon that fact.

"The most common carriers of disease-producing germs are the human hands. Therefore, it is wise, so far as germs are concerned, to stick rigidly to the policy of carrying 'no riders' on your hands. To get rid of such riders, use soap and clean water freely, early, and often. Always, without fail, wash your hands thoroughly, before eating. And if you have anything to do with the preparation of food for the table, wash your hands before handling the food.

"As a further safeguard, if you have not been immunized—that is protected—against typhoid within the last two or three years, go to your doctor and have yourself protected against it. Three inoculations are necessary—a week apart for each one—to secure immunization. The State Department of Health furnishes the vaccine, free of charge, so your only expense will be for the doctor's fee.

"If you are hiking or camping, or even if you are out only for a short auto ride, boil any drinking water or milk that comes from strange or questionable sources.

"Some years ago, we used to expect a certain amount of what was called 'vacation' typhoid. But with the gradual extension of the sanitary supervision of public water supplies thruout our own State and thruout other states, and as a result of the precautions that are taken by individuals we get less and less of the vacation typhoid each year. If the precautions that I have suggested are taken, summer typhoid as well as typhoid at any other season, can be cut down even further."

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:

In making this announcement as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer on the Republican ticket to be voted in September, I do so with a feeling that I am fully competent to discharge the duties of the office efficiently and impartially and trust that I shall have the support of my friends at the polls and promise that if I should be nominated and later elected to this responsible position I shall strive to give every attention to the business of the office.

Very respectfully yours,
MRS. ALBERT L. LEE.
Oakland, Md., March 12, 1930.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination for the office of County Treasurer of Garrett County, subject to the decision of the Republican primary election in September.

With this announcement I earnestly solicit the support and influence of all my friends in every part of Garrett county and assure them, should I be successul as the nominee, I shall give the office the attention it requires.

Very respectfully,
CHESTON H. BROWNING.
Oakland, Md., April 16, 1930.*

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:

I am hereby making my announcement for the nomination of County Treasurer on the Republican ticket, subject to the primary to be held in September.

It is always with heartfelt gratitude that I look back to 1921 when you elected me with such a splendid majority to the office of Sheriff of this county and I feel confident that my friends will rally to my support once more.

Very respectfully yours,
JESSE J. ASHBY, JR.
Election District No. 14.*

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the result of the Republican primary to be held in September next. Your support and influence is most respectfully solicited.

'Twixt Hawk and Handsaw

By BARBARA KERR

(Copyright.)

SHE was clad la ualonalls, wore a corduroy cap drawn down to ber ears and was sawing away la a most workmanlike manner, taklag a fraction of an inch off Mrs. Marvia's bathroom door, which had always refused to shut properly. Aad she was whistling.

The Marvins, mother and daughter Caroline, lived at the edge of town and as they took care of their car resorted to unionalls frequently, but, as Lawrence Sinclair made mental note, they did not whistle. He knew it was not Caroline; moreover, he knew exactly that it was Jaae Bancroft. She had taken manual training at school and could haadle tools. Knowing this, Mrs. Marvin asked ller to fix the door when she had rua la for a visit to Carolina.

She was worklag oa it when the Sinclair lumber truck drove up aad Lawrence alighted. Pretendlag not to notice who it was, be said:

"Please ask your mother where I shall put the lumber."

"My mother doesn't care, Mr. Sinclair, so perhaps you better ask Mrs. Marvin."

Lawrence la passing struck his foot against one of her tools. "Beg pardon! What was that?"

"Oh, that's a jack plane. When you grow up to be a big man you may learn the differeace, perhaps, 'twixt a hawk aad a haadsaw."

Further amenities were saved by Mrs. Marvin's appearance. She walked down the yard, showed him where to put the lumber, lingering a momeat to observe: "Queer what tomboyish tastes that girl has! Now, my Caroline is so different, so refined."

Lawreace Sinclair was the greatest catch la the set in which Caroline and Jane moved. Jane thought be knew this too well. Lawrence, surprised at Mrs. Marvin's remark, knew what to attribute it to and answered: "Seems to know how to fix your door, though, Mrs. Marvin."

Lawrence felt that Jane was hearlag the rude conversation nnd he was ashamed. He would have halted a moment as he passed her, but Jane whistled a bit louder and squlated alaag the edge of the door to see if it were true, but would not look bis way.

Angrily he climbed lato his seat and drove off.

Jaae fiaished her job and said crisply to Caroline: "Your mother doesn't thiak much of my taleats, but the door shuts."

Caroline had some lakilag of what had transpired. She had seen the two playing at cross-purposes before. "I'm not such a fool as mother might make me out, Janc," she said, as she slipped an arm through her friend's to walk with her a short distance. "Besides, that secret I wanted to tell you, is: I'm engaged to Harry Belknap, so she need not bother in the least about Lawrence."

Jaae's good humor restored, she went her way.

The next day she read that Sinclair Lumber company wanted a bookkeeper.

She went direct to Mr. Sinclair, Sr., who, though surprised, noted with admiration her business like manner. "But isn't a lumber yard a rather queer place for a young lady who doesn't know the difference—"

"Oh, but I do. I know what you were going to say, and I do know the difference 'twixt a hawk aad a handsaw, nnd I know a lot about woods and your business—"

"All right; go la there and bring me some oak, pine and walaut—"

"Needn't leave the room to show you." And Jane took a small kalfe from her pocket aad scratched a bit of paint from a file of pigeonholes. "This desk has a thin veneer of walnut, a soft pine liaing, aad that chair bottom is oak which is sawed the wrong way."

"You win!" smiled Mr. Sinclair. "But why this sort of work?"

She explained that it was ber ambition some day to own and operate a shop for repairing, refinishing and duplicating antique pieces. She was so enthusiastic that Mr. Sinclair was moved to ask:

"Do you suppose such a shop could be run in coajunction with a lumber yard?" Jane beamed. "Oh, Mr. Sinclair, I'm sure it could, aad I've a lot of other ideas, too."

"Save 'em and report to me in a month," he urged.

So Jane's dream became a reality, and she was happy, till one day her employer said that his soa, Lawrence, wanted to go into the antique department.

"Then you'll not need me," her white lips commented.

"Couldn't run without you!" exclaimed Mr. Sinclair. But Jaac was not convinced until two days after she had a caller—Lawrence Sinclair.

"Father sent me to see how you were and to ask if you'd take me in your department. If not, I'm out of a job," he pleaded. "He says you're the only girl he ever knew who always knows the difference 'twixt hawk and handsaw."

"Is—is this a business proposition?" stammered Jane.

"Surest thing you know! I'm pleading for a life job. I might not have been so hasty, but your white face upset me entirely," and Lawrence took the old-time lover's method for coaxing the color back to the dainty white cheeks.

ROBB ON BROENING SLATE FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

Cumberland Dry Aligns Self With Baltimore Mayor's Candidacy For Governor

FOLLOWS CONFERENCES

After a series of conferences, David A. Robb, former State Senator from Allegany county, an ardent dry, late Saturday announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Attorney-General on the Broening ticket.

His action is taken as an indication that the Republican Gubernatorial nomination will go to Mayor Broening without opposition, since a conference with Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, preceded Mr. Robb's meeting with members of the Broening group.

Was Only Contender

Until his announcement the Cumberland attorney was the only likely contender against the Mayor for the place at the head of the Republican ticket.

With his withdrawal fro mthe race it generally was conceded that party leaders in the State who did not favor the Mayor as a candidate before he formally entered the field will accept his candidacy.

Mr. Robb, who, it was believed, ultimately might have received the backing of Mr. Tait and Senator Goldsborough in their quest for an avowed dry gubernatorial candidate, had been sought for the Broening ticket for some time, it was revealed.

Conferences Held

In his statement Mr. Robb indicated that his action was the outcome of the conferences held Saturday.

The first conference was held at the office of Mr. Tait, but the nature of the meeting was not revealed. Mr. Robb then met Mayor Broening and had luncheon with him at a downtown hotel. Leaving the hotel, the Mayor went to the offices of Edward E. Hargest, Jr., chairman of the Republican City Committee, where he was joined by Mr. Tait. They were closeted more than an hour and a half.

On leaving Mr. Tait said he had nothing to say.

The Mayor, Mr. Hargest and Simon E. Sobelof, assistant city solicitor, remained in Mr. Hargest's office and were joined, after Mr. Tait left, by Mr. Robb.

Text of Statement

It was after these four had conferred again for more than an hour that Mr. Robb issued the following statement:

"I will not be candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor.

"As the newspapers have said from time to time, many friends in all sections of the State have expressed a desire that I become a candidate for that office, but I have always felt the nominee should be the one around whom the sentiment of the party members would crystalize.

"Since Mayor Broening's announcement it has become apparent that a primary contest would not be in the party's interest. Moreover, I am convinced that the party as a whole welcomes Mayor Broening as its leader in the coming campaign. I am heartily in accord with this feeling.

Assails Administration

"Mayor Broening would under any circumstances prove a formidable candidate, but this will be especially true in the coming campaign, when the State administration will be called upon to answer to the people for its acts in the last ten years.

"The present Democratic administration of the State has been recreant to every trust reposed by the people.

"Scandal has succeeded scandal during the three terms of office held by the present Governor.

"Taxes and the cost of State Government has steadily risen. Direct taxes have been doubled and indirect taxation increased four-fold during his incumbency.

Says Rights Have Gone

By manipulation, the laws and constitution of the State have been changed so that rights formerly held by the people have been taken away and all power concentrated in his hands for the purpose of building a political machine subservient to his will.

"Cold-blooded politics have swayed every action—even the public schools, which should be held sacred and inviolate, have not escaped its influence.

"With Mayor Broening's nomination assured, it is gratifying to find a strong sentiment in my behalf for the office of Attorney-General, and to be invited by Mayor Broening and his friends to associate myself with him on the ticket. After discussing the matter with many Republicans both in my section of the State and elsewhere, I have concluded to announce, and do hereby announce, my candidacy of the Republican nomination for Attorney-General."

Clarifies Situation

Mr. Robb's action, in the opinion of observers, clarifies the situation which has existed since the Mayor became a candidate in spite of the opposite among some of the State leaders.

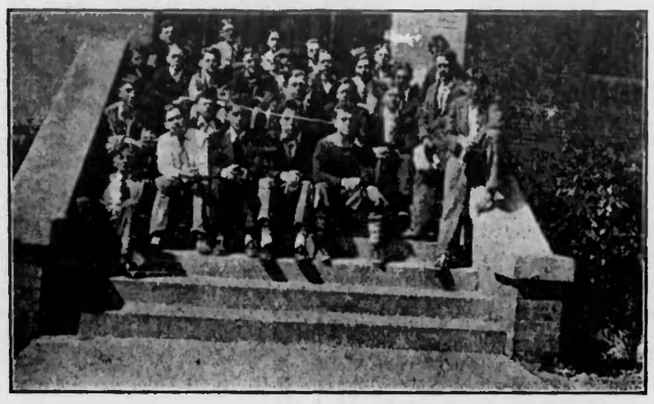
It generally was conceded that Mr. Broening's aspirations, which were given wide publicity many months before he spoke, were being blocked by his fnilure to enlist any of the State leaders in his behalf.

Jackson Backed Him

Those close to him kept declaring he would enter the race as soon as he received assurance of support from any one of those regarded as the big three in Republican circles—Senator Goldsborough, Mr. Tait or William P. Jackson, Republican National Committeeman from Maryland, of Salisbury, who is regarded as the leader on the Eastern Shore.

The Mayor announced himself a candidate and within a short time Mr. Jackson declared for him. It later was learned the Mayor had been assured of his backing several weeks in advance of his announcement.

Friendsville Chapter F. F. A.



The members of the Friendsville Association F. F. A. are: Bruce Jenkins, Ernest Hauser, Woodrow Nugent, Franklin Coddington, Ray Schlossnagle, Neuton Griffith, Glenn N. Fike, Woodrow Hone, Merle Garletts, Claude Fike, Glenn L. Fike, Blain Friend, Kenneth Savage, Wade Umbel, Floyd Umbel, Dace Denning, Karol Rush, George Coddington, Harry Fike, Merle Hinebaugh, Russell Lawson, Ross Selby, Lawrence Selby, Lawrence Schroyer, Billie Frantz, Foster Frazee, Charles VanSickle. Agriculture instructor, Mr. G. E. Bishoff.

The boys seen in the picture above are not merely students of Vocational Agriculture, (members of the Friendsville Associatica of F. F. A.) but practical farmers.

According to the project enrollment records for this year, every boy is promised a good summer's job playing his own part in the great game of farming.

Eighteen of these boys are carrying potato projects which comprise a total of eleven acres. All of these, except two, have used State Certified seed which came from Michigan last year. Records are being kept by each boy in order that methods of production may be studied and cost reduced.

These junior potato growers, as judged from last year's records, have a right to expect a reasonable profit for their labors. Last year, ten of these boys received a labor income of $1266.85 from an area of 3⅝ acres.

4-H Girl Gives Report of Activity in Club Work

The following report of 4-H activities was written by Miss Mildred Stemple, Oakland, and was part of the basis on which she was selected as one of two representatives from Maryland to attend the National 4-H Congress, being held this week at Washington, D. C. Miss Stemple was chosen from among a large number of 4-H girls throughout the entire State. The report follows:

This Year's 4-H Activities

4-H activities have meant so much to me—more than I will ever be able to tell or anyone will ever be able to understand. To me this past year of club work has been particularly outstanding—I have learned so many new things, and I must say that I feel just a little bit better for having had this year's experience.

At the beginning of this year a few of our "Luncheon Club" meetings had carried over a little from the previous year. During these meetings we prepared suitable school and family lunches.

After that we started on our "Room Improvement Project." This was extremely fascinating. I found the suitable color for my room to be blue. I painted the dressing table, chair and bureau ivory color to match the twin beds. Then I pasted the decalcamania designs on the articles I had painted and shellaced over them. The result was quite pleasing and the room seemed much more cheerful than ever before, especially after being repapered. For the dressing table and bureau I made scrafs out of Indian linen with just a touch of blue. I selected blue-striped krinkled bed spreads, and embroidered the pillow slips in the same color. The curtains I bought were cream colored with just n faint touch of blue on the edge of the ruffles. I also embroidered a white linen towel. Next I selected two suitable pictures and framed them. No one can imagine the fun that was experienced in this venture. It didn't seem like my room at all, for before things had never been matched, and although it had been nice enough then it was lovely now. Everything seemed to belong just where it was, and there was an air of orderliness about it all.

During this year I must say I didn't stick wholly to one project. For after attending State Club Week at College Park and seeing the rows upon rows of beautifully canned goods I was more than determined to come back home and try my hand at the same thing. I didn't expect to be as perfect as those, (needless to say they weren't) but I realized that there was no time like the present to learn the art. As a result I sent seven jars of canned fruits and vegetables to Timonium to the State Fair, and when the County Fair rolled around I had seventeen jars of canned goods to enter. There I won eight first prizes, five second prizes, and three thirds.

Around this time school was about to be reopened, mother was busy, and I found myself needing a few simple school dresses, so I made two dresses and a princess slip. In this extra project I also made a silk scarf suitable to be worn with a suit, and a toy elephant for the Christmas kit.

On the fifth of July, 1929, our County Camp was held on the banks of the beautiful Casselman river, where all the loveliness of nature was at its best. I attended the "Leaders' Training Camp", which was held during the three preceding days of regular camp. While nt regular camp I attended Lenders' conference every day it was held. I took part in Vespers wherever I was needed by discussing the topics, giving Bible talks and leading in prayer. I also helped in Camp Fires as much as possible. One day in Leaders' conference Lorena Hardinger and I were elected to prepare the program for the Seniors' part in Camp Fire. There is a saying that the more you put into a thing the more you get out of it, and I believe that is true for I certainly got worlds of good out of that experience. At another meeting of Leaders' conference I was elected Associate editor of the "Cnmp Log", an annual paper put out by the county camp. Genevieve Fries and I had the privilege of choosing appropriate gifts for the outstanding campers which were to be presented at Camp fire the night before we broke up. There was a certain thrill about that camp that I have never been able to find elsewhere. It may have been the result of our ideal natural environment, but I think most of it was caused by that indefinable lovely thing known at "4-H spirit".

Everyone was so very friendly and ready to cooperate. They were out to have fun, but to find it in a clean, wholesome, beneficial way. They were playing the game of life with the desire to achieve.

In the field of local leaders I have done little, but I find intense love for what I have done and I think it would be ideal to fill such a position. I have helped the Oakland Junior 4-H club three times during Miss Benthien's absence and like it very much. Twice I have gone with her to the Kempton club where we have taught them new songs, games, and stunts that we learned at camp. They just love it, for it is something different and many of them are determined already to attend Camp next year.

Two weeks ago our Oakland Senior club sang before the Rotarians of Oakland and I was given the privilege of telling them a little bit about 4-H work and what it has done for me.

4-H, especially this year, has given me friends—wonderful friends—ones that I can never forget. It has given we high ideals and standards, and has shown me the finer, lovely things of life, and inspired in me the yearning to serve— to give all I have. It has shown me that to economize is not to be miserly nnd stingy, as I used to think it was. It has made me want to learn and teach better ways in the home and community. During this year I have become vitally interested in fairs, as never before. Through Camp I have learned to have ease in public speaking. 4-H is wonderful and for me there can never be a substitute. Through it is is easier to find life's true loveliness, beauty, and goodness. In all my experiences I have never regretted being a 4-H club girl.

Lesson for June 22

THE RISEN LORD AND THE GREAT COMMISSION

GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore and teach all nations.

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 28:1-20.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Carrying on Jesus' Work.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Marching Orders.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Marching Orders.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Great Commission.

I. The Empty Sepulchre (vv. 1-7).

1. The earthquake (vv. 1-4). This occurred when the glorious angel descended from heaven to roll the stone away from the tomb. This work of the angel was not to allow Jesus to escape, but to show that the tomb was empty. Christ needed not even the help of the angel, for He came forth from the grave by His own power as the seal of His atoning work on the cross (Rom. 1:4). The open tomb and the angel sitting upon the stone with calm dignity, is a graphic picture of Christ's triumph over the devil, and the terror of the keepers is a sample of what all of Christ's enemies shall one day experience when He comes in glory to reign as King.

2. The angel's message to the women (vv. 5-7).

(1) Fear not (v. 5). While the enemies had occasion to fear, these women who loved the Lord received good news from the empty tomb. The empty tomb puts an end forever to all doubts and fears. Let every teacher endeavor to show the greatness of the fact that the tomb was empty, for it shows that we have a living Christ. The resurrection of Christ should be the major theme of those who give out the Christian message. (2) "Come, see" (v. 6). The angel told the women that the Lord had risen and invited them to see the place where He lay. The Lord made special effort to convince the disciples of the reality of His resurrection. He remained with them for forty days, giving them many "infallible proofs." (3) "Go quickly" (v. 7). Having seen for themselves, their responsibility was to go and tell the message. Experience is necessary before testimony. They were to go quickly to the disciples with the message, assured that the Lord would go before and meet them.

II. The Risen Lord Meets the Women (vv. 8-10).

The women quickly obeyed the command of the angel, and were running to bring word to the disciples. Jesus met them on the way. Those who have an experimental knowledge of Christ should go speedily to tell others of it. When they saw Jesus—that He was really the Lord—they worshiped Him.

III. Paying Money to Circulate a Lie (vv. 11-15).

That Jesus arose from the dead could not be denied even by the Sanhedrin. They saw only one way out of the difficulty; that was to bribe the keepers to tell a lie. They had paid money for His betrayal—now they paid more money to circulate a lie about His resurrection. This shows the wonderful power that money has over the lives and consciences of men. It not only induces people to lie, but it even muzzles the mouths of some teachers and preachers.

IV. The King's Great Commission (vv. 16-20).

1. The royal authority (v. 18).

By virtue of His divine authority, He issued this command to the disciples. In order to prepare them for the reception of this command, He declared unto them that all power in heaven and earth had been given unto Him.

2. The commission itself (vv. 19, 20).

It consists of three parts. (1) Go teach all nations. This is the first and primary business of the disciple. This command has been issued to all disciples by the risen and mighty Lord. (2) Baptize them in the name of the triune God. Those who have become disciples of the Lord should receive the rite which signifies that relationship to Him. (3) Teach them to observe all of Christ's commandments (v. 20). Those who have become Christ's disciples should be taught conformity to His will.

3. The available power (v. 2).

Those who obey Christ in carrying out this commission shall enjoy His abiding presence.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Start Culling Low-Producing Cows From Dairy Herd Now

There are three things we can do to make our dairy herds more profitable. Cull the low producers; feed the others according to what they can produce when well fed; then breed intelligently.

Studies, by the Bureau of Dairy Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, of the production, feed cost, and income records of cows on test in Dairy Herd-Improvement Association, have shown that the elimination of the lowest producers from the dairy herd not only increases the average production per cow, but always results in increasing the cash income over cost of feed per cow. Therefore, if any dairyman is dissatisfied with the income which he makes over cost of feed, he can always increase that income per cow by culling a little closer.

At present when the surplus of dairy products in this country is abnormally high, and when prices are correspondingly low, closer culling is one of the ways of getting better results immediately.

However, to bring about such an ideal state of affairs, the dairymen must have production, feed cost, and income records of his cows. How is he going to get such figures? As far as I know, the most practical way to get such information, at a cost he can can afford, is through the work of the Dairy Herd-Improvement Association, or similar organizations of dairymen.

A Dairy Herd-Improvement association is an organization of about 26 dairy farmers who cooperatively employ a man to test their cows for economical production of milk and butterfat. One day each month the tester weighs the feed, both concentrates and roughages, for each cow in the herd; weighs her milk and tests it for butterfat; and figures out the gross income and income over cost of feed for each cow. From the record of one day per month he computes the record of the individual cow for the month and for the year, and by comparing the production records of the daughters of each bull with the production records of their dams, he possesses an accurate judgment upon the actual breeding value of the bull. Thus the farmer in the association knows, at all times, what every cow in his herd is producing. Knowing the amount of production and the cost of feed, he is able to cull the low and unprofitable producers without guesswork. He is able to feed the rest of his cows according to their capacity for profitable production. Thus he increases his profits. Also he is able to use the records in such a way as to breed his herd up toward higher production instead of down toward a lower and less profitable production per cow.

Therefore, in conclusion, let me recommend to all commercial dairymen, —whether their cows are grade or registered—that they first find out what each and every cow in the herd is producing, and, as far as possible, what the cost of that production is. Then cull systematically until every cow in the herd is bringing in a satisfactory net profit. Don't stop culling until every cow in the herd is bringing in a large net profit every year. While we are culling we must build at the top, so that the supply of dairy products always will be maintained. The final result will be, not a milk famine, but a fair profit for the producer, and an ample and economical supply of all kinds of dairy products for the consumer.

An Emergency Take-Off

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

THREE weeks after Mary Brent's return from a visit to her aunt in the East, an official looking envelope arrived through the mail for her father but not until he explained all about it did Mary understand.

"While you were away," he told her, "the Coast-to-Coast Airways corporation sent a couple of men to see me. It seems that our land lies directly on the route of the proposed transcontinental airline. They were thinking of using it for an emergency landing field and refueling station, and wished to sound me out on the proposition. This letter states the acceptance of my terms."

Mary's eyes shone. "And that means we would go East to live?"

"No, Mary, I am afraid not. I am to have charge here. See that the gas and oil supply are kept up, beacons lighted, weather records made. It means quite a little money and then, too, it is something to become part of a pioneer industry of this kind. Incidentally, it will interfere very little with the farming."

Ten years before Mary and her father had left their comfortable Eastern home to take up life in a climate better suited to her father's health. The step had been of benefit to him and the two had lived very happily. Mary kept house, with but one brief vacation when she had visited her aunt.

The stay had not been long but it had given Mary a taste of life in a great city. It had thrown her momentarily with a group of gay young people. And it had made her western home seem desolate and remote.

The establishment of an emergency airport provided the lonesome girl with something to think about.

For weeks Mary ran hopefully to the door whenever the throb of a plane motor came to her ears. Then, gradually, it was borne in upon her that the airport was for emergencies. She might live there all her life and not have one of the airships that daily winged overhead actually float to rest in her front yard.

One afternoon an accident occurred which could have—so it seemed at the time—only the most tragic of endings.

In an unguarded moment her father stepped into a clump of bunch grass edging the field. There was a quick, terrifying sound from a hidden, coiled menace, and John Brent staggered backwards, pain under the conviction that he was as good as dead.

Somehow he got to the house, did agonizing things to the deadly punctures which the rattler's fangs had made an inch above his high boots and bound on a tourniquet. Mary watched, speechless.

Suddenly, she screamed and ran to the door. Yes—a plane was actually circling, was coming down!

It seemed hours, however, before the propeller stopped and she could reach the young man rising from the cockpit. Then, "Oh," she cried "could you possibly go to—" she named the nearest city, "at once?"

The stranger saw in Mary's face her tremendous need. "Certainly," he said, "I'm—"

She grabbed his arm and urged him towards the house, explaining between little gasps what had happened.

They managed to get her father into the plane. There was barely room for Mary, and as she crouched beside the pilot she forgot completely that she had never flown before until a quick lift of the plane made her heart do strange things.

A brief spectacle of the western range far, far below—a distinct line of mountain peaks on the horizon—an entire city spread out below them in one small patch—

Then the plane was dipping, curving to the earth, taxiing down the runway, coming to a stop.

They reached the hospital with no time to spare. "Ten minutes more," said the doctor who gave the serum to John Brent, "and there would have been no chance."

Afterwards, Mary went straight up to the tall young pilot.

Holding out both her hands which were straightway gathered into his, she tried to thank him. "If it hadn't been for your emergency landing—"

But the young man interrupted with a smile. "It was an emergency takeoff, but not an emergency landing. You don't remember me."

"Don't remember you?"

"I watched you all one evening at the North Shore Country club dance. I found out who you were and, knowing your mint, went to call on her the very next afternoon. You had left that morning. Shortly afterwards she told me of the establishing of an airport on your farm and right away I made up my mind to look you up. I hope you don't mind?"

And now, I ask you, could any girl object to a young man—a very good looking young man, too—flying more than half-way across the United States for the privilege of seeing her once more?

There were times in later years when Mary teased Alan Paige by saying she married him out of gratitude for saving her father's life, but Alan did not believe her, so why should we?

MT. LAKE PARK

President Hoover has signed the much discussed and cussed tariff bill; Dwight W. Morrow has been nominated for the U. S. Senate in New Jersey on a wet platform; stocks on the market reached a new low level for this year; this week Bishop Cannon told the Senate Investigating committee where to head in; wheat and cotton took a tumble; Chicago has arrested over a thousand persons in its fight on gangland; many other things of a startling nature have happened and are still taking place, both here and abroad, but affairs in Garrett county seem to be moving along in the even tenor. We are perhaps affected to a very much less degree by the business recession than most other places.

With the coming of the summer visitors and the resumption of the canning industry, business should take a decided upward trend. Let us be devoutly thankful that we are a more or less favored community.

Last Sunday was Father's Day. We wonder if dad noticed any difference.

The M. E. Sunday school of the Park observed Children's Day last Sabbath. Wild flowers were used in the decorations and the younger members presented a very good program.

Mrs. J. A. Turney is spending this week in Cincinnati, Ohio, having been called to that city on account of the serious illness of her father.

Mrs. Frank M. Murphy entertained a few friends at bridge on Friday evening.

Mrs. Isobel Hill is in Washington for a short stay.

Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr are on a motor trip to Asheville, N. C., and other points in the South.

Mr. P. T. Lipscomb has this season marketed some exceptionally fine strawberries of the Corsican variety which have a distinctive flavor and are very large. Mr. J. W. Lower is another producer of small fruit whose berries have been of a high grade.

Mr. and Mrs. William Searle and son Robert, Washington, have opened their cottage for the season.

A citizen of the Park is building a rabbitry and will specialize in Belgian hares for the market. We have a number in close proximity of the ordinary garden variety that we would like to dispose of. Catch as catch can.

Mrs. W. L. Camden entertained this week at her cottage at a bridge luncheon. Her guests were Mrs. Frank Seaman, Miss Pauline Smith, Miss Mary Henry, Uniontown; Mrs. Work and Mrs. Howell, Pittsburgh.

Dr. C. W. Baldwin and family, Baltimore, are here for the summer. Dr. Baldwin was one of the founders of the Park and has retained a keen interest in its success.

Roanoke Avenue and Second street, Loch Lynn, are being resurfaced.

Dr. Fred. Slaughter, Clarksburg, District Superintendent West District of the U. B. church of West Virginia, will address, morning and afternoon, an all-day meeting and basket dinner at Pleasant Valley next Sunday.

The following from Loch Lynn and Mountain Lake Park were recent graduates of Oakland High: Miss Betty Hardesty, Miss Elizabeth Gibson, Miss Virginia Weeks, Miss Lucille Sembower, Miss Rosalie Brenneman, Wilbur Gnegy, Walter Killius and Wilmot Bowen.

Miss Edith Ream, of St. Mary's College faculty, is home for the summer vacation.

The Ladies' Aid of the U. B. church will serve a chicken supper in the Aid Hall, Thursday evening, the 26th, beginning at 5:30 o'clock.

Gerald and Harland Biggs, of Maryland University, have returned home for the summer.

Rev. Jessee is in Parkersburg, W. Va., attending a Christian Endeavor reunion being held in that city.

The funeral of the late Scott White, whose death occurred last Thursday, took place Friday afternoon from his late residence. Interment was made at Pleasant Valley.

Passengers for trains Nos. 3, 11, 12 and 22 should notify the telegraph operator or station agent who will arrange for the trains to stop at the station.

GRANTSVILLE

Funeral of Michael Nathan

The funeral of Michael Nathan, who died suddenly of a heart attack on Sunday morning, was held at the Catholic church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Father Clarence officiated. The pallbearers were: Wm. Wright, Milton Rodamer, J. F. Fahey, U. O. Blocher, D. W. Dorsey and V. L. Blocher.

Mr. Nathan was one of Grantsville's oldest and highly respected citizens, having been born near here in 1843 and living his entire life in Grantsville. He was very kind, unassuming in disposition and a faithful member of the Catholic church.

He was a cooper by trade when a young man, later serving as postmaster three terms, and was mayor of Grantsville several times. He was active in politics when younger and was a Republican. Mr. Nathan was the last surviving member of his family of five children. His parents were John and Margaret Carroll Nathan, who came from Ireland.

He is survived by a son, Captain C. C. Nathan, and daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Endslye, at home, also Miss Gertrude Hone, of town, and Mrs. T. Frankhouser, Keyser; J. Clarence Miller, of town, a nephew, and a number of other nieces and nephews from a distance who survive.

Mr. Nathan was married to Miss Jennie Beachy, whose death occurred three years ago this July.

Interment in Grantsville cemetery.

Road Finished

The Cumberland Contracting Co., who were building one and sevententh miles of concrete road from Grantsville to Pennsylvania Line, finished laying concrete Saturday and are now working on the shoulders of the road. Most of the men who were living at the National hotel have gone and the machinery and equipment has been shipped to Mt. Lake Park, Md., where they have a contract for several miles of road to be built this year.

The new road will probably be opened by July 4th.

Closing Program

The closing program for the elementary schools of Grantsville will be held at the Methodist Church on Thursday evening, June 19.

G. H. S. Commencement

The eighth commencement exercises of the Grantsville High School were held at the Lutheran church Tuesday night.

The program follows:

Invocation, Rev. A. C. Bell; song by the Junior class, "When June Comes Along".

A splendid address to the graduates was given by Judge Wm. C. Walsh, of Cumberland, on education and the public school system of Maryland.

A short talk to the graduates by H. A. Loraditch, president of Garrett County Board of Education, who presented the diplomas to the following graduates:

Lola Folk, Bertha Klotz, Iva Klotz, Marion Wisseman, Daisy Shumaker, Hilda Stephens, Helen Baker, Alvin Beachy, Clyde Beachy, William Bevans, Rexford Bittinger, John Blocher, Herman Klotz, Luther Miller, Paul Livengood, Harry Younkin, Markle Stanton, Henry Patton. This is the second largest class to have graduated from G. H. S.

Frank Getty gave a short talk to the graduates before presenting a medal to Zola Folk, given by Balfour & Co., for scholarship, loyalty and achievement which was also voted on by the faculty for her.

The Maryland Society of Sons of American Revolution gave a medal for dependability, cooperation, leadership, and patriotism; Luther Miller was selected out as one of three members to receive the medal.

Miss Lona Bowser was given a certificate from the home economics department as the best student during the year.

Perfect attendance certificates were given to five students—Mary Bevans, Mildred Paul, Lona Bowser, Rosella Younkin and Laura Turner.

There were thirty-eight students who did not miss more than ten days during the entire school year. Closing song by Junior class, "Your Journey." Benediction, Rev. Bell.

CANNING OPERATIONS AT MT. LAKE BEGIN TODAY

Pea Cropp Fairly Good in Places —To Employ Approximately 125 for Period of 5 Weeks

The Mt. Airy Canning company began its canning season at Loch Lynn Heights this morning, according to Howard Reinhardt, manager, and will operate for a period of four or five weeks.

The plant is employing approximately 125 men, women and boys, as has been the case for the past three or four years. The efficiency of the plant in the quick handling of the product was materially increased last year and this year's crop is expected to be easily handled.

Every department of the plant will be kept going continuously due to the addition last year of larger bins and speedier operation of the machinery.

The plant will probably have a straight run of thirty days or more in canning peas, after which time the corn crop is expected to be ready for harvesting and canning. The pea crop is considered fair, according to Mr. Reinhardt.

About 650 acres of land were planted in peas, 400 acres in corn, 20 acres in cabbage, and 15 acres in carrots. The cabbage and carrots are being grown as an experiment and if found to be satisfactory, the plant at Loch Lynn may be kept open for a longer period of time, in order to take care of the canning of these two vegetables.

Mr. Reinhardt will superintend all operations at the plant.

Four Are Injured When Car Skids and Turns Over

Mrs. Albert L. Lee and son James A. Lee, Mr. John Ault and daughter, Mrs. Edith Schlossnagle, were injured Tuesday morning near Friendsville when the Chrysler sedan in which they were riding skidded on the wet road and turned over.

Mrs. Lee received a cut on her ankle, Mrs. Schlossnagle received a deep gash on her knee, Mr. Ault strained his neck and legs, and James Lee received a bump on the head when he was thrown against the roof of the car. All were more or less bruised.

The car was damaged to the extent of about $75 and will be repaired within the next few days. One wheel was broken and the glass on the right side of the car was shattered.

Fire Destroys Unoccupied Dwelling Sunday Morning

Fire, of undetermined origin, almost completely destroyed the two-story frame dwelling belonging to the George Giessman estate, on Water street, Oakland, Sunday morning about 2 o'clock. The house was unoccupied.

The building was almost entirely enveloped in flames when the alarm was turned in but the blaze was quickly subdued when the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department responded to the call. The house was used by Michael Kildow to store feed, but at the time of the fire there was practically nothing in it.

To Give Concert

The Gilbert-Brown Boys' band will give a concert on the streets of Oakland on Saturday evening, June 28, R. R. Gilbert, director, announced.

The program will include the following: Americans We, march; The Elves, overture; The New Colonial, march; The Old Home Down on the Farm, Baritone solo, Lewis Lawton; The Stein Song, march; America Patrol, patrol; Uncle Tom's Cabin, a dream picture of the old south: Billboard, march; Melodies from La-Traveata, selection; and King Cotton, march.

Mr. George D. White, Candidate for Nomination for Treasurer

Mr. George D. White, of Election District No. 14, who is one of the most active Republicans in the county, announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for County Treasurer in The Republican today.

Mr. White has been a resident of the county all his life and has been before the people a number of times as a candidate for office. He was elected Sheriff upon two occasions and discharged the duties of the office satisfactorily.

BOOKS ARE ORDERED FOR VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Different Phases of Scriptures Will Be Taken Up By Students

The curriculum for the Daily Vacation Bible School was mapped out and text books ordered at a meeting of the Community Council of Religious Education and members of the school faculty held last Friday evening in the Lutheran church, Oakland. The school will be conducted this year in the Grammar school building from Monday, July 7, to Friday, July 18.

The books were ordered from the Standard Publishing Company at Cincinnati, Ohio, and the studies will cover subjects of interest to children under pre-school age up to and including the children of seventh grade age.

Students will be divided into primary, junior and intermediate classes and different phases of the Bible will be taken up by each class.

Miss Marion Leary will be principal of the school and will have a group of efficient teachers under her direction whose names will be announced in The Republican Thursday of next week.

Classes will be conducted each morning from 9 until 12 o'clock, exclusive of Saturday and Sunday.

OVER SEVENTY COUPLES ATTEND ALUMNI FUNCTION

Annual Dance Held Last Friday Evening in School Auditorium

More than seventy-five couples were in attendance at the annual alumni dance of Oakland High school, held last Friday evening in the school auditorium. The auditorium was beautifully decorated by the high school students and teachers and the music for the occasion was furnished by the Marylanders. Favors were presented to all present, and refreshments consisted of punch.

An impromptu program of singing was presented and then the seniors of 1930 were presented to the alumni. George Hanst was re-elected president of the association for 1930-31 and Mrs. Dorothy Stevenson Hamill was elected secretary.

Baltimore Boys' Band to Give Concert on July 9

The Baltimore Evening Sun Boys' Band will give a two hour concert in Oakland on the evening of July 9, according to Grover C. Stemple, mayor. The band is composed of 60 pieces.

The place for holding the concert will be announced next week. The public is invited to be present.

WORK IS UNDER WAY ON MINIATURE GOLF COURSE

Manager Towler Hoping to Have Course Completed by July 4

Work on the miniature golf course is now under way with the hope that it will be completed by July 4, Mr. James Towler, proprietor, has announced.

About five men are being employed now in shaping the course, and as soon as the molding material arrives several others will be put to work in order to bring it to completion at as early a date as is possible.

The course will consist of 18 holes, and it is thought that the admission price for one round will be 25 cents. Clubs and balls will be furnished from the entrance booth which will be erected facing second street. The miniature course is being built on the vacant lot at the corner of Center and Second streets, next to the William-James hotel.

The course will be modeled after the one in North Madison, Ohio, which is termed by many to be the best in the state of Ohio. Miniature golf courses have become extremely popular among tourists and traveling men, Mr. Towler stated, and Oakland's new amusement is expected to attract a great deal of attention.

AUTOMOBILE INSPECTION TO BE MADE IN OCTOBER

First Three Weeks in October Set for Annual Inspection

Plans are being made to hold the annual inspection of motor vehicles in Maryland this year at the same time as Washington's save-a-life campaign, the first three weeks in October, officials of the motor vehicle commission of Baltimore announced on Friday.

Approximately 235,000 passenger cars and trucks will be officially inspected at that time, headlights checked and brakes, steering mechanisms, mirrors and windshield wipers examined.

Last year inspectors said, as a result of the campaign in Maryland, 22,500 motorists had headlights replaced; 60,000 had lights adjusted; 19,688 had brakes relined; 50,628 had brakes adjusted and 40,000 had new horns installed. Five thousand cars were found with license tags obscured with dirt and 9,000 motorists purchased new windshield wipers.

Scouts to Hold Court of Honor Meeting Monday

The regular monthly meeting of the Court of Honor, Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, will be held Monday evening in the Masonic club room, Third Floor of the First National Bank building, Mr. Harland Jones, chairman of the court, announced.

A number of first and second class scouts will be examined and awarded merit badges at this time. At the regular weekly meeting of the Scouts on Friday distribution of tickets for the benefit picture to be held on July 22 and 23, will be made. Plans for an overnight on Saturday and Sunday will also be discussed.

GRADUATION EXERCISES HELD FOR ACCIDENT HI

Largest Class in History of School Receives Diplomas

The largest class ever to receive diplomas at Accident High school was graduated last Thursday evening at the Sixth Annual Commencement exercises held in the school auditorium.

Those receiving diplomas were Emmert Miller, Everett Weitzel, Samuel Miller, Howard Margroff, Clifford Walls, Pauline Beachy, Rose Frickey, Mary Callis, Grace Fike, Earl Harvey, Reed Wilburn, Carl Everly, Elizabeth DeWitt, Louise Dillon, Mabel Speicher, and Merrell Wilburn. Accident was one of two schools in the county in which the boy graduates outnumbered the girl graduates.

The valedictory was delivered by Carl Everly while Mabel Speicher gave the salutatory. The commencement address was given by Mr. James E. Spitznas, supervisor of the High Schools of Allegany county. The diplomas were presented by Mr. William Miller, chairman of the local Board of Trustees.

Prof. Austin A. LaMar, Jr., presented the awards as follows: Carl Everly, debating; Everett Weitzel, alumni medal for best service; Carl Everly, good citizenship given by the Maryland chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution. All students were given a pamphlet by the same organization for learning the Star Spangled Banner.

Active Church Worker of Mt. Lake Park Succumbs to Illness

Mrs. Charles W. Baldwin, aged wife of Dr. C. W. Baldwin, retired Methodist minister and one of the founders of the Mt. Lake Park Association, died at her summer residence at the Park Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Death was due to pneumonia.

Funeral services will be held from her home at 226 W. Lafayette Ave., Baltimore, on Friday.

The deceased was active in the work of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which her husband had been a pastor for 64 years, having been the active secretary of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Frederick district of the Baltimore conference for many years.

Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin began their summer residence at the Park in 1882 and since then have been largely interested in its various activities. They celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary a few years ago. Her husband was president of the Mt. Lake Park association for 30 years and passed his 90th milestone on March 23.

Clarksburg Scouts to Camp

Scout troops from the vicinity of Clarksburg, W. Va., will camp at Rainbow Inn, on Deep Creek Lake, from July 12 to July 26, it has been learned. There are 300 scouts in this area and it is expected that the majority of them will be in camp. They will be under the supervision of Mr. Max Hemeyer, scout executive, Clarksburg.

VISITORS HERE PROCLAIM OAKLAND AND VICINITY CHARMING SPOT FOR GOOD AIR AND FINE SCENERY

Oakland is Ideal Spot In Which to Spend Vacation, Many Tourists Voluntarily State

That Oakland, with its natural beauty and invigorating climate, is on a par with any other resort in the United States, is attested by a number of visitors who have called at The Republican office in recent days. Their first impressions are that no one need go further than Oakland in looking for an ideal place in which to spend their vacations, their summers or the week-end.

Rev. Jabez Backus, a retired Episcopal clergyman of Washington, D. C. who arrived in Oakland one day last week, is delighted with this country. He is an elderly gentleman and has spent many summers in the White Mountains and other parts of New England and says that he has not found anywhere the scenery offered in the immediate vicinity of Oakland. He is spending the summer in Oakland with his sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Moses and Miss Clara Backus, occupying Dr. Selby's residence on Alder street.

"We came up here from Washington, D. C., last week," Rev. Backus said. "I am convinced that if one is looking for good air and fine scenery he need not go further than Oakland. We are delighted with this place and its surroundings.

"Seldom have I seen such splendid oak trees anywhere outside of the great parks in England. The rolling hills and green valleys are a restful delight to the eye. Roses seem to bloom with little care and for the very pleasure of it.

"We have as yet seen little of the outlying country or of the people. If the members of the graduating class at the high school that we saw the other evening are a fair specimen, the people are as fine as the scenery itself. So my first impressions of Oakland are most favorable."

Other tourists who have seen for the first time the beauties of Keyser's Ridge and the country lying adjacent to the National Highway, the Cove, Deep Creek Lake, Cheat Mountain and Table Rock on the Northwestern Turnpike, Swallow Falls and Muddy Creek Falls and the natural and entrancing beauty of the entire section, have proclaimed it as beautiful a country as they have ever seen.

Hundreds of tourists can't be wrong. Oakland and Garrett county is an ideal place in which to live.

GARRETT COUNTY TIMBER TRACTS BEING SURVEYED

State Forestry Department is Marking 16,000-Acre Preserve

The State Forestry department's recently acquired timber tracts in Garrett county are being surveyed and permanent boundary markers established, it was announced by F. W. Besley, State forester.

The work of surveying the tracts which cover 16,000 acres, in the Savage and Meadow mountains district of this county, is being undertaken by Karl E. Pfeiffer, assistant State forester, Mr. Besley said.

Although some preparatory work along this line was completed last year there still remains the problem of placing the boundary markers and settling disputes with residents who formerly used parts of the region for grazing purposes.

POWER PERMIT FOR TWO RIVERS IS COMPLETED

Order Authorizing Hydro-Electric Plants Entered Yesterday

A formal order authorizing the West Virginia Power and Transmission company to develop hydro-electric power on the Cheat and Blackwater rivers, was ready Tuesday, I Wade Coffman, chairman of the Public Service commission, said, and was entered by the Commission yesterday.

The form of the order was agreed upon at an all-day conference of members of the Public Service Commission, E. A. Bowers, representative of the Western Maryland Railway, and J. V. Gibson, Kingwood, representing the Alpha Portland Cement company.

As finally adopted, Coffman said, the order conforms strictly to the conditions laid down a week ago by the Commission in a report which approved the company's application for eight projects on the main stream of the Cheat and Blackwater rivers, but withheld approval of five additional proposed developments for Big Sandy Creek, Glady Fork, Shavers Fork and Dry Fork.

The projects on Blackwater river, near Davis, will be developed first.

Arthur Resh, Grantsville District, Seeks Nomination for County Commissioner.

Arthur Resh, merchant and saw mill operator at Casselman, near Grantsville, in Election District No. 3, announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for County Commissioner in the current issue of The Republican.

Mr. Resh, according to good authority, has been a successful business man in all of his undertakings, his general mercantile store at Casselman and his saw mill operations being conducted along good business principles. He is an ex-service man, having been trained as a heavy artilleryman at Camp Meade but did not have the opportunity of going overseas. He has been a resident of the county all his life and is a man well liked by all in his community.

New Election Precinct Formed In District No. 3.

Acting under the authority vested in them by an Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, the members of the Board of Election Supervisors have created a new voting precinct in Election District No. 3, and the voting place will be established at Jennings.

This action on the part of the supervisors was taken on last Tuesday when the members of the board with their clerk, Mr. Charles F. White, went to Jennings and established the lines for the new precinct, which will include a small part of the territory lying in Election District No. 12.

A petition, signed by nearly two hundred voters of the territory included in the new precinct had been filed with the board, hence their action in the premises. At present two voting places are provided in the town of Grantsville to accommodate the voters. With the establishment of the voting place at Jennings one of the Grantsville polling places will be abolished.

Following the action of the Supervisors the regularly prescribed notice to voters is printed in today's Republican.

Mrs. D. Edward Offutt had as her guest on Monday afternoon Baroness Astrid Ungen-Sternberg, who is the house guest for the summer of Mrs. Burch at Loch Lynn Heights.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE FOR JOINT CELEBRATION

Parades of Drum Corps and Fire Deartments to be Held on July Fourth and Fifth

BIG ATTRACTIONS LISTED

With all arrangements made for speakers, drum corps, fire departments, bands, scout troops, airplanes, concessions, rides, and many other amusements, everything is in readiness for the opening day of the mammoth homecoming celebration under the joint auspices of the American Legion and Oakland Volunteer Fire department, to be held in Oakland July 3, 4, and 5.

The number of attractions surpasses any other attempt made within the past several years to bring people to Oakland for three big days, and many former residents of Garrett county are expected to return for the three-day celebration.

Dr. Thomas W. Koon, mayor of Cumberland; Congressman Frederick N. Zihlman and Harland Johnson, State Commander of the American Legion, have accepted invitations to be here during the three days and will deliver short talks.

American Legion drum and bugle corps from Somerset, Salisbury, Pa., Fort Cumberland Post, Frostburg, Maryland; Grafton and Kingwood, W. Va., will be present on the Fourth besides the regimental band from Morgantown, W. Va., and the headquarters company of the National Guard of West Virginia. A number of Boy Scout Troops have also accepted invitations to participate in the parade on July 4, which will take place at 6:30 p. m. Prizes have been offered to the best drum corps, and scout troop.

Firemen's Day, July 5

Firemen's Day will be on Friday, July 5, and the parade in the afternoon at 3:30 p. m. will include fire companies from Frostburg, Tri-towns, Ridgeley, Barton, Midland, Terra Alta, Keyser, Rowlesburg, Romney, Grantsville, Thomas and Davis. A number of visiting bands will be in Oakland on that day. Prizes will be awarded. A frigidaire will be given away.

Three planes from the Seaman Aircraft company, Uniontown, Pa., will be here for the three days and there will be stunt flying and a parachute jump and rope ladder act on the afternoons of the fourth and fifth. There will also be a free trapeze act at the picnic grounds on Third street. A large display of fireworks has been purchased for the evening of July 4.

The joint committees composed of members of the Legion and Fire department have done their utmost to make this celebration one of the greatest in years and it is their hope that Oakland will be made the headquarters of thousands of people on those three days.

Mr. James W. Stephen, District No. 3, Candidate for County Commissionership

James W. Stephen, farmer, son of the late Peter J. Stephen, a former County Commissioner, seeks the Republican nomination for the office of County Commissioner as he announces his candidacy in The Republican today.

Mr. Stephen is a resident of Election District No. 3, where he is engaged as a successful farmer and horticulturalist, a man of family and high respectability. As his announcement states Mr. Stephen is in the field following the urgent demands of his friends and neighbors to become a candidate at the Republican primary election.

Union Young People's League Is Reorganized

At a meeting on Monday evening the Young People's League, consisting of members of the young people's leagues of the various churches of Oakland, was reorganized for the coming summer.

The following officers were elected: William McRobie, president; George Altstetter, vice-president; Helen Sollars, secretary and treasurer. Some committees were also appointed.

The first meeting will be a sunrise session and breakfast at Table Rock on the morning of July 6. All the young people of Oakland are cordially invited to attend this and following meetings. The program committee is preparing something different for each meeting.

POLITICS IN REVIEW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore)

Now a new move is the effort of the Ritchie machine crowd to save the Ritchie scalp.

The Governor, utilized annually as a sort of advertisement for the Wet Blanket's workboat races, invited ex-Mayor Jackson, William Curran, Philip B. Perlman and Charles E. Bichy, all recently more or less active In insurgency, to be his guests on the State steamer McLane at the races Saturday. Mr. Perlman says he told the Governor he was too busy to go but the invitation was accepted by the others for Friday. However, Thursday night, Mr. Jackson received word of the critical illness of his father at Perryville and went there to see him. Then Mr. Bichy found himself too busy to go and this left Curran as the man to do the surrendering, if any is to be done.

News of the Governor's move to save himself from political annihilation was held back until the last minute and then promulgated through the court organ, the Wet Blanket. In that journal of the fourth term and all its peculiar works it was stated that the rattling of swords within the good old Democratic party was to be stopped within forty-eight hours and in fact that the aforesaid swords heretofore rattling so loudly, were to be sheathed. There was to be a "thirty-six hour conference" on party affairs and the substance of the Wet Blanket's information was that the Governor and the insurgents were to agree on a local ticket.

All of which would be very nice if it suited the voters of Baltimore City and Maryland at large. Some may like to see the Governor and his late bitter opponent dickering and trading for the offices in the ward room of the State Steamer McLane. If they all could finally get together and swear allegiance to each other what would it amount to? Jackson and Bichy cannot deliver their friends to Ritchie if they try. Curran can deliver some of his but not all. And Mr. Perlman, smart chap, is not a leader with a following to swap but a political counsellor of the late John P. Poe type. He is excellent at drafting resolutions and seeing that things are done In proper order. He has not a ward to deliver to the Governor who treated him so shabbily at the demand of the Arundel crowd in the first of the three Ritchie administrations.

And Jackson? Doesn't he know that Ritchie hates him bitterly while simulating friendship as few except Ritchie can simulate for a purpose?

And doesn't Bichy know that he is not any better liked by Ritchie than is Jackson and has he forgotten how the Governor backed up those who threw him out of the City Committee chairmanship just prior to the last convening of the Legislature?

And Curran? Can't he see through Ritchie even though the latter fooled him in 1927? Does he think himself smarter at scheming than is the Governor? Didn't Ritchie succeed in his scheme to ditch Curran in the last municipal election? Did Ritchie shed any tears when Curran went down to defeat?

Well, this time the Ritchie scheme to capture Jackson, Bichy and Perlman seems to have gone awry and the State-wide propaganda put forth thru the docile Wet Blanket has gone for naught. Whether some other plan of the Governor to parade his prospective political "captives" in a public place will succeed is a question. The Ritchie plan was to get the leaders to confer with him in a public place for propaganda purposes. He sought to have them call upon him at the Belvedere hotel early this week but they declined. Then he sought to have Mr. Perlman deliver some sort of a peace-making speech at the meeting of the State Central Committee on Wednesday. Mr. Perlman didn't do it. He sought to have Mr. Jackson get up on his hind legs and hand out some of the hokum that McIntosh handed out. Jackson didn't fall for it. Nobody fell except McIntosh.

But after all, the big news is that the Governor at last recognizes that he is In a bad political situation. He has received word that the Jackson-Bichy people want nothing from him in the way of the make-up of the local ticket. He has been informed that he can go ahead and make up his own ticket and the opposition will take it, leave it or fight it.

The whole Ritchie scheme is working badly. On Sunday the Ritchie people utilized the ever pliant Wet Blanket to broadcast a story to the effect that Robert J. Padgett had arranged an Interview with the Governor. Padgett, at home sick, denied that he knew anything at all about it. The object with the Padgett story, as in the case of the workboat race program, was to give the Democrats of the State the impression that all had been harmonized in Baltimore City. But the party in Baltimore City is not harmonized and will never be until Ritchie is retired.

State Central Committee
Of Democrats Meets

Nothing much was done at the meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee on Wednesday. The resignation of Howard Bruce as the Maryland member of the National Committee was there to be taken up but it was not as much as mentioned. Mr. Bruce was there moving around from pillar to post and from post to pillar, smiling his most engaging smile. To the stranger he appeared to be the candidate but he said nothing In that direction. He was not moving around with the Governor—he seemed to be paddling his own canoe and, of course, most persons there well knew that he would like to have the Governorship.

The Governor, as might have been expected, took advantage of the opportunity to make a speech and after that came Senator McIntosh with remarks that had no fit place in the assemblage, indorsing Ritchies for a fourth term. It showed just how far down the Democratic party in Maryland has fallen when the meeting of the Central Committee called to arrange for a primary is made the stage to advertise the candidacy of one man. Good political manners—if any—were laid aside for the day and it was made a one-man show even though there were present many who, if they expressed their sentiments, would have spoken boldly against the fourth term proposition.

The Governor gave out the same line of blather that he has been giving to William I. Norris and that was to the fact that if elected he would not feel obligated to reappoint all the old jobholders but would judge every Democrat on the basis of performance, meaning, we suppose, that he would follow the policy he adopted in regard to the State Roads Commission and that was to increase the salary of the Chairman for zeal in the campaign.

The great majority of those on hand were place holders of one sort or another, ex-place holders and applicants for places under the State administration. There are always enough of these in Baltimore to make up a sizable crowd.

There was not in the whole committee a man or a woman with the nerve to make a real motion or offer a resolution for the good of the party. Evidently each one feared the Ritchie boot. Which was so very different from the Democratic party of the old days when the gravest of faults were at least perfumed with some moral courage.

Republicans Pepped
By Broening's Success

The Republicans and especially those of City Hall persuasion are much pepped up by the success of the Mayor in backing certain State leaders into a corner and disposing of their opposition of the Broening nomination for Governor.

Opponents of the Mayor have now had plenty of time to bring out another candidate but they have not done so. Nor have they seemed to be breaking their backs trying to do so.

When National Committeeman W. P. Jackson indorsed Broening that left Senator Goldsborough as high as he is dry. Lowndes was already with Broening and as for ex-Senator Weller he seems to have remained in the background after indorsing the idea of a Sixth District candidate.

So the Broening backers have gone right ahead and the first thing they did was to bring into camp David A. Robb of Allegany, who had been threatening to run In the primary as a candidate for Governor and more especially as a candidate against Mayor Broening. How Mr. Robb was captured remains more or less a secret but it is reported that he was told that his so-called friends had been using him as a stalking horse and never had any intention of giving him the nomination. And this may have been true.

What the Anti-Saloon League leaders think about the Robb business we do not yet know. Superintendent Crabbe has been out of the city and is said to have had no hand in the Robb decision to become a candidate for Attorney General. Only a week or so before that report came from Cumberland, Mr. Robb's home town, that he would spurn the offer of the Attorney Generalship.

He changed his mind when the Mayor's emissaries got hold of him and it is understood that the effective one of these was Assistant City Solicitor Simon Sobeloff, on whom the Mayor is coming to rely to a considerable extent In matters political.

But good or bad, Mr. Robb is now a candidate for Attorney General on the Republican ticket and In making his announcement he said such severe things about the Ritchie administration that he may be counted on to do the hard fighting of the campaign. It is conceded that the Mayor is not the one to say cutting things. He is too kind hearted.

Then after looking the field over for a few more days the Mayor and his advisers came to the conclusion that Dr. Charles S. Warner of Harford county, would do for Clerk of the Court of Appeals although this candidate has had his eyes on the nomination for Comptroller. The man for the latter place has not yet been picked. The Broening people would like to get ex-Senator Lawrence B. Towers of Caroline, but Mr. Towers is said to have no stomach for poring over the figures in the Comptroller's office. He has plenty to keep him busy in his canning houses and all that, but he is said to be an expert at vote getting. He has been a marvel at local elections in his own county.

It is conceded that the place should go to the Eastern Shore for none of the candidates already picked has an Eastern Shore connection at all and that there should be such a connection is admitted all around. The Eastern Shoremen are prone to pick their own people.

Ritchie Crowd Worried
By Mayor's Strength

There is no concealing the fact that the Ritchie people are very much worried over the reception given the Broening announcement and much more over the success of the move to get Mr. Robb to run with the Mayor. This strong combination was not expected, and to many it appears to be a very good move for the Republicans. A few weeks back such a combination would have been thought impossible but now it is a reality. And not only that but the Broening announcement has been warmly received by many Democrats who think he is the strongest Republican available at this time. So at this writing the Ritchie backers are straining every nerve to find a way to offset the Broening strategy.

Up to the very hour of the Broening announcement the backers of H. Webster Smith were very active. They thought a dark horse the best in the circumstances and pointed to the ability of Mr. Smith as a campaigner and also did not fail to mention the fact that he could provide a handsome campaign fund without having to do any begging.

But Mr. Smith was known to few. It was recalled that a few years back he made a strenuous effort to prevent the appointment of Morris A. Soper to the Federal Bench and of course this fact di dnot help him in his aspiration to get the backing of State leaders of his party, In fact as a dark horse he was in some respects entirely too dark. So few people knew him or know him even now.

And then Mr. Smith is a friend of the Mayor and he let it be known that he would not run against Mayor Broening. He waited and waited to see what the Mayor would do until the Mayor did it. And then Mr. Smith went back to his law books but is expected to show his mettle in the campaign and bawl out the Democrats.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ressler, Scottdale, Pa., filled the appointment at Gortner over the week-end.

A sewing circle has been organized with Mrs. Jacob Swartzentruber as president; Miss Fannie Yoder, vice-president; Miss Mary Lichty, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Lena Slabaugh, assistant secretary-treasurer. The meetings will be held monthly, the first meeting to be on July 1, at the home of Mrs. Mary Crowe. Dues are 10 cents per member, and the circle at present has ten members. All ladies of the community are urged to join but if they do not care to become members they could be of service by contributions and work.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Dodge had as guests on Sunday Mrs. Rachel Mattrick, Mr. and Mrs. John Reckard and son, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Parley Dodge, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Shaffer.

Miss Fannie Hershberger, Grantsville, is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. Dan Lichty.

Mr. S. W. Slabaugh has purchased a new Ford sedan from Harvey Gortner, Grantsville.

Mr. Scott Ridder raised his barn on Tuesday.

Mrs. Walter Schlossnagle is recovering from an attack of tonsilitis.

Mrs. P. P. Gortner is able to be out again after having suffered from a paralytic stroke.

Mrs. Mary Dever and son Walter were supper guests at the home of Mr. Earl Fields, near Oakland, Sunday evening.

Mrs. Paul Welch, Mrs. Noah Slabach and daughter Anna Virginia, are visiting Rev. and Mrs. Floyd Fultz, at Frenchtown, W. Va., this week.

Mrs. Hattie Wamsley, Keyser, W. Va., is spending this week at the home of Mr. Noah Slabach.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gauer entertained on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John Blamble, Mr. Jeremiah Harvey, and Miss May Harvey, of near Wilson.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. S. W. Slabach were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ressler, Mrs. Jennie Wheeler, Mr. J. H. Sanders, Misses Grace Mason, Lottie Butler, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Swartzentruber, Mrs. Joseph Ash, Messrs. John Wilson and Thomas Roop.

Messrs. Jacob and Julius Slabaugh called on Mr. D. J. Swartzentruber on Friday evening.

Carrie and Walter Wiles, Susie and Allen Petersheim visited Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Beckman, at Lynndale, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. L. M. Beachy returned home Monday evening from Meyersdale, Pa., where he had spent the week-end.

Ruth, Lillian, Harland and Daniel Miller, Mason, visited Miss Anna Lichty Sunday afternoon.

The Lynndale school enjoyed a picnic in Mr. Dan Petersheim's woods on Thursday. The Mason school held a picnic at Table Rock and the Gortner school picnicked with a number of invited guests at Swan Meadow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Beachy and daughter and Miss Salome Beachy, of Greenwood, Del., are visiting relatives here this week.

After the First Twenty-five Thonsand Miles

THE VALUE of sonnd design, good materials and careful craftsmanship is especially apparent in the new Ford after the first twenty-five thousand miles. Long, continuous service emphasizes its mechanical reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

As you drive the Ford through many months and years you will develop an increasing pride in its appearance and a growing respect for the substantial worth that has been built into it. From every standpoint—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—you will know that you have made a far-seeing, satisfactory purchase.

Wherever you go, you hear enthusiastic praise of the car and this significant, oft-repeated phrase—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy." A grateful father tells bow the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury.

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 500 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that bad fallen into Fernan Lake was submerged for twelve days before beng raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration, and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Rafaela races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenbagen-to-Paris-to-Copenbagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Amancaea road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous bills.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

By SCOOP—HIMSELF

Redblooded Relative Retaliates

Archibaldson received a letter Tuesday morning from his brother-in-law, who is incidentally Scoop's own brother, in regard to an epistle on relatives appearing in this column last week. The writer, when he lived in Kingwood, used to be known as Lew, but when he returned for a visit after spending his time with the celebrities of the big cities, he was known as Bob. His accent, however, hasn't changed much but you can tell a lot about him when you read the following. He labels it as a reply to Scoop's article of last week, presumably written by Archibaldson. Here it is:

Fertile brains produce fertile ideas —stagnant brains produce columnists. The writer does not profess to be a columnist. There are always two sides to everything and I wonder if Archibaldson would have penned such an article, had he been capable of thought. No, for the folly of such bunk would have been obvious.

Relatives, especially those city bred ones, always have a feeling, akin to pity, for their country cousins and consider it a solemn duty to aid as much as possible in enlightening them as to the ways of the world, etc, by personal contact in the form of occasional visits. How else could these poor deluded cousins ever broaden their intellect?

Of course, if they are blessed (question) with the use of a Chevrolet, they, too, occasionally go on a visiting spree. Some times they even venture into the city, being met on the outskirts by one of us and brought to our homes the same way a trans-Atlantic liner is piloted into New York harbor. They stay for a day or a week and live like frightened deer—always expecting bricks from tall buildings to fall on them—jumping out of the path of street cars and fast moving automobile traffic until their nerves collapse. What a laugh they are.

More frequent trips would doubtless diminish this fear but it would take years to completely banish it.

True, the writer was once what might be called, a country lad, but saw the light and was guided by it.

Being a near relative of Scoop and Archibaldson, I must refrain from becoming too personal, for it is not my intention to offend, merely to set some of my deluded relatives straight. All I want to say is that if Archibaldson would apply his time to completing a few of the small orders received from one of those pesky relations, instead of straining the little brain he has to write nonsensical articles for Scoop, we will visit him again in the near future whether he likes it or not.

* * *

Scoop is thankful for the epistle. He doesn't have to write very much this week, and then, too, it is refreshing to know that other people are just as bad as he is when it comes to writing "colyums."

* * *

All of which reminds Scoop that nobody has answered his challenge to send in a column for publication. Scoop knew all these wise-cracking birds were too lazy in the first place. Well, they can have one more week to accept, and if they don't they'll have to keep quiet from now on.

* * *

The Big Fourth

Scoop was talking to Neil C. (Lawyer Fisher) Fraley yesterday. "How about some real news on our big fourth of July celebration," Neil asked. "Something that will bring the people here and keep them here."

"What do you want me to write on especially?" Scoop asked, "the parades, rides, concessions, beer or the absence of it, airplane exhibitions, drum corps, fire departments or spread the publicity and credit on the committee of one—yourself."

"Anything," said he, "just so it is something."

So about the only thing that hasn't been told is the argument now inforce as to who shall take the seat of honor on Jim Bell's flagpole on the fourth and fifth. Walt Janoske wants the honor for the Legion and Jim Kerins says the right should go to him and the Fire Department.

At a joint meeting held last night neither organization was willing to give in. The Legion claims that flag pole sitting would illustrate an observation post of army days, while the firemen say this would demonstrate the delicate poise of its members by maintaining balance on the silver ball.

At any rate there is bound to be somebody on the pole, so everybody be sure to take a look on Liberty street on those two big days.

* * *

Col. Bell, in his inspection trip of the week, discovered Alex Hesen getting in trim for the parade. He was parading up and down the garage on Sharps' time. In one hand he carried a monkey wrench for the gun and over his shoulder he carried a spare tire, emblematical of a full war pack. It's a safe bet he wasn't practicing eating his meals, army style, unless he gets double rations.

* * *

Scoop came near having a nervous breakdown last Friday morning when he learned that "Broker," whom he had babied from a mere pup of six weeks to a pup of about 10 weeks, had been run over on Thursday evening and had departed for dog heaven. He spent the entire week-end in tears, doing nothing but reading the thousands of consoling letters sent to him from all parts of Garrett county.

With Col. Bell's "Moonshine" gone, and Scoop's "Broker", everything seems dark but the grave. It's a dog's life sure enough.

BITTINGER

A couple of refreshing showers visited this section during the past week, but there is still much complaint among the farmers about the lack of moisture.

Mrs. F. J. Glotfelty and Isabelle Glotfelty returned last Friday evening from Fairmont, W. Va., where they spent the week attending the annual convention of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Lutheran church of the West Virginia Synod.

Mrs. J. B. Emory, Mrs. Carl Bittinger and Mrs. Silas Beachy returned to their homes here last Saturday evening, after spending the week at College Park, Maryland.

Thomas O. Hayes spent the week-end in Oakland attending to some matters of business.

County Commissioner Harvey Gortner, of Grantsville, passed through this village last Friday morning.

Edwin Beitzel purchased a new Ford automobile a few days ago and now expects to travel about with more comfort and speed.

The Busy Workers' Sunday school class will present a very interesting play in the village school house next Saturday evening, and the patronage of the public is cordially solicited. See this play and encourage the young folk as well as contribute to a good cause.

TEXAS WAS TRAINING FIELD FOR OFFICERS

One of the training fields, and perhaps the most important one for our American officers in the early part of the nineteenth century was the then frontier state of Texas. The border was guarded by a chain of United States forts, and of these former strongholds little now remains except tradition. In an interesting story on the early Texas fortifications Mrs. Carrie J. Crouch says in the current issue of the National Republic, under the title "Outposts of Departed Glory:"

"The old bugle call, in reville, that rang over the sandy parade grounds in Texas seventy-nine years ago awakened civilization. The old frontier posts that were dotted from the Red River to the Rio Grande, were the harbingers of progress. Old Glory rose each morning to wave a welcome. And toward Old Glory trekked humanity with new inspirations and new hopes.

"The western frontier of Texas was ever elastic in its dimensions. Before the Civil War it extended far; during the war it drew back hundreds of miles; when reconstruction days were over, it again stretched its line. There was never a properly authenticated record as to date or boundary. But from the time that Texas went into the Union, down through the '70s, the United States government maintained on that fringe of settlement military forts, the most distant outposts of the white man, represented the frontier—the boundary line of emigration.

"Just so far as the forts went, just so far would the settlers dare to go. To the north and northwest of the army stations was the undisputed home of the Kiowas and Comanches. The Staked Plains and the Panhandle, now a great center of state industry, were grouped and marked on the maps under the comprehensive name of Great American Desert.

"There was little dissimilarity in the cordon of garrisons established by the government. Each was laid out as a two or four-company post, with the usual commissary, hospital, magazine, officers' quarters and barracks, the latter sometimes arranged in stockade fashion. But each had a history of its own. Men who were a national figures in the Civil War won their fighting spurs on the frontier of Texas. Young officers, who later became generals, traveled over faint military roads which subsequently led to fame. And the pioncers of the West personally knew Sherman, Robert E. Lee, Fitzhugh Lee, Albert Sidney Johnston, Morris and Longstreet. Scattered over this territory are places proudly pointed out today as the "quarters of Col. Johnston," the "shack which Gen. Sherman once occupied" or "the well that Gen. Lee ordered dug."

"Tradition and tumbling buildings alone remain, but historical interest and mystery still cling to the old land marks. In recent years a soldier's grave, which was plainly marked, was found to contain an empty casket when it was being removed to a national cemetery. The deserter completely buried his story, leaving only speculation. Western youngsters still dig for buried treasures in the ruins, and tell stories of haunted places, and for years there has been a search for the exact location of one of the old flag poles to find the cache of gold and whiskey supposed to be buried at its base.

"Every class and condition of man made up the floating population of Fort Belknap, but freighters, trappers and traders are the citizens remembered. Gamblers made stop-overs on the Butterfield to reimburse themselves by poker and monte games. One of the famous characters, who lived from fort to fort, was Mark Raiper and around him are woven the usual tales of the gentleman gambler. Stories are told of his piles of gold, of his gold sportsmanship, his staking broken opponents, and his advice to young gamblers. It may have been this virtue that had its reward, for Mark Raiper lived to be 103 years old and died in Oklahoma only a few years ago."

At Portland, Oregon, an apple, its entire surface stuck full of eloves, like a pin cushion, thus preserving it, has stood on a mantlepiece of the T. E. Zeber home, and is still in a good state of preservation.

TRAINING CAMPS BECOME MORE POPULAR

Our citizens' military training camps are each year becoming more popular with the young men of America. The present year brings the tenth anniversary of this patriotic institution which is constantly making better Americans of those who take the training. In an interesting story on the life in the training camps and the purpose of the training, Mr. Hancock Adams says in the current issue of the National Republic:

"Citizens' military camps celebrate this summer their tenth birthday. Patriotic Americans who answered the call of country in 1915, to drop their civilian clothes to go to Plattsburg as one of two or three thousand civilian "rookies" have turned over the torch to the young men who accept Uncle Sam's invitation for a month of citizenship training in these camps held from New England to California. Established soon after the World War as a feature of the plan for domestic security, as laid down in the national defense act of 1920, these camps have now become a recognized American institution. Their value long ago has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of all except the pacifists and the non-patriots. They can look forward to a life as long as that of the American people and their institutions.

"The camps reach out into even the smallest communities of the land. The boy from the east or west side of New York finds as his tent mate the country youngster from the little hamlet up the state, a boy perhaps who has never seen the bright lights of a city. The son of well to do parents on his way to one of the big eastern universities, stands shoulder to shoulder with the boy who must go to work to earn his own livelihood at sixteen. Democracy is the keynote of the camp, democracy combined with citizenship and devotion to flag and country.

"The camps are what their name implies. The routine is that of out of door life, far away from school and business, or the distraction and turmoil of the city. Young Americans of all kinds are fond of camping; they inherit even today something of the spirit of the frontiersman, and the citizens' camps give them a taste of the simple country life and the breezes of the great out of doors.

"The camps are training camps, too. The educational aim is never lost sight of by the army instructors who have charge of the military and athletic instruction of the boys. They offer something different from the ordinary vacation. Work is the rule; not idleness; but the duties are stimulating, interesting, and with a strong appeal to the patriotism and the public spirit that is in the breast of every red blooded American boy. Life is serenuous, whether at work or play, but no American boy objects to this. The thousands of boys who attend these camps want a vigorous, not a soft, program. Yet it is not so vigorous program as to take the strength of the average yoounger.

"Year by year, public interest in the camps is increasing. Fathers and mothers are among the most enthusiastic supporters of the camps and the War Department has thousands of testimonials as to the value of the instruction from enthusiastic parents. Teachers and many clergymen consider the camps as a valuable adjunct to the school and the church, and that is exactly the function which these camps fulfill. The heads of big business houses often select their best employes for them, realizing that 30 days in camp makes the employe even more efficient.

"Congress was long ago 'sold' on the idea of camps and each year makes generous appropriations to enable the War Department to conduct this work in every part of the country. For the coming summer, 37,500 boys will receive training, and eventually, it is hoped to train each year 100,000."

In Wyoming there is a forest the trees in which grow so dense and so straight, with no limbs, except at the top, that they are fitted for telegraph poles without preparation other than cutting.

An Interesting Fact

The fact that Maryland has taken the iniative in educational matters, particularly in the sphere of medical education and research, is pointed to with pardonable pride. The present State University dates its beginning to 1807, according to Andrews, with the grant of a charter to the College of Medicine. Shortly thereafter this college acquired the first medical school library in the United States. At this school the first special instruction in dentistry was given in 1837 and the first dental college was established in Baltimore in 1830.

The Maryland State College, the second agricultural college in the United States, was chartered in 1856. In 1920 the University of Maryland and the Maryland State College were merged under the former title by an Act of the General Assembly.

But perhaps the best known medical school in the United States and the peer of any in the world, is the Johns Hopkins, one of the first medical schools in the world to admit women to its classes. More than 2,000 doctors of medicine and 1500 graduates of the School of Nurses have gone forth from this institution to every part of the world. It was here that rubber gloves were first introduced in the operating room, as were silk sutures, two of the greatest aids to the safety of patients from operating room infection.

In Johns Hopkins, Rawland worked out the law of mechanical equivolent of heat, without which modern engineering could not solve many of its problems; perfected his machine for ruling spectrum gratings that led to our new knowledge of the structure of the universe and our new data on the construction of the atom.

Johns Hopkins discovered adrenalin, which has stanched the flow of blood in operations, bolstered a weakened heart In pneumonia and brought breath to new born babies and rendered local anesthetics less dangerous.

Space forbids the countless contributions made to medical knowledge by Johns Hopkins Medical schools. Among the many may be mentioned the diagnosis of typhoid fever by blood culture; experiments that showed the significance of blood pressure that led to the manufacture of instruments to measure the pressure of the blood; the discovery of the gas producing organism which was a common cause of gas gangrene following wounds in the World War, and generally leadership in educating the public to methods that prevent disease and make life longer, happier and more effective.

Beautiful Oakland.

Since a recently published article on the beauties of Oakland and what is being done to add to its attractiveness appeared in The Republican, two other articles have been written and handed in for publication, both being the creation of women.

The contributions follow:

Oakland may seem cool but it gives you a warm welcome.

Oakland is picking up—all the unsightly rubbish placed for carting away.

Oakland is green, but beautiful.

Oakland's trees are bowing a welcome to its home coming friends and to you.

Oakland's back yards are as clean as the front yards—you can't tell which from 'tother.

Oakland's alleys are being walked on so our streets may be kept in order.

Oakland has no banana skins on its streets today—it is afraid of slipping.

Oakland prefers the men spitting in their pockets instead of on our perfectly clean sidewalks, as skirts are coming down; so are some of Oakland's old shacks.

Oakland asks that you mow your grass grown walks before harvest time or we may have hay fever. Sneeze at that!

Then Oakland should not forget the cemeteries. Most of us have dear friends there, but some can't find them because of the rubbish and briars that have been allowed to accumulate.

Make the place beautiful—it reflects on you. L.

Every week sees marked improvement in our beautiful town.

Gardens, lawns, sidewalks are being improved all the time, but a few are not completed.

By the time our friends and neighbors arrive for the home-coming we hope every nook and corner of Oakland will have been cleaned up for every foot of ground is sacred to some one.

Let the good work go on and see how much joy someone gets out of a hard day's work.

It is not the good we get out of a tree or plant we set out, but the joy some one gets in seeing it as they pass by.

ONE WHO ADMIRES THE IMPROVEMENTS.

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Mr. Arthur Townshend and Miss Susie Hamill were married in the M. E. church Wednesday evening by Rev. Henry P. Hamill, brother of the bride.

On Tuesday, while William Broderick was on the upper floor of his workshop on East Oak street he fell to the floor below, sustaining severe injuries.

While Mr. Stephens was at work on the hotel grounds Tuesday he was overcome with the heat.

Mr. F. A. Thayer now occupies his handsome new cottage on Third street. Spedden and Bolden were the contractors.

The Carter house is about completed. This is one of the most substantial dwellings in Oakland, and while its outside appearance is not so striking it is very handsomely finished within. Capt. J. M. Jarboe was the builder and was his own architect.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Harry Welch, 24, son of Thomas Welch, Friendsville, was killed at Alexander, W. Va., Saturday by a falling log.

Miss Sadie Elizabeth Friend and Mr. Arthur DeWitt, Hoyes, were married at the home of the bride's parents.

A lightning and thunder storm which raged for nearly nine hours struck Oakland Saturday evening.

The contemplated celebration at Deer Park on the Fourth has been called off; hence Deer Park will enjoy a safe and sane Fourth.

A baseball team was organized with the following officers: J. E. Varina, president; W. A. Gonder, vice-president; Charles Tower, secretary; Perry Frantz, rec. sec'y-treas.; John J. Sweeney, manager; and William Newman, assistant manager. The players trying out for the team are Holzman, Giessman, C. P. Frantz, M. Boyle, J. Bradley, G. Bradley, A. Dare, P. Collins, J. Collins, L. Fraley, J. Burns, Dawson, and Niefherser. It was decided to hold a minstrel show for the team's benefit with Tower and Varina as trainers.

Ex-county commissioner Z. T. Friend, near Friendsville, was in Oakland this week attending Teacher's institute.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Announcements of candidates for political offices will be published in The Republican at the following rates, the cash or its equivalent to accompany all orders for insertion of the advertisements which will appear in each edition of the paper until the date of the primary election:

State Senator, $25; Members of the House of Delegates, $15; Clerk of the Circuit Court, $25; State's Attorney, $25; Sheriff, $20; County Treasurer, $20; County Commissioner, $15; Clerk to the County Commissioners, $15; County Surveyor, $5; Judges of the Orphans' Court, $5; Register of Wills, $10.

FOR STATE SENATOR

At the solicitation of friends in all parts of the county and after careful consideration, I announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of State Senator from Garrett County, and respectfully solicit the support and influence of my friends and fellow Republicans.

Appreciating the fact that this office is one of great responsibility and one that requires a monetary sacrifice on the part of the nominee, I enter the primary free from any promise to any person or group of persons in any section of the county of which I am a native.

Very respectfully yours,
HENRY W. M'COMAS.

FOR HOUSE OF DELEGATES

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

The undersigned announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of Member of the House of Delegates and respectfully solicits the support of his friends at the primary election to be held in September.

With my former experience in this office I feel that I am qualified to give the people of Garrett county more efficient service than if I were unacquainted with legislative procedure.

Very respectfully yours,
ARTHUR LAWTON.
Election District No. 14.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County, Md.:—

At the solicitation of many friends, I announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of member of the House of Delegates, subject to the result of the primary election, and most respectfully solicit the support and influence of my friends in the county.

If nominated and elected a member of the General Assembly I will endeavor to render to the people of the county efficient service.

Very respectfully,
OTHO S. FIKE.

The decline of the cross-roads hamlet and its half dozen homes clustered about the general store, is not to be denied. It is due to more than one reason. First, the rural population has been declining during the past two decades, and with the advent of the automobile and good roads the farmer can get to the nearest sizeable town to do his shopping without taking more of his time as it required to drive to his neighboring hamlet in the early days. And the modern road makes the trip a pleasure instead of an unpleasant undertaking as was the case in the old days, especially in inclement weather.

MARBLE TOURNAMENT TO BE BROADCAST FRIDAY

Battle Between Two Finalists Will be on the Air Tomorrow

All the thrills of the finals of the Eighth National Marble Tournament at Ocean City, N. J., Friday, June 27, will be brought to millions of listeners by a nation-wide hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Ted Husing, rapid-fire sports announcer of the Columbia System, will be at the microphone to tell the world about the battle between the two young finalists for the marble shooting championship of the United States.

Husing's reputation as ace sports announcer rests on his work in describing football games, World Series baseball games, the Kentucky Derby and boat races, but this will be his first attempt at picturing a marble tournament over the microphone.

However, he immediately became enthusiastic when told of the assignment. After learning of the details of the Ocean City event, he announced his intention of rounding up the boys in his neighborhood and making a thorough study of "Ringer", the official tournament game.

Husing will take his position at a CBS microphone right at the edge of the 10-foot ring where the final battle will be staged in Ringer Stadium at Ocean City, Friday afternoon, June 27.

The two boys in the final ring will be the survivors of the preliminaries in which 50 city champions from all over the country will compete.

Shot-by-shot, Husing will bring his word picture of the battle between these boys to his millions of listeners. Thirteen marbles are put in the middle of the 10-foot ring and the boy who bangs out the most mibs wins the game. There will be many times when the radio audience will hold its breath as Husing relays to them the suspense of the stadium when a favorite knuckles down to bang out a much-needed mib.

Besides the cheers from their respective rooting sections, the two finalists will be spurred on in their battle by the vision of the grand prize of the tournament—a trip thru the Panama Canal on to Los Angeles, Hollywood and San Francisco.

While Husing describes the Marble Tournament finals over the CBS hookup, more than 50 newspaper reporters will be wiring stories to their newspapers; newspaper cameramen will be clicking their shutters on the scene; and news reel photographers will be grinding hundreds of feet of film.

Last year, the finals were described by Graham McNamee, ace sports announcer of the National Broadcasting Company.

Marbles is the only juvenile sport in which a national championship is decided. Last year's championship was won by "Sonny" Albany, of Philadelphia.

James Ryan, Kempton, Garrett county's entrant left here last Saturday evening and was assigned to the Delaware hotel where he spent the week.

James Ryan Makes Good Showing as Mib Shot.

James Ryan, Garrett county's marble champion, made a good showing in the national tournament at Ocean City, N. J., according to a telegram received here this morning from Rev. C. A. Shilke, who accompanied the Kempton lad. James seemed to be popular with the crowd as a mountain boy, Mr. Shilke said.

Both are staying for the finals on Friday and expect to arrive in Oakland on Saturday morning.

Masonic Bodies Declare Recess.

The two Masonic bodies of Oakland, Lodge No. 192, and the Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, have declared a summer recess in effect from Tuesday evening of this week until the second Tuesday in October.

Oakland Man Low Bidder.

Mr. J. William Whorton, of Oakland, submitted the lowest bid to the State Roads Commission for the construction of three foot shoulders on Third and Oak streets, the bids for the work being opened at the offices of the Commission Tuesday.

Tuesday Afternoon's Rain Storm Did Little Damage

The storm of Tuesday afternoon which passed over this section, did some damage to inclined gardens and fields, but there was no property damage or personal injuries resulting notwithstanding the velocity of the wind which at times was of almost tornado velocity. The government station at Weber recorded a rainfall of 1.63 inches in about two hours, which is said to be the heaviest recorded in the same length of time in a number of years.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE To the taxpayers of Garrett County that the annual levy for 1930 has been made and published and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45, Chapter 56, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the first day of September a discount of 3 per cent will be allowed, and after the first day of January all county taxes shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid. The treasurer shall take the discount from and charge the interest on the tax blils for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid, and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipts given on the taxes paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when the same is made."

Under the provisions of Section 48 of Chapter 630 of the Acts of 1916, all State taxes shall be due and payable on and after the first day of July in the year in which the same are levied, and if not paid on or before the first day of September of said year, shall bear interest from said date at the rate of six per cent per annum. No discount is allowed on State taxes.

ALBERT L. LEE,
19-4t. County Treasurer.

NOTICE
TO MOTOR VEHICLE DRIVERS

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE That no motor vehicles will be allowed to park on Second Street from Alder to Pennington Streets between the hours of 6:00 and 8:00 P. M., on the evenings of July 4th and 5th.

This action has been taken by the Mayor and Town Council so that the public in general may have an opportunity to view the parades of the American Legion and Volunteer Firemen, which will take place at the hours mentioned.

Free parking space has been provided on the municipal lots at the north end of Third street.

It is earnestly hoped that all drivers of motor vehicles will cooperate with the town officials in this matter.

(Signed) GROVER C. STEMPLE,
19-2t Mayor of Oakland.

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(©, 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

REVIEW: THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM CONTINUED

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Making Jesus Known.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Believing in Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Shall I do with Jesus?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of Christian Discipleship.

The plan of review must always be determined by the teacher in the light of the grade of the school and the aptitudes of the pupils. For senior and adult classes the best method will be to recall that all the lessons of the quarter are from the book of Matthew, which has as its theme Jesus Christ, the Messianic King, and His Kingdom, and to present each lesson in its relation to this central purpose. The lessons have a threefold unity, namely, one book, one theme, one person.

Lesson for April 6. To prepare the disciples for the dark hour of the cross, Jesus sought to lead them to a clear apprehension of His purpose and mission. After Peter's confession of Him as the Messiah, Jesus showed to the disciples that He must come into His place of triumph through the tragedy of the cross.

Lesson for April 13. The greatest in the kingdom are those who possess childlike humility. The condition of entrance into the kingdom is true conversion, or birth from above.

Lesson for April 20. In this lesson we have divine instruction as to behavior in case of ill-treatment. Those who are Christlike shall suffer persecution. Those who have entered the kingdom by birth from above—those who have received forgiveness from God—will forgive their fellows.

Lesson for April 27. Riches are deceitful. Possessors thereof are prone to put their trust in them. It is most difficult for those who are rich to give place to spiritual things.

Lesson for May 4. Those who would be greatest in the kingdom should, like Christ the King, take the place of self-abasement. In love, Christ gave Himself for others. He substituted "the greatness of love for the love of greatness."

Lesson for May 11. To the nation which rejected Jesus as King and was endeavoring to kill Him, at the appointed time, in the councils of God, He officially presented Himself as King, in fulfillment of prophecy.

Lesson for May 18. Under the figure of a marriage, Jesus set forth the privileges and benefits of the kingdom. He used marriage, the highest ideal of love and friendship known to man, to show the benefits of the kingdom.

Lesson for May 25. In the Olivet discourse Jesus outlined the events in the world to take place in the interval between His crucifixion and His second coming. The parable of the ten virgins shows the right behavior of believers in this present age in view of the coming of the Lord.

Lesson for June 1. By talents is meant whatever faculties and powers one possesses as God's gifts, such as physical strength, reason, knowledge, speech, song, or money. All these should be employed so as to honor God who gave them. A reckoning time is coming when account shall be rendered for their use. This will be at Christ's second coming.

Lesson for June 8. Mary of Bethany, because of her keen apprehension, saw that the Lord's body would be broken and that His precious life would go out at a time when no one could lovingly minister to Him. She therefore anointed Him as against that dread day. When the disciples criticised her act, she was defended by Jesus.

Lesson for June 15.—Jesus did not die as a martyr or as an example, but to make an atonement for man's sin. The supreme value of the lessons for the quarter centers in the cross. Teachers, it is not a matter of getting your children to learn the lessons of a great teacher, but to induce them to have faith in Christ's sacrificial death.

Lesson for June 22. The resurrection of Jesus demonstrated His Messiahship and deity. The command of Jesus to preach the gospel in all the world is backed by His resurrection power.

The Oil of Joy

Christianity wants nothing so much in the world as sunny people, and the old are hungrier for love than for bread, and the oil of joy is very cheap, and if you can help the poor on with the garment of praise, it will be better for them than blankets.—Henry Drummond.

A Moral Pivot

The Hindu professor of modern history in a South India college said to me: "My study of modern history has shown me that there is a Moral Pivot in the world today, and that the best life of both East and West is more and more revolving about that center—that Moral Pivoting is the person of Jesus Christ."—E. Stanley Jones.

Force of Character Necessary

The most brilliant qualities become useless when they are not sustained by force of character.—Segnr.

THIRTY-FOUR MARRIAGES ARE PERFORMED IN WEEK

Total for Month of June is 118—Six Permits Are Refused

Thirty-four marriage licenses were issued from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit court during the past week ending Monday at noon, according to E. Z. Tower, clerk. This brings the total for the month of June thus far to 118. Five of the licenses issued were marked "don't publish," while six applicants were refused permits on account of the youthfulness of some of the contracting parties.

Fruit Short Cake

One cup pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ cup butter, 1-3 cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla extract. Sift the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add the milk and vanilla extract and stir quickly for about thirty seconds, until well blended. Drop by spoonfuls in lightly greased muffin tine and bake in a quick oven (450 degrees F.) for approximately 15 minutes. Silt, butter and serve with strawberries or other fruit. Makes six shortcakes.

Spring Salad.

One hard cooked egg, 1½ teaspoons mayonnaise, pinch salt, onion salt, celery salt, paprika. Shell the egg, chill and cut a small slice from the round end so that the egg will stand upright. Remove the other end and take out the yolk. Mix the yolk with the ingredients listed above. Pile lightly in the egg, letting the filling heap on the top. Cut strips from the white which was removed and place over the egg in the form of a handle. Set in a bed of lettuce leaves. Garnish with a spray of water cress or parsley on the top and add a dash of paprika. Serve with mayonnaise.

Delicious Ice Cream

Two-thirds of a cup of sugar, 1 egg (well beaten), 2 tablespoons cold water, 1½ cups whipped cream, ¾ teaspoon lemon extract, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 cups gelatine, 1 cup milk (scalded), ¼ teaspoon almond extract, ½ teaspoon vanilla extract. Mix sugar, salt and well beaten egg. Soak the gelatine in cold water for five minutes and dissolve in the scalded milk. Add this mixture to the first ingredients, mix well and let cool. Whip the cream until stiff, add the extracts and fold into the cool mixture. If using a mechanical refrigerator, turn into the freezing trays and chill. When stiff remove from tray and beat vigorously with a rotary beater for several minutes. Return to tray and complete the freezing. If using an ice cream freezer, eight parts of ice should be used to one part of salt. Turn constantly until frozen.

Market Conference Plans Almost Complete

Every phase of the problems connected with marketing farm products will be given time for discussion at the Farmers' Marketing Conference, which is to be held at the University of Maryland on August 12 to 15, according to Dr. T. B. Symons, Director of Extension. Arrangement of a full program for the four days is almost complete and an exceptional number of outstanding authorities have been secured to lead in the discussions and give the benefit of their experience. A number of members and representatives of the Federal Farm Board will be present to explain the plans and purposes of that agency, which has been in operation for a year and from which farmers are expecting substantial assistance in solving their marketing problems.

The plan of the conference provides for general sessions in the forenoon of each day at which topics will be discussed which apply to the marketing of all kinds of farm products. Each afternoon those in attendance will divide themselves into groups and discuss the problems that apply to the particular products in which they are especially interested.

Nationally recognized specialists in various phases of marketing, managers of successful cooperative marketing organizations, leaders of the cooperative marketing movement in Maryland, together with ample opportunity for questions and general discussion, from what those in charge of arrangements believe is one of the strongest programs that has ever been offered.

Provision has been made to supply meals and lodging at the University for the four days at a small cost of $5.00, and it is expected that delegations from each county and each organization will take advantage of the opportunity.

Get in touch with the County Agent and make plans to join the group attending from Garrett county.

Bordeaux Mixture

Copper Sulphate (Bluestone) ..4 lbs.
Stone lime of good quality.... 4 lbs.
Water .....50 gallons

Dissolve the bluestone by suspending it in a bag near the surface of a few gallons of warm water contained in a wooded or earthen vessel. Slack the lime and add several gallons of water so as to make milk of lime. Pour 20 to 30 gallons of water into the spray tank and add bluestone and stir, then strain the milk of lime into the barrel while agitating the mixture vigorously. Add water to make 50 gallons.

Stock Solutions

Dissolve the bluestone at a rate of one pound to one gallon of water. Slack lime and dilute at rate of one pound to one gallon. Keep in separate covered containers until ready to make Bordeaux according to above formula.

Prepared Bordeaux, either dry or in paste, may be substituted.

One quart of lime stock solution and I quart of bluestone stock solution plus 2½ gallons water will make three gallons of Bordeaux mixture spray when needed in small quantities.

To control potato bugs, add arsenate of lead according to directions on package.

Effective July 1, Amos W. W. Woodcock, now Federal District Attorney for Maryland, will take over prohibition enforcement as director of prohibition, a position created by the Williamson Bill under which enforcement was transferred from the Treasury to the Department of Justice.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

We are told by metropolitan newspapers now making a drive on the protective tariff system that this country is now suffering from over-production, and that our only chance to dispose of our surplus production is to seek markets abroad, and in order to gain markets abroad we must admit the further invasion of our markets by the cheap labor products of foreign lands.

Many will wonder how it can be said that we are suffering from over-production. It is a fact that hundreds of thousands of wage earners have been thrown out of work in the United States through their inability to compete with foreign cheap labor whose output crowds the shelves of stores in the United States. Is there not a more immediate and profitable prospects of consumption by these unemployed men were they back at work than among the peasants, coolies and peons of foreign lands who are now doing the work of supplying American necessities?

Abroad we must meet on their own ground the makers of the very cheap labor products we are now buying in such quantity instead of absorbing the output of our own industries. If we cannot undersell them at home, how can we do it abroad?

Our only hope of gaining markets abroad is in supplying them with products which we can make cheaper or better only because our large scale market here permits the economics of mass production.

The operations of the present tariff law, which is was predicted would destroy our foreign trade, proves to the contrary. When we keep our own industries going we are enabled to buy abroad articles of luxury and of necessity we do not produce here in greater and greater quantity. We are enabled to spend more in foreign travel. Our prosperity does not destroy that of foreign lands: it promotes the general prosperity of the world.

The truth is that the outcry arising in this country against a tariff measuring the difference in labor costs at home and abroad on all competitive commodities is chiefly inspired by international financiers who want to collect the vast amounts they have loaned abroad at the sacrifice of American production, and the international industrialists who wish to manufacture in foreign cheap labor markets and sell with as little interference as possible in our markets. That these financiers and industrialists are killing the goose that laid their golden eggs does not affect their short-sighted attitude, or that of merchandisers who want the opportunity to buy cheap foreign goods regardless of the fact that they thus destroy the purchasing power of their customers in the United States.

We seem to be up against the problem of whether our tariffs shall be adjusted to suit home needs or foreign demands. Foreign nations with sky-high tariffs and forty-seven varieties of interfering with our exports to those countries are inspiring an outcry to the effect that if we look out for ourselves they will cut our throats. They are now, and always have been, doing a pretty job of looking out for themselves and presumably they will continue to do this whatever our tariff rates. The first job of our government is to look out for our own people, and sometimes that job seems to be somewhat neglected.

DARK CLOUDS IN EUROPE

According to newspaper reports, Horace Liveright, well konwn New York publisher who went to Europe some months ago as a "good will diplomat," observed a great many things of which the American people might learn with interest.

On his return to New York, Mr. Liveright is quoted as saying:

"France isn't fighting the last war, she is prepar[illegible] next. Germany isn't st[illegible] have a standing army, yet every youth has full military equipment. In England they are freely predicting an American panic and seemingly rejoicing that its reaction will benefit them.

"The Danes hate the Norwegians and Swedes; the Norwegians hate the Swedes and Danes, and the Swedes hate the Danes and Norwegians.

"I was never so appalled in my life."

Mr. Liveright is evidently a good observer. At least he is not alone in reporting conditions in Europe in a pessimistic way. For example: All of the recent dispatches from Europe touching on Franco-Italian relations have declared that there is real danger of conflict between these two countries unless there is a quick "about face." Many European observers declare that France is now feverishly preparing for war and that in case of trouble she will depend on her allies, the Jugo-Slavs, and if necessary, the Poles. And on the eastern horizon is the forbidding countenance of Soviet Russia armed to the teeth and waiting for a favorable opportunity to hurl its well trained legions against the armies of the capitalistic world.

These are the conditions which the theoretical pacifists are apt to ignore in their calculations. Many of them seemed to be fondly deluded into the belief that if Uncle Sam will only scuttle his navy and disband his army there will no longer be danger of war in the world.

This attitude is so foolish that even a child should comprehend its absurdity. With conditions in Europe "getting no better fast," to use a homely expression, it is certainly up to Uncle Sam to watch his step.

MT. [illegible] PARK

The sudden death of Mrs. Charles W. Baldwin, following an attack of pneumonia, Tuesday afternoon, was a source of deep regret to the entire community. Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin began their summer residence at the Park in 1882, since which they have been largely interested in its various activities. They celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary a few years ago. Mrs. Baldwin was active in the work of the Methodist church, of which her husband had been a pastor for 64 years, having been the active secretary of the Frederick District of the woman's Foreign Missionary Society for many years. The funeral services will be held at her late Baltimore residence on Friday morning.

Miss Kate McLane, Mr. L. M. Bender and Miss Betty Bender motored to Winchester last week where Mr. Bender has large orchard interests.

Mrs. Harry M. Showalter and son Paul M., are house guests of the mother of the former, Mrs. Harry Clayton. Mr. Showalter is a prominent attorney of Lewisburg, Pa.

The citizens are rejoicing that the road machinery has been unloaded at the Loch Lynn siding and work on the Gormania-Loch Lynn road will be begun at once. While only two miles of road will be constructed this year, yet the importance of the development in that direction insures the early completion of the entire road.

The Mt. Airy Canning Company will begin the canning of peas today.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maxwell, Clarksburg will occupy the Jarvis cottage this season.

Mr. J. E. Kesner has gone to Cumberland where he is employed.

Mrs. Skyles, Philadelphia, arrived the latter part of last week and has opened the Allegheny House for the season. Capt. Skyles will spend the Fourth at the Park.

Mrs. A. F. Peddicord, Fairmont, and Miss Virginia Marshall, Uniontown, are guests of Mrs. Frank M. Murphy.

Mrs. Isobel Hill, who has been in Washington for the past ten days, has returned to the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sterling, Detroit, are the guests of friends for a few days.

The mystery of rather unmusical notes, particularly in the early morning and at dusk, coming from the direction of Loch Lynn, has been solved. They come from the living emblem of the Democratic party braying for more votes.

Several friends gave Master Willard Kay Hayden a surprise party on last Saturday, it being his third birthday.

Mrs. Flora Collins and son, Mr. Donald Collins, of Kansas City, Mo., are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. H. V. Leighton, Loch Lynn.

Miss Margaret Leighton is spending this week in Washington, D. C., with friends.

GLADES

O. L. Brenneman and family, of an Ohio city, are here visiting Mr. Brenneman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Brenneman.

Mrs. F. J. Glotfelty and nicce, who spent last week in Fairmont where they attended the Missionary convention of the Lutheran church, returned home Friday evening.

Quite a number of the people of this community attended the graduating exercises at Accident last Thursday evening.

Mrs. Catherine Frickey spent last week at the C. C. Beachy home.

Calvin Baker was a Sunday evening guest at the home of C. C. Stephen.

F. J. Glotfelty and others of the community are busy hauling limestone from the vicinity of McHenry.

Miss Martha Casteel, of Oakland, is spending a few weeks with her aunt, Mrs. William Glotfelty.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Bender and Mr. and Mrs. Simon Opel and children were visiting near Rockwood, Pa., on Sunday.

Kermit and Samuel Bowser left here Sunday morning for Parkersburg, W. Va.

FAIRSWEEP

Sunday visitors at the home of Harry Durst were Mr. and Mrs. David Bowman and family, Harold, Max, and Maxine White, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howard and Miss Virginia Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Friend and son visited Mrs. Friend's grandmother, Mrs. Jordan, at Dodge, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Durst and son spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. F. L. Wensell.

Cletus and Kenneth Beckman spent Sunday with their aunt, Mrs. Sam Barkman, at Underwood.

Mr. R. G. White spent Sunday evening at the home of W. R. Beckman.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Beckman motored to Somerset, Pa., Sunday.

Miss Hazele Garlet, teacher of Fairsweep school, entertained the school children at a weiner roast in Wenseli's grove Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Simmons and son Blair spent Thursday evening at the home of F. L. Wensell.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Durst and Mr. and Mrs. David Bowman and family called on their uncle, David Durst, at Oakland, Sunday evening.

Mrs. Bernard and sons spent Sunday at Pleasant Valley the guest of her brother, Mr. Orville Bittinger.

The Fairsweep school closed last Thursday after a very successful year.

Meadow Mountain

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brenneman were calling at the home of C. F. Custer on Sunday evening.

Mr. Maynard Moon and family and Mrs. Wade Bernard and daughter were visitors at the Mrs. A. R. Bernard home Sunday.

C. H. Wiley and family, of Bittinger, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Brenneman on Sunday.

Lambert Bernard and family were in the Dry Run community on Sunday where they visited home folks.

Mrs. John O'Brien and children, of Ohio, are visiting at the home of J. T. O'Brien at present.

There will be services in the Lutheran chapel here on Sunday evening, June 29, to which all are most cordially invited.

To Present Twelfth National 4-H Program Saturday

The twelfth of a series of national 4-H club programs to be broadcast over a national hook-up of 45 stations is scheduled for Saturday, July 5. The United States Marine Band will furnish the musical numbers and background. National anthems will be the feature of the day and the numbers chosen are "The Star Spangled Banner," "God Save the King," LaMarseillaise," and "The Maple Leaf Forever."

Speakers representing club members will be from Kentucky and Missouri, while the home demonstration agent from Jefferson county, Ky., and the field agent in club work for the southern states, will also talk. The time for the program is 12:45 p. m. to 1:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Advertising Folders to be Ready Soon

Folders advertising Oakland, which are being published by order of the Oakland Rotary club, will be off the press within the next few weeks, according to Delbert Davis, in charge.

These folders contain sixteen views of Oakland and surrounding territory, with short descriptive matter for each one. The views include map of road between Route 40 and Route 50, Muddy Creek Falls, Swallow Falls, Cove, Deep Creek Lake, 17-mile grade, flying field, Mt. Lake auditorium, Crystal spring, Oakland High school, Court House, and Main street of Oakland.

The folder is the size to be enclosed in a business envelope and will be available to those desiring to send out these circulars in their personal and business correspondence. They will also be placed in hotels, garages, and in towns where Rotary clubs are functioning.

Liquor Causes Number of Arrests in Deer Park

Charges of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, reckless driving, drunk and disorderly, and driving without any registration card were lodged against a number of Deer Park people Sunday night and arrests were made by Sheriff W. D. Casteel and his deputies.

John Rinker and Albert Mayle were both found guilty of operating an automobile under the influence of liquor and were fined $100 and costs each. Albert Mayle was fined $1 and costs for being drunk and disorderly, while Rinker was found not guilty on this charge, nor was he found guilty of the charge of reckless driving. Rinker, however, was fined $1 and costs for having no license in his possession and $1 and costs for having no registration card.

Mayle was fined $1 and costs for reckless driving. Hazel Wilson, Anna Shiffitt and Pearl Hinebaugh were each fined $1 and costs on the charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Rowlesburg Nine to Play At Crellin

The strong Rowlesburg Baseball team of Rowlesburg, W. Va., will meet the C. A. C. nine of Crellin next Sunday afternoon, June 29, at the Crellin Ball park. Crellin lost to Rowlesburg earlier in the season by a close score.

The game will start at 2:15 p. m. Everybody is welcome to witness the home game of the Crellin team. No admission will be charged. On Sunday, July 6, Crellin will play Pierce, W. Va., at Crellin.

Third Good Will Tour Taken By City Council.

The third of a series of good will tours was taken last evening by Mayor Grover C. Stemple and the members of the City Council when they motored to Friendsville and spent the evening talking over business matters pertaining to municipal government with Norval Speelman, Mayor of Friendsville, and the members of the Town Council of that town.

After the conference the visitors were conducted to a hotel where dinner was served.

At the conclusion of the good will tours it is the plan of the Mayor and City Council of Oakland to have the Mayors and members of council of the various town visited and to be visited later, guests of Oakland at a get-together dinner and afternoon entertainment.

Ex-Ring Heroes Among Players In "Hit the Deck."

Two well known prize fighters appear in "Hit the Deck," which opens Friday at the Maryland theatre. The scrappers are Sailor Vincent and Nate Slott. Slott once was amateur featherweight champion of the Middle West. Sailor Vincent was welterweight champion of the U. S. Navy for seven years. He is well known to fight fans in Los Angeles and along the Pacific coast.

"Hit the Deck," adapted from the stage play by Vincent Youmans, presents Polly Walker, Broadway beauty, and Jack Oakie, comedian, in the leading roles. The cast includes June Clyde, Wallace MacDonald, Roger Gray, Franker Woods, Marguerita Padula, Ethel Clayton, Andy Clark, Dell Henderson and Charles Sullivan.

Many of the stirring exterior scenes were made at the U. S. Naval base at San Diego in co-operation with the Navy Department. Lavish technicolor sequences and hundreds of singers and dancers add brilliancy to the story.

Luther Reed, of Radio Pictures' "Rio Rita" fame, directed "Hit the Deck."

Boys' 4-H Clubs to Have Camp This Year

That the Boys' 4-H clubs of Allegany, Washington and Garrett counties would encamp this year at the Oakland Boy Scout camp on Deep Creek Lake was announced yesterday by John H. Carter, county agent. There will be between 30 and 40 boys in camp which will be held on July 23, 24 and 25.

This is the first year that the boys' 4-H clubs of the three counties have ever held a camp, and it is hoped to make this a permanent part of the annual program.

The boys will be in charge of E. J. Jenks, State boys' club agent; Milo S. Downey, county agent of Allegany county; and John H. Carter, county agent for Garrett county.

Land Sales Are Increasing

The George Beckman farm of 339 acres located 4 miles from Mountain Lake Park, has been sold by the National Farm Loan Association and the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore to Roy C. Lee, purchaser, 50 acres; J. R. Moon, purchaser, 139 acres; and Isaac L. Beckman, purchaser, 150 acres.

Commenting upon the real estate farm market Vulosko Vaiden, president of the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, recently said: "Land values seem to have stabalized on a basis where the average yields of standard crops will yield a fair return on the selling price of land, when the property is in the hands of an experienced farmer. Farms bought on the basis of what the farm is capable of producing under fair management over a series of years should prove to be good investments for farmers. The record of sales by this bank show an improved demand for farms and most of our sales are made to people living in the immediate vicinity of the farms purchased.

DIED.

MRS. MARY WATSON BROWNING

Mrs. Mary Watson Browning, wife of Thomas J. Browning, of near Oakland, died on June 16, after an illness of two weeks, Mrs. Browning was born on April 21, 1855, in Fayette county, Pa., where the town of Watson now stands. The fiftieth wedding anniversary of the couple was celebrated at the family home on September 24, 1929.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Browning is survived by seven sons and two daughters: Herbert W., Lee B., Chas. C. and Carter B., all at home; Bruce T., Gormania, W. Va.; Ray C., Washington, D. C.; Guy W., Jenner, Pa.; Mrs. Grayce Chisholm, Gormania, W. Va., and Mrs. Robert S. Paugh, of near Deer Park. Another daughter, Mrs. James V. Paugh, preceded her in death four years ago. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Julia W. Umble, Markleysburg, Pa., and by two brothers, Milford S. Watson, Terra Alta, West Va., and James Watson, Watson, Pa.

Mrs. Browning united with the M. E. church thirty-five years ago. She was a modest, unassuming Christian woman, devoted to her home and family and was greatly loved and respected by all who knew her. Her life as a Christian was lived without outward demonstration and her influence for good will continue in the lives of those with whom she came in contact.

Funeral services were conducted at the home last Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. by the Rev. Archibald Moore, of Oakland, where a host of friends and relatives had gathered. Several appropriate hymns were sung by a quartet composed of the Rodeheaver family of Deer Park. Interment was made in the family lot in the Oakland cemetery under the direction of Emroy Boiden, local funeral director.

Among the relatives and friends attending the funeral from a distance were Mrs. John H. Riley, Mrs. Henry Fredlock, Mrs. Radcliffe, Mr. Phillips and William Dye, Elkins, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hanway and two daughters, Misses Virginia and Margaret Hanway, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holt and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Clark, of Grafton, W. Va.; Mrs. Julia W. Umbel, Markleysburg, Pa.; Milford S. 3-DAY CELEBRATION OPENS TODAY

SCHOOL OF ORATORY MAY LOCATE IN MT. LAKE PARK

Summer Session Would Bring Number of People Here—Will Present Odeon in August

Mr. R. J. McKin, managing director of the Byron W. King School of Oratory, spent the week-end of June 17, at the Mt. Lake Park Hotel. It was found that the object of Mr. McKim's visit was for the purpose of securing a suitable and desirable location for the Summer School of Byron W. King School of Oratory. This school has enlarged to an extent that it is becoming impractical to continue holding their summer session at their present location in Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. McKim has been traveling thruout the western part of Pennsylvania and in Maryland to the extent of Mt. Lake Park, hoping to find a suitable location that would encompass a desirable spot conducive to education and earnest effort and would at the same time provide something of a vacation and recreation for those enrolled in the summer school.

The large majority of summer students are either professors in charge of speech arts in their various universities, actors or actresses who due to the calibre of their play interpretations are accepted by the school and have enrolled for some specific purpose such as, the art of make-up, stage scenery, stage lighting, the development of poise and grace on the stage which is the one thing that will smooth an actor's artistry, or to attain some special tone quality in their voice.

The Byron W. King School of Oratory numbers among its Alumni such famous persons as Franklin Roudcraft Hipps, Sue Pearl Hamilton, Karl Emerson Williams, Anne Tennant, Katherine Arlene Fisher, the late President McKinley, the late Chancellor McCormick and others of equal note.

In order to effectively introduce the Byron W. King School of Oratory to the community the directors have decided to hold an Odeon the third week in August at Mt. Lake Park. This Odeon will be a portrayal of what the school has to offer in speech and dramatic arts. The Alumni have unreservedly indicated their whole hearted loyalty to their Alma Mater by giving their time and services toward this Odeon. The program will consist of several play productions of a worth while nature, something that will leave a thought,—an inspiration with its audience and yet with a view of humor. Although the productions are being selected from broadway casts the school feels that the selection must be careful and critical as such play productions will be a direct representation and introduction of the school and must need interpret the solidity of its high attainments and splendid methods.

In addition to the play production, children kermess will be given. Little tots who have performed before the most critical audiences in the Pittsburgh theatres and are marvelous in their technique and artistry, will perform.

Humorous monologues will be presented that will leave the audience laughing,—leave them cognizant of the greatness and goodness of life,—an inspiring lecturer of national note, and in all the very cream of those who cause us to forget our worries, the dullness and drabness of life for the moment and leave us with a new courage.

To Study Food Consumption

Miss Margaret Coffin, from the University of Maryland, is in Oakland making a study of the sources of food consumed by the farm family in Garrett county. Time was when almost all food consumed by the farm family was produced on the farm, but there have been some changes it is pointed out. Facts are to be gathered to reveal the present conditions and the forces causing the changes.

This study has already been made in Anne Arundel, Dorchester and Harford counties.

BAYARD LOHR'S BARN IN NORTH GLADE BURNED

Comparatively New Building Entirely Consumed Sunday Night

Bayard Lohr, an overseas veteran who has been a semi-invalid since his return from the army, suffered a severe loss Monday morning about one o'clock when his barn, located on his farm in the North Glade section of the county was consumed by fire of undetermined origin, but it has been presumed by Mr. Lohr's neighbors that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

When the fire was discovered by Mrs. Lohr it was practically destroyed as the roof was then falling in. In addition to the loss of the structure, which was erected about two years ago, a calf, some hay, harness and a few pieces of farm machinery were in the building, which were also burned.

Why A Public Library?

To The Editor of The Republican:

When people wish to settle in a community their first questions are about Churches, Schools and then the Library. "What opportunities will my children have to get good wholesome reading matter? It is impossible to buy all that they need along that line and I am anxious that my children should have all the educational advantages that I lacked."

Oakland is well blessed with all these advantages but when discussing the question of library there is always a slight pause. Yes, we have a good library but it is wholly maintained by voluntary contributions. Our library has now been in existance for rather a long period of time, even before larger communities undertook the task of providing for this important necessity. But, there are many handicaps to be met and overcome in keeping a public library in a growing and healthy condition.

The Oakland Library has good rooms and many good books but new books must be added and a librarian must be paid to take care of the books and see that they are returned in due time. Now, all this brings out the ever recurrent need—namely money to meet the necessary expenditures.

How are we going to get this money? Only by voluntary contributions. The benefit method is pretty well worked for other needful activities. So, this letter is for a plea to all who are benefited—adults and children, but especially the children.

Travel and reading are among the best methods of developing culture and as travel is denied many growing children we should give to them the opportunity of reading good literature. Then, let us get together and do our bit toward helping this most worthy cause and DO IT NOW, as we have a deficite at this time.

Do not let this good work lag on account of indifference as it is one of the greatest assets that the people of Garrett county has to entertain the adult and help build up the mentality of the growing child.

MRS. H. A. LORADITCH,
President Library Association.

Injured in Automobile Accident

Mr. Edward, Shaffer, with his mother, Mrs. Julia Shaffer, and niece, Miss Mary Shaffer, the latter of Roanoke, Va., who is here for a visit with relatives, narrowly escaped serious injury Monday evening when the automobile in which they were riding skidded as it was turned into the Northwestern Turnpike from Route 37 at Red House, and crashed into a small building by the side of the roadway.

Mr. Shaffer's hands and fingers were painfully lacerated by glass from the windshield, while the other occupants of the car were badly shaken up.

ASSEMBLYMEN ANNOUNCE WOULD RETURN TO OFFICE

Messrs. Markley and Green Announce Their Candidacy

The list of candidates for nomination as Members of the House of Delegates is increased today by the announcements of Messrs. Albert Markley, of Oakland, and Arthur H. Green, of Swanton, both of whom served in the Legislative sessions of 1927 and 1929.

Mr. Markley is a resident of Oakland and is engaged as district manager of the Woodmen of the World, having entered the service of that organization a number of years ago. Prior to that engagement he was an employe of the Kendall Lumber Co. at Crellin for many years. In his announcement Mr. Markley states that he is not "aligned with any faction but is seeking the nomination upon his own merits." He has also stated that he is not concerned in the candidacy of any other person, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. As a member of the House Mr. Markley sponsored legislation tending to advance the interests of the county.

Mr. Green has been a resident of District No. 1 for about nineteen ycars, formerly engaged in farming and stock raising but more recently and at present a merchant in Swanton. He served during the World War in the 313th Infantry and was overseas with his command for a year. He was elected a member of the House in 1926 and served in the sessions of 1927 and 1929. As a member of the House he proposed legislation opening Deep Creek Lake as a boating and fishing center and also introduced and had passed a measure providing for the State to bear all expenses for the trasportation of children to school centers; also for the erection of a proposed bridge at Kitzmiller from funds provided by the State instead of by the county.

Robert McMillan Rhodes, District No. 1, Candidate for Nomination for Sheriff of County.

Robert McMillan Rhodes, Marine during the late World War, holder of various decorations for bravery conferred upon him by both the French and American governments, is the latest aspirant for the nomination for Sheriff of Garrett county on the Republican ticket. Mr. Rhodes is both a railroad employe and a farmer; is married and has two children; is a tax payer and has been such since reaching his majority.

During the World War Mr. Rhodes took part in five major engagements and was wounded in the Argonne in November, 1918. The French government conferred the Croix de Guerre upon him after he had been isolated from his command in the course of an engagement near Vierzy on July 19, 1918, when he continued to operate a captured German machine gun throughout the entire day after his company had been relieved. He received the Victory Medal by order of the commanding general of his outfit for bravery, efficiency and sobriety.

Eight Deer Seen In Corn Field Near Oakland Sunday Morning

Eight deer, two of them antlered, were driven from a corn field on the farm of Mr. Truman W. Casteel, a mile and one-half north of Oakland Monday morning by a tenant on the farm who at first sight thought they were cattle that had broken down the fence surrounding the field. Upon close approach, however, the tenant at once discovered that the animals were deer and was convinced of this fact when with graceful agility they vaulted over the barrier and soon disappeared in the woods a short distance away. Examination of the growing corn was made by Mr. Casteel who reported that little if any damage had been done his crop.

Prof. Austin A. LaMar, for the past two years principal of Accident High School, has resigned from the teaching staff of Garrett county and has accepted a position as principal of Sherwood High school, at Sandy Spring, Montgomery county, Md. He and his wife left Tuesday for Hagerstown where they will remain during the summer months.

AUTOMOBILE KILLS YOUTH AT GRANTSVILLE FRIDAY

Charles Schaeffer, Aged Nine, Run Down by Soldier's Car While Crossing Highway

ACCIDENT UNAVOIDABLE

Struck by an automobile while crossing the National Highway near his home, Charles Henry Schaeffer, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Schaeffer, of near Grantsville, was fatally injured about 6:30 o'clock Friday evening. He died while being taken to the hospital at Meyersdale, Pa.

Sergt. J. W. Strange, of the U. S. Army Proving Grounds, Aberdeen, Md., driver of the car, said the boy started across the highway at Schade's Hill, west of Grantsville, and was run down when he became confused and attempted to retrace his steps. The driver swerved his car to the left and crashed into a fence in a futile attempt to avoid hitting the boy.

The child was placed in a car and was being taken to the Meyersdale hospital when he died. He was pronounced dead by a physician at Salisbury, Pa. Strange remained at the National Hotel, in Grantsville, but no formal charges were lodged against him, officers said, as the mishap appeared to have been unavoidable.

The boy was walking to the home of a neighbor, across the highway, with his brother, Donald. The latter had crossed the road and Charles was following him when the mishap occurred. The boy is also survived by a sister five years old.

Sergt. Strange was driving toward Cumberland, being on the return trip from Kansas, where he spent a furlough. His wife and two other women were in the car. The accident occurred near the intersection of the Jennings road and the highway.

An investigation was conducted by Sheriff W. D. Casteel, acting State's Attorney A. T. Matthews, and Coroner W. A. Gonder, of Garrett county; Corporal John Kries and Officer A. M. Spioch, of the State Police.

Young People's Leagues To Hold Sunrise Service at Table Rock

The Oakland Young People's League will hold its first meeting at Table Rock Sunday morning, July 6. Wm. McRobie will be the leader, the topic being "God's Goodness as Revealed in Nature." There will also be short talks made by members of the various leagues. The event will be made additionally attractive by a breakfast prepared and eaten at the meeting place.

Ramsey's bus will leave from the front of the Presbyterian church at 5:30 a. m., promptly, and will return in ample time for those participating in the meeting to attend Sunday school.

All the young people of Oakland are cordially invited to attend this meeting on the mountain top. Everybody is asked to bring 20 cents for transportation charges and a box breakfast. There will be a fire prepared for those who desire to cook anything they wish.

Arrested on Disorderly Charge.

John Menhorn, of Oakland, was arrested yesterday morning by Constable Andrew Shartzer on a warrant in which Menhorn was charged with being drunk and disorderly. He is being held in the County Jail for a hearing on Monday or Tuesday.

Menhorn was put under a bond to keep the peace several weeks ago following a charge of a similar nature.

Band Concert on July 9

The Baltimore Evening Sun Boys' Band, composed of sixty pieces, will give a two hour concert in Oakland next Wednesday evening, July 9, it has been announced. The concert will be held on Second street between Alder street and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad crossing, and extra lighting facilities will be erected for the convenience of the musicians.

The Cumberland Municipal Band will come to Oakland on Friday, July 4, it has been announced by Neil C. Fraley, chairman of the committee. Mr. Fraley received a letter from Mayor Thos. W. Koon. of Cumberland, who stated that he would be accompanied by the band tomorrow if the committee desired it. The organization consists of fifty men.

MERIT BADGES AWARDED TO FIVE SCOUTS MONDAY

Examinations Conducted at Regular Meeting of Court of Honor

Five second and first class scouts of Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, were awarded merit badges at the regular monthly meeting of the Court of Honor held Monday evening. After examination by the court awards were made as follows: Harley Dawson, carpentry; Stuart Hamill, Jr., personal health; William Tillett, Richard Glotfelty, firemanship; Robert Altstetter, first aid and physical development.

Members of the court present included H. L. Jones, chairman; H. A. Loraditch, vice-chairman; Henry Lauer, A. D. Naylor, Dr. W. W. Grant, W. W. Dawson, and George Hanst, scoutmaster.

The monthly inspection of the troop will be held at the regular meeting of the scouts tomorrow evening, just before the parade of the Legion drum corps and scout troops at 6:30. A prize is to be awarded to the troop making the best appearance and every boy is expected to look his best.

Camp Algajoy 4-H Camp Open July 11 to 19

The Garrett-Allegany 4-H Camp will be held this year July 11 to 19, Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent, has announced. July 11, 12, and 13 will be a Training school for older 4-H girls. July 14-19 is Camp Week for all 4-H girls in both counties.

The plan is that each girl will provide her own transportation to and from Camp and a cot to sleep on. Straw ticks will not be used this year. Any 4-H club girl may purchase a good cot for $3.00, a special price, at the Army & Navy Store in Cumberland. The fee for the 9 days is $5.00 and for the 5 days $3.50. As the application blanks come in a list of necessary equipment will be sent each girl.

A typical daily program includes class work, recreation, rest hour, swimming, vespers and council fire. A good camper serves on K. P. duty one day and keeps her sleeping quarters in order.

This year a special feature of the program during the week will be Food Demonstrations by a food specialist.

Friday, July 18, is Visitor's Day. In the afternoon the 4-H campers give a pageant which is followed by a picnic supper on "The Rocks'. Vesper and candle service at Camp Fire concludes the week's program.

Parents and friends of 4-H campers are invited to visit on July 18 and bring their lunch with them.

Marriage is Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Marie Maroney, daughter of Mr. Richard Maroney, of Oakland, to Oliver Charles Nethkin, on Saturday, June 28, at 7 p. m., at Baltimore, Maryland.

The bride is a graduate of Oakland High school, class of 1922, and has for the past several years taught in the Crellin public school. The groom is the son of Arthur J. Nethkin, of near Oakland and is employed as an electrician by the Associated Gas and Electric company in Baltimore, where he has been for the past five years.

The marriage was performed at the home of Archbishop Curley by Rev. Fr. John F. Eckenrode, former pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, Oakland. Miss Ella Helbig acted as maid of honor while the groom's attendant was Mr. Robert Garrett.

NUMEROUS ORGANIZATIONS ARE EXPECTED TO ATTEND

Affair Being Held Under Joint Auspices of American Legion and Volunteer Fire Department

BIG ATTRACTIONS LISTED

People are beginning to pour into Oakland for the Homecoming celebration under the joint auspices of the Oakland Volunteer Fire department and the local post of the American Legion, being held this week-end, July 3, 4, and 5, and before tomorrow many hundreds are expected to be present and participate in the large number of entertainments and parades planned for the occasion.

Amusements will consist of two parades, speakers, fireworks display, shows, rides, concessions, airplane exhibition, parachute jump and rope ladder act, trapeze act, and dancing every evening. Legion Drum Corps and Fire departments from this entire section will take part in the parades on July 4th and 5th and will compete for prizes.

There will be no set program for today, except the shows, rides, and dancing in the evening, according to Neil Fraley, in charge.

The following program has been outlined for July 4:

Parachute jump, 2:30 p. m.; free trapeze act, 3 p. m.; stunt flying, 3:30 p. m.; addresses at 4 p. m. by Thomas W. Koon, mayor of Cumberland; Hon. Fred. N. Zihlman, congressman from the sixth Congressional district of Maryland; and Harland Johnson, state commander of the American Legion.

The parade will form on Third street at 6:15 p. m. and will get under way at 6:30 and will be composed of the following drum corps: Somerset, Salisbury, Pa.; Fort Cumberland Post, Frostburg, Md.; Grafton and Kingwood, W. Va. The regimental band of Morgantown and the headquarters company of the National Guard of West Virginia will also be in line of march. A number of Boy Scout Troops including Oakland Troop No. 1, will also participate. Prizes will be awarded and a drill will be held by the drum corps.

There will be a fireworks display at 9:45 o'clock and there will be dancing in Naylor's hall from 9 until 1.

Firemen's Day, July 5

Amusements on Friday will include the parachute jump, trapeze act, stunt flying, dancing, shows, rides, etc., and the parade will be held at 3 o'clock. Fire companies from Frostburg, Tri-towns, Ridgeley, Barton, Midland, Terra Alta, Keyser, Rowlesburg, Romney, Grantsville, Thomas, and Davis will be in line of march and a number of visiting bands will be in Oakland on that day. Prizes will be awarded and a frigidaire will be given away.

Two Added Attractions

Two added attractions have been engaged for the Homecoming. Miss Dorothy Borden, world's record high altitude parachute jumper, will jump from a plane on the afternoons of July 4 and 5, from a height of not less than one mile.

Dinger Daugherty, the world's only armless and legless pilot, will give daily exhibitions of stunt flying in his own plane.

The celebration will be held on the old Fair grounds on Third street. The Keystone Attractions company of Shamokin, Pa., with a number of rides, shows and other amusements, will be on the grounds and the free acts and fireworks displays will be held from the lot on Third street.

The Seaman Aircraft company, of Uniontown, will furnish three planes for passenger carrying.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes the following: Legion Committee, Joseph Gonder, Delbert Davis, Neil Fraley, Ernest Liller, Alex Hesen and Frank Lyon. Fire department Committee, Emroy Bolden, Fred Peddicord, Percy Frantz, George Kerins, Leo Helbig, and Alva Gortner.

POLITICS IN REVIEW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore)

The so-called harmony meetings arranged by or for the Governor not having amounted to a great deal, public attention is now centered on the activities of the Republicans. Their task is to complete the State ticket by persuading Lawrence B. Towers of Caroline or some other leading Eastern Shore Republican to become the candidate for Comptroller. They had a conference on hand as this was written but the outcome was not known at the hour that the diligent printers insisted on grinding this journal out.

Mr. Towers has a fine record of vote getting. He is bluff and hearty in his ways and that goes a great distance with the voter.

The Eastern Shore this trip is a promised land for the Republican ticket. It is there that the rebellion against Governor Ritchie's domination of the Democratic party is most pronounced. There is talk of 10,000 Republican majority on the Shore this year.

On the other hand there is going around some talk to the effect that the Republicans do not expect to elect all of heir State ticket this year. So they will concentrate on the Democratic weak spot, the Governorship. They will make a great drive and do all the trading for the head of the ticket. It is said to be the belief of Republican leaders that Comptroller Gordy is the strongest of the Democratic nominees and that it will be very difficult to head him off. He is strengthened by the fact that the Governor did not want him on the ticket yet he feared to push him off.

As to the Attorney Generalship there are conflicting opinions. Many Democrats want to see the present Attorney General, Thomas H. Robinson, retired and think they have a good chance to do it this year.

The Governor, according to reliable reports, is concentrating his efforts on himself, as usual. He is not bothering about the prospects of his associates on the State ticket. His idea is to hold on to office regardless of what happens to the other fellow. All of the Governor's recent callers seem to agree that this is his attitude. But this is really nothing new for him. He was that way in 1915 and has been that way ever since.

Rather Chilly Days For William I. Norris

William I. Norris, former State Senate President, and political this and that, was recently one of Governor Ritchie's callers but we can get no report of what went on. Yet if what should have happened really did happen, Mr. Norris said some plain things about the way the Governor has been doing things.

For it is no secret that for months Mr. Norris, though not ardently admiring His Excellency, has been going along with him hoping quietly for the inevitable day of reckoning while the Governor, according to current reports, has been giving Norris to understand that if elected he proposed to sweep out of office the present State appointees in Baleimore City and make a new slate. And of course, Mr. Norris, as a reward for his going along, has been expecting to have the principal hand in making the expected new slate.

But now, according to the veracious Wet Blanket, Mr. Norris sees his Excellency making goo-goo eyes at Messrs. Jackson, Curran, Perlman and Bichy which goo-goo eyes promise no political profit to Mr. Norris who, some aver, has been fondly hoping to get the nomination for Mayor next Spring with the Ritchie aid and abetting.

Indeed, the situation as depicted by the veracious Wet Blanket which so industriously sets forth what His Excellency desires to have set forth, is not at all to the liking of Mr. Norris. What will he do? All that we can suggest is that he go to the Governor and demand some fresh promises. There should be plenty still unused.

Harmony Conference Somewhat of a Joke

There has been a lot of laughing and joking this week by Democrats as well as Republicans over the Ritchie-Wet Blanket "harmony conference" alleged to have taken place on the State Steamer McLane in connection with a trip to the Blanket work boat races of last Saturday.

Finding its story about the sheathing of swords and the making of Democratic peace a laughing stock of the town the old Blanket set to work to establish a case. So it was published that notwithstanding the absence of nearly all invited insurgents (the only one present being Billy Curran) a harmony conference for the good of the Ritchie candidacy was held.

But on returning to the city, Mr. Curran said there was no conference. Said he: "We went swimming." Gilbert A. Dailey said in reply to an inquiry: "There wasn't any political conference."

So there we have it. If there was any conference then two of the leaders knew nothing of it. Some went swimming, others did not go swimming. The workboat races came off all right—somebody winning each one of them. Most of those present were Democrats the Governor invited to go on the McLane.

Of course anyone who knows anything about conditions in the Baltimore City Democracy since the passing of Mahon and Kelly should be aware that the harmony talk is mostly bosh. It is the Governor and his daily paper ally who want all the harmony they can get and more but who are not likely to get as much as they need for next November.

It is an evident fact that at last the Governor has become frightened and the proof of this is the questions he asks of callers and his fawning on Jackson, Curran and Bichy. He is apparently ready to promise them the sky in return for public indorsements of his fourth term candidacy. But the big question that arises is as to what any and all of the leadres can deliver. Certainly all who have ordinary intelligence know that sooner or later the Ritchie dictatorship will go down in a grand crash.

Bichy Going Ahead With His Plans

To date the sweet and loving voice of the Governor over the telephone has had no more effect on Charlie Bichy, late Democratic chairman, than the song of a high pressure book agent. Nor has even the persuasive tones of ex-Mayor Howard W. Jackson had any particular effect on Charlie, who seems to think that when you have started to fight the best thing is to keep on fighting until you get somewhere. He doesn't like to surrender before a shot has been fired.

So Mr. Bichy and Senator Edward J. Colgan and their friends have been holding conferences with the object of putting a local ticket in the field for the primary. Mr. Colgan got tired of the Ritchie reign a long time ago and he doesn't get rested about it. He stays tired.

Had Stephen W. Gambrill gone into the fight for Governor it was the intention of Mr. Colgan to go on the ticket for Attorney General and he would no doubt have made a great run. He takes no stock in those who think Attorney General Robinson is invincible. At Annapolis Mr. Colgan made fights to get the party to follow Democratic principles but was blocked by the Governor or his satellites.

Brooke Lee Hunting Cougressional Candidate

The selection of a Democratic candidate for Congress in the Sixth District has been left apparently in the hands of Brooke Lee as he is supposed to do most of the campaign financing.

Wm. P. Lane, of Hagerstown, has decided that the prospect does not appeal to him. Fuller Barnard of Cumberland has been in the field but is reported to be cold on the Governor's fourth term ambition and therefore a new candidate is wanted. The Democrats (or some of them) hope they can win this year because Representative Frederick N. Zihlman is under fire in Washington.

Man Behind The Ritchie Scenes

Now and then it happens in politics that there is a man behind the scenes pulling the wires and doing a great deal without the public knowing anything about it. Such seems to be the case just now when the Democratic leaders are talking harmony.

The man behind the scenes, as we get it, is John E. Cullen, late Baltimore manager for William Randolph Hearst. Mr. Cullen is earnestly devoted to the Governor and in the present embarrassment of his Excellency has been doing a great deal of the advising. It was Mr. Cullen, we are advised, who brought about the "agreement" of ex-Mayor Jackson and William Curran to make a show of bowing to the Ritchie dictatorship by accepting invitations to go as the Governor's guests to the workboat races last Saturday and thus give the political reporters something to write about.

Report has it that for months past Mr. Cullen has been exercising his diplomatic abilities on Philip B. Perlman, legal and political advisor to the socalled insurgents, but he did not make much headway so long as a candidate to oppose Ritchie in the primary seemed to be in sight. But with Mr. McIntosh out of the way and all others sidestepping, the path to a conference was made seemingly easy even though conferences in such a case do not always mean so much.

Gossip has it that in the event of his activities being proven effective and Ritchie getting a reelection, Mr. Cullen may be chosen as Political Commissioner, a position well suited to his political taste. For quite a time it has been reported that the Governor might name Daniel J. Loden as the successor to Commissioner Gaither but now Mr. Loden has passed away.

Reporters See Battle For State Treasurership

Louis Azrael, the Frederick New Citizen and Jimmie Newell of the Baltimore Post agree that there is in the making a great fight over the State Treasurership and when all these sources of information concur there must be something in it. In fact, there is something in it but we don't know how much.

It came out a month or more ago that President Symington of the Baltimore Trust Company has his mind set on having some important say about the deposits of State money. That started the trouble. It was recalled that four years ago Charles H. Knapp had an eye on the position of State Treasurer but did not make much of an advance toward that objective. Now Mr. Knapp is a member of the Board of Directors of the Baltimore Trust, having been taken in with the absorption of the Century Trust Company. So the story goes that Mr. Knapp is managing the fight for a change in the State Treasurership but is not a candidate himself. He wants to get it for the benefit of the bank with which he is connected.

The name of President Symington is mentioned while it is also stated that Edward M. Thomas, a devotee of the Governor, is also after it and hopes to get the aid of his Excellency. As to the latter there is no telling where he stands. He has heretofore been found with State Treasurer John M. Dennis, head of the Union Trust Company, and few think that there is to be an absolute break between the two. Four years ago it appeared that they were at serious odds but they soon made up and went on pleasure jaunts together.

In political circles it has all along been assumed that Frank A. Furst, as Ritchie's chief advisor, would come to the aid of Mr. Dennis and demand that the Governor join in. But to date Mr. Furst does not seem to be caring much about it and it is reported that he thinks it is up to the candidates for the office to get the votes for themselves.

For many weeks the Governor has been reported as making political love to the Baltimore Trust Company people and it is noticed that he has been paying special attention to Waldo Newcomer, one of the main factors in that big institution. Mr. Newcomer has given evidence of his great devotion to the Governor and has already been on the stump for him.

We assume that although it will be two months before candidates for the Legislature are nominated Mr. Dennis has not been idle. He has a wide acquaintance throughout the State and it is not likely that he is neglecting the situation. And as for the Governor he seems to have so many troubles of his own just now that he can hardly undertake to elect a new State Treasurer without putting his own head in greater danger. So we expect to see him desert the Baltimore Trust people when the time comes and help to line up legislative votes for Mr. Dennis.

Heard But Not Believed

That Howard Bruce will be a candidate for the U. S. Senate in 1932.

That Steve Gambrill is sorry he sidestepped so soon.

That Robert A. Sindall has given up his idea of being nominated for Mayor.

That Howard W. Jackson knows exactly why he did what he did—if he did it.

That Charlie Bichy is waiting for terms.

That Mayor Broening is going to quit postponing.

That O. E. Weller will say he pushed Broening into it before Billy Jackson got there.

That Harrison Rider is now enthusiastic for Ritchie and the fourth term.

That the Ritchie blight will stop blighting soon.

That the Governor will see the light and withdraw.

That Jackson, Curran and Perlman are laughing in private.

That the Litter Louna deal will go through.

That Robert Garrett resigned from the Public Improvement Commission so as to get more time to help in the Broening campaign.

That Frank A. Furst has not been caught between two fires in the State Treasurership.

JUNE MARRIAGE RECORD IS SURPASSED BY TEN

158 Licenses Are Issued During Past Month, Breaking Record Made in June, 1929

The all-time record for number of marriage licenses issued in June was broken this year when 158 applicants were granted permits from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit court during the past month. This number is ten more than was issued in June of 1929.

With the 158 permits for June the total for the first six months of 1930 now stands at 584. This is greater than for the first six months of 1927 when the all-time record for the entire year was made.

Forty licenses were issued during the past week ending Tuesday at noon, with 11 of the permits being granted on Saturday. Nine permits issued were marked "don't publish," while one applicant was refused.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

By SCOOP—HIMSELF

How It Is Done

A small-town newspaper publisher who recently retired with $50,000.00 in the bank, was asked how he did it, and he issued the following statement:

"I attribute my ability to retire with $50,000.00 in the bank, after thirty years in the country newspaper field, to close application to duty; always hewing to the mark and letting the chips fall where they may; the most rigorous rules of economy; never spending a cent foolishly; everlastingly keeping at my job with a whole heart—and the death of an uncle who left me $49,999.50."

* * *

This same publisher probably wrote a weekly "colyum" too.

* * *

What Would You Do?

An Eastern Columnist says: "One day when my rheumatism was bad and my daughter had just eloped with a good-for-nothing scalawag, and fire had destroyed my barn, and roasted a fine horse that I hadn't paid for, and my best hog had up and died with the cholera, and they had foreclosed the mortgage on me, and the sheriff was looking for me with a warrant, I told my troubles to one of these optimists, and he said: 'Cheer up, old man, the worst is yet to come,' so I shot him. What would you do?"

* * *

Stolen Stuff

The following is clipped from the weekly column of Clay V. Miller, of Spencer, W .Va. I often print things of his for which he gets no credit, but I'll give him full benefit of this, because he is married and I am not.

"If I were a woman, I would:

Not let the milk bottles accumulate until the milkman had to make a special trip to lug them off.

Sew the top buttons on my husband's shirts as soon as they came came back from the laundry.

Know when to come home.

Know when not to come home.

Keep the salt and pepper shakers filled to the brim or die in the attempt.

Ditto the sugar bowl.

Stop talking about Rudy Vallee.

Never cook spinach just because it's good for you.

Not think that my husband does not love me because he'd rather go to sleep than lay and listen to me describe a new taffeta dress in the vogue window.

Take into consideration how bright the sun is shining when picking out my undies for the day.

Never use the word "cute."

Never wear a summer fur.

Never walk into a barber shop and say I'm in a hurry.

Forget about my operation.

And a lot of other things.

Stuck, By "L"

That poster Archibaldson printed last week about the baseball game at Crellin must have been a tongue twister for him, or else he got his hand caught in the "L" case. Bill Gibson said he could knock the "L" out of Crellin and still have plenty left. Yes, he spelled it C-R-E-L-L-L-I-N.

Jim Kerins says he is going to throw a buttermilk party on Sunday morning, July 6, because he thinks a lot of people are going to need refreshment.

Rules and Regulations for 3rd, 4th and 5th

The following rules and regulations for people to abide by while in Oakland on July 3, 4, and 5, were announced this morning by Ted Mason, and backed by the Amalgamated Society for the Prevention of Work:

1. Do not fall crossways in the street. This might cause traffic jam. Lengthwise is all right.
2. Committing murder will make you liable to arrest.
3. If you are insulted—see the mayor, and he will make things right with the world.
4. If you don't win the frigidaire—see the mayor.
5. If the sidewalk isn't big enough to hold you—see the mayor.
6. If you can't find what you want—see the mayor.
7. If you purchased any bad whiskey—see your bootlegger.
8. Do not irritate the special policemen, nor Bun Nethkin.
9. Do not break any bottles on the streets.
10. Do not leave until your are sure everything is over.

Keep the Pullets Growing

Contrary to the apparent belief of many poultry raisers, the danger of all trouble is not past when the pullet chicks no longer need brooder heat and the cockerels are disposed of according to W. H. Rice, Extension Poultry Husbandman, College Park, Maryland.

The pullets must be kept growing through the hot summer months since any factor causing interruption of sustained growth and development lowers the vigor and stamina of the birds. Lowered vigor and stamina is almost synonymous with lowered egg production, since vigor and health in pullets are a prime requisite of good production.

Range and Exercise

Growing pullets require exercise in order to develop into vigorous healthy egg producers. Exercise is not likely to prove a problem if a sufficiently large range is provided the pullets and they are in a healthy condition. While good pullets may be raised in close confinement this method is probably more exacting and expensive than most poultrymen favor.

Where green feed is furnished by the range, one-half acre per one hundred pullets is none too much range.

Shade and Green Feed

An abundance of shade for the pullets during the hot summer days is very desirable and some shade is a necessity. Many poultry raisers overlook this important item.

Pullets grown on range supplying ample green feed throughout their growing period are more likely to be healthy and vigorous and consequently good producers, than pullets grown on a bare yard or lot.

Failure to provide a constant supply of green feed usually means a smaller egg check after the pullets are of a laying age.

A very interesting meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Reformed church was held at the home of Mrs. H. O. Miller all day Wednesday. The day was spent in quilting and sewing and a bounteous dinner was served at noon.

Those present were: Mesdames Elmer Beachy, P. H. Yost, J. A. Beachy, Byron Bender, W. E. Stanton, Noah Warnick, John Folk, Marshall Beachy, Hayward Broadwater, John Baum, and daughter, Fred Livengood, Miss Christina Winterburg, Miss Annie Yutzy, Mrs. Ida Hershberger.

Shakespeare Club

The program at the Shakespeare Club on Tuesday, June 24, consisted of the reading of the story of "Pyramus and Thisbe" by Miss Wallace, followed by two scenes from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" read by the club members. Mrs. Diefenbach read some facts concerning the naming of the month of June; Miss Holmes read a selection from Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal," and Miss Ruth Keller read "In June" by Nora Perry. The evening closed with a general discussion of the four things most characteristic of June—"Commencements", Strawberries", "Weddings," and "Roses", led by Miss Keller, Miss Mary Dorsey, Mrs. Diefenbach and Miss Winterberg.

THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1930.

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Mr. Ben. Sincell, foreman of the Journal office for sometime, has purchased the Oakland Republican and will leave us in a short time to assume control of the paper. Mr. Sincell will make The Republican hum when he gets a grip on it. We regret to lose him from our town and the worst of it is, he will probably carry off one of our prettiest girls too, if Madam Rumor is correct.—Kingwood Argus.

Among the Oakland boys employed at a distance and home for the Fourth we notice Richard Sharps, Charles Sweeney, Jr., Calvin Crim, Alonzo Paxton and William Hinebaugh.

Miss Stella Ohr, of Cumberland, is visitlng her aunt, Mrs. George D. White, of Oakland.

Married on June 15, George W. Woods and Ada Pricilla Spiker, both of Garrett county.

Married on June 25, Richard Tasker and Victoria Peters, both of this county.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mr. Hiram M. Frazee, retired merchant and farmer of Selbysport, suffered the loss of five thousand dollars worth of Garrett county courthouse bonds a few days ago.

Wade H. Hinebaugh was elected chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias lodge; Paul Mitchell, vice chancellor; Dr. W. W. Grant, prelate; Arthur Lawton, master of work; J. C. Renninger, trustee.

Tuesday afternoon Randall Ravenscroft, aged about 13, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Ravenscvroft, had the second finger of his left hand almost entirely severed when a shotgun was accidently discharged.

Mrs. J. L. Pollock entertained a large number of friends last Friday evening.

Messrs. D. E. Offutt, Jr., and Chas. Glotfelty are on a business trip to points in Arkansas.

Mr. John Hart, Jr., returned from Mt. St. Joseph's college to spend the summer vacation with his parents.

County Superintendent E.A.Browning is at Ocean City, Md., attending the sessions of the Maryland State Teachers' Association.

Miss Katharine Shirer returned to her home from Cape Charles, Va.

Mr. Frank Rathbun, superintendent of the Piedmont public schools, is spending his vacation with his mother at Mt. Lake Park.

An Interesting Fact

Separation of Church and State

Some of the laws and customs of Maryland differentiate this state from any other state in the Union. In one respect, at least, Maryland is not only unique among the states of the Union, but perhaps among the nations of the world, in that no clergyman may sit in either branch of the legislature. This provision of our constitution is a visible reminder of the time when Lord Baltimore, the Founder, set about to effect the separation of the functions of the Church and those of the State. Its overt beginning may be traced to the second General Assembly, held in the spring, 1638, when all freemen "were summoned to appear by virtue of writes", which included three Jesuit priests of the province, who asked to be excused on account of sickness. This, perhaps, was not the real reason for their absence, but rather because they were then seeking exemption from taxation, civil and military service and their presence in the Assembly might call undue attention to their desired privileges. It was shortly after this that there sprang up in the colony objections to having clergy taking seats in the Assembly, and it appears to have been the custom to enforce this objection. However, one hundred and thirty-eight years after the above incident, the provision that no ecclesiastic may sit in the Legislature of Maryland was embodied in the Constitution of 1776.

As a further result of the pioneer struggle for freedom of conscience and the separation of Church and State, Maryland has gone a great deal further and provided that no religious body may become the benificiary of a will, receive as a gift or obtain by purchase, any lands, except an actual building site, without the express sanction of the legislature.

Too lengthy to be detailed here, a study of the conditions surrounding our first settlers, the difficulties they encountered "in working out their salvation" their desire for religious tolerence and the bigotry and ingratitude shown by some of the protestant religious sects invited to migrate to Maryland when conditions in other colonies became to them intolerable, will in a large measure account for these unique and sometimes misunderstood provisions in our Constitution.

TAKE TOOTH BRUSH WHEN VACATIONING, IS ADVICE

Should be Used Daily, Health Department States

"When you go away this summer don't forget to take your tooth brush with you. Get a new one before leaving if you haven't bought one recently. But whether it is an old or new brush use it thoroughly, at least twice daily; brush your teeth for no less than three minutes each time; carefully use dental floss to remove food stuff from between the teeth."

These are a few suggestions offered by Dr. Richard C. Leonard, Chief of the Division of Oral Hygiene, of the Maryland State Department of Health, in discussing the relation of mouth cleanliness to mouth and general health. Dr. Leonard added: "Probobly no question is more often asked of practicing dentists than 'what tooth-paste or powder is best?'

"Particular mouth conditions sometimes call for paste or powders of a certain kind. Follow your dentist's advice. But remember that no paste or powder is any better than the manner in which it is used. Highly flavored dentrifrices can give a false sense of cleanliness with but a few seconds of easy brushing. Better three minutes of hard brushing with salt or soda than ten seconds of pleasant, but ineffectual wintergreen.

"Mouth cleanliness is recognized as an important factor in reducing tooth decay. Tooth brushing is a worthwhile twice daily habitto form. But it should not be depended upon alone to safeguard the teeth from decay. That 'Clean teeth never decay' is a dishonest slogan. Cleanliness of such preventive scope is an impossibility. Tooth-brushing and its accompanying mouth cleanliness lessen but do not entirely eliminate the possibility of one's teeth decaying.

"It is only when proper mouth cleanliness habits are combined with a proper tooth-saving diet and proper regulated dental attention that one may consider his or her mouth well guarded. Healthy mouths may be said to depend upon thes trict observance of three habits:

"1. Eating right foods.

"2. Having your teeth examined by a competent dentist at least twice yearly.

"3. Cleansing the teeth and mouth thoroughly at least twice daily."

Sentenced to Two Years in Maryland Penitentiary

At a continuation of the June Term of the Garrett County Circuit Court held yesterday with Judge Albert A. Doub presiding, Adam Jones, 30, of West Virginia, was sentenced to two years in the Maryland Penitentiary, Jones having been found guilty of a charge of abduction and carnal knowledge of a girl, Sylvia Marie Guthrie, 15, of near Oakland.

The girl was committed to the Montrose School for Girls until she arrives at the age of 21.

The case against Jones was held over from the regular June Term of Court on account of the lack of witnesses.

Jones was arrested on March 25, indicted at the last session of the Grand Jury and had been in the County Jail since his apprehension.

Bass Season Is Now Open in Maryland

The 12,000 licensed followers of Izaak Walton in Maryland, since June 30, must shun the trout in streams of the State until April 1, 1931, and confine their angling to bass and other fish which inhabit fresh water, E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden, announced on Tuesday.

The bass season, which opened on July 1, closes November 30, he said. The only variety of trout that will be fair prey for the fishermen during that period, he pointed out, are the rainbows in the Youghiogheny river below Swallow Falls.

Over 53,000 small-mouthed bass and 4,700 large-mouthed bass fingerlings have been dumped into the streams of the State in preparation for the season's opening.

Crellin A. C. Defeats Rowlesburg Nine

The Crellin A. C. nine defeated Rowlesburg A. C. on the local field June 29th by a score of 14-10. Smith on the mound for Rowlesburg was hard hit and was scored upon in each inning except the third. Ayersman lead the slugging for Rowlesburg with three hits in five times up. Sanders and Don Colaw lead the heavy hitting for Crellin, Sanders getting 4 hits in 5 tries and Colaw in four times up gathered 3 hits and a walk. Colaw kept Rowlesburg hits well scattered until the ninth, when Rowlesburg bunch five hits mixed with three infield errors to produce five runs. Colaw had 16 strikeouts while Smith for Rowlesburg had 7.

Marble Champion and Escort Report Fine Trip

James Ryan, Garrett county's champion marble shot, and I desire to thank mayor Stemple and the small group of marble enthusiasts that gave us a send-off the other Saturday evening as we started on our journey to Ocean City, N. J., where the national marble championship was played.

Boarding the train at Oakland we were immediately introduced to the 20 or more marble champs from the mid-Western and Southern cities, who were riding in a special pullman, all happy but anxious for the time to prove their ability to shoot themselves to victory.

The porter aroused us in Philadelphia Sunday morning where we had a delightful breakfast, then were taken to the Reading Terminal where we met the officials of the Marble tournament, and received our credentials and official programs, and then turned over to the officials of the "Evening Bulletin" of Philadelphia whose guests we were for a pilgrimage of the city. We were taken to Independence hall where each champion was allowed to touch the Liberty bell, and a picture taken in the yard in the rear of the Hall. The huge busses took us to the navy yards where the sailor lads piloted us through the yards, explained to the champs in detail the great naval base also the government airplane factory. We were taken to Valley Forge where we were privileged to walk and ride over the same roads and lanes which Washington and his men made famous. We ate our noonday lunch on the hillside where Washington's men were camped, hungry and cold, at the foot of which flowed the river which the general and his men crossed amid floating ice.

In the afternoon we heard the chimes, thirteen in number, one from each of the original states, peal forth their religious notes, and in the shadow of the cathedral we heard the Rector deliver a message that held in awe every middy and his escort.

We returned to Philadelphia where after crossing the river by ferry we boarded a special train for Ocean City, where the mib champs were given a warm welcome by hundreds of summer folk and business people of the city. Soon all were in their hotels ready for a supper specially prepared for the mib kings and their escorts.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings were given over to League championship games, which gave 8 league champions, four representing the East, four the West. Thursday morning these League champs battled for championship, which resulted in James Lee, Columbus, O., and Floyd Walker, Decator, Ill., the champions. Friday afternoon mid the plaudits of thousands, playing of bands, clicking of typewriters, moving picture machines and the voices of the radio announcers broadcasting over the nation play by play, these two lads sternly shot their marbles for the crown, which fell upon the head of the plucky lad, James (Lefty) Lee, of Columbus. Aside from the honor he will receive a steamship trip to South America, up the coast through the Panama, to Central America, to Los Angeles and San Francisco, across the continent to his home.

Each lad entered in these finals received a very fine camera from the Evening Bulletin of Philadelphia, a pocket knife, a pound box of salt-water taffy, an ever sharp pencil and a big turkey supper from the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club and the Kiwanians of Ocean City; a leather marble bag with a collection of more than 100 of the very finest agate marbles from the Arko Agate company of Clarksburg, W. Va. They were given free rides on all concessions on the boardwalk, each of the eight league champs received a 17-jewel gold wrist watch, also an agate statue of a marble shooter.

James Ryan, our Garrett county lad, tied Pittsburgh for fourth place in the South-eastern League. We may all feel proud of our first champ. He was popular with the fans, and received many well earned applauds. He wants to thank the Oakland Rotary Club for its courtesy to him.

This ought be an Inspiration to the boys and girls of Garrett county and ought bring keen rivalry for the next championship. The champion of next year will receive even more than the one this year, so get out your marbles

GREAT AMONG WORLD'S GREATEST

No Death for Great Pioneer of Democracy

"Thomas Jefferson still survives." History has handed down to us those words as the last that were spoken by John Adams. Let them be our text on the one hundred and fourth anniversary of the death of the two men.

At the approach of the semicentenary of the Declaration of Independence in 1826 the American people turned their eyes and thoughts to two aged fellow-citizens: Jefferson, the author of the Declaration, and Adams, whom Jefferson himself had variously described as "the pillar of its support on the floor of congress," "its ablest advocate and defender," "our colossus," "our bulwark in debate." The first had turned eighty-three, and the latter was more than half way along in his ninety-first year. Although it was well known that both were too feeble to be included in the plans which were forming for the public celebration of that specially glorious Fourth, they were present and uppermost in every mind, and the country looked with a certain awe upon those two living witnesses to the nation's birth, those spared monuments of an historic past.

Politics had divided and bitterly estranged the pair, but in their retirement from the political arena they had become reconciled and had returned to their early esteem for each other, when they labored together for a common end. "I always loved Jefferson," said Adams, and of Adams, Jefferson said only two years before he died: "Fortune had disjoined our affections, but we re-embraced with cordiality, recalled our ancient feelings and dispositions and everything was forgotten but our first sympathies."

Adams' Last Words.

Five days before that fiftieth birthday of the nation, Adams was visited by a fellow-townsman in Quincy and invited to join in the celebration of the day. It was plain to be seen that the nonagenarian could not accept the invitation, but instead he gave his caller this toast for the occasion:

"Independence Forever!"

The Fourth came. While millions of his countrymen were commemorating the day, "with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations," as Adams himself had prescribed on the first Fourth, 50 years before, and while the people of Quincy still lingered at the banquet table, where they had drunk his toast, their illustrious neighbor sank to rest from his long and troubled life as the sun went down behind the Blue Hills. It was under those circumstances that he said, as the watchers by his bedside understood his last audible words, "Thomas Jefferson still survives."

Jefferson's Last Hours.

Jefferson really had lost that final race with his friend of half a century. For he had died near 1:00 o'clock, some six hours earlier. As his life ebbed his last thoughts also were of the Fourth. The evening before, on coming out of a stupor, he inquired:

"Is it the Fourth?"

"It soon will be," the doctor replied.

At 11 o'clock that night he rallied again and whispered inquiringly: "This is the Fourth?"

His grandson-in-law nodded a white lie and was rewarded by a sigh of satisfaction, "Ah!"

Soon the mind of the sage wandered off to the stirring period of the first Fourth. Sitting up in bed, he went through the motions of writing, and he was heard to mutter that the Committee of Safety should be warned. A rebel and revolutionary to the last!

Conservative-Progressive.

John Adams erred in a small way, but spoke the larger truth, when he said: "Thomas Jefferson still survives." He survives even unto this day, when the country marks the one hundred and fifty-fourth anniversary of the Declaration and the one hundred and fourth of its author's death. His survival is explained by the last letter he wrote on the subject of the Declaration ten days before he died:

"May it be to the world, what I believe it to be (to some parts sooner, to others later, and finally to all) the signal of arousing men to burst their chains, under which ignorance and superstition had persuaded them to bind themselves, and to assume the blessings and security of self-government. . . . All eyes are opened or are opening to the rights of man. The general spread of the light of science has already laid open to every view the palpable truth that the mass of mankind have not been born with saddles on their backs, nor a favored few booted and spurred ready to ride them legitimately, by the grace of God."

Contrast in Characters.

Fifty years had not rusted the pen of '76. Contrast that sentiment, which the author of the Declaration offered for his last Fourth, with Adams' toast, and we find the key to the secret of Jefferson's survival. To one, the day commemorated a fight that was ended and a local fight at that . . . for American independence. Thus, the conservative holding to the past. To the other, the fight had only begun, and it would go on until "the mass of mankind" had won independence, had "burst their chains" and the whole world had achieved "self-government." Thus the progressive, looking to the future.

Jefferson believed, as strongly as Hamilton, in the rule of an aristocracy, but of a real aristocracy. And right here is where democracy has failed him most often, in its proneness to accept the rule of mediocrity. In letters to Adams, he set forth his views on this subject:

"Nature has wisely provided an aristocracy of virtue and talent for the direction of the interests of society, and SCATTERED IT WITH EQUAL HAND THROUGH ALL ITS CONDITIONS. . . . There is also an artificial aristocracy, founded on wealth and birth, without either virtue or talent. . . . May we not even say that the form of government is the best which provides the most effectually for the pure selection of these natural aristoi into the offices? . . . In general, they (the people) will elect the really good and wise. . . . It suffices for us, if the moral and physical condition of our own citizens qualifies them to select the able and the good for the direction of their government."

Had Faith in People.

Does not the mere restatement of that high hope of the father of American democracy sound to us like biting irony, a bitter satire? The capacity of the people to choose the best is the keystone in the arch of the democratic system. How often do we fail to live up to Jefferson's belief in us! Yet the basis of his political philosophy was his trust in the people, and the whole of his philosophy may be summarized in a few words chosen from his writing:

"The will of the majority, the natural law of every society, is the only sure guardian of the rights of man. Perhaps even this may sometimes err, but its errors are honest, solitary and short lived."

People Responded.

Jefferson was the first responsible political leader anywhere to hazard a transfer of government from its ancient base, on the shoulders of the privileged few, to the broader base of a people's will. It is difficult for us to imagine now how hazardous it was for that political pioneer to stake all his ambitions upon an appeal to the yet untrained, inexperienced, inarticulate, inert mass; to trust them to respond to ideas and ideals, and without the stimulus of hands and torches. It was a bold act of faith, and the people justified it by following his leadership for 25 years as they never have followed another.

Perhaps the people would meet that test as well now, if another Jefferson should pay them the compliment of so great a trust in their common sense.—James Morgan, in the Boston Sunday Globe.

Lesson for July 6

ABRAHAM, A PIONEER OF FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 12:1-3; 13: 1-12; 14:14-16; 17:1-8; Heb. 11:8-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Pleasing God by Obedience.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Abraham, the Pioneer.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Pioneering in an Unknown Country.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Man Who Found Friendship with God.

I. Abraham's Call (12:1).

Abraham's ancestors were idolatrous. God came unto him in Ur of the Chaldees and said unto him,

1. "Get thee out of thy country." It was necessary for him to break the strong attachments which bound him.

2. Get thee out "from thy kindred." He was not only to leave behind him his native land, but his relatives as well. His kindred being idolaters, he must separate himself from them.

3. "Into a land that I will show thee." He was not told what or where the land was.

II. God's Covenant with Abraham (12:2, 3; 17:1-8).

1. What God promised to Abraham. (1) To make him the father of a great posterity (v. 2). This has been literally fulfilled. (2) To make his name great (v. 2). No name in all history equals that of Abraham in its honorable influence. It is revered among Jews, Mohammedans and Christians. They all acknowledge him as father. (3) A blessing to others (vv. 2, 3). He was not only to become great and share God's blessings, but to be a blessing to others.

2. The land given unto him (17:8). Although Abraham was a pilgrim, he was permitted to sojourn in the land. The land itself was given to his seed, Israel—God's chosen and most favored nation. The nation to which He came nearest and gave most, in order that it might pass on his goodness to the other nations of the world, was given the most strategic position in the earth.

While the Hebrews have failed in the fulfillment of their divinely appointed task and the world is in chaos because of it, they shall go back to their old land and fulfill their divinely appointed task.

III. Abraham's Generous Treatment of Lot (13:1-12; 14:4-16).

While Abraham sojourned in Egypt, having gone there because of the famine in Canaan, he grew rich in worldly goods. Because of his deception of the king, he was thrust out of Egypt when the truth became known.

1. Abraham and Lot separate (vv. 5-12).

Seeing that their temporal relations would engender strife and provoke quarreling, and knowing the disastrous effect upon the heathen round about, Abraham gave Lot his choice. Though Lot owed everything to Abraham, his selfish heart moved him to grasp for the best, and his decision ultimately brought him to grief. He prospered for awhile, but eventually not only his goods, but he himself and his family were taken away by the confederate kings who came against Sodom.

2. Abraham delivers Lot (14:14-16). Though Lot's trouble was the fruit of his own sowing, Abraham's magnanimity of soul moved him to take up arms and deliver Lot from the oppressor. While Lot suffered from his selfish choice, Abraham prospered.

IV. Abraham's Faith (Heb. 11:8-10).

I. Its source (v. 8).

The word of God. Faith takes God at His word.

2. Its practice (vv. 9, 10).

Abraham never settled down, even in the land of promise. He was a true pilgrim. He was content to pass through the land because his eyes were fixed on "a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God."

V. Abraham Tested (Heb. 11:17-19).

1. At the command of God he offered up Isaac (v. 17).

He went out from the country in obedience to God. He laid down his son on the altar in obedience to God.

2. The promise of blessing was wrapped up in Isaac (v. 18).

The promise involved this particular child, not just any descendant.

3. The supreme venture (v. 19).

He so completely trusted God that he went all the way. He believed that God would raise up Isaac from the dead in order to make good His promise.

One of His Heroes

To go on cheerfully with a petty round of little duties, little avocations, to smile for the joy of others when the heart is aching . . . who does this, his works will follow him. He may not be a hero to the world, but he is one of God's heroes.—Doctor Farrar.

Asking God's Guidance

There is nothing so small but that we honor God by asking his guidance in it, or insult Him by taking it into our own hands.—John Ruskin.

"THE TIMES THAT TRIED MEN'S SOULS"

The upper photograph is the re-enactment of the famous midnight ride in which Revere stirred the Minute Men to action as he warned them of the coming of the British. On the lower left is St. James Episcopal church, Cambridge, Mass., which still summons its congregation with the dulcet notes of the bell on the right, one of the sixty church bells cast by the hero-artist. In the lower middle is an artist's visualization of the ride as Paul Revere spurred his steed over the roads to "Middlesex, village and farm." The ride has been beautifully described in Longfellow's famous poem.

On January 1, 1930, many patriots celebrated the one hundred and ninety-fifth anniversary of the birth of Paul Revere, Revolutionary war hero, who has been immortalized in song and story. Many people do not know that even before his historic ride in 1775 the hero had gained a reputation of being one of the finest silversmiths of the time. Examples of his handicraft are greatly prized by museums and public collections and prove that Revere's name would have lived in the world of art without the fame he added to it..

The Legend of Who Killed Braddock

STORY THAT ONE OF OWN MEN SHOT HIM IS REVIVED ON BATTLE ANNIVERSARY

From The Sunday Sun, Baltimore

On July 8 and 9 the towns of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin, suburbs of Pittsburgh, will celebrate the one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the Battle of Monongahela, or "Braddock's Defeat," as it is better known. The federal government is to be represented, as are Virginia and Maryland.

The coming celebration has revived the yarn that grew out of the death of Maj.-Gen. Edward Braddock—a story that conflicts with the accepted version. History asserts the English commander's death was caused by a French or an Indian bullet. Gossip of Braddock's day says he was murdered by Private Thomas Fawcet, Forty-eighth English Regulars. In fact, Private Fawcet, (whose name also may be spelled Fausett, Fossit, Faucett or Faucet) is said to have boasted of the killing.

Braddock was born in Pertshire, in Scotland, about 1695, followed his father into the Coldstream Guards, a regiment famous even then, and won his way through the various grades, gaining the rank of lieutenant-colonel by distinguished service at the battle of Fontenoy in 1745. September 24, 1754, found him a major-general of the line, appointed as commander-in-chief of the English forces in America, with orders to destroy French power in the New World.

Little is known of Fawcet's early history. It is certain, however, that he did not enjoy the same refinements of education and society as had been Braddock's portion. He is believed to have been born in the sparsely settled country which today is West Virginia. Large, muscular and illiterate, he is described as having been a man of rough habits, his character, as well as his physical being, toughened by the hard life of the trail; his wits sharpened by the rather personal necessity of keeping his scalp in its proper place.

General Braddock reached America February 20, 1775, and made his headquarters at Alexandria, Va. During the spring of that year he planned the campaign which he believed would accomplish his mission. Fort Duquesne, at the junction of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, held by the French and considered the key to control of the rich Ohio Valley, was one of his principal objectives. He considered its capture to be an easy task. "After taking Fort Duquesne," Braddock is quoted by Bancroft as telling Franklin, "I am to proceed to Niagara and, having taken that, to Frontenac. Duquesne can hardly detain me above three or four days, and then I can see nothing that can obstruct my march to Niagara."

Now enters Fawcet on the scene. Lured by the sixpence a day offered by English recruiting details, he and Joseph, his younger brother, enlisted to fight the French. They joined up at Shippensburg, Pa., and were assigned to the Forty-eighth English Regulars.

On July 8 the expedition arrived at the fork of the Monongahela and the Youghiogheny rivers, site of the present city of McKeesport. Not more than twelve miles down the Monongahela, in the depths of the forest, was Fort Duquesne. July 9 the army forded the Monongahela and proceeded along its south bank. About noon the army again forded the Monongahela, crossing over to its north bank. Fort Duquesne was some seven miles distant, and yet no sign of the enemy.

English regulars were brilliant in their scarlet uniforms. Polished bayonets caught and reflected the rays of the sun as they filtered down thru the leaves. Virginians, angry, sensing an ambush, scanned the forests. Braddock, brave but stubborn, in full uniform and bright red sash, rode with his troops; a young Virginia major named Washington warned him of the danger which might be behind each tree and rock and bush, but Gen. Braddock, wise in European technique disregarded the warning—not a thing could stand before his well-trained and well-disciplined English regulars.

Suddenly that which Washington warned of became a reality. Then was born the story of Private Thomas Fawcet and Maj.-Gen. Edward Braddock. Braddock and his men marched straight into the trap set for them by the French and their Indian allies. Each rock and tree and bush seemed to belch forth leaden death. The surprise attack threw the English veterans into confusion. Discipline gained the upper hand for a time and from close formation the regulars fired at their unseen foes, but in that fatal formation they began falling like the leaves from trees in late autumn. No enemy was visible and the very mystery of this style of fighting seemed more than the regulars could stand. Their lines wavered once more and the men broke into little groups. Washington and other officers vainly asked Braddock to allow his men to take cover.

"Fight like English soldiers—in the open," was the veteran's only reply. Still on his horse he set the example.

The battle developed into a slaughter and panic seized even the veteran troops. They began firing at random, in the air, into groups of their comrades, anywhere in the hope of halting that unseen foe. Braddock was in the thick of it—still stubborn but courageous.

"Some of the Virginia soldiers, essaying to fight the enemy frontier fashion, broke ranks and deployed in skirmish line, utilizing every bit of cover; but Braddock, with many a good military oath, called them back to the ranks; some of the regulars also trying to do the same thing, he beat them back to their close formation with his sword." These words of Channing, the historian, coincide with the language of those who have chronicled the adventures of the Fawcets, for the fact that "he beat them back to their close formation with his sword," is the basis of the Fawcet legend.

Untutored though they were in the science of European military tactics, the Fawcet brothers understood the style of fighting they were up against. To fight the Indian in his own way was their rule and they proceeded to follow it by taking cover. Braddock, busy flaying his men, is said to have struck down Joseph with the flat of his sword. Thomas, fighting from behind a tree, saw his brother fall and, believing the English general had killed him, Tom raised his rifle, took careful aim and fired. Braddock fell from his horse mortally wounded. So runs the local tradition.

The commander, history relates, was removed from the field and carried back to Dunbar's camp where he died, muttering his belated discovery that "We shall know better how to deal with them another time." His grave was dug in the center of the road and next day the feet of his retreating army passed over it, effectually obliterating any evidence that beneath the roadway lay the remains of the defeated leader. But Private Tom Fawcet and Maj.-Gen. Edward Braddock were not yet finished with one another.

James Hadden, of Uniontown, Pa., near where rest the alleged remains of the English general and also those of Fawcet, in his "Washington and Braddock Expeditions," written in the year 1911, pictures Fawcet aroused by "the striking down of his brother for no other offense than that of fighting in the only successful manner against the Indians. This was too much for a man of his temperament to stand and he determined at once to have revenge and at the same time to put an end to the terrible carnage for which the officers had pleaded in vain. He raised the gun and sent the deadly missile crashing through the right arm into the lungs of Braddock. While this rash act of Fawcet can never be palliated, but deserves hearty condemnation, the love he bore toward his comrades and his admiration of Washington appealed to his untutored mind and brutal instinct more forcibly than his loyalty to his commander.

One war seemingly was enough for Private Fawcet, for there is no record of his having served in the Revolution. Toward the close of the eighteenth century he seems to have bobbed up in the capacity of tavern keeper on Laurel Hill, some miles east of Uniontown. While acting the role of host he is said to have frequently entertained his guests with the story of how he killed Braddock. He excused the deed by claiming it was instrumental in saving the remnant of Braddock's army.

In 1804, again quoting Hadden, one Abraham Steward, road supervisor of Wharton township, was repairing a road about nine miles east of Uniontown. Fawcet, a very old man then, joined him. "If you'll dig right there" Hadden quotes him as saying as he indicated the spot, "you'll find the bones of General Braddock."

Fawcet was right, Hadden says, for the workmen uncovered a skeleton. Lying about it were the trappings of an English general, red sash and all. The remains were reinterred in a new grave and a marker erected on the spot. Private Thomas Fawcet, late of the Forty-eighth English Regulars, and Major-General Edward Braddock had met for the last time.

Fawcet seemed doomed to go on forever, garrulous and ever repeating to each succeeding generation his story of that eventful day in July of 1755. Fayette county records reveal that he was alive in 1819—a public charge. "Since there were no poorhouses in those days," writes W. S. Rafferty, of Connellsville, Pa., in a 1926 issue of the Baltimore and Ohio Magazine, "he (Fawcet) was sold each year to the lowest bidder." Records show that on March 20, 1812, a James Wear agreed to keep Fawcet for one year for the sum of $37.55, exclusive of clothing. The next year Samuel Spaugh agreed to keep the old man for the same sum. In 1814 the cost went up to $57, but by 1819 it had fallen to $28, to which was added, according to the auditor's report, 50 cents for noticing his sale and 25 cents for tobacco."

The coming celebration recalls a somewhat similar event on October 15, 1913, one in which Braddock again had the spotlight. On that day a notable company gathered at a point on the National Highway eight miles east of Uniontown. Among those present were Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alfred Edward Dodrington, former colonel of the Coldstream Guards, Braddock's old regiment; John K. Tener, then Governor of Pennsylvania; the late Senator P. C. Knox and representatives of the British Embassy in Washington. They were assembled to dedicate an imposing monument set down in the midst of a public park of some twenty-five acres.

"Here lieth the remains of Major-General Edward Braddock, who, in command of the Forty-fourth and the Forty-eighth Regiments of English Regulars, was mortally wounded in an engagement with the French and Indians under the command of M. de Beaujeau, at the battle of the Monongahela, within 10 miles of Fort Duquesne, now Pittsburgh, July 9, 1755."

A hundred feet distant is a small tablet. It announces:

"This tablet marks the spot where Major-General Edward Braddock was buried July 14, 1755. His remains were removed in 1804 to the site of the present monument."

That is the year Fawcet is credited with pointing out Braddock's first grave.

On the outskirts of Ohio Pyle Falls, Pa., some five miles distant from the Braddock memorial, is a very old burying ground—the Rush Graveyard. There is a headstone tells the world that

Tho. Faucet
died
Mar. 23
1822
Age 109

And so, not many miles apart, if the inscriptions on monument and the headstone are correct, Major-General Edward Bradock and Private Tom Fawcet are making their last camp.

Beyond the County

Yesterday, June 25, was the 118th anniversary of the official opening of the War of 1812. The records today disclose the fact that there are nine widows of soldiers who fought in that war who are still living and drawing a pension of $50 each per month.

On June 28, the Tom Green, stern wheeler, and the Betsy Ann, historic old river packet, will race from near Cincinnati, Ohio, a distance of 22 miles to near Coney Island..

At New Haven, Conn., Ray D. Span, escaped lunatic, while on a picnic, hurled his wife and four children to their death from the top of West Rock, their bodies being found 200 feet below. Span then leaped to his own death.

Ex-President Coolidge, beginning on July 1, will contribute daily articles to a syndicate of papers, six days a week, averaging from 150 to 200 words, on subjects to be chosen by himself.

At Baltimore, William "Wee Willie," alleged Chicago gunman, was found guilty Friday of participating in the Henry Sonneborn Company payroll robbery in 1926, and faces life in prison.

A Frenchman has perfected a special book, printed on waterproof paper with waterproof ink, which can not be damaged by soap, to be used by bathers.

In Virginia, a doctor, giving a ride to a hitch-hiker, missed his watch. Thinking the hiker had stolen it he held him up with a gun and relieved him of a watch. Arriving home he found it was not his watch. He had left it at home that morning.

At Holyoke, England, Bobby Jones, America's wonder golfer, won his third open British championship crown last Friday.

At Washington, disregarding the wishes of President Hoover, the Senate on Monday passed by a vote of 66 to 6 the House Bill liberalizing provisions of the World War Veterans' Act.

Sixteen years ago next Saturday, Serojevo, capital of Bosina, Jugoslavia, the shot was fired that killed Archduke Francis Joseph, nephew of the Austrian Emperor Francis Joseph II, and started the World War, the most colossal conflict in history.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Pollard, Jr., and son, Walter W. III, and Mrs. Walter Pollard, Sr., are the house guests of Mrs. William Skyles.

Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr have returned to the Park from a motor trip in the South.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Fleming, of Fairmont, were guests of friends here on Sunday.

Mrs. Bolgiano and family, are in their cottage at Loch Lynn for the summer months, having arrived a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Haymond and sons, Tom and Bill, and the mother of Mrs. Haymond, Mrs. Thomas W. Arnett, of Fairmont, motored to the Park Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Welch and two sons, Robert and Donald, of Akron, Ohio, are here for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Chance.

Mr. Wiley W. Welling, who has been in Cumberland for a number of weeks working at his trade, returned home Tuesday.

Mrs. Harry Brand, New York, has opened her cottage for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wooden, cottagers at the Park, are in Atlantic City for a few weeks.

The many friends of Mrs. Dortha Simpson Lovette were shocked to learn of her death, which occurred at her home in Cincinnati on Saturday, June 21. She was the daughter of Mrs. William Simpson, who, together with her late husband, have been summer residents of the Park for a number of years.

The National Publishing Company is now located in its new offices in the C. P. Martin building.

Considering the population, we still contend that business at Oakland and in Mountain Lake Park, is far above the average, judging from the general newspaper reports of other places.

The grounds and auditorium were fairly well filled last Sunday by people who came from every point of the compass to attend the annual camp meeting in which there seems to be a sustained interest. It is predicted that next Sabbath will see a record breaking attendance.

Miss Margaret Leighton, who spent a week in Washington, D. C., returned home on Sunday. On Wednesday preceding her return she was bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Mildred Hyslop, of Hyattsville, a sorority sister of Miss Leighton, and Mr. Raymond Harrington, of College Park, which was solemnized in the First Presbyterian church at Hyattsville.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The following is a resume of a letter received from Mr. C. E. Ellithorp, Bittinger, during his trip to Minnesota last month. The letter gives an insight into the kind of country visited and the crops raised.

To the Editor of The Republican:

Mr. S. E. Broadwater, his son, daughter-in-law and grandson, of Salisbury, Pa., and I left Grantsville Tuesday morning, June 3, via Uniontown, Brownsville, Washington, and crossed the Ohio river at Steubenville, stopping at Fort Wayne, Ind., for the evening having traveled a distance of more than 400 miles. We left Fort Wayne Wednesday morning arriving in Chicago at 2 p. m. where we went through the stock yards. They must be seen to realize how large they are. They kill each day 3,600 cattle, 1,600 hogs and 1,000 sheep. Nothing goes to waste, only the squeal.

We drove to Freeport on Thursday where we got a taste of Illinois mud. Stopped at Galend, Ill., to see U. S. Grant's old home. Everything is as it was when he lived there. Crossed the Mississippi river at Debuque, Iowa, turned north at Waterloo, Ia., and arrived at our destination in Minnesota.

The crops in Eastern Ohio look bad but as we got farther west things looked better. There was no fruit, a few sour cherries in Indiana being about all. Corn was good but small, owing to dry and cool weather.

After spending a week in Fullmore county we drove 100 miles north of St. Paul, at Tamarack Lake, where the rest are fishing. Hope to be able to tell some big fish stories later. There are mosquitoes here and large ones, lots of them would weigh a pound.

Made a trip to Turkey river in Iowa and saw some famous clocks which had been made with a pocket knife, and must be seen to be appreciated.

Went to Fort Atkinson where there are three block houses of stone the walls of which are three feet thick. The port holes in the walls are V-shaped. We also saw the smallest church in the world. It is built of stone with walls about two feet thick. It is 16 feet by 20 feet on the outside, has four seats and two people can sit comfortably on each seat.

Currant Jelly

Pick the currants when dry and wash them. Squeeze or mash into preserving kettle and add one-fourth to one-half cup of water to the pound of fruit. Cook slowly until the skins look shriveled and empty. Strain through a colander and allow the juice to drip through a jelly bag. Measure back into the kettle, bring quickly to the boiling point and boil 5 minutes. Add measure for measure of sugar. Boil a few minutes longer and test with a spoon. When the drops run together and form a sheet take the jelly at once from the fire. Remove the skum and pour into clean hot jelly glasses. Cover with melted paraffine and when the seal it firm cover label with date and name of jelly and store in a cool dry place.

Bar Le Duc Currants or Gooseberries

Select large perfect currants or gooseberries and with tiny scissors carefully cut the skin on one side, making a slit about ¼ inch. Through this, with a sharp needle, remove the seeds, being careful to preserve the shape of the fruit. Weigh the fruit, and heat an equal amount of strained honey. Add the fruit. Let simmer for 3 or 4 minutes. Remove fruit with a skimmer to tiny hot jars. Keep hot. Reduce the syrup, simmering gently, to the desired consistency. Pour over the fruit and seal. These are the finest of their kind and have been imported at extravagant prices.

Black Raspberry Jam

Pick over berries and to wash them place in a bowl of cold water and lift with the hands as a sieve to a second bowl of water, or use a colander in a large bowl of water. Drain. Mash a few in the bottom of a preserving kettle and continue until the fruit is used. Heat slowly to the boiling point and add gradually an equal quantity by weight of heated sugar. Cook slowly 45 minutes. Pour into glass jars or a stone jar. Cover with melted paraffin.

THE REAL "RED PERIL."

"The presence in the United States of several hundred thousand subjects and sympathizers of the Russian dictatorship, with its avowed purpose of overthrowing the American government by violence, is a real peril," writes George B. Lockwood in the National Republic. "True it is scoffed at by the uninformed, the indifferent and the flippant. Those who oppose the growth of this movement are attacked and ridiculed by the tools and the dupes of this gigantic conspiracy against civilization, unlike anything that has ever appeared before to threaten the safety of religion, the family and free government.

"But a still greater peril is the aid and comfort being given this sworn enemy of civilization by American big business, greedy for immediate profits and careless of ultimate consequences," continues the writer. "Hundreds of millions of American dollars, the best American engineering skill, American patents and American efficiency methods are being poured into Russia to arm the Moscow masters for an economic conquest of the world. The far-sighted masters of international communism confidently expect this attack will serve as a barrage under cover of which insurrection and invasion will complete the allotted task of bringing all the world under the red banner of bolshevism. In this they are right, if this help be continued.

"Without investment, because property has been expropriated, and with an unlimited quantity of serf labor, as fully the absolute property of the state, and with all revenues accruing directly to the dictatorship, the Moscow masters have two chief objectives in this develpoment, first, the filling of the Moscow war chest for the maintenance of the biggest army in the world and the furtherance of its conspiracy abroad through scores of thousands of revolutionary agents for armed insurrection in all foreign countries; second, the use of the agricultural and industrial output of the soviet system to flood the markets of the world with commodities dumped, if necessary, below the beggarly cost, to produce unemployment in other countries and thus prepare the ground for the seed of revolution. * * *

"The activity of American international capitalists and industrialists in arming Russia for world economis conquest is only the climax of the general movement in this quarter to reduce the American farmer and wage earner to the economical level of the coolies, peasants and peons of other lands, as illustrated in the export of more than two thousand industrial plants to the cheap labor markets abroad during the past few years, and the consequent assault now being made by these international financiers and manufacturers on tariff rates which will approximate the difference in labor costs at home and abroad. It is of a piece with the tremendous movement to involve the United States in the political and economical system of Europe and the world generally at the sacrifice of our own prosperity, security, and standards of living, in accordance with the Third Article, the crux of the League of Nations covenant, in favor of the removal of all trade barriers and the creation of 'equality of economic opportunity' among nations. If these industrialists and financiers would look beyond immediate profits they would realize that their program means such a degradation of the standards of American life that it would result in the overthrow of our present system of representative government and individualism, and the substitution of a socialist world dictatorship. It would kill the goose that laid all their golden eggs. But what is far more important to patriotic Americans, it would extirpate America."

Mr. George A. White, Deer Park, was a business caller at The Republican office this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, of Holiday's Cove, W. Va., arrived this morning to spend a few days with the latter's mother, Mrs. E. H. Smouse and other relatives.

HOMECOMINGCELEBRATION CONSIDERED BIG SUCCESS

Largest Crowd Ever in Oakland, Said to be Here on July 4—Plenty of Amusements

DRUM CORPS FEATURED

The largest crowd ever in Oakland for a celebration of any kind, was here for the three-day homecoming under the joint auspices of the Proctor Kildow Post of American Legion and the Oakland Volunteer Fire department, July 3, 4, and 5.

It is estimated that more than 12,000 people were here for the festivities on July 4, Legion Day, which began at about noon and continued throughout the rest of the day and evening.

Mayor Thomas W. Koon, Cumberland, arrived about noon, followed shortly afterward by the Municipal Band of Cumberland. The Keystone Attractions company furnished amusement throughout the afternoon until 6:30 then the parade, said to be the largest ever held in Oakland. took place.

The parade consisted of the following: W. H. Hinebaugh and A. R. Martin, marshals; Sergeant Kries, of the State police; the Mayor and Town Council; color bearers from Proctor Kildow Post of Oakland, Cumberland Municipal band, Gilbert-Brown Boys' band of Oakland; Thomas Scout troop, S. S. Crouse Post 181 and Drum corps of Somerset, Pa.; float of Ladies' auxiliary of the Oakland Legion; Bells' Studio float, Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum Corps of Cumberland; Civic club of Oakland float, Taylor County Post No. 12, Drum Corps of Grafton, W. Va., Rotary club of Oakland float, Farraday Post No. 24, Drum Corps of Frostburg; Post No. 22, American Legion of Davis, W. Va.; Earl H. Opel Post, No. 459, Drum Corps of Sallsbury, Pa.; Proctor Kildow Post of American Legion of Oakland; Oakland Bakery float, health nurse float, Stanton Taxi and Transfer float.

Farraday Post of Frostburg won the first prize of $100.00, and Henry Hart Post, V. F. W., of Cumberland, received the second prize of $50.00, Earl H. Opel post of Salisbury, Pa., placed third.

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock a parade was held consisting of fire departments as follows: Midland, with truck and 24 men; Thomas, with truck and 14 men; Tri-Towns, with truck and 12 men; Frostburg, with truck and 16 men; Terra Alta, with truck and 16 men; Barton, with truck and 24 men; Oakland, with two trucks and 28 men. The Tri-Towns band, Crellin Boys' Band, Terra Alta High School Band, and the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band were in line of parade besides other floats of the day previous.

Terra Alta fire company was awarded first prize, Barton, second, and Frostburg, third. Miss Belle Prichard, of Mt. Lake Park, was awarded the Frigidaire which was given away on Saturday evening. Thomas troop of Boy Scouts was presented with a $10 gold piece.

Both the American Legion and Fire department members wish to thank the citizens of Oakland, Garrett county and surrounding counties for their assistance in making the celebration a huge success, and they especially want to thank those who gave contributions and who decorated their places of business the three days.

Scout Benefit Picture to Raise Money for Annual Outing

In order to raise sufficient funds to take care of the summer outing of the Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, to be held the first two weeks in August, a benefit picture will be held in the Maryland theatre, Oakland, on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 22 and 23.

The picture to be presented has been nationally advertised as a headline attraction and will be "The Taming of the Shrew," starring Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. Admission will be 25 and 50 cents.

"It is necessary to raise approximately $325 each year to defray expenses of camp," the scoutmaster pointed out. Each boy, if he is able, pays $5 for the two weeks outing, but this is not sufficient for all expenses and it is necessary that $200 be raised in some other way. It is hoped that everybody will respond by attending or purchasing a ticket.

PREMIUM LIST FOR FAIR IS NOW UNDER PREPARATION

Has Been Somewhat Revised—Will Be Issued in Shor tTime

Work on the premium list and catalog for the fourteenth annual Garrett County fair to be held in Oakland September 16, 17, 18 and 19, is now under way, according to H. M. Spicher, general manager.

The premium list has been somewhat revised, Mr. Speieher stated, and will be published in a short time so that everyone can prepare his exhibits.

Anyone wishing to offer special premiums at the Fair this year should see Mr. Sepicher or notify The Republican, where the premium list and catalog will be published. There will be no direct solicitation for special prizes this year, Mr. Speieher stated.

The dates for the Fair this year were set after the weather report for past years had been inspected, when it was found that the week of September 15 was the best week on record in 16 years, and these dates were chosen in the hope that fair weather might prevail.

47TH CAMP MEETING AT MT. LAKE PARK CLOSES

Attendance Is Largest in Several Years—Pittsburgh Epworth Leaguers Now In Session

Sunday brought to a close the forty-seventh annual Mt. Lake Park Camp Meeting, which has been the largest attended meeting held in several years, according to those present. The attendance was especially good on Sunday, June 29, Sunday, July 6, and Friday, July 4.

The sermons preached were highly interesting and the meetings as a result were of the highest type. Speakers who were listed on the program ineluded Rev. John L. Brasher, Rev. William Heslop, missionary and evangelist; Rev. John Fleming, evangelist; Prof. and Mrs. Kenneth Wells, professor of music; C. A. Lovejoy, C. M. Hood, W. M. Castle, Dr. Charles A. Tindley, colored minister of Phialdelphia, Pa.; Rev. Andrew Dolbow, Wilmington, Del.; Mr. J. P. Bohlander; Mrs. Charles Block, young people's leader; Miss Minnie Shay, children's leader, and others.

Epworth League Meets

Approximately 400 are registered for the Pittsburgh Conference Epworth League, which is being held at the Park during the present week. The Epworth League is the official society of the young people of the Methodist Episcopal church throughout the United States, and the different districts, as a part of their work, hold annual summer institutes, two of which are held each year at the Park.

The Pittsburgh conference is in its twenty-third year and the faculty ineludes Dr. J. D. Piper, J. B. Magee, Dr. J. S. Payton, Rev. S. W. Boyd, Dr. N. H. Sanner, Dr. S. W. Trosh, W. L. Hogg, Mrs. W. G. Shontz, Miss Ina White, C. A. Miller, Miss Julia Hudepohl, David S. Ewing. Dr. Trosh delivered the opening address on Monday evening.

The Baltimore conference will hold its fifteenth annual institute Monday, July 21, to Monday, July 28. Five hundred are expected to attend. Dr. Edwin N. Parrish will be the Dean, supported by an able faculty.

Race With Sheriff Ends Disastrously for Ohio Pair

Getting the racing fever on the National Highway east of Grantsville, at a time when Sheriff W. D. Casteel was passing in his automobile, turned out to be "bad business' Monday night for George Putton and Ned Stuten, both of Columbus, Ohio.

Passing Sheriff Casteel's car several times, stopping and then repassing him, seemingly in a right hilarious mood, did not seem to please the sheriff who gave chase.

The chase ended at Casselman bridge, the well known structure that comes to a peak in the center of it, which the men attempted to mount at approximately 70 miles per hour. The car was considerably damaged and the two men were brought to Oakland and charged with driving under the influence of liquor and for reckless driving.

At a hearing on Tuesday morning they were fined $100 and costs on the first charge and $5 and costs on the second.

MISSION SCHOOL TO HOLD 14TH SESSION AUG. 3–8

Nationally Known Speakers Scheduled for Annual Meeting At Mt. Lake Park This Year

The fourteenth session of the Mt. Lake Park Interdenominational Summer School of Missions will be held this year August 3 to 8 inclusive, at Mt. Lake Park, and will include a school for seniors, young people and juniors. A faculty of nationally known specialists has been provided for this school.

The speakers will include Miss Helen M. Brickman, director of India work, New York City; Mrs. Dan Brummitt, ehairman of jubilee committee of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the M. E. church; Mrs. W. T. Elmore, missionary, author traveler; Mrs. C. K. Lippard, general light brigade superintendent of the United Lutheran church in America; Dr. Oscar T. Olson, Baltimore; Dr. F. I. Johnson, business manager Board of Foreign Missions, M. E. church; Dr. W. M. Danner, general secretary American Mission to lepers; Miss Esperanza Abellera, youth leader in Philippines, now attending Columbia university; Dr. W. C. Waltmeyer, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. C. Richard Hall, West Virginia Womans' Christian Temperance Union; Mrs. Maud F. Roby, member of the storytelling profession, Baltimore; and Mrs. F. I. Johnson, president Federation of Woman's Boards of Foreign Missions.

In connection with the Summer School of Missions "Camp Gleam," a camp for girls, will be conducted under the direction of Miss Anna Shaw, of Round Bay, Md. Leaders and instructors for the camp will include Mrs. Dan Brummitt, Mrs. W. T. Elmore and Mrs. F. I. Johnson. A daily routine consisting of study, recreation, walks and talks witn missionaries, classes, etc., will be followed. It is urged by the sponsors of the camp and school that all church societies send delegates for the week's outing and instruction.

Other officers of the summer school of missions are Mrs. B. H. Sincell, Oakland, general chairman; Mrs. F. I. Johnson, New York, program chairman; Mrs. J. L. Stratton, Newcastle, Pa., treasurer.

The Mountain Lake Park Summer School of Missions has been an annual affair for a number of years with the exception of 1927, when it was allowed to lapse. Last year the school was said to have been a wonderful success, and this year it is the thought of those undertaking it to excel the interest and attendance then evidenced.

GIRLS' 4-H CAMP TO OPEN AT ALGAJOY ON JULY 11

Leader's Training Course to be Held First Three Days

Camp Algajoy, named for Allegany and Garrett counties, will start the annual camping season with a Three-day leader's training course for older 4-H girls on July 11. Mildred Stemple and Hasaleah Yutzy will represent Garrett county. The following have registered to date for camp week which begins on July 14: Pearl Breedlove, Vera Breedlove, Crellin; Mary Tomikel, Kempton; Margaret Stanton, Mildred Stemple, Hasaleah Yutzy, Oakland, Louise Moomaw, Mt. Lake Park.

This 4-H camp was organized five seasons ago when Miss Lola Belle Green was home demonstration agent. Enrollment has varied from 40 to 75 for camp week, the campers coming from both Allegany and Garrett counties.

Leaders in charge July 10 to 19 are Miss Dorothy Emerson, State girls' club agent; Miss Maude Bean, home demonstration agent Allegany county; and Miss Elsie M. Benthien, Garrett county.

Miss Dodd, a food specialist in Gelatin products, will give three demonstrations as part of the class work program. There will also be classes in handicraft. Swimming will be in charge of experienced 4-H club girls.

For those interested in organized camp life for young people there is a new bulletin out, Circular No. 80, "Camps for 4-H club girls," by Dorothy Emerson, Extension Service, University of Maryland.

American tourists, it is estimated, will spend a half billlon dollars in Europe this season.

New Officers Begin Duties

The new officers of the Rotary club, elected about a month ago, will take charge of their duties at the meeting tomorrow evening. Charles A. Ream will assume the duties of president. Other officers are E. R. Jones, vice-president; W. O. Davis, secretary; C. A. Shilke, treasurer; R. R. Gilbert, sergeant-at-arms.

To Hold Inter-City Meet

Plans for an inter-city meet, to be held in Oakland on August 28, were made at the last meeting. Members of Rotary clubs from Morgantown, Terra Alta and Kingwood, W. Va., will be present. Arrangements are in charge of the program committee.

It was also announced that the Board of Directors would meet on the first Friday in the month instead of the first Wednesday, as formerly.

W. G. Meyers, Candidate for Nomination for Clerk to Comsioner sof County.

Mr. Walter G. Meyers, who has been Clerk in the County Commissioners office for a number of years, makes an announcement in The Republican today of his candidacy for renomination on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Meyers, by training and experience, is thoroughly familiar with the duties incumbent upon the Clerk in this highly important office and on his record as a public official he asks for recognition at the primary election.

Lord's Day Conference at Mt. Lake Park

The annual field day of the Lord's Day Alliance of Maryland will be held at Mountain Lake Park with an all-day program on Sunday, July 20.

The special feature of this year's program will be the address by Dr. David G. Mystic, President of the Lord's Day Alliance of America. He is an outstanding man and an unusual speaker.

In addition to Dr. Mystic, Dr. W. W. Davis will make an address at 11:00 o'clock. Dr. Mystic will speak at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8:00 o'clock in the evening a debate on the question "That the responslbility of the pulpit to conserve the Lord's Day is greater than that of the pew." Eminent men will debate this subject.

Mr. T. W. Casteel Would Succeed Himself on Orphans' Court Bench.

Mr. Truman W. Casteel, large land owner, farmer and stockman, at present a member of the Orphans' Court as associate judge, announces his candidacy in The Republican today seeking the nomination at the primary in September. Mr. Casteel regrets his inability to make a trip over the county in the interest of his candidacy and so states in his announcement. In the past he has been efficient and gave the office which he again seeks his diligent attention.

BALTIMORE EVENING SUN BAND PLEASES AUDIENCE

Two-Hour Concert Given Last Night on Streets of Oakland

The Baltimore Evening Sun Newsboys' Band arrived in Oakland last night on its annual tour of the state and gave a concert between 8 and 10 o'clock on the streets of the town before a large crowd. Members of the band, all newsboys, employed by The Evening Sun, spent the night here.

The band will cover about 490 miles during the trip which started on Monday. The boys gave concerts at Hagerstown, Tanneytown, Westminster, Emmittsburg, Cumberland, Mt. Savage, Frostburg and Grantsville.

The band will give a concert at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Mt. Lake Park. The boys will enjoy swimming and baseball during the morning.

Tonight at 4 o'clock the band will play at Piedmont and at 8 o'clock the boys will play at Keyser. Other places where concerts will be given include Romney, Winchester, Va., Martinsburg, Charles Town, Harper's Ferry, Brunswick, Middletown, Frederick, Mt. Airy, Sykesville, and Ellicott City. The tour will end Sunday evening in Baltimore.

NUMEROUS WRECKS OCCUR DURING PAST WEEK-END

Mrs. Nellie Coleman, Washington, D. C., Dies in Hospital From Skull Fracture

One person was killed and several were critically injured while many more escaped with slight bruises and cuts in numerous wrecks over the Fourth of July and the past week-end in the vicinity of Oakland.

Garages in Oakland are filled with cars, some of them practically demolished while others are waiting for minor repairs.

The most serious wreck occurred when Mrs. Nellie Coleman, of Washington, D. C., a tourist, received a fractured skkull and other injuries when her automobile left the roadway on the Northwestern turnpike, east of Red House, this county, and turned over seven or eight times down an embankment, on July 4. She was taken to Hoffman hospital, Keyser, W. Va., where she died Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Coleman was traveling alone in a Ford coupe. The wrecked machine was noticed by George Mills, a railroad trainman of Keyser, who was passing by in his car. He investigated and found Mrs. Coleman unconscious where she had been thrown from her car. He took her to the hospital in Keyser.

A son, Herbert Coleman, a midshipman in the U. S. Naval Academy, at Annapolis, was located and notified. Another son, Dr. Theodore Coleman, is an interne at Louisville City hospital, Louisville, Ky.

The body of the deceased was taken to Huntington, W. Va., for burial.

Youth in Injured

Thomas Gray, four years old. of Aliquippa, Pa., had his right arm fractured shortly after noon on Thursday when a car in which he was riding was struck by another machine, near Oakland. The child was taken to Memorial hospital, Cumberland, where he was put under the care of Dr. William A. Gracie. It was at first feared that the child's hand would have to be amputated.

Other wrecks in which no one was seriously injured occurred at the corner of Third and Green streets on Saturday, at Second street on Friday, and a point above Table Rock, at the corner of Second and Oak streets, along the Mt. Lake-Oakland highway, and at numerous other points.

Robber Enters W. A. Gonder Confectionery

A burglar entered the confectionery store of W. A. Gonder early this morning and after going through a cash register and taking $4.71, most of which was in pennies, made his escupe without being detected.

The robber gained entrance by breaking the glass in a door in the rear of the building facing Railroad street. Authorities were notified this morning, but no arrests have been made.

The robbery was reported by Mr. George Little on his way to the railway station, early this morning.

COUNCIL APPROVES PLAN TO REPLACE FIRE TRUCK

Engine No. 1 To Be Replaced By American LaFrance Co. and Smaller Truck Purchased

Approval of the plan of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department to have No. 1 fire truck replaced by a newer and more modern engine of the American-LaFrance Company, free of charge, and to purchase a No. 99 truck to take the place of the Dodge chemical truck, was given at the last meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, held Tuesday night at the City Hall. The purchasing committee of the fire company appeared at the meeting and was authorized to close the contract for the trucks.

The American-LaFrance fire engine, which was purchased last year at a cost of $12.000. has never performed to the satisfaction of the members of the department, it was said, and was considered a "bad proposition," as the claim was made that the machine is not a modernly constructed one.

Mechanics who have worked on the motor from time to time said that they could not get the carburetor adjusted properly and firemen claimed that it was impossible to stop the truck when the brakes became wet.

In view of these existing conditions, the LaFrance Company offered to replace the truck with an exact duplicate in a later model with all modern improvements, fitted with four-wheel brakes, left hand drive and center control, free of charge, if the Oakland company would purchase a No. 99, 500-gallon pumper truck at a cost of $5500, to replace the Dodge chemical truck, now in use and known as Engine No. 2. The LaFrance Company also offered to help the Oakland department in disposing of the Dodge truck. It is estimated that it will bring at least $1,000.

The purchasing committee, appointed at a recent meeting of the department, includes all the officers of the organization, Fred. C. Peddicord, A. G. Gortner, George Kerins, Emroy Bolden, Grover Stemple, Milton Sincell, W. W. Dawson and Leo Helbig.

Passing the monthly bills and approving them for payment occupied the remainder of the Council meeting. which was one of the quietest sessions of the year.

The next regular meeting will be held on August 4.

TRI-COUNTY 4-H CAMP TO BE HELD IN COUNTY

Club Boys Will Spend Three Days at Oakland Scout Camp

Plans for the first tri-county 4-H club camp for boys have just been completed, according to John H. Carter, county agent, and will be held at the Oakland Boy Scout camp on Deep Creek Lake, July 23, 24, and 25. Club boys from Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties will encamp.

This is the first attempt to hold a camp of this kind, Mr. Carter stated, and it promises to be the beginning of an annual affair.

The objectives of Camp for 4-H club boys are in accord with the principles of secondary education known as "Seven Cardinal Principles,"—health, command of fundamental processes. worthy home membership, vocation citizenship, worthy use of leisure time, and ethical characters.

The camp will be under the direction of E. G. Jenkins, State Boys' club leader; Mylo S. Downey, assistant county agent of Allegany county; M. D. Moore, county agent of Washington county; and Mr. Carter.

The program, will include camp craft. council fire, swimming, class work. recreation, and rest

Letters are being sent to all club members outlining plans, cost and equipment needed. All club boys of Garrett county should feel proud in having the first camp of this kind come to their county, Mr. Carter stated, and it is hoped that all boys will be able to attend.

Marx Layman, Jennings, Files For Nomination for Sheriff

Mr. Marx Layman, of Jennings, retired lumberman, makes his bow in politics today through his announcement for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Garrett county. Mr. Layman is a native of the county and has resided within its confines for nearly his entire lifetime. He is a taxpayer, resident of Jennings and is held in high esteem by the people of his community.

POLITICS IN REVIEW

By the Man In The Street

Despite all our efforts to stir them up the recently warring Democrats and the fourth termers have been very quiet in recent days while the optimistic Republicans lay their plans to capture the State House and all its belongings.

Steamboats seem to attract the Democrats and they go on excursions with very little provocation. The idea seems to be that on steamboat trips a good deal of fixing can be done far from the maddening crowd's ignoble strife.

The Governor, having messed up his first harmony conclave, gave it out that he would do considerable powwowing this week. Perhaps he has done it. Howard W. Jackson, chief of the hitherto insurgent camp, has been trying to get Charlie Bichy into a Ritchie powwow over the local ticket. But Mr. Bichy seems to have no stomach for powwows. And as for Billy Curran he thinks the local ticket is all right.

We do not know just what Billy means by all right except possibly that everybody in the court house is to be renominated with the possible exception of Sheriff Potee, who is not in favor with some of the Governor's latest friends. It had been reported that Mr. Bichy would like to have the nomination for Register of Wills but he may be put off with a promise. Some of the court clerks have announced themselves while others are waiting for the word to come down the line.

There is still a deal of snickering about the peace the Governor is trying to patch up with the opposition. It is, of course, for the consumption of outsiders who may think it means the solidification of the party in the city. But the fact is that the divisions are the same as they originally were. Nobody actually joins the Governor's forces no matter what their pretensions may be. Knives are out and not sheathed as his Excellency would like them to be.

Whether the Governor understands the real attitude of his opponents in the party is a question. Perhaps he does and only hopes that luck will favor him in the end. Of course he loses nothing by putting up a show of harmony. It is the best thing he can do and it may fool many of the county people who do not get direct information. But as we understand it, there are thousands of Democrats in the city who are determined to do their part in retiring Ritchie and they can do it if the Republicans vote the Republican ticket which they did not do in 1923 and 1926.

Republicans Holding Their Plans Back

We do not hear so much about what the Republicans are doing or proposing to do. They have to wait to see that their ticket, or the Broening ticket, is confirmed. There is still plenty time for jack to be kicked up but nobody is in sight to do the kicking. The hookworm plague is as prevalent among insurging Republicans as among the insurging Democrats.

Possibly big plans are being laid. We frankly do not know. But it is to be a state and not a city campaign and the Broening people will have to recognize that fact. It will not be possible to conduct the battle as a local matter.

We have heard nothing lately from the Republican State chairman, Mr. Tait. He can let out sizzling blasts at times and one is about due. Possibly he is waiting for the next bad break from his excellency.

Jackson's Fate
Concerns His Friends

Friends of former Mayor Howard W. Jackson are greatly concerned over his dickering with Governor Ritchie and other factors interested in the Jackson political destruction. To some it appears that the former Mayor has acted too quickly and without inspection of the traps that have been skillfully set for him by professional political trappers—men who have nothing else to do but to pull the political strings for their own benefit.

Mr. Jackson's main weakness seems to be a great liking for the spotlight and it is this weakness upon which his foes have been playing.

The move to get Jackson, Curran, Perlman and Bichy to go on the workboat races trip as the Governor's guests was a characteristic Ritchie trick engineered through one of his supporters. It was a move that Ritchie would not have made had he not realized the seriousness of his political situation, but once seeing it he did not hesitate for a moment to humble himself before those he has so long despised and who in turn must have absolute contempt for him and his methods.

Jackson, it appears, has much to lose and little to gain from dealing with Ritchie. The most that he can acquire will be the Ritchie blight, now conspicuous in making its mark in Maryland. And unless Jackson moves with great caution he will soon find himself just another little cog in the Ritchie machine.

Broening People
Filling the Ticket

The Broening people have moved with some celerity in filling their State ticket, having agreed on William Newton Jackson of Wisconsin as their candidate for Comptroller after Lawrence B. Towers had decided to make the race. Mr. Jackson is a son of the former U. S. Senator and therefore starts off with some prestige. That Mr. Towers declined was no surprise, as his health has not been good for several years.

So it appears that the Broening ticket has been completed without any help from the United States Senator Goldsborough, former Senator O. E. Weller or State Chairman Galen L. Tait, a somewhat remarkable feat in consideration of the past history of the G. O. P. in Maryland.

As we hear nothing from Mr. Goldsborough we assume that he is waiting for something to turn up. He was an advocate of further consideration before making a ticket. We hear nothing from Mr. Weller and we therefore assume that he has no criticisms to make—for now is the time to make them. Possibly he would have made the ticket differently but then he had no good luck four years ago. Bladen Lowndes no doubt, likes it all. He was a Broening backer from the start.

What has surprised many Republicans about it all is that Mayor Broening grew tired of postponing. He has been called a procrastinator but in this case he acted with sufficient expedition to beat his opponents.

Some Economic Aspects of the Forest Situation

No adequate conception of the forestry movement in our country can be had without a reference to the role which forests have played in the development of this nation and to the dangers which face us today from the standpoint of forest production. This country was originally blessed with a tremendous area of virgin forest growth, estimated at 822 million acres, covering all of the land east of the Mississippi, the Lake States, the Rocky Mountain region, and the Pacific Northwest. In the early years of settlement, reductions in the area of forest land were confined largely to land clearing. Timber was abundant and of little value; at the same time, the steady growth of the country demanded an increase in farm acreage. Consequently in the east 150 million acres were cleared prior to 1880, this area comprising about 22 per cent of the total eastern forest. Clearing of agricultural land thereafter constituted but a very minute amount of the total of forest destruction.

In the meantime, the cutting of our forests for lumber and other products was well under way. The lumber industry, as such, started in the Northwest and from there moved southward and westward. First, Maine, then New York, and by 1860, the State of Pennsylvania, led in lumber production, and by 1870 Michigan was in the lead. The Lake States' forests, at first thought inexhaustible, retained the lead in forest production until around 1900, when leadership shifted to the South. Now, after thirty years, the timber industry of the South is waning, while the states of Washington and Oregon are assuming the leadership in forest production. How long the virgin forests of the Northwest will last is a matter of conjecture, usually estimated by economists at from 30 to 50 years.

Since the cutting, the forest areas have reproduced rather poorly, and large areas are now classified as waste. The reasons for this have been largely economic. As long as there was cheap virgin timber available, it did not pay the lumberman to cut carefully or to provide for regrowth. Forest fires have commonly followed cutting, carrying on the devastation.

Summing up our forest situation, we find that in this country at the present time our heritage of 822 million acres of virgin forest has melted away to a present figure of 138 million acres. Besides this area, we have 250 million acres of culled second growth lands restocking at least in part, while there are 81 million acres not restocked. The original stand of timber in this country was about 5,200 billion board feet while the present stand totals only 1,600 billion board feet, or about one-fourth.

Our forest problem today is twofold—first to provide a timber supply for the future, and secondly, to utilize the forest land which is idle. Both are of great importance. We are essentially a wood-using nation which has ridden the wave of prosperity on our abundant wood supplies. To lose these supplies will put us under a great handicap. On the othe rhand, vast reaches of our land can be important economically through forest production, the only use to which they are suited. Forests growing continually on such land will produce needed wood and they will also support labor and capital in their harvesting.

AMERICANS AS SPENDERS.

European critics like to dwell on what they call the "dollar chasing" of the average American. But they do not talk so much about the spending qualifications of the average American, although the American tourist business in Europe is one of the most important of enterprises.

It is interesting to note therefore that the tourist industry of the United States, both domestic and foreign, amounts, in round numbers, to five billion dollars a year. This is the estimate placed upon it by the experts of the United States Chamber of Commerce. It is estimated that obout one-third of our population now takes its vacations by automobile, which gives us some idea of the social as well as the economic importance of the motor car and the hard surfaced highway. The benefits to our people from a nationalization standpoint are almost beyond calculation.

But in 1928, the last year for which there are definite figures, the American people spent three quarters of a billion dollars in foreign travel. This is exclusive of merchandise declarations, commissions paid to steamship agencies and similar expenditures. In the year 1928 Americans spent a little more than $250,000,000 in Canada which got the biggest slice of our tourist business. So if Canada is our best customer so far as foreign trade is concerned, the American is undoubtedly Canada's best customer, by a big margin, so far as the tourist trade is concerned. In the same year the West Indies and Central America got around $85,000,000 from us in tourist business while Mexico received $32,000,000. Most of the rest of the money we spent in touring abroad, a little more than $336,000,000 went to Europe. And then more than $100,000,000 was spent by Americans residing permanently abroad, by immigrants visiting their fatherlands and so on.

Now our free traders are continually talking about balances of trade, and how unpopular our new tariff will make us in other countries. But they never take into consideration this item of American money spent by our people visiting abroad. As American prosperity increases so will this amount increase. And the shutting down of American industry because of insufficient tariff would bring a depression here which would undoubtedly affect our spending ability abroad. So it is easy to see that European prosperity depends a great deal on American prosperity and our willingness to spend our money, a willingness which the most grudging internationalist will admit that we have.

Small wonder then that Mexico, Canada, Cuba, and the nations of Europe are so eager to invite Americans to their various countries. They know that it means good business and added prosperity for themselves. And so long as this is true we need not worry so much about the bogies of international boycott which are raised by our free traders at home.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Big Cow Better Milk Producer

Within the same breed, the larger cows excel the smaller in production of milk and butterfat. They eat more but also produce a higher income over the cost of their feed. Studies of 220,000 yearly individual records of dairy herd improvement association cows in the United States, demonstrate this. The studies were carried out by the bureau of dairy industry of the United States Department of Agriculture.

A comparison of the large cows of one breed with the large cows of another breed, and the small cows of one breed with the small cows of another breed, showed very little difference between the breeds in production and income over cost of feed. The breeds included in the study were the Ayreshire, Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey, and Shorthorn.

"Size of the cow is only one of the factors that influences production and income above feed cost. It is not wise, therefore, to buy dairy cows on the basis of size alone. It is true, however, that if two cows are equal in all other respects, the larger cow may be expected to produce more milk and return a larger income," says the report on the study.

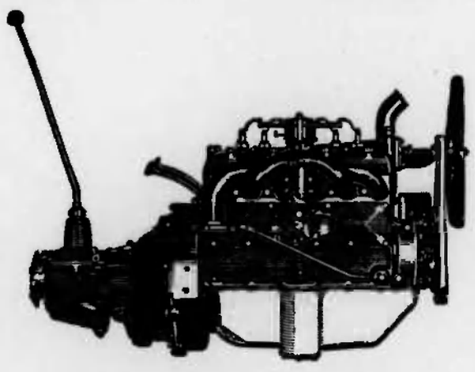
THE VALUE OF SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy



THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance. Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

Lime Jellied Frult Salad

One package Quick Setting Lime Gelatin, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup cold water, 2 sectioned oranges, 1 sectioned grape fruit, 2 sliced bananas, ½ cup diced canned pineapple ½ cup sliced strawberries.

Dissolve the Quick setting Llme Gelatin in the boiling water; add the cold water, and set aside to congeal. When the consistency of an egg white add the fruit; transfer to a ring mould first rinsed in cold water, and chill. When firm, unmold; fill the center with crisp lettuce hearts and serve with fruit cream salad dressing.

Orange Sponge Cake

Three eggs, ¼ teaspoon cream of tarter, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, 1-3 cup orange juice, 1¼ cups pastry flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Separate the eggs; beat the whites until stiff, together with the cream of tarter; and add the yolks one at a time, beating well between each addition. Gradually beat in the sugar, and add the grated orange rind and juice. Sift the dry ingredients together; and fold into the first mixture. Transfer to oiled layer cake pans or an oiled dripping pan, and bake in an oven at 350 degrees F. about 15 minutes. If baked in layers, put together with orange cream filling, and cover with seven minute icing. If baked in a dripplng pan, sprinkle the top before cooking with three tablespoons sugar mixed with one teaspoon grated orange rind, and cut in squares for serving.

Molded Vegetable Salad

One and one-half c. shredded cabbage, ½ cup red and green sweet peppers, ½ c. celery, 2 T. chopped onion, 1 t. salt, ¼ t. pepper, 1 package lemon fruit flavored gelatln, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, 1-8 teaspoon mustard 3 T. vinegar.

Chop the vegetables and mix well with the seasoning—marinate with the vinegar. This salad may be decorated with pimento. Place in mold or individual molds and pour gelatin over it. Chill in the refrigerator.

Fair Premium List

There are a few points to be made clear to all entrants in the varlous exhibits. For those interested in the Foods and Household entries only premiums will be awarded on products as listed in the catalog as there will be no substitutions. Where a class calls for one quart or one pint jar, they must be standard fruit jars—either glass top or screw top—odds and ends in jars will not be judged.

Canned fruits, vegetables, pickles, and meats will be judged in 1 quart jars only. Marmalades and preserves in 1 pint jars only.

Jelly in regular jelly glasses with metal tops in 1-3 or ½ pint glasses will be awarded premiums as per schedule. If you use mayonnaise jars wlth lids in ½ pint size it will be accepted but one-half the amount of the premium will be awarded.

In arranging entrles for awards the above plan will be followed, all other entrles will be placed in a second group for display purposes only.

An Interesting Fact

Stephen Decatur—Pirate Fighter

In the early 1800s, during the administration of president Jefferson, there occurred the war with the Barbary States, which, with respect to one Marylander at least, proved to be good training for the American navy in the war of 1812. This war on and with the Mohammedan pirates of the Mediterranean was one which brings to mind stories of Drake, Frobisher and other free booting characters of a previous age, which stirred our imaginations and our blood as youths.

The Mohammedans had a habit of imprisoning their captives and holding them for high ransom. Among these captives were many Americans, including some Marylanders.

During Washington's second administration, Jefferson endeavored to induce Congress to furnish enough ships to bring these Corsairs to terms, without relying upon European powers, who seemed to wink at the depredations. But nothing was done thru the whole Adams' administration, except to increase the sum of immunity payments. In fact this nation was humiliated by having one of our ships, the George Washington, sail thru the Dardanelles with a pirate flag nailed to her masthead, to insure immunity from pirate attack.

At last an American fleet was raised and concentrated off the coast of Tripoli. The Philadelphia, with Commodore Brainbridge in command, ran aground in an effort to overtake a Moorish craft. The pirates swarmed over the helpless vessel, captured Branbridge and a crew of over 300, got the Philadelphia off the reef and added the vessel to the Tripolitan navy.

It was then decided that the Philadelphia should be destroyed rather than remain in the hands of the Tripolitans. Then it was that Stephen Decatur, a Marylander, offered to lead a surprise boarding party to recapture or destroy the ship. On his second attempt to enter the harbor he was successful, and in a brilliantly conducted attack, under the most discouraging conditions, Decatur routed the free-booters and set fire to the vessel.

Decatur did not stop at this victory but was active in a series of attacks upon Tripolitan gunboats in the harbor of Tripoli. It has been said that the act of recapturing the Philadelphia "was the boldest and most daring act of the age."

It is said that Decatur's life was saved in one of the hand-to-hand conflicts with a Tripolitan officer by a sailor who interposed his body between the American and the upraised sword of the Tripolitan.

Potato Fields Are Inspected

O. T. Graser, teacher of Agriculture In the local high school, and Rev. C. A. Shilke, chairman of the Boy's Work Committee of the Rotary Club, completed an inspection of the potato fields of the boys who are members of the Rotary Club potato project among the youth of this section of the county. The inspectors expressed themselves as being well pleased with the outlook and condition in which they found nearly all the fields.

The Rotary Club joined with the B. & O. Potato Club for Garrett county in making an experiment to prove that Garrett county can raise certified seed potatoes from locally grown seed as well as from seed grown in other sections. If the experiment proves successful it will mean thousands of dollars annually to potato growers of Garrett county.

To Install Officers of K. of P. Lodge Friday Night

Installation of the newly elected officers of Garrett Lodge, No. 113, K. of P. of Oakland, will take place Friday evening, July 11, at Castle Hall.

The installation of these officers will be in charge of Deputy Grand Chancellor Harry L. Stemple and District Deputy Grand Chancellor M. W. Mann.

Many important problems will be discussed at this meeting. Some business in connection with the Labor Day picnic will be introduced and refreshments will be served by the committee. A large attendance is requested.

Sea Sled is Winner of Outboard Races at Deep Creek

The sea sled, belonging to Robert Hazlett, of Wheeling, W. Va., and driven by a Johnson, 16 h. p. racing motor, won the free-for-all race of outboard motor boats, held at Deep Creek Lake last Friday, July 4. The boat averaged 26 miles per hour over the seven and one-half mile course.

The boat belonging to Elmer Haulenbeek won second place. Linn Phillips, Jr., nine years old, of Uniontown, Pa., drove his father's boat and took third place, while the boat belonging to the Four Horsemen of Oakland, and driven by Reeves Blandford, won fourth.

Vacation Bible School Opens With Ninety Enrolled

The Daily Vacation Bible school opened Monday in the grade school building, under the direction of Miss Marion Leary and the following capable corps of teachers: Misses Roselle Bishoff, Mary Eva Compton, Esperance Ashby, Mary Grace Shirer and Lucy Trickett. Miss Elizabeth West, Mrs. W. W. Grant and Mrs. Paul B. Naylor have each been present one morning to give a good story to the children.

Ninety children have enrolled and it is expected that several others will be in attendance before the end of the present week. It is not too late to enter at this time. A picnic has been arranged for Thursday afternoon, July 17th, at The Pines and provision made to convey all children to the grounds.

A closing exercise and exhibit, portraying the kind of work done in the school, will be held Sunday evening, July 20, at 7:30 o'clock.

Those in charge are highly pleased with the interest manifested and the work being done.

Health Department Notes

Fourteen school children who have very defective vision were taken to Cumberland and fitted with glasses. These children came from the following communities: Oakland 2, Deer Park 1, Swanton 1, Accident 1, Elder Hill 1, Friendsville 2, Jennings 3, Manadier 1, Grantsville 1. The eye specialist said that this was a group of the worst cases that he had ever examined, and that several of these children had never known what it was to really see until they were fitted with glasses. The glasses were paid for by the local Red Cross.

Twelve girls from the Accident High school satisfactorily completed the course in "Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick." Those receiving certificates were: Pauline Beachy, Ruth Harvey, Delma Felix, Rosalie Richter, Martha Beachy, Myrtle Colflesh, Isabel Glotfelty, Evelyn Wilburn, Mildred Herring, Rosalie Fratz, Margaret Stephen and Mabel Orendorf.

A meeting of the Deer Park Community Club was attended and a talk given on the topic, "Health of the School Child."

Legionaires Receive Letter From Gold Star Mother

A letter from Mrs. Deliliah Kildow, gold star mother, now on a pilgrimage to France, was received by Proctor Kildow Post of the American Legion and read at the last meeting of the organization, held on Monday evening. The letter follows:

Dear Legionaires, one and all:

I have arrived safe and well in France. We all have had a wonderful time, having been entertained on board ship and given a warm welcome by the people of France.

We laid a wreath on the unknown soldier's tomb and were entertained at the restaurant Laurant Champs Elysees Tel Wagram, and welcomed by our ambassador to France, high officials and wives at tea; then driven back to our hotel. Our group is leaving for different cemeteries tomorrow morning. We will go to Verdun and be taken to and from our cemetery each day for five days.

Then we will return to Paris and remain here for a period of several days. Dear boys, I have ordered a wreath of flowers with the donation you gave for that purpose. I feel very grateful to you for such a nice gift and have taken this method of thanking you all. I hope to keep well and have the pleasure of seeing you each and everyone in good U. S. A. With all good wishes to all, I remain, your sincere friend,

Delilah Kildow.

C. Milton Sincell and Joseph M. Gonder were appointed as delegates to the State convention, to be held August 28, 29, and 30. A. G. Hesen and E. P. Kahl were named as alternates.

Former Garrett Countain To Visit Europe This Summer

Harland I. Casteel, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Casteel, New Salem, Pa., will visit the British Isles and France during the coming summer. He will be accompanied by Mr. Robert S. Stein, of Greensburg, Pa., who is now a senior at the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Chicago, Ill., and for two years was a room-mate of Casteel's at Waynesburg College. They will sail from New York to Glasgow, Scotland, July 10, on steamer Cameronia, and will return sometime in September.

Young Casteel has made a cororful record since his start in High school. He graduated from Redstone Township High school in '25; was salutatorian of his class and completed the prescribed four year course in three years. Immediately upon his graduation he entered Waynesburg College, Waynesburg, Pa., from which he graduated with high honors in '29. While there he probably held more important student offices than any other student in the history of the college. During his senior year he was president of the student body and president of the student council, the highest undergraduate offices in the school. He participated in 59 inter-collegiate debates, a college record and probably a state record. For two years he was captain of one of the greatest debating teams in the East and had the unique experience of twice meeting debating teams representing Oxford University, Oxford, England, and on each occasion emerged victorious.

Casteel is now a student at the Law school of the University of Pittsburgh, and during the past year he not only did excellent work in Law school but taught ten and one-half hours per week in the history department, of Schenley High Night school, Pittsburgh, Pa.

He is a member of three national fraternities: Delta Sigma Phi, social; Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary forensic; Phi Alpha Delta, Legal.

He is a grandson of Truman W. Casteel, of near Oakland.

MUST SAFEGUARD BABY'S HEALTH DURING SUMMER

Heath Department Suggests Ways of Keeping Child Healthy

Some of the ways by which a baby's health may be safeguarded and the baby kept comfortable during the trying heat of midsummer, are outlined by Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, as follows: Dress the baby according to the weather. The less a baby wears in hot weather, the better. But sharp changes of temperature are likely to come, so be sure you have a light blanket or dress conveniently at hand, to slip on if needed.

See that the baby gets its mother's milk, if possible. No food is comparable to it. A baby should not be weaned during the summer, if it is possible to feed it on mother's milk.

The best substitute for mother's milk is clean cow's milk, diluted with water, according to the doctor's directions for the individual baby. The mixture should be boiled for two or three minutes and then cooled before feeding the baby. It is impossible to prevent germs from entering cow's milk even when it is produced under the most favorable sanitary conditions.

Keep all milk clean, cool, and covered.

Give the baby cooled, boiled water to drink.

Always wash the hands thoroughly with soap and water before preparing the baby's food.

Let the baby gradually get accustomed to sun baths. But remember your own experiences with sunburn and safeguard the baby accordingly. The baby's skin is much more tender than yours. Give the sun baths in very small doses at first, for only a few minutes at a time, once or twice a day, until the baby gets used to them. Always protect the baby's head and eyes from the glare of the sun. Never take the baby out in the full heat of the mid-day sun.

Very carefully protect the baby from his insect enemies, flies and mosquitoes, particularly. Screen the kitchen and sleeping rooms against these pests. Spread a mosquito net over the baby's bed or carriage when the baby takes a nap out of doors.

See that the baby has plenty of sleep and rest. Don't let visitors handle him. He is not a toy.

Take the well baby regularly to your doctor for advice and general medical supervision. Send for your doctor without delay if the baby shows any indication of diarrheal disturbance.

Crellin A. C. Nine Loses and Wins One

The Crellin Athletic Club beseball nine lost a close game to the Parsons Clubs of Parsons, W. Va., on the afternoon of July 4th, by a score of 8-7. Colaw was on the mound for Crellin and held the Cubs down in good fashion with the exception of the fourth inning when they bunched four hits and a base on balls producing four runs for the Parsons nine. The Parsons Cubs will play Crellin a return game on the Crellin diamond on July 20.

Crellin won from Pierce, W. Va., on Sunday afternoon by the score of 10-9. Mickey was on the mound for Crellin and pitched good ball with the exception of the second inning when the Pierce left handers slammed out 6 hits for five runs, Mickey settled down and allowed but five scattered hits during the remaining seven innings.

Crellin will play the Cascade, W. Va. nine next Sunday afternoon at Cascade, W. Va.

JACOB, A SELFISH MAN, TRANSFORMED

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 25:29-34; 28:18-22; 29:18-20; 33:1-4, 18.

GOLDEN TEXT—For what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?

PRIMARY TOPIC—Learning to Be Unselfish.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Learning to Be Unselfish.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Does It Msan to Be Honest?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Learning from Experience.

I. Jacob's Birth (25:21-20).

In answer to Isnac's prayer, a seed was given unto hinn. Before Jacob's birtb God revealed unto Rebekah tbe fact tbat he should have the place of pre-eminence. "The elder shall serve the younger." In this God reversed the ordinary law concerning tbe posltion of the cider son. The act of tnking bold of Esnu's heel as he was born, indicated Jacob's nature. Tbe name Jacob means "supplanter."

II. Jacob's Schemes (25:27-34; 27:1-29).

1. He secured Esau's birthright (25:27-34).

It was right for Jacob to have the birthright since it was according to God's plan ns revealed to Rebekah, but his scheme to get it was reprehensible. He took advnatage of a brother's weakness to drive a sharp bargain.

2. Secured his father's blessing (27:1-29). (1) Was requested to get venison for his father. (2) Rebekah's scheme (vv. 5-33). It was God's plan thnt Jacob should be at the head, but He did not need the sin of Jacob and his mother to bring it about.

III. Jacob's Flight to Haran (ch. 28).

Jacob's deceit and cunning got him into trouble. He was compelled to flee from his outraged brother. He now began to reap what he had sown.

1. Jacob's vision at Bethel (28:10-15).

Jacob not only hnd to flee to save his life, hut he bad to leave home and mother. When night overtook him, he was obliged to sleep in a field with a stone for a pillow. It was under such circumstances that the Lord gave him the wonderful vision at Bethel. (1) He saw a ladder reaching from earth to heaven (v. 12). Jesus Christ is the ladder, connecting earth and heaven for us (John 1:51). (2) He saw angels of God upon the ladder (v. 12). These angels were divine helpers to render needed assistance along life's way. (3) Tbe Lord standing above the ladder (vv. 13-17). To show Jacob that the ladder did not reach merely into space God nppearcd and tnlked with him. a. He decinred thnt He was tbe God of Abraham and of Isaac, thus assuring Jacob that the same favor that was over his fathers was over him (v. 13). b. He renewed the covenant as to the land. Though Jacob was now fleeing from the land, the covenant would not fail. (v. 13). c. He assured him of a numerous seed (v. 14). d. The divine presence with Jacob (v. 15). Though he had sinned, God was with him. e. Jacob should be brought again into the land (v. 15).

2. Jacob's vow (vv. 18-22).

His vow included three things. (1) Dedicntion of himself to God (v. 12). (2) Establishment of worship (vv. 18, 19). (3) Consecration of his substance (v. 22).

IV. Jacob's Return to Canaan (chaps. 31-33).

1. The Lord instructs bim (31:11-21).

Twenty years have elapsed since his experiences at Bethel. These years were spent in Padan-aram with his mother's people. Here he served Laban for twenty years. Though it was the purpose of God for him to return, be took clnndestine leave of Laban. Laban pursued bim in anger, but God appeared to Laban and forbade him to lay hands upon Jacob.

2. Jacob on the way (Gen. 32).

Though Jacob fled from Laban's pursuit, a more formidable enemy faced him in the person of Esau. (1) Jacob meeting the angels (v. 1). (2) Jacob praying (vv. 9-12). Not receiving a reply from Esnu, Jacob cast himself upon God in prayer. (3) The angel wrestling with Jacob (vv. 24-32). He continued to wrestle until the approach of morning, not knowing that it was God in humnn form wrestling with him. God humbled him by dislocating his thigh. When thus humbled, he quit wrestling and clung to God. He got the blessing when be, conscious of his weakness, laid hold upon God. (4) A new name (v. 28). He was no longer Jacob, the "supplanter," but Israel, a "prince of God." His new name was given him after he had a new nature.

Finding God

If we cannot find God in your house or mine, upon the roadside or the margin of the sea, in the bursting seed or opening flower, in the day duty and the night musing, I do not think we should discern Him more in the grass of Eden or beneath the moonlight of Gethsemane.—James Martineau.

Gratitude to God

Gratitude to God makes even a temporal blessing a taste of heaven.—Romaine.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

By SCOOP—HIMSELF

The Morning After

There was a widespread rumor in town on Sunday morning that Jim Kerins had failed in his attempt to hold the buttermilk party but when Scoop had interviewed him he emphatically denied this.

"I had plenty of buttermilk," Jim said, "but nobody was able to come and get it. If the buttermilk party would have been a success it would have been necessary to borrow a horse from Alvie Martin, and a wagon from Louie and make a house to house call ——and then a lot of stair climbing would have been necessary to deliver it to the persons who needed the tonic."

Sidelights on the Celebration

The Frostburg Fire company got all signals mixed on this hose-connecting contest at the Presbyterian church corner Saturday evening. They turned the water on before they got the hose connected to the pumper and before long, those who were not already "soaked to the gills", had become "all wet."

After having Constable Shartzer take care of the decorations Monday morning, the decorating company finally came through with the 15 per cent of the commission, promised to the Legion and Fire Department.

Joniper Cropp after flying high Friday afternoon, went into a nose-dive or tailspin (it is not certain which), but is now ready for another ride.

Miss Belle Pritchard, Mt. Lake Park, was given a cool reception Saturday night. She carried away the frigidaire.

The Republican, in spite of its date line last week which read "Juey 5," is still being run by American born citizens, and for Americans and Garrett countians.

There are probobly a lot of other sidelights on the big celebration which will never be known to the general public, but anyway it was a big time for all and very orderly considering everything.

The Woman Answers

That piece on "what I would do if I were a woman," copied from the Spencer Times Record of last week, got an answer this week which Scoop will also have to print as it seems to be a follow-up article. Here it is:

If I were a man, I would:

Not fill all the ash trays in the house and never consider it my duty to empty them.

Not holler about the top button off my shirt when I have laid back and yanked on that top button every time I have taken that shirt off since I bought it.

Know when to come home.

And how.

Not use fancy cuss words when the salt solidifies in the top of the salt shaker. The best wife in the world can't control the weather.

Ditto when the dresser drawer sticks.

Never begin to fidgit to go home about 10 o'clock when the wife is having a nice run of cards with joyful consistency.

Stop talking Amos and Andy patter.

Never refuse spinach and things that are good for me and then roar about indigestion.

Not get the idea that my wife does not love me because she doesn't listen to a thing I say.

Never use the words "All Righty."

Take into consideration how bright the sun is shining when combining linen trousers and striped trunks for the day's appareling.

Never wear a last year's straw hat.

Never sit out in front and honk the horn and yell "hurry up."

Forget about the last good joke I played on my wife.

And a lot of other things.

Time for Puttin'

Challenges are already going forward for matches at the miniature golf course when completed. Poky Shaw and Bill Frazee have been unable to come to any agreement as to who is the best putter, so they will vie for honors to determine who will represent the Amalgamated Society for the Prevention of Work.

Joe Gonder, one of the few Confederates left in this country, has challenged the rest of the Postoffice force and the members of the Legion.

Jim Towler, proprietor of the course, is trying to get in touch with the famous Dr. Juniper Socrates, the celebrated artist who came here three years ago to give lessons on Tiddly-Winks. It was reported at that time that he died during a field meet in Canaan Valley but it is known that he recovered from a serious injury and began studying golf. If he can be located he will give lessons in the Gonder estate next to the Grammar school building where threre won't be any danger of breaking any windows (they're all broken). The following photograph, obtained from Col. Bell, shows Juniper as he appeared in Oakland in 1927.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE To the taxpayers of Garrett County that the annual levy for 1930 has been made and published and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45, Chapter 56, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the first day of September a discount of 3 per cent will be allowed, and after the first day of January all county taxes shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid. The treasurer shall take the discount from and charge the interest on the tax blils for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid, and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipts given on the taxes paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when the same is made."

Under the provisions of Section 48 of Chapter 630 of the Acts of 1916, all State taxes shall be due and payable on and after the first day of July in the year in which the same are levied, and if not paid on or before the first day of September of said year, shall bear interest from said date at the rate of six per cent per annum. No discount is allowed on State taxes.

ATTORNEY'S SALE

OF

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

NEAR OAKLAND, MD.

Under a power of sale contained in a mortgage executed by Job F. W. Griffith on the 9th day of January, 1926, and recorded in Liber No. 92, folio 120, Garrett County records, the undersigned was named as Attorney to make sale of the property therein mentioned in case of default being made in the payment of the principal or interest of the debt secured thereby; and default having been made in payment of both principal and interest, I will, on at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., in front of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction all that piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in Garrett County, Maryland, known and described as Lot No. 1 of the sub-division of Military Lot No. 938, containing ten acres, and being the same property that was conveyed to Margaret E. Griffith by Richard M. Dyer and wife by deed dated August 25, 1898, and recorded in Liber No. 34, folio 502, Land Records of Garrett County, to which deed reference is hereby made for courses and distances of said land.

The property is nicely located in the suburbs of Oakland, on the South side, just beyond the corporate limits, is improved by a good dwelling and outbuildings, on a hard-surfaced road, and will make a very desirable home and a good location for a chicken farm, cultivation of small fruits and vegetables, etc.

TERMS OF SALE—As prescribed by the mortgage, cash, but suitable arrangements can be made for other terms if desired by purchaser.

FRED. A. THAYER,
Attorney Named in Mortgage to

Facts and Figures on Your Telephone

By EDWIN F. HILL

Edwin F. Hill

If there is any question in the public's mind about thrift among employees of utility corporations, they would only have to see the quarterly summary of telephone statistics issued by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to ascertain that the employees of one organization at least are thrifty.

The Bell Telephone System now has more than 500,000 stockholders, of which about 105,000 are employees. At the present time 325,000 employees are subscribing to the stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company under the company's payroll deduction plan. In the past four years the number of employees subscribing to this stock has increased about 96 per cent.

In Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, territory operated by the Chesspeake and Potomac Telephone Companies, 3,309 employees now own 26,622 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph stock, while 10,224 employees are subscribing to 40,471 shares.

President Lloyd B. Wilson made the statement recently that stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company owned by employees of the Chesspeake and Potomac Companies was worth at the present market price, approximately $6,000,000, and that the rights which they will receive in connection with the new issue of stock about to come out, would be worth more than $450,000.

Under the payroll deduction plan for life insurance, Mr. Wilson said that employees have taken out insurance amounting to about $4,000,000 and have permitted over $36,000 due them as dividends to remain with the insurance company and accumulate. Many of the employees taking this insurance previously carried none.

U. S. Leads World In Telephone Use

America continues to lead the world in telephone development. The United States not only has more telephones than all the rest of the world, but it is also foremost in the number of telephones relative to population with 16.3 instruments for each 100 people. This was nearly ten times as many telephones for each 100 people as there were in Europe or all over the globe, according to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's world census of telephones as of January 1, 1929. The only country with a telephone density approaching that of the United States is Canada with 13.7 telephones per 100 population. New Zealand comes third with 10.2, followed by Denmark with 9.4; Sweden with 7.9, and Austrsila with 7.6 telephones per 100 population.

Germany ranks second to the United States in absolute number of telephones, but has only 4.6 per 100 population. Great Britain has 3.8 and France 2.3. Argentina, with the same telephone density as France, outranks the rest of South America. Japan and the Union of South Africa lead their respective continents, each with 1.3 telephones per 100 population.

Smaller cities, towns and rural districts in the United States are exceptionally well provided with telephones. In this country communities of less than 50,000 population average 12.6 telephones for each 100 people. This is greater than the total telephone density of any other country except Canada, and exceeds the telephone facilities of most European cities.

Telephone statistics of the world are of increasing importance with the rapid growth of international telephone service. At the present time nineteen countries comprising most of Europe, four countries which make up the greater part of North America, three countries in South America and one district in Africa, can be reached from any Bell System telephone.

ENGLAND CALLS U. S. MOST FREQUENTLY

English-speaking nations utilize transatlantic telephone service to a greater extent than do other nationalities. The distribution of transatlantic calls by countries recently reported by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company shows that in the past year England made fifty-two per cent of the calls; France, thirty-two; Germany, eight, while the remaining eight per cent were made by the other countries to which the service is available.

The twenty-six countries with which the United States converses is growing steadily. The countries now connected by telephone, wholly or in part are: Argentine, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Chile, Cuba, Czecho-Slovakia, Danzig, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Holland, Hungary, Irish Free State, Italy, Luxemburg, Mexico, Norway, Poland, Spain, Spanish Morocco, Sweden, Switzerland and Uruguay.

BITTINGER

Independence Day passed off quietly in this quiet village, with some folk attending the celebration in Oakland, and others quietly remaining at home.

A number of families gathered in the grove on the Jacob Brenneman farm, on the Fourth, and enjoyed a real old time picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beitzell and Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey R. Broadwater gave a party in Broadwater's grove, on the Fourth, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Murphy, who were recently married. Mr. and Mrs. Asa J. Orendorf were also in attendance.

Emory Adams, of Oakland, who is a candidate for the office of sheriff, called on the voters in this section one day last week.

C. M. Raley, of McHenry, also a candidate for the office of sheriff, was a pleasant caller in this village a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. George Boggess, of Lumberport, W. Va., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fortney, near this village, last Sunday.

Evidence has been discovered of the killing of deer in this section, in defiance of the law.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Emory, of Elmira, N. Y., and Mrs. John Huston and daughter Margaret, of Lansdowne, Pa., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Emory, at their home in this village, over the week-end.

Little Esther Campbell, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Campbell, of this village, is reported as being ill at this writing.

A very enjoyable surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Alexander, on Wednesday evening of last week and those who attended report having had a very nice time.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bittinger and Miss Ethel Bittinger motored to Owings Mills, near Balimore, for a few days visit with relatives.

It Took An Airplane Nearly Fourteen Hours

2,112 miles in 13 hours and 55 minutes—a flight from one end of the country to the other—the fastest long journey man has ever made—a journey that took our pioneer forefathers from 3 to 5 months of weary travel at a snail's pace, over vast expanses of prairie, across turbulent rivers, through perilous mountain passes.

To skim over these vast expanses in a little less than 14 hours seems incredible. Yet, even speed such as this becomes as nothing over the telephone wires. By means of the telephone this journey can now be made, not one way alone but both ways, within the space of MINUTES.

Whether you call 10 miles or 2,000 miles, you will find the same speedy long distance service always at your disposal. Most out-of-town connections can now be made while you wait on the line. And as to rates—ask Long Distance for the rate on any call you wish to make. You'll be surprised to find how low it is.

MT. LAKE PARK

A number of the representatives now In attendance on the Pittsburgh Conference have been guests of the Park at each of the meetings for the past three years and are almost fulsome In their praise of the natural beauties of the surroundings. As a testimony of the ease with which this resort is reached, it is becoming more and more the custom to travel here by motor, the cars ranging from the ancient T Model to the now modern and expensive types. For many of our visitors, the week spent at the Convention is the only vacation they can afford to take, and it speaks volumes for their sincerity of purpose that they are willing to combine work with pleasure. But to them the character of work in which they are engaged during the week is a real pleasure. From early morning until almost time for taps to sound their hours are full —singing, praying, listening, studying—striving for the ideal.

Swimming and tennis seem to be the popular sports. The latter has been well provided for, the courts being in first class condition. But we can not say so much for the former. Bathing facilities are not at all what they should be. About the only real criticism we have heard has been in regard to this form of recreation, or rather the lack of proper facilities. We have no doubt but that this deficiency will be remedied in the near future. It certainly would add much to the attractiveness of the Park.

There will be a concert this afternoon at one o'clock at the Park by the Evening Sun Newsboys' Band, Baltimore. This is an excellent boys band.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Gortner and family, Mazon, Ill., are visiting the parents of Mrs. Gortner, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ream. On next Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ream will celebrate the 50th anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Palmer Nuzum, Fairmont, have rented the McKee property for the season. Mr. Nuzum is a prominent architect of Fairmont. While here they were the guests of Court Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Moore and son Billy are guests at the Allegheny House. Mr. and Mrs. Moore (who was Betty Kline) have been frequent visitors of the Park.

The steam shovels are busy on the grading of the Mt. Lake-Gormania road. While the construction will inconvenience those living along the route, yet the discomfort will be forgotten when the new road is completed.

The Fourth, with the exception of the usual explosions and several displays of fire works at night, passed off without special incident. Our friends stayed fairly sober and we have noted no crepe decorating the countenances of the brethren.

Mr. Lipscomb, Loch Lynn, received favorable mention in this column a few weeks ago on the excellency of his strawberries. Now it seems as though we must give him another boost as a small fruit grower by saying that he is this week marketing a superior quality of currants. Bobby Jones won two titles in England. Lipscomb the same in Loch Lynn.

Capt. William Skyles and Mrs. William Searle, who motored here from Washington for the Fourth holidays, returned to that city Sunday. Both will return later in the season.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Fletcher and children were calling on his West Virginia friends now at the Park, Sunday. Rev. Fletcher was pastor of a church in Fairmont for a number of years, and is now Chaplain of the Western Penitentiary. His views on penology are very interesting.

Mrs. Elizabeth Talson motored to Wheeling one day this week.

FORMER GARRETT COUNTY WOMAN AWARDED VERDICT

Wins Case in Elkins Federal Court—Represented by Jones and Dawson, Local Attorneys

Mrs. Mary Jane Bright. formerly of Garrett county, involved in a suit seeking to receive the money due on a war risk insurance policy issued to William Bright, her husband, was given a verdict in her favor at the U. S. district court at Elkins, on Tuesday. E. R. Jones and Walter Dawson, Oakland; and D. E. Cuppett, Thomas, W. Va., were her counsel.

The case was against the United States and Mrs. Nackie L. Bright, mother of Mr. William Bright.

Beneficiary Changed

According to the evidence submitted, the original beneficiary of the policy was Mary Jane Bright. William Bright was blinded in the world war from injuries and sometime after the war changed the beneficiary from his wife to his mother, Nackie L. Bright. However, the evidence revealed, while in a Baltimore hospital prior to his death the beneficiary was again changed to his wife.

After hearing the testimony Judge Baker directed a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, Mary Jane Bright, the widow. The amount involved was approximately $13,000, of which she will receive $3,500 in cash at once and the remainder in payments established by the war risk insurance plan. William Bright died in 1923 and the fight for the insurance has been pending since then.

The successful litigant, Mary Jane Bright, formerly lived at Accident, but now resides at Morgantown, W. Va. The attorneys for the United States of America, one of the defendants, were William Howard, assistant United States District Attorney, of Wheeling, and Francis W. Steel, regional attorney of the U. S. Veterans Bureau, of Charleston, W. Va. Attorneys for Nackie L. Bright, defendant, were R. Shirley Taylor and Jesse N. Jaco, of Morgantown, W. Va.

Fined by Judge

Taylor and Jaco, the Morgantown attorneys, were each assessed $53 by Judge William E. Baker in the Elkins federal court on Monday afternoon when they were late in appearing as counsel for the case set for trial. Judge Baker asserted from the bench that trials in his court were meant to be held at the time docketed and that, since the case in which Taylor and Jaco were counsel had been set for Monday morning and counsel did not appear until Monday afternoon, the attorneys would have to pay the costs of the petit jury because through their failure to report on time the jury had been idle but, under the law, drawing pay.

July 24, Bittinger Homemakers' Club at 2:00 p. m., at home of Mrs. Carl Bittinger. Reports by local club members.

July 25, Kempton Homemakers' Club at 7:00 p. m., at the school building. Reports by local and visiting club women.

Samuel J. Cole, Kitzmiller, Candidate For House of Delegates

Samuel J. Cole, of Kitzmiller, District No. 13, is the latest aspirant to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for House of Delegates. Mr. Cole is an overseas veteran, a former deputy sheriff and is now Justice of Peace at Kltzmiller, having been appointed to that position by Governor Ritchie because of Mr. Cole's integrity and by reason of the absence of a more competent person belonging to the minority party in the Kitzmiller community.

Mr. Cole is active in civic affairs in Kitzmiller; bears an excellent record as a service man and is highly esteemed for his stralghtforwardness by all with whom he comes in contact.

ADDRESSES WILL FEATURE ANNUAL LORD'S DAY MEET

Program to Begin at 11 A. M., Sunday at Mt. Lake Park

Addresses by Dr. David G. Wylie, New York City, presdient of the National Lord's Day Alliance, and Dr. W. W. Davis, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of Maryland, will feature the annual field dav of the organization to be observed at Mountain Lake Park on Sunday, July 20.

The program will begin at 11:00 a. m. with an address by Dr. Davis. Dr. Wylie will speak at 3:00 p. m. and at 8:00 p. m. a debate will occur, the subject being "Resolved, That the responsibility of the pulpit for the conservation of the Lord's Day is greater than that of the pew."

A concert by the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland will take place from 1 to 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

There will be congregational singing. All visitors to Mountain Lake Park and other friends of the observance of the Lord's Day are invited to be present.

Conference on Friday

Pastors, church officials, Sunday school officers and teachers and others interested, are invited to attend a conference to be held under the auspices of the Lord's Day Alliance in the M. E. church in Oakland on Friday evening, July 18, at 8:00 o'clock.

Besides local pastors, Rev. W. M. Shultz, superintendent of the Morgantown District, M. E. church; Dr. Wylie and Dr. Davis will take part in the conference.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS ARE MADE FOR ODEON AT PARK

To Be Held August 26-30 Under Auspices of Oratory School

Final arrangements have been made for the Odeon at Mt. Lake Park under the auspices of the Byron King School of Oratory. The date is August 26 to 30 inclusive. The late dating was decided upon so as to avoid conflict with the regular program of Mt. Lake Park activities.

The addition of this week of entertainment will add a long felt want to the routine of the many fine attractions of this religious resort. While it will not be of a religious character the events that will be given are in harmony with the traditions of the Park and meet with the approval of the management. Altho it is not a Chautauqua the program may be said to be along that line but of a more varied nature. The ultimate purpose of Byron King's School putting on this entertainment is to size up the possibilities of Mt. Lake Park as a site for the regular summer school which is now carried on in Pittsburgh, the home of the institute. The summer school term runs for eight weeks; the average attendance being 150 students. For some time it has been the desire of Mt. Lake residents that a summer school be located there so the week of the Odeon will naturally draw the interest of everybody of the community.

The first weed-end hike in the past two months was taken Saturday and Sunday by members of Oakland Scout Troop No. 1, who left Saturday afternoon for a site on Deep Creek Lake, about 500 yards above Glendale bridge.

Those staying for the entire two days included Harley Dawson, Carroll Casteel, Walter Dawson, Robert Altstetter, Robert Utterback, Leonard Murphy, Kenneth Lawton, Donald Stemple, William Tillett. Joseph Sollars, Gene Nordeck and John McIntire were in camp for part of one day. Robert Utterback and John McIntire passed their 50-yard swimming test, necessary for a first class scout. All returned to Oakland Monday morning.

The sale of tickets for the benefit picture is being pushed by the scouts in the hope that they will be able to raise sufficient funds for their summer encampment on Deep Creek Lake.

The picture, The Taming of the Shrew, starring Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, will be presented at the Maryland theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 22 and 23. Admission will be 25 and 50 cents.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL EXERCISES TO BE HELD

Exhibition of Work Will be Presented by Students at the M. E. Church Sunday Evening

The Daily Vacation Bible School, which has been in session since Monday, July 7, will close Sunday evening in the Methodist Episcopal church when exercises will be held and exhibits of work done presented. Cards giving credits for attendance and also showing the deportment, piety and cooperation for the two weeks, will be awarded to the students of the school. The service will begin at 7:45 o'clock.

The program for the evening will inelude the following:

Kindergarten, under the direction of Miss Roselle Bishoff and Miss Virginia Giessman, will give a dramatization showing "God's love in Nature."

Group 2, under Miss Mary Eva Compton's direction, will present "The Good Samaritan."

Group 3, with Miss Esperance Ashby in charge, will show scenes from the early life of Moses.

Group 4, directed by Miss Mary Grace Shirer, will present "The Giving of the Ten Commandments."

Group 5, begun by Miss Trickett and followed up by Miss Leary, will present notes from the lives of the prophets. In addition to the aforegoing there will be congregational singing and a scripture reading.

The work of the school during its session has been divided into grades similar to the week-day school. Much interest and enthusiasm have been shown in the lessons taught and the attendance has been very good, Miss Marion Leary, principal of the school, stated this morning.

A picnic was provided for the children and is being held this afternoon at The Pines, west of Oakland. The children, accompanied by their instructors, will leave at two o'clock in Cecil Ramsey's bus from the Grammar school building.

Mrs. David Bothwell and daughter, Miss Laura Bothwell, returned to their home in Westernport Sunday after having visited at the home of the former's daughter, Mrs. Robert Stewart, a short time.

BANQUET HELD MONDAY IN HONOR OF R. P. MALONEY

Will Leave This Week With Family For Snyder, Nova Scotia

Mr. C. N. McIntire, vice-president of the Farmers Bank, and local hardware merchant, was host to a legion of friends at a banquet given in honor of Mr. R. P. Maloney at Table Rock Inn, fourteen miles southeast of Oakland, on Monday evening. The banquet was served in the dining hall of the mountain resort, recently opened for business by the proprietor, Mr. Charles W. Ream.

Mr. Maloney, together with his family, will leave sometlme this week for Sydney, Nova Scotia, where they will make their home. Upon arrival in Nova Scotia Mr. Maloney assumes his new duties as president of the British Empire Coal Corporation.

It is with deep regret that the people of Oakland and vicinity see Mr. Maloney leave.

Among the guests at the banquet were: Mr. John W. Davis, supt. Davis Coal & Coke Co., Thomas, W. Va.; Mr. A. W. Williamson, supt. Western Maryland Ry., Cumberland; Mr. Andrew Diamond, general supt. Davis Coal & Coke Co., Thomas, W. Va.; Mr. George Roberts, supt. Pittsburgh Coal Co., Johnstown, Pa.,; Mr. Rayburn, trainmaster Western Maryland Ry., Cumberland; Mr. Fred Cupp, supt. Cumberland Coal Co., Albert, W. Va.; Mr. S. P. Jeffries, general manager Davis Coal & Coke Co., Thomas, W. Va.; Senator A. L. Helmick, Thomas, W. Va.; Mr. A. W. Louther, supt. Bethlehem Mines Corporation, Reedsville, W. Va.; Mr. Chas. W. Ream, president Stanley Coal Co., Crellin; Major O. A. Dill, Reedsville, W. Va.; Mr. E. G. Meyer, president Meyer Transit Co., Davis, W. STATE LEGISLATURE MAY BE CONVENED BY RITCHIE

Insurgent Bloc Promises that No Embarrassing Questions Will Be Brought Up at Meeting

The proposed special session of the Maryland General Assembly drew a step nearer last night with promises from the anti-Ritchie or insurgent bloc in the last session that its members would not bring any embarrassing questions before the meeting if Governor Ritchie calls it to act on dates for registration for the fall elections.

Daniel D. Joseph, delegate from Baltimore City and leader of the insurgents at the 1929 session of the Assembly, yesterday advised the executive that nothing to embarrass him would be attempted, and that the business of the meeting probably could be accomplished in one day.

A proposal to have the special session, if called, ac tto set aside disagreement between the chairmen of the Democracti and Republican State Committees over the date for the primary election, was advanced yesterday by party leaders and election officials in Baltimore.

Chairmen Fail To Agree.

At present the primary si to be held Monday, September 8, the date fixed by law when no agreement is reached for another date by the chairmen. The Democratic Committee set Tuesday, September 9, on advice from the chief clerk of the election board in Baltimore, an dordered J. Enos Ray, chairman, to confer with Galen L. Tait, Republican chairman, to seek the setting of that date by agreement. Mr. Tait refused to meet Mr. Ray.

The agitation for a special session of the Assembly was started after it was revealed that the four registration days provided for Baltimore City conflict with the two most sacred holidays of the Jewish church, and the result that approximately 15,000 Jews would be disfranchised through inability to register.

Governor Ritchie is considering the matter, already given the backing of the president of the Senate, speaker of the House and the majority floor leaders of both parties.

ANNUAL MEETING IS HELD BY MT. LAKE COMMUNITY

H. V. Leighton Re-elected President—Tax Rate is 65 Cents

The forty-second annual meeting of the Mountain Lake Park community was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the Assembly hall, with more than 50 property owners present. Mr. H. V. Leighton was re-elected president and Mr. E. E. Friend, secretary of the meeting. C. V. Harvey and E. O. Fouch, were re-elected as members of the annual committee for the ensuing year. J. L. Echard was re-elected as street commissioner, and F. P. Arnold, treasurer.

The report of the annual committee disclosed that the assembly property in the Park totaled approximately $494,500, which at a 65 cent tax rate would produce a revenue of about $3,600, on which the budget for the coming year was based. The rate is the same as for the previous year.

The budget is divided as follows: lights, $1,950; streets, bridges, sewers, etc., $1,000; sanitation, garbage disposal, etc., $190; attorney, $25; secretary of committee, $50; community improvement fund, $125; contingent fund, $145; police, $25.

The committee will organize at a meeting to be held some time next week, when a secretary of the committee will be named.

Young People's League to Take Follow-the-Leader Hike.

The Union Young People's League of Oakland will go on a follow-your-leader hike on the evening of Friday, July 18. The members will leave from the Luthearn church at 7 o'clock and follow the leader to an unknown objective where games will be played and a picnic supper eaten. All the young people of Oakland are asked to accompany the Leaguers.

The meeting next Sunday evening of the union will be held in the Luthehan church at 6:45, when Miss Catherine Menhorn, member of the Presbyterian League, will be the leader. The meeting last Sunday was fairly well attended but a larger crowd is wanted at the meeting next Sunday.

MEMBERS OF LOCAL BAR TO TAKE ANNUAL VACATION

Lawyers To Observe Yearly Half-Day Vacation For 3 Weeks

At a recent meeting of the members of the Garrett County Bar Association, which is composed of all the Oakland attorneys, it was determined to observe the annual half-day vacation period commencing with Monday, July 28, and extending to and including Saturday, August 16.

During this period the law offices in Oakland will be open for business as usual each day until 12 o'clock noon, but after that hour will be closed until the following morning. Only matters of an emergency nature will be taken up after the closing hour.

The several attorneys request that those having legal business to transact during the period mentioned to call at their offices during the morning hours. In event the services of the State's Attorney should be needed for the purpose of handling State matters he can be reached by making inquiry at his home in Oakland.

PRELIMINARY PLANS ARE MADE FOR K. OF P. PICNIC

E. P. Kahl Named Manager at Committee Meeting Last Night

Preliminary plans for the eleventh annual Labor Day Picnic, to be held under the auspices of th Knights of Pythias lodge of Oakland, were made at a meeting of the committee yesterday evening. The celebration will be held Monday, September 1.

Edward P. Kahl was named manager and he will be assisted by the officers of the lodge. Sub-committees will be appointed at the regular lodge session tomorrow evening. A Ford sport roadster with rumble seat and otherwise fully equipped, has been purchased by the lodge and will be given away on the day of the celebration.

New and additional features for the convenience and pleasure of the people were discussed by those present.

Officers Installed

Officers for Garrett Lodge No. 113, Knights of Pythias, were installed at the last regular meeting of the lodge last Friday evening. The following were installed by Harry L. Stemple, deputy grand chancellor, and M. W. Mann, district deputy grand chancellor: Olin Hardesty, chancellor commander; George Fulk, vice-chancellor; Paul Riley, prelate; I. R. Rudy, master of work; D. W. Walter, master of finance; Walter Hardesty, keeper of records and seal; A. T. Matthews, master of exchequer; Stanley Bond, master at arms; Stanley Stahl, inner guard; Lee R. Mason, outer guard.

Marylanders at Akron, Ohio, to Hold Reunion

Marylanders living in Akron, Ohio, and the immediate vicinity, will hold their annual reunion on Sunday, August 10, at Nesmith Lake Park, Akron, located on the South Manchester road, south of the Barberton-Springfield road. In case of rain there will be covered tables. There will be music, addreses and election of officers at 2:00 o'clock, and games and amusements will be provided by a committee, according to Ross C. Durst, president of the Maryland Society in Akron.

Marylanders are requested to take their lunch and eat at the Park. It is suggested that all readers of The Republican notify any friends whom they may have in the vicinity of Akron. About 800 attended last year. Mr. Durst can be located in Akron by calling Cuy. 0544-J.

City Hall Improvement to be Completed in Short Time

The improvements at the City Hall, made so as to accommodate the large equipment of the volunteer fire department, will be completed within two weeks, according to Mayor Stemple.

The original stairway leading to the upper floor of the building has been torn away, thus giving an additional six feet for the fire engines, which will enable the trucks to have a quicker get-away during fires. Another stairway to replace the one removed has been erected in the rear part of the building with entrance from an alleyway. A cement walk, with railing, leading from Third street to the stairway entrance, will be built.

The improvements will also provide greater space on the second floor hall in which meetings of the American Legion, fire department, boys' band and boy scouts, as well as community gatherings are held.

WAR MOTHER, RETURNING FROM FRANCE IS INJURED

Mrs. Wm. Kildow, Oakland, Received Fractured Hip On Board The Steamship Roosevelt

Mrs. Delilah Kildow, of Oakland, received a fractured hip when she stumbled over a suit case in her stateroom on the liner President Roosevelt, as she was returning from her trip to France in which 231 Gold Star mothers had visited their sons' graves.

She was given medical attention by Dr. Walker, the ship's surgeon, and a splint was fashioned by the ship's carpenter in which the leg was bound, until she reached the pier at New York when she was taken to St. Vincent's hospital in an ambulance.

It was uncertain at first just what injuries she had sustained, but a telegram on Tuesday morning from the hospital to Mr. William Kildow, her husband, stated that her hip had been fractured and that it would be necessary for her to remain in the hospital there for several weeks.

The accident happened last Friday as she was entering her cabin. "She is a wonderful woman", one member of the 231 returning Gold Star mothers, said. "She was the only gold star mother from Garrett county, 72 years old, and she was always smiling and full of life. You'd never think she was anywhere near that age."

In her cabin after the accident, Mrs. Kildow was cheerful. "I'll be all right soon," she said.

Mrs. Kildow left Oakland on June 12 for New York City from which port she sailed for France with other Gold Star mothers, and visited the grave of her son, Proctor Kildow, killed in action at Chateau Thierry during the early days of this country's entrance into the conflict. Corporal Kildow was a member of the Marine corps. The local Legion post received a letter from Mrs. Kildow last week telling how much she was enjoying her trip.

DRIVER OF MICHIGAN CAR IS FOUND AND ARRESTED

Owner Is Fined $100 and Costs On Reckless Driving Charge

Robert Orville Yocum, driver of the Michigan car which side-swiped another car at the corner of Third and Oak streets last Wednesday evening, July 9, and plunged across the pavement on Third street into an iron pipe supporting an upper portico at the construction building and breaking a large glass, was apprehended near Thomas, W. Va., on Thursday night after a chase by officials. He was brought to Oakland and given a hearing before W. A. Gonder, justice of the peace, who fined him $100 and costs on a charge of reckless driving, and $1 and costs for having no registration card.

The license number on his automobile was taken by a person who witnessed the accident and it was through this means that he was located the following day. He attmpted to escape in his car when he discovered officers were on his trail, and just as they were about to overtake him he jumped from the car and ran towards a woods nearby where he was apprehended.

A woman who was in the automobile at the time he was attempting to escape finally brought the car to a halt at the edge of a steep embankment.

Yocum, in default of payment of the fines imposed, is being lodged in the Garrett county jail, and his car has been attached for payment of the damage done to the construcion building.

Miniature Golf Course Is Now Open

The miniature golf course, adjoining the William-James Hotel, was officially opened last Friday evening when the members of the Rotary club played the round of eighteen holes as guests of Mr. James Towler, the owner.

Since Friday evening a large number of townspeople as well as visitors have enjoyed the game. The course is open both day and night, the lighting facilities at night being excellent, it is said by those who have played.

Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson returned to New York Tuesday after vlsiting relatives here.

Broadcasting Uses Big Wire Network

Chains Use 30,000 Miles of Circuits Daily; Require 300 Trained Men

Interconnecting radio stations by telephone lines for the simultaneous broadcasting of programs has now reached such proportions that well over 30,000 miles of circuits are in use in the United States. Transcontinental broadcasting by means of such telephone wire lines is now a daily occurrence.

"Here they are." Amos 'n' Andy, radio entertainers extraordinary of the National Broadcasting Company.

Chain radio systems in this country are operated on telephone circuits, which engineers of the telephone company say must have transmission characteristics materially different from message telephone circuits.

The manner in which these lines are tested and controlled requires an elaborate network of telegraph circuits which now aggregate more than 40,000 miles of wire. A corps of 300 specially trained men are required to operate these broadcasting circuits.

U. S. Directories Make Immense Book

Telephone Companies In This Country Now Issue 3,100 Books Annually

Telephone directories in some of the larger cities of the country now contain so many names and numbers that it has become necessary to issue these books in more than one volume.

An enterprising newspaper man on the Boston Post has figured out that if all of the 3,100 separate issues of 33,000,000 copies of directories issued annually in the United States were combined in one volume, it would contain 39,000,000 lines printed on 82,000 pages and would be eleven feet thick. To keep the names, addresses and telephone numbers in these directories up to date, necessitates 10,000,000 printing changes a year. In printing these books 50,000 tons of paper are used annually.

If a single telephone directory were issued to include the names and numbers of all the books printed by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, it would contain 700,000 lines on 5,000 pages. These companies now issue 36 different directories twice a year, with a total of 1,587,000 copies. In the course of a year about 550,000 changes are necessary to keep the listings up to date, while the printing of these books requires the use of 1,400 tons of paper.

Facts and Figures on Your Telephone

By EDWIN F. HILL

Edwin F. Hill

People who have the idea that when a telephone is once installed it is a permanent fixture should be interested in knowing that last year in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia it was necessary to install more than three and one-half telephones to make a net gain of one. The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies serving this area operated 618,710 telephones on January 1. The increase last year was 31,239. To make this net gain 110,742 telephones were installed, while 79,503 were disconnected.

The ever increasing requirements for telephone service in these three States and the District of Columbia call for extensive construction programs on the part of the telephone system. In the next five years expenditures of more than $100,000,000 are contemplated for additions and improvements to the telephone plant. During 1930 the Chesapeake and Potomac Companies expect to spend more than $22,000,000. Last year such additions and improvements in this area involved expenditures of $16,488,547. Construction projects this year will include the purchase of land, the erection of buildings, additions to buildings, additonal outside plant, including pole lines, wire and cable, central office equipment, consisting of switchboards and associated apparatus, and the installation of telephones and private branch exchange switchboards on the subscribers' premises.

POLITICS IN REVIEW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore

The next thing for the warring Democrats in Baltimore is a harmony or slate making conference to be called by the Governor and at which a ticket for the city is to be made up. We do not hear the names of those to be invited but suppose the list will be made up by His Excellency.

In the court house the clerks are uneasy and have not received the word. Some of them may be sidetracked to make way for new blood. Report has it that Sheriff Potee will not be put on the slate. When first nominated he had the backing of Frank Kelly. Now there is no Frank Kelly to back him. He has been a staunch Ritchie man but that doesn't mean that Ritchie will try to save him. Ritchie is busy trying to save himself and if there should be only one life preserver in sight at the critical moment he can be counted on to grab it for himself.

On Thursday, Billy Curran, Philip B. Pehlman and Howard W. Jackson were seen having lunch together at a down town hotel. The assumption was that they were discussing a program to present to the Governor at the coming peace conference—now considerably delayed. What Curran most wants is the members of the Legislature. He would like to have them all.

Nobody seems to know just what Jackson wants. Not so far back some thought he wanted to run for Governor but not now. Probably he wants to save some of his friends in the court house and maybe provide places for others who are not yet in the same court house. He might have done a great deal by rejecting the Governor's fake peace offers and putting up a fight. Many of his friends apparently expected him to do this. Certainly Charlie Bichy had been working in that direction and holding the insurgents together with very little help. He has been the last to hold out against the Ritchie blandishments and seems to understand His Excellency's purpose better than do many others in the insurgent camp.

Reports from several counties this week indicate that the Democratic opposition to the Governor does not lessen. It seems to be moving largely along the same lines as the opposition to Al Smith and in some sections it is predicted that the Governor will receive no more votes than Smith got two years ago.

Bichy Men Given
The Cold Shoulder

As might have been expected, the friends of Charlie Bichy are to be given the cold shoulder in making up the lists of election clerks and judges and no more have been hoped for from the gentlemen who are managing the Democratic party in the city.

In the Twenty-seventh Ward we hear the word went out not to name any person who had supported McIntosh and of course this meant a great many in that section. It means, of course, that much more by bitterness in the election and that means less votes for the Democratic ticket.

And all this on top of talk of harmony.

Women Making
Drive for Legislature

Some of the more aggressive and progressive women are making a concerted drive for representation in the next Legislature and two have already announced themselves as candidates for the House, Miss Lavinia Engle of Montgomery, and Miss Mary Risteau of Harford. We hear that Mrs. St. George Barber of Anne Arundel, who has served one term in the House, has been urged to run again and in Baltimore there is Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown, who is talking of becoming a candidate although a Republican in a usually Democratic City. We hear that the women are looking for a candidate in Frederick county and that they made a survey of Baltimore county with discouraging results. Whether they have any good prospects on the Eastern Shore we have not yet heard but surely that section should produce a candidate.

The idea, as we hear it, is to do something for the women voters and taxpayers regardless of party and the effort is to put up candidates for the majority party in each section. To date we have heard of the Democrats doing nothing for women candidates in Baltimore City although there are plenty of women here who might like a seat in the next Legislature.

And while we are on this subject we make note of the fact that the Democrats in Kent county, where the two factions have divided the prospective loaves and fishes, have agreed on a woman candidate for county treasurer.

Three-Cornered Contest
For State Treasurer

Banking men are much interested in the report that there is to be a great battle for the State Treasureship at the coming session of the Legislature in the event that the Democrats have control of that body on joint ballot.

Of course, John M. Dennis hopes to hold on to the office which he has held for nearly 13 years, eleven of which have been consecutive. He not only is a candidate for reelection but he knows more about how to get elected than any other man in Maryland, while those who would compete with him are more or less green.

There is no specific information as to the identity of the candidate to be put forth with the backing of the Baltimore Trust Company people as represented in the preliminary contest by Charles H. Knapp. But the most interesting detail is that the newest bank merger, embracing the Maryland Trust and the Drovers and Mechanics Bank will have a candidate in the person of William J. Casey, who succeeded the late S. Davies Warfield in the presidency of the Continental. This merger, which is now going thru, creates the fourth real big bank for Baltimore and Mr. Casey is to be one of the vice-presidents.

Frank A. Furst, long the political backer of Mr. Dennis, is now reported to be actively backing Mr. Casey and behind Mr. Furst is said to be the fine Italian hand of B. Howell Griswold, Jr., who is considered responsible for the merger and who seems to have more influence with the head of the Arundel Corporation than has Mr. Dennis. Mr. Furst is to be the chairman of the board of the Griswold merged institute and this move is credited to Mr. Griswold. Then on top of this Mr. Griswold is a warm friend of John E. Cullen, now one of the Governor's most active advisers and workers for party harmony.

Not so long ago Mr. Casey was open in declaring himself a supporter of Mr. Dennis for reelection but he is not now denying that he would accept the place.

The Governor, it now seems, is in somewhat of a jam about the matter. Probably he would like to see Mr. Dennis thrown overboard, but he needs the Dennis help in his hour of peril. Mr. Dennis can do a great deal for Ritchie. And the Governor is elected first.

But it will now be very embarrassing for the Governor to turn against the Baltimore Trust candidate after having used high officials in that organization for his political purposes. On the other hand it will be difficult for him to oppose the Furst-Griswold candidate as he has been making use of both Furst and Griswold just as he is wont to use others.

As for Mr. Furst, he is getting wobbly. And the more wobbly he becomes the less political strength he will have for the battle.

More Politics For State Tax Commission

Students of government may think such a body as the State Tax Commission should not be made a political football but in filling the latest vacancy the Governor has stuck to his old method and given politics the first consideration just as he has more than once done in the appointment of judges to the bench of this State.

The new appointee, Senator A. L. McCardell of Frederick may be well qualified for the post but no one ever before heard of him in any such connection. What the Governor probably had in mind was the fact that he is being given a great deal of "cussing" in Frederick county, while Mr. McCardel is a very popular man and was able to overcome a normal Republican majority when he ran for the Senate. Thus the McCardell appointment may be expected to bring badly needed votes to His Excellency and in due course of time the new appointee will learn about the Tax Commission's work.

Possibly the Governor had more in mind. Possibly he had in mind that by putting Mr. McCardell on the Tax Commission he got him out of the way of Emory L. Coblentz, who is said to have a mind to help the distressed Ritchie by running for the State Senate this year. This we hand out as a surmise for really we think that Mr. Coblentz has had enough of helping the Ritchie regime along. Certainly he knows that if Ritchie wins this time he will be a candidate again in 1934.

It should not be overlooked in passing that Mr. McCardell is a thirty-third degree Mason. This gives emphasis to the often heard report that the Governor is now engaged in flattering the members of the Masonic order since he thinks he has certain other groups already in his political pocket and it may be mentioned that the promotion of a member of the Masonic body to a lieutenancy in the police department recently has given rise to some caustic comments from non-Masonic members of that branch of the State government. Of course, the Governor explains that he has nothing to do with promotions in the police department especially when a Mason is promoted to take the place of a Catholic who has been forced into retirement.

Governor Paradea
The Afro-Americans

The announcement through the publicity bureau of His Excellency of his indorsement by 1500 Afro-Americans did not come as a surprise to those who have been familiar with the fight that is being made for a fourth term. Beginning with his second campaign the Governor has been courting the colored brother behind the door just as he has been courting other groups, and the wholesale indorsement of this week is the result of the latest efforts.

This is, of course, an effort to offset the Governor's declining strength among the whites of Maryland, and an evidence that many colored voters do not look upon Ritchie as much of a Democrat. The fact is that the returns of 1928 showed that the colored brother voted as solidly as usual for the Republican candidate for President and that being so, the backing some of them are now giving Ritchie needs explaining. Are the negroes who are now endorsing the Governor members of the better class of the race or are they the crap shooting element? Certainly the crap shooters should back His Excellency to the last ditch as he has long been the favorite of the crap shooting whites.

Relief Came Only With DRECO

Mr. Geo. Williams was a victim of constipation

Mr. Geo. Williams

"For four years I suffered from a sour stomach and constipation," said Mr. George A. Williams, 26 Orchard St., Cumberland, Md. to one of the Dreco Experts. My tongue was coated and I always felt tired out.

"My only relief came when I tried the Dreco treatment. Since I've taken the treatment I have almost forgotten what it is to feel badly.

"Dreco Hi-speed tablets regulated my bowels and did away with that tired worn out feeling."

THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1930.

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

The number of strangers in Oakland was variously estimated at from nine hundred to fifteen hundred. The Oakland Hotel, Glades Hotel, the Bosley House, The Rest, many private homes and residences were crowded with the then usual summer visitors to Oakland who came about July 4th and remained through the summer, some as late as November to enjoy the gunning for pheasants, woodcock and other game which abounded in the woods near town. Others remained for a trip to the Canaan Valley for bear and deer hunting, which at that time was reached by pack horse requiring from three to five days. Now the journey is made in an hour or two.

An advertisement appeared stating that "H. A. Davis, the popular and obliging barber, is now prepared to give hot or cold baths at the bath rooms of the Oakland Hotel. He also makes a specialty of trimming ladies' bangs and shampooing."

The Friendsville Cornet Band was to hold a festival on July 24. The brick company at Friendsville was about ready to begin shipping fire clay.

Frank Glotfelty, 13-year old son of Mahlon Glotfelty, near McHenry, had his right arm torn off three inches below the shoulder joint when he was caught in a belt on his father's saw mill. Dr. Henry W. McComas was called to render surgical aid.

Hanson B. Friend, of Deer Park, became the first new subscriber for The Republican under the new (and present) management. Mr. Friend resided at Deer Park.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Cleaver H. Pool, 35, Kitzmiller, was killed on July 3 at the Pleasant Valley mine near Kitzmiller. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pool.

A petition was published in The Republican which had been presented to the Garrett County School Board asking for the retention of Mr. U. G. Palmer as principal of the Oakland High School. The petition bore the names of 288 citizens of the town and community.

Residents of Grantsville anticipated the opening of a second bank within sixty days which was chartered by the State of Maryland. The capital stock was made $15,000 with Mr. John O. Getty as cashier.

An Interesting Fact

Michael Cresap, Empire Builder

One of the most interesting characters of Revolutionary days was Captain Michael Cresap, a Marylander. He was born at Old Town in 1742, the youngest son of Thomas Cresap, a picturesque frontier trader and trapper. Thomas Cresap was one of the loyal supporters of Charles Calvert, fifth Lord Baltimore, during whose administration as Proprietary the boundary dispute with Penn reached border warfare proportions. He was known among the Indians as "Big Spoon" because of his open hospitality. He had incurred the active enmity of the Pennsylvanians, principally because in defiance of the Penns he had constructed a block house near the Susquehanna on the fortieth degree, the north limit originally claimed by Lord Baltimore, disputed by Penn. It is said of him when wounded and captured in an attack on his home and taken to Philadelphia, he congratulated the citizens of that thriving settlement and remarked "Why this is the finest city in the Province of Maryland."

Michael, the son, certainly inherited the combative spirit of his noted father. His house, near the Conococheague, constructed as a fort or block house, was, during the period when the Indians made frequent forays, a rendezvous for the defenders of the Province.

Early in 1774 Cresap removed to the Ohio River Valley country and established himself just below the Zane settlement, at what is now the city of Wheeling, W. Va., and was soon put in command of Fincastle, (afterwards known as Fort Henry). It was here that he did valiant service in quelling Indian outbreakes, the culmination of a long series of mutual grievences and outrages between the Indians of the Ohio Valley and the Scotch-Irish and German frontiersmen of western Virginia and Pennsylvania. What is known as "Cresap's War" was the result. History recognizes Cresap's efforts in the Ohio Valley as the first step towards the acquisition by the United States of the great Northwest Territory, the third and final step being the ceding of that territory by Virginia in deference to the insistence of Maryland.

Cresap returned to Maryland in time to participate to a very large extent in the exciting events of 1775, and such was the magic in the name of Cresap that when Congress authorized the raising of two companies of Maryland light infantry and it was known that Michael Cresap was to command one of them, daring riflemen 100 miles and more distant, from western Maryland, marched to Cambridge to enlist under his standard.

Space forbids further comment. Suffice it to say that Cresap, always in the thick of the fray, battling for right and civilization, was one of many Marylanders who laid the foundation of our Republic.

Beyond the County

At Baltimore, a passenger and freight service between that city and Hamburg, Germany, has been inaugurated by a company of which Kermit Roosevelt is vice-president, which is expected to greatly benefit the eastern shore.

In Italy, to dispose of the unsalable wine stocks, the government requires that certain quantities of alcohol made from wine be added to gasoline intended for use as a carburant.

At Washington the Treasury Department reports that during the last fiscal year of prohibition enforcement 68,186 persons were arrested, 24,373 stills were seized and destroyed, and 8,778 automobiles were confiscated.

In Pennsylvania Gifford Pinchot, Republican gubernatorial nominee, plans to run as an independent in the general election this fall.

At San Francisco, owing to a trade war, gasoline retailed as low as 5 cents a gallon, including the 3 cents tax, last week, with predictions made that the price would go as low as the state tax before the price cutting is ended.

In Baltimore, owing to the lower price of wheat, housewives will be benefitted by bakers selling a larger loaf of bread, increasing the size two ounces on the large loaf, and one ounce on the small.

In Pittsburgh a policeman seeks to divorce his wife, charging that she demanded he get up from bed in the night and get her a package of cigarettes and on his refusal hit him over the head with the telephone receiver.

In California, a yellow jacket, which had apparently fed on the venom of a dead rattlesnake, stung a man on the top of his head, which swelled and turned black, almost causing his death.

In Chicago, the will of John Morris, famous 30 years ago for drawing perfectly 'airtight' wills, has been in litigation 28 years, having just been judiciously interpreted by the courts.

In the Central western states last week, more than two scores died and many others prostrated by temperatures quite generally higher than 100 degrees.

In Australia, Charles McNess, millionair, being discourteously treated by the Secretary of a charitable institution, tore up a check for 50 thousand dollars, which he intended to present.

In Colorado, because a debt of $24, balance was owing, a granit dealer seized and carted away a 1600-pound tombstone from the head of a grave, was arrested and placed in jail.

In Fairmont, W. Va., last Friday, at Shaver Field, an airport opened that day, a plane, piloted by Charles S. Seman, of Uniontown, crashed after rising to a height of only 100 feet, injuring three, who are expected to fully recover, one minus a few teeth.

In Maryland, so far this year, receipts from the gasoline tax amount to the sum of more than 3 million dollars, a gain of more than 357 thousand dollars over last year, the total receipts for 1929 being 5 million 700 thousand.

At the memorial services held for the late Sir Canon Doyle in London, an incensed crowd of scoffers broke up the meeting after a professional clairvoyant claimed to have received spirit messages from the deceased.

Dr. J. S. Winters has lived in Mississippi, Kentucky, Indiana and Alabama, but always in Jefferson county in each state.

On the Fourth of July, the holiday celebrations caused the death of 200 people, 14 from fireworks injuries, 107 by automobiles, and 65 by drownings.

PLAN TO WIDEN NATIONAL HIGHWAY IN NEAR FUTURE

To Replace Dangerous Bridge Near Pennsylvania Line

The Maryland State Roads Commission, G. Clinton Uhl, chairman, will make contracts within the next few weeks for work on two roads of Western Maryland, the cost of which will aggregate about $135,000.

The National Highway, from the Pennsylvania State line, about three and one-half miles west of Keyser Ridge, is to have shoulders placed on each side of the road for a distance of five miles east of that point.

Included in this contract will be the erection of a bridge to take the place of the dangerous structure now standing about one-quarter mile east of the Pennsylvania State line. The new bridge will not only be wider and more modern, but will be so placed as to eliminate the dangerous curve now existing. This work will be advertised for bids within the next few weeks, and it is estimated that the cost for new bridge and shoulders will be about $90,000.

The other strech of road in Western Maryland includes five miles of the McMullen Highway, from Amcelle towards Keyser, which will have shoulders placed on each side, giving it a width of twenty feet.

FOOT INFECTIONS SHOULD BE GIVEN DOCTOR'S CARE

Feet and Toes of Bathers Should Be Inspected Regularly

To prevent the spread of infectious skin diseases of the feet, the Maryland State Department of Health, in a bulletin recently issued on Indoor and Outdoor Swimming Pools, recommends that the feet, and especially the toes, of bathers, be inspected regularly, and that persons showing infection be excluded from the pools and dressing rooms and be advised to consult a skin specialist.

Calling attention to the recommendation, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, said: "Infectious skin diseases of the feet are not reportable, so we cannot tell just how many persons have been affected, but a number that have occurred in Maryland have been brought to the attention of the Department. Reports that have come from other states indicate that such infections are becoming increasingly prevelant throughout the country.

"Nearly all of these foot infections are picked up by walking barefooted in public places—shower, locker or dressing rooms, at pools, bath houses or gymnasiums. The majority are caused by a fungus found on the floor of such places. As the fungus grows also on silk, cotton and on leather, the infections may also be picked up from unsterilized towels, bathing suits and slippers.

"Because of its connection with sports of various kinds, this particular infection is commonly known as 'athletic foot.' Less popular titles include ring worm, toe itch, toe scald, fungus foot and papilloma—the latter indicating certain kinds of warts. The fungus that causes the infection is a species of mold, something like the mold that occasionally develops on bread or other food kept in hot moist places. As the growth matures it produces innumerable spores—tiny seed-like bodies—visible only through a microscope. These find ready lodgment on the feet, particularly where there is any break in the skin. The disease has various forms. It may show around the base of the nails or between the toes as a raw, open sore; as water blisters, especially on the sole; as a red, itchy eczema, on the tips of the toes and the neighboring portion of the fect; as warts on the soles; or as a sodden scalded condition, with a tendency to crackling or fissuring, between the toes.

"To protect those who use public pools, the operators of such pools are advised to wash all floors, benches, stools, all rubber mats and all woodwork with which the feet of the bathers come in contact, daily, with a strong solution of chlorinated lime or chlorinated soda. Canvas mats or pads are a source of infection and should not be used.

"Thorough washing of the feet after swimming, with plenty of clean water and soap, and careful drying, are advised, as a matter of course. Dusting the feet afterwards with an antiseptic powder, such as starch or taicum, may serve as an additional safeguard, but if an infection develops, go to your doctor or to a skin specialist."

As President Hoover was returning to Washington from his camp on Sunday, a car out of control, driven by a woman, crashed into the third car of the party. No one was injured.

FEWER MARYLAND MINES ARE OPERATED DURING '29

Production 2,649,114 Tons, Federal Bureau Report Shows

Washington, July 17—A total of 2,649,114 tons of coal with a market value of $4,640,000 was moved in two counties of Maryland in 1929, according to the report of the Bureau of Mines of the Department of Commerce, made yesterday.

A total of 3,289 miners and laborers were employed.

Allegany County Leads

The reported tonnage was mined from 78 shafts by 2,170 miners, employed in Allegany and Garrett counties, the former leading with a total production of 1,847,059 tons, valued at $3,399,000.

Garrett mined 802,055 tons, valued at $1,241,000. The average price per ton was $1.75, Allegany coal receiving a slightly higher price than that from Garrett.

The number of operating mines in the State was the lowest in three years, 80 having been worked in 1928 and 85 in 1927.

There are two mines of Class 1, which produced 17.5 per cent of the total tonnage. Seven mines in Class 2 produced 34.4 per cent of the total.

PERSONAL AND LOCAL NOTES OF INTEREST

Mr. W. F. Cutter, of Lonaconing, visited Oakland Friday last on business.

Mr. George Schwarzenbach, Cumberland, visited Gilmor S. Hamill, 3rd, recently.

Mr. John A. Blamble, of near Gorman, was a caller at The Republican office Monday.

Miss Lillian Helbig, of Baltimore, is here for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Helbig.

Mr. Norman Hoover, Jennings, visited the county seat Monday and was also a caller at The Republican offic.

Mr. Harry Edwards, of Grantsville, was in Oakland for a few hours as a business visitor Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. C. H. Smith and Miss Peggy Baker, both of Clifton Forge, Va., are here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Stallings.

Mr. Henry Kitzmiller, of Terra Alta, where he is employed on the farm at Hopemont, was a business visitor in Oakland on Saturday.

Mr. William L. Thomas, of Grafton, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Mary Thomas, spent yesterday in Oakland with friends.

Mrs. G. W. Keys, of Alexandria, Va., is a guest of her niece, Miss Kate Shirer, on Alder street, having arrived in Oakland yesterday evening.

Mr. Leslie I. King and members of his family, who spent two weeks in Oakland with relatives, have returned to their home in Lakewood, Ohio.

Mrs. Elinor Hoye and Miss Hazel Nine, of Oakland, spent a few days last week at Sines where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hinebaugh.

Mr. Emroy Bolden has had his residence on Second street improved by a new veranda and the application of a coat of paint to the entire structure.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Butt and two daughters left Oakland Sunday for points in West Virginia and Ohio to visit relatives and friends for a week or ten days.

The regular monthly meeting of the County Commissioners of Garrett county will be held on Monday, August 4, for the purpose of transacting routine business.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murdock, of Kingwood, en route to Atlantic City for a brief sojourn, stopped in Oakland a few hours yesterday where they called upon some friends.

Prof. E. S. Steele, of Washington, D. C., a leading authority on botany, who is spending the summer at Terra Alta, W. Va., was a guest Tuesday of Mr. Joseph E. Harned in Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Spier and daughter, of Grantsville, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell and Mr. D. R. Sincell, were guests at the home of Mrs. Etta Engle near Grantsville Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dial H. Elkins, of Washington, D. C., arrived in Oakland Monday afternoon for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell and other relatives.

The Ladies Auxiliary of Proctor Kildow Post, American Legion, will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday, July 22, at the K. of P. Hall, at 8 p. m. All members and those eligible for membership are urged to attend.

Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Stanton, of Baltimore, came to Oakland Tuesday afternoon for a visit with the family of his recently deceased brother, the late J. M. Stanton, leaving a short time afterward for Chesapeake City, Md.

Miss Dorothy O'Neil, of New Orleans, La., is visiting at the home of her uncle, Mr. J. C. Renninger, in Oakland.

Mrs. D. M. Dixon and her sister, Mrs. A. R. Hendrickson, of Ohio, who is here as her house guest, accompanied by Miss Susanna Dixon, motored to Baltimore Wednesday to remain a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Evander.

Mrs. Margaret McComas left Oakland Saturday evening for Boston, Mass., where she will visit friends a short time. Before returning to her home Mrs. McComas will visit her sister, Mrs. Weston Dodson, at Bethlehem, Pa.

Mr. Gordon K. Boucher, of Grantsville, has been recommended for appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. Mr. Boucher is a son of the late Phineas C. Boucher. He is at present a student in an eastern college.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education of Garrett county will be held at the board office in Oakland on Friday when matters of educational interest affecting the welfare of the schools for the coming year will be discussed and disposed of.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Brown, of Cumberland, returned to Oakland Sunday after having spent several days in Pittsburgh where they visited Mr. and Mrs. John Smyth. They were accompanied here by Mr. Smyth and family, all of whom are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ault near town.

Rev. Lloyd T. Stewart, formerly of Frostburg, has moved to Deer Park and will take charge of the Swanton and Sand Flat Churches of God as their pastor. He will conduct special services each evening except Monday in the Sand Flat church, beginning at eight o'clock.

Robert P. Hill, Durmont, N. Y.; John McLain, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Jacob, Misses Lillian Ada James and Ruth Vifchestaiu, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Jacobs and son, and Mrs. Jean Martin, all of Pittsburgh, Pa., were guests over the week-end of Mrs. Nettie J. Eichelberger.

Mr. Getty Browning, accompanied by Mrs. Browning and their four children, motored to Oakland from Raleigh, N. C., one day last week and are here with relatives for a short time. Mr. Browning is chief road engineer for North Carolina, having been associated with the roads commission of that State for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Senft, of Columbia, Pa., the former a prominent lawyer and the latter a sister of Mrs. Shilke, accompanied by Miss Grace Senft, of Philadelphia, and Miss Miriam Harm, of Enola, Pa., motored from Columbia to Oakland yesterday where they will remain several days as guests of Rev. and Mrs. Shilke.

Mr. and Mrs. Harland L. Jones and Miss Grace Jones, Second street, had as week-end visitors Mr. and Mrs. Harvey B. Reppetto, of Fremont, O.; Dr. and Mrs. Lewis McClurg Steenrod, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Zacharias, of Chambersburg, Pa.

During the past few days State Roads Commission employes have erected "Stop" signs at the intersections of all cross streets with Route 37, which passes through the center of town, except at the intersections where automatic electric stop lights were installed about two years ago by the town officials.

Rev. Alvin P. Knell, Washington, D. C., will deliver the message in St. Matthew's Episcopal church on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock, his subject being "The Peril of an Ancient Reign." The present season marks the eighth annual visit of Dr. Knell to Oakland, each time assisting in the services of the Episcopal church. Mrs. Knell has been spending her summers in Mountain Lake Park since 1892.

Mr. Olen H. Yoder, of near Grantsville, spent yesterday in Oakland.

Mrs. C. C. Harvey, of near Deer Park, spent yesterday in Oakland on business.

Messrs. Frank and Harvey Teets, Friendsville, are in Oakland today on business.

Miss Jessica Lyons, Washington, D. C., is spending several weeks with Miss Virginia Hamill at her home.

The Republican regrets to note the very serious illness of Mrs. Charles A. Ashby, of Deer Park, who was recently taken ill and is now in a critical condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koch, Kingwood, spent the week-end with Mrs. Koch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Hinebaugh, near Oakland.

Miss Gladys Davis, of Wheeling, W. Va., is a guest of Rev. and Mrs. B. T. Trevey at the parsonage of St. Paul's M. E. church this week.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy F. Snoops, of Baltimore, were guests last night and this morning of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Harned at their home on Green street.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Stemple spent Sunday in Cumberland visiting Mr. Stempie's brother James, who underwent an operation in one of the hospitals of the city recently.

Mrs. John Mountain and four children, of Hollidaysburg, Pa., returned to their home yesterday after having visited Miss Zaidee Browning and other relatives in Oakland for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Saylor and their daughter Louise Saylor, and Mr. T. S. Albaugh, all of Walkersville, Md., were visitors at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Shilke in Oakland Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. W. H. Chambers purchased a lot on Deep Creek Lake, near McHenry, and will erect a filling station and lunch room in the near future. The purchase was made from R. C. McComas, realtor.

State Forester F. W. Besley, accompanied by District Forester Buckingham were in Oakland yesterday, going to the State reserves later in the day where some engineering work defining the lines of the lands is under way.

Dr. William D. Scherr and Dr. Wm. Madeira, Morgantown, W. Va., were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. Renninger for a short time Tuesday after having attended a meeting of the Medical Association of West Virginia, held at Hopemont.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Enlow and daughter, of Waukegan, Ill., after a visit of two weeks with Hoyes friends, left today for their home. Mr. Enlow is a son of the late Reuben Enlow, of Hoyes and has been a resident of the mid-west for several years.

At the High School building in Oakland on Saturday, July 26, beginning at 9:30 o'clock examination of candidates for free scholarships in various State institutions of learning will be conducted by County Superintendent F. E. Rathbun. Information concerning these scholarships may be had by referring to the advertisement in today's Republican or by communication with the office of the County Superintendent.

Playford A. Naylor, attorney of Sebring, Fla., and president of the City Council of that city, was named president of the Lion club of Sebring at a recent meeting of that organization. Mr. Naylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Naylor, Oakland, and has made his home in Sebring for the past several years. He was commended by the editor of the Sebring American, daily newspaper, for his part in the economic administration of the City Council, in a recent issue.

One of the series of automatic electric train signals being installed on the Third Division of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad between Grafton on the west and Cumberland on the east, is being completed in Oakland today by railway employes. The cost of the entire system is stated to be nearly a million dollars, the advantage being that trains may move faster and without too much mileage between them as is now the case with but two signal stops between Terra Alta and Mountain Lake Park, a distance of twelve miles or more.

Crellin to Meet Parsons Cubs on Sunday

The Crellin A. C. Baseball team will meet the Parsons Cubs of Parsons, W. Va., Sunday, July 20, on the diamond nt Crellin. This is the second meeting of these two teams, Parsons being victorious in the first contest by a close score. The Parsons Cubs have several former D. & E. College players in their line-up. The public is invited to witness this contest. No admission is charged.

Arrested on Moonshine Charge

Paul Sanders, about 19 years of age, was arrested Tuesday by county officers on a charge of possessing moonshine liquor for the purpose of sale. He was brought to Oakland but waived a hearing and will be held for his appearance at the December Term of the Grand Jury. He furnished bond in the sum of $500.

Publicity For Candidates.

Mr. Henry M. Speicher, general manager of the Garrett County Fair Association, has requested The Republican to state that candidates for nomination who desire a space in the annual fair book now in course of preparation should get their copy to him or send it direct to The Republican for insertion. A nominal charge will be made for the service. Several of the candidates have already bought space and others have the matter under advisement.

DEER PARK

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Sollars son and daughter, Mary and Edward; Mrs. Charles Montgomery and Miss Eunice George, were Cumberland visitors on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. King and daughter, Grace, were visitors near Bethlehem on Saturday evening.

Miss Ila Fern Knox is visiting in Morgantown, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Wilson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rodeheaver and son and Lester Lee were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Reis.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Sollars, Mrs. W. E. Georg, Mrs. F. N. Reis and daughter Pleasant, and Miss Eunice George attended the funeral of Melvin Durst, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Durst, of Grantsville, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lee and daughter Wanda, were visitors at Paradise on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Broadwater and son Robert were Sunday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Thrasher.

Mr. Wilfred Chadderton, Jack Helbig and Rhea Belle George were at Rainbow Inn on Saturday.

Mr. Albert Thrasher, of Washington, D. C., was visiting his mother Mrs. Elizabeth Thrasher.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

A. G. Ensor, State Master, announces that the annual State Grange Day will be held this year on August 2, at the U. S. Animal Husbandry Farm, located one mile east of the town of Beltsville, on the Baltimore-Washington Boulevard. All Grangers are urged to participate in the interesting program which will start at 10 a. m. and continue through to 3 p. m., allowing time enough for those from a long distance to make ferry and train connections for home.

From 10 a. m. until noon the Grangers will be kept busy inspecting the dairy herds and barns of the farm; the poultry plant of 7000 chickens; the beef and dual purpose cattle, of which there are 150 head; the 40 hogs; the facilities for killing and the meat investigation work; the six breeds of sheep and the genetic studies involving the use of 1500 guinea pigs.

Following luncheon at 12:30 greetings will be extended the group by R. W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of Agriculture. A response will be given by Dr. R. A. Pearson, President of the University of Maryland, and a report of the progress of the Grange will be made by the State Grange Organizer, T. Roy Brookes. The main address will be delivered by L. J. Taber, National Master.

ADAMS SAYS HE HAS NO INTENTION OF WITHDRAWING

Oakland, Md., July 16, 1930.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

It has come to my attention that a rumor is in circulation that I intend to withdraw from the race for the nomination for Sheriff on the Republican ticket.

This rumor is entirely without foundation. I am in the race to stay and trust that my friends will disregard this rumor and continue to support me in my campaign.

Very respectfully yours,
E. W. ADAMS.

Putting the Potomac to Work

Canal Begun by Washington Soon May Link Mississippi With Coast

From The Sunday Sun, Baltimore

One of the greatest engineering projects now holding the attention of the army engineers has been before the American public for a longer time than our Government has been in existence. It brought the colonies of Maryland and Virginia into close neighborliness even before they joined the other colonies in the great throw for independence. And with its beginning no less a person than George Washington was identified in a way that established him not only as the foremost soldier and statesman of his day but also as the universal engineer of his generation.

This project, in Washington's time, was known as the Powtomack Canal. In our time it is called the canalization of the Potomac river. Washington, our first engineer President, conceived the idea of an all-water route from Chesapeake Bay to the Mississippi river via Fort Duquesne, now Pittsburgh. That part of it known as the Ohio River Canal has been completed and was dedicated last October by our second engineer Presiden, Herbert Hoover. The remainder of the project is not yet authorized by Congress.

* * *

When and if it is completed it will be without rival anywhere on the globe, the nearest approach to it being the Rhine-Main Canal which connects the Rhine river with the Danube, now nearing completion. One of the most accomplished of the Army engineers, Major Brehon Somervell, was sent to Germany four years ago to spend as much time as was necessary in a study of the Rhine-Main Canal, and when he was satisfied that he had a complete picture of all the engineering problems that will have to be met and overcome he was brought home and placed in charge of the work on the Potomac.

For more than two years, under acts of Congress, Major Somervell and his engineering corps have been studying every possible problem connected with canalizing the Potomac from Georgetown to Pittsburgh, and they have now about finished those studies. One route calls for the canal to run under a mountain in a tunnel that may be longer than the Simplon tunnel in the Alps. An alternate route calls for carrying the canal over the Allegheny Mountains, a lift of some 2,500 feet, which will make it a higher lift than that of the Rhine-Main Canal by more than 1,000 feet. This in itself—or the tunnel, for that matter—will make this canal most unique and a much-traveled waterway. Scientifically it will be unparalleled, and practically it will be without an equal.

* * *

Whichever route the chief of engineers, Major General Lytle, Brown, recommends to the Secretary of War, and whichever one the Administration accepts and urges upon Congress, the canalization of this "flashy stream," as Major Somervell dubs the Potomac, will contribute immensely to the economic development of Maryland, for much of the canal will travel along the borders of this State or through it, and many of the great hydroelectric developments it calls for will be built on Maryland's soil or very close to it.

As the plans have now been developed there will be forty of these dams, creating forty lakes having a minimum depth of nine feet and all capable of generating 3,000,000 kilowatt hours per day. Right now there are before the Federal Power Commission three applications from important engineering firms in this country seeking the rights to build power dams at Little Falls and at Great Falls just above Washington, and a controversy has arisen between the proponents of this power development and the National Capitol Park and Planning Commission, of which Major General Brown is chairman, over these dams. Major Somervell has recommended the high dams, which will generate some 300,000-kilowatt hours per day, and the Planning Commission pleads for the preservation of the physical condition of the valley between the two falls. With this controversy this article will not deal. Each side has its stout defenders.

Maryland has more than a utilitarian interest in this grand canal. She was an equal partner with Virginia in the first canal company, formed by Washington in 1770, and she gave the later canal company, formed in 1758, a charter, along with Virginia, and subscribed to the capital stock. Her Governor, Thomas Sims Lee, was elected one of the four directors and served with Washington and Gov. Thomas Johnson for many years.

James Rumsey, the first manager of the works, was a Maryland man, one of her greatest citizens, it would seem, for he was inventor of the steamboat before the Clermont ran on the Hudson; and Richardson Stuart, the assistant manager, who succeeded Rumsey in that capacity, was also a Marylander, a citizen of Baltimore. As no work of this sort was ever undertaken without friction and controversy, Rumsey and Stuart fell out, Rumsey resigned and was succeeded by Stuart, against whom he filed serious charges that the board investigated and which Washington, in his diary, characterized as "Malignant, envious and trifling." Stuart later got in hot water with the board and was dismissed because of his non-attendance at a hearing the board ordered, he being then in Annapolis defending a law suit.

* * *

When the second Potomac Navigation Company was chartered the General Assembly of Virginia voted as a gratuity to Washington fifty shares of stock. This was a deep embarrassment to the Master of Mount Vernon, so after consulting his friends he agreed to hold the stock in trust for the State and so announced at a meeting held in May, 1785. This stock he devised to a National University to be founded at Washington, but at his death the Potomac Navigation Company was in bankruptcy and the stock worthless. The stock in the James River Navigation Company, which the General Assembly also gave him, he bequeathed to Liberty Academy at Lexington, Virginia, which, on the strength of the bequest, changed its name to Washington College, later to become Washington and Lee University. That stock is still paying dividends.

Two headquarters were maintained for this early navigation company, one at Georgetown and the other at Alexandria, the former being the more important becausc it was nearer the works that were undertaken and carried to completion.

* * *

If one reads Washington's diary intelligently, with a history of his life before him or in the back of his head, he gets a graphic picture of the genius of the man, which is shown more fully nowhere than in the development of plans for canalizing Father Potomac. He was the master spirit of the Potomac Navigation Company, he surveyed the river to find a proper channel; he gave attention to the character, health and wages of the men employed on the work; and he inspired his associates and the company's employcs with his own enthusiasm for the project. In 1754 he first rode over the great canal route to the Ohio and submitted a report to the Governor of Virginia which has many times been reprinted. And in the intervening thirty years he had many times, as he phrased it, "rid between George Town and Harper's Ferry," so that he was intimately familiar with the natural conformation of the stream at both places and between them.

In August, 1785, he left home "escorting Fanny Bassett to Alexandria," and proceeded to George Town for "the annual meeting of the Potomack Company." This was a most important meeting, for he, the president of the company, was to submit his report of a plan of operations, and on his recommendation the board decided to proceed "first to the Seneca Falls and next to those at the Mouth of Shannondoah, for the purpose of investigation and to direct operations thereat." (It should be said, by way of parenthesis, that Father George did not spell in the modern manner. Note Shannondoah for Shenandoah, and the K on the end of and an occasional W in the middle of Potomac).

When the meeting broke up the directors, led by Washington, went to the scene of the falls and made their headquarters at the home of "a Mr. Goldsborough, a decent Farmer's House"; and from there they went up and down the stream in boats, taking soundings, measuring the swiftness of the stream, looking for open channels to move boats through, and otherwise surveying the river. The longest entry in Washington's diary covers this important incident in his life, and the care with which he sets down details shows how dear the enterprise was to his heart. One quotation will demonstrate this.

> The Water through these Falls is of sufficient depth for good navigation, and as formidable as I had conceived them to be; but by no means impracticable. The principle difficulties lye in rocks which occasion a crooked passage. These once removed, renders the passage safe without the aid of Locks and may be effected for the Sum mentioned in Mr. John Ballendine's estimate, but in a different Manner than that proposed by him. It appearing to me, and was so unanimously determined by the Board of Directors, that a channel through the bed of the River in a straht direction, and as much in the course of the current as may be, without a grt. increase of labour and expense, would be preferable to that through the Gut which was the cholce of Mr. Ballendine for a Canal with Locks. The last of which we thought unnecessary, and the first more expensive in the first instance, besides being liable to many inconveniences which the other is not; as it would probably be frequently choaked with drift wood, ice, and other rubbish which would be thrown therein through the several inlets already made by the rapidity of the currents in freshes and others which probably would be made thereby; whereas a navigation thru the bed of the River when once made will, in all probability, remain forever as the current here will rather clear than contribute to choak the passage.
> It is true, that no track path (tow path) can be had in [illegible] thus ordered, nor does there appear a necessity for it. Tracking constitutes a large part of Mr. Ballendine's estimate. The want of which, in the rapid parts of the River (if Mr. Rumsey's plan for working Boats against stream by the force of Mechanical powers should fail) may be supplied by chains buoyed up to haul by, which would be equally easy, more certain, and less dangerous than setting up with Poles. Whilst track paths, it is apprehended, cannot be made to stand, and may endanger the Banks if the Wood is stripped from them, which is their present security against Washing.

* * *

Notwithstanding this technical explanation and the obstacles he saw, it was finally decided to have a canal and a lock and dam on the Virginia side, "through the marshes," and this was built. The remains of the old canal are still in existence, and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers purposes restoring this canal with its ancient and primitive lock as its contribution to the George Washington bicentennial which will be celebrated in 1932. That Washington designed the canal and built the works is probably not true. Mr. John Ballendine seems to have been the engineer who did that, and Washington's plan was to blast the rocks out of the channel and pull boats up stream over the falls by chains buoyed to the top of the water, if Mr. Rumsey's boat failed to be practical.

From the Seneca Falls Washington's party journeyed to Harper's Ferry, where he began an extensive survey. Truth compels me to say that Father George commenced this work "about sunrise" on the Sabbath day, and all that day he went up and down the Potomac at the junction with the "Shannondoah," looking for a passage. Once he imperiled his life, and his companions on shore had to beg him to come out of the rapids and not do any more "shooting" at that point. It might be all right for the Indians to tempt fate in their frail canoes, but America needed George Washington.

* * *

It is rather wonderful, is it not, that Washington should have been more concerned with the development of the river in Western Maryland than he was at the head of navigation at George Town? It should not be forgotten that canal engineering was in its infancy in that day, and no such engineering feat had ever been attempted, even in Europe. Washington's vision was so clear, his genius so certain, that it has not been improved on 145 years later. When the old Potomac Navigation Company was taken over by the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, the engineers of the latter company carried out the ideas set down in Washington's diary and canalized Father Potomac no higher than Cumberland, which was then thought to be the head on navigation. After many years' use and a varied history, that canal fell into disuse. Now comes the Hoover project to standardize finally the canal and make it effective.

* * *

In the army engineers' plan three great projects are called for. They are, indeed, the major engineering feats in the valley of the Potomac and will probably be the most elaborate and expensive on the canal. They are dams with locks at Little Falls and at Great Falls, and an enormous dam at Harper's Ferry. These dams will create something more than power, for they will stimulate the industrial development of Western Maryland. There is even now, Major Somervell told a Senate committee the other day, a waiting demand for the power that will be produced by these dams; and when they are completed with their accompanying locks a regular barge line between the coal fields of Cumberland and Baltimore may be set up. Each lock will accommodate three 1,000-ton barges and a tug.

Advocates of the plan point out that private capital, looking for power, is waiting to finance the dams, which, with the locks, will be constructed at practically no cost to the Government—quite the most unusual feature of the project. The engineering feat is in some respects a greater accomplishment than the building of the Panama Canal, and it will be more expensive. Of course the power produced is expected to pay for it.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE To the taxpayers of Garrett County that the annual levy for 1930 has been made and published and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45, Chapter 56, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the first day of September a discount of 3 per cent will be allowed, and after the first day of January all county taxes shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid. The treasurer shall take the discount from and charge the interest on the tax blils for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid, and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipts given on the taxes paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when the same is made."

Under the provisions of Section 48 of Chapter 630 of the Acts of 1916, all State taxes shall be due and payable on and after the first day of July in the year in which the same are levied, and if not paid on or before the first day of September of said year, shall bear interest from said date at the rate of six per cent per annum. No discount is allowed on State taxes.

ALBERT L. LEE,
19-4t. County Treasurer.

MOSES, A COURAGEOUS LEADER

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 1:8-14; 2:1-22; 3:1-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Moses Doing Hard Things for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Moses' Call to Leadership.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Daring the Impossible.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Leader, Liberator and Lawgiver.

I. The Enslaved People (1:8-22).

After Joseph's death Israel quickly grew into a nation. The amazing growth of the nation aroused the envy and fear of the new king.

1. Heavy measure of service (vv. 10-14).

Cruel taskmasters were placed over the men, forcing them to labor in building treasure cities as well as in field service. However, the more they afflicted them, the more did they multiply and grow.

2. The midwives were ordered to murder the male infants.

This measure also failed, as the midwives feared God and chose to obey Him.

3. Commanded that the male children should be cast into the river (v. 22). In God's providence this mandate failed.

II. Moses, the Deliverer, Prepared (2:1-22).

1. His birth (vv. 1, 2).

Both his father and mother were of Levitical stock. Being of the same tribe, they would have a common bond of interest and sympathy. There was something striking about the child which caused his parents to believe that he was sent of God.

2. His preservation (vv. 3, 4).

Because his mother had faith she did not ignore the proper use of means. She was doubtless familiar with the place where Pharaoh's daughter came to bathe and believed that somehow through her the child would be saved. She placed the ark of bulrushes at the particular place where it would attract attention. Though the hand of God was directing in the carrying out of His plan, the steps in the process were entirely natural.

3. His education (vv. 5-10).

Moses was educated, first at his mother's knee. Here his mind was filled with the word of God and acquainted with the Jewish hopes and prospects. Doubtless here the indomitable purpose was fixed "rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season" (Heb. 11:24-26). Again, he was educated at the Egyptian court where he became acquainted with all the wisdom of the Egyptians (Acts 7:22).

4. His exile and marriage (vv. 11-22).

Moses was obliged to take his flight from Egypt at the age of forty, because he attempted to enter upon his work as the deliverer of his people (Acts 7:25). He was conscious of his mission, but was mistaken as to the time. His rejection by his brethren was a type of Christ's rejection by the Jews. During this time of rejection he secured a bride. Jesus Christ, his great antetype, while now in the place of rejection by His brethren, is getting a bride from among the Gentiles. Just as Moses after awhile returned and delivered his people, so will Christ return and deliver His people, the Jews, who rejected Him.

III. Moses Called to Deliver His People (3:1-14).

1. The Lord spoke from the burning bush (vv. 1-6).

It was while keeping the flock of his father-in-law in the desert that the Lord appeared to Moses in the vision of the burning bush. This bush, enveloped in flames, yet unconsumed, symbolized the people of God enswathed in the very fire of God.

2. Moses' commission (vv. 7-10).

In this commission God showed His active interest in His people. Because of His grace He obligated Himself to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians and bring them into the chosen land; therefore God commissioned Moses to bring forth the people out of Egypt.

3. Moses' objections removed (vv. 11-14).

Four objections were offered, each one of which God met and removed. (1) Personal unworthiness (v. 11). (2) The difficulty of the people to understand Moses' relationship to God (vv. 13, 14). (3) Unbelief on the part of the people (4:1). (4) Lack of eloquence (4:10).

Value of Religious Belief

I should prefer a firm religious belief to every other blessing; for it makes life a discipline of goodness, creates new hopes when all earthly hopes vanish, and throws over the decay, the destruction of existence, the most gorgeous of all lights; awakens life even in death.—Sir Humphry Davy.

FARMER'S WIFE SHOCKS ALFALFA AND REPORTER

Day's Routine on Farm Occasions Surprise In New York

"I shocked alfalfa all morning before I took the train to New York," declared Mrs. Ensor, of Baltimore county, when a reporter from a big New York daily interviewed her and a number of other women from Maryland farms, who were on a trip to the metropolis recently so that they might see how farm products are marketed and distributed.

"You what?" asked the reporter.

"Shocked alfalfa. Don't you know what alfalfa is? It's a kind of hay that we grow on Maryland farms."

"And what did you say you did with it?"

"We shocked it. I don't mean saying things that might make alfalfa blush; I mean piling it up in orderly heaps so that it can be hauled into the barns."

"Oh, I see."

"We are having such a good time," added Mrs. Spoerlein, another Maryland farm woman. "This will give me something to think about while I am milking cows."

"Oh, do you know how to milk cows?" asked the reporter. "And how many do you milk? Two or three?"

Mrs. Speorlein gave the reporter a look of genuine surprise and pity.

"We keep a dairy farm," she said, "and I milk as many as necessary for me to milk. It may be three or four, perhaps fifteen. And that isn't all I can do. I taught schoool before I became a farmer's wife."

The reporter looked surprised.

"Oh, you needn't think that just because we came from the farms we're backwoodsmen," declared Mrs. Spoerlein. You'd be surprised, perhaps, to know that our homes are equipped with modern heating and lighting plants; that most of us have electric refrigerators and automobiles, electric irons and vacuum cleaners and washing machines—everything that you city people have."

"And more," murmured the reporter. "The ice man still brings my block of ice up the back stairway."—Baltimore and Ohio Magazine.

MT. LAKE PARK

Annual Bazar July 23.

The Woman's Civic Club of Mountain Lnke Park will hold its annual bazar on Wednesday, July 23, beginning at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon at the tennis club house. The chairmen of the various committees are: Mrs. Bolgiano, fancy table; Mrs. Wilson L. Camden, candy; Mrs. Gillin, grab bag; Mrs. A. A. Richards, cakes. In addition to the above committees the president of the club has arranged to have present a fortune teller, the seventh daughter of a seventh son, whose insight into the past, present and future is indeed marvelous. Secrets long hidden will be brought to light; the path of true love will be made smooth; the fair-haired lady will be warned against the wiles of the dark-skinned gentleman.

All members of the several committees are hard at work. The tables will be well supplied and the grab bag filled with useful and useless articles. As the cause is worthy, the response should be generous.

E. L. Convention Closed

There is a lulk in the program this week. No conventions scheduled. The Epworth Leaguers brought to a close their twenty-third annual institute last Sunday evening and by Monday afternoon all of the nearly 700 had departed for their homes in the Pittsburgh area. The glorious weather of the past week added much to the enjoyment of a very successful meeting. It is understood they will return at about this time next year.

Next Monday morning the Baltimore Epworth League institute begins. A large number of delegates will be present from the Baltimore area. A program of more than ordinary merit has been prepared.

Word has been received here of the death of Harold L. Robinson, of Uniontown, Pa,, which occurred on Tuesday. Mr. Robinson was a prominent banker and lawyer, and among other children who survive are Charles S. Robinson, telegraph editor of the Fairmont (W. Va.) West Virginian. He was a relative of Mrs. Post, who for many years prior to her death, occupied a cottage in the Park. He was also a brother-in-law of Miss Paulina Smith, a frequent visitor here.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ream, Loch Lynn Heights, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at the Deep Creek Lake camp of their son, Mr. Charles W. Ream, on last Sunday. The day was spent in motor boating, renewing old acquaintanceships and listening to the reminiscences of the honor guests. Mr. and Mrs. Ream number among their friends practically the people of the whole of Garrett county and their appearance testifies to the fact that the last half century of their lives must have been a period of wedded bliss. All of the children of the couple were present upon the occasion, they being John W. Ream, Loch Lynn; Charles W. Ream, Crellin; Mrs. A. L. Biggs, Loch Lynn; George Ream, Pierce, W. Va.; Mrs. Emma Gortner, Mazon, Iowa, and Geo. Ream, Loch Lynn. There are eight grandsons, all of whom were present, and of the three granddaughters, two were present, the other being away at school. Mr. A. L. Biggs, Mrs. J. W. Ream, Mr. E. F. Gortner and Mrs. Harold Ream were among the guests.

Among the visitors in the Park at this time are Mr. and Mrs. George F. Ludington, of Baltimore. Mrs. Ludington is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong, of Baltimore, who first visited the Park in the summer of 1888 and were so charmed with the surroundings that here it was they built their summer home. Mr. and Mrs. Ludington have a large circle of friends in the Park. They are accompanied by by the sister of Mrs. Ludington, Mrs. Devine.

The first unit of the Mountain Lake-Gormania road is about graded and we understand will be ready for the concrete the first of next week.

Mrs. W. B. Maxwell has opened her cottage for the season.

Mr. Jack Fleming, who has been the guest of his brother, Mr. Fred. C. Fleming, has returned to his home in Fairmont.

Mrs. Frank M. Murphy was in Fairmont a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Palmer Nuzum, Fairmont, are occupying the McKee property for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Miller and son, Mercer, Pa., arrived in the Park last evening, having been called here by the death of Mrs. Miller's brother, Mr. John Rodeheaver.

Cabbage au Gratin

One small head cabbage, 2 t. butter, 2 t. flour, 1 c. milk, 1 t. salt, 1-8 t. paprikn, ¼ t. pepper, 1 c. American cheese. Boil cabbage in salted water for 20 minutes, in an open pan. Prepare a white sauce of the butter, flour, milk and seasonings. Add ½ cup of cheese to the sauce and beat until smooth. Arrange alternate layers of sance and cabbage in a buttered baking dish. Cover with buttered crumbs and add the remaining cheese. Place in a moderate oven, until cheese is melted.

Scalloped Spinach With Ham

Two c. cooked spinach, 2 t. finely chopped onion, ½ c. cooked ham (chopped), ½ c. bread crumbs, 2 t. butter. Add the ham and onion to the spinach. Arrange layers of spinach and bread crumbs in a buttered baking dish. Add the cream. Sprinkle crumbs over the top. Dot with butter and place in an over until crumbs are brown. Garnish with the hard boiled egg.

Scalloped Egg Plant

Four c. cooked egg plant, 1 c. tomato pulp, ¼c. butter, ½ c. buttered bread crumbs, 1 c. grated cheese, 2 t. salt, 2 t. grated onion, ½ c. chopped pimiento, ½ c. chopped green pepper. Arrange the egg plant in a buttered baking dish in alternate layers with the tomato, pepper, onion and cheese, adding the seasoning. Sprinkle the bread crumbs over the top and dot over with butter. Bake 25 minutes at a temperature of 375 degrees.

Meat Patties

Three c. ground cooked beef, ½ t. salt, 1 egg, 1 t. chopped parsley, 1 c. milk or meat stock, 2 t. grated onion, ¼ t. pepper, ½ t. bread crumbs, 6 strips bacon. Run the meat through the food chopper, add the seasoning. Mix well and then stir in the bread crumbs and well beaten egg, add the milk or meat stock. Mold into patties and wrap a piece of bacon around each. Place in oven long enough for bacon to brown.

Man Worth $1.25 in Chemicals

The average man is worth approximately $1.25 in chemicals, according to an analysis made by the medical staff of the National Health Insurance committee.

The analysis shows that the average man has in his body:

Fat enough for seven bars of soap;

Iron enough for one medium-sized nail;

Sugar enough to fill a shaker;

Lime enough to whitewash a chicken coop;

Phosphorous enough to make 2,200 matches;

Magnesium enough for a dose of salts;

Potash enough to explode a toy cannon, and

Sulphur enough to rid one dog of fleas.

The committee left out a few of the details. Many people also have:

Ivory enough to fill a dome;

Brass enough to get by with a lot of things they shouldn't;

Lye enough to scandalize a whole community;

Gall enough to fill Wilson's creek; and Dirt enough to fill Deep Creek Lake.

Echoes From Hooppole Ridge

This is an echo to that piece if I were a man, or woman, copied from the last two issues of Scoop; written by an esteemed gentleman of the Sand Flat country, out there where men are men and women are women. He isn't a well driller.

"Well, well, here it is. If a well is big enough it only takes one to make a river. Mr. Scoop I think all wells, not only oil wells but water wells, will be found the same size.

"About top buttons, I don't think it is necessary to jerk the top button as the woman can jerk them quicker than you can. A man isn't afraid to come home, but he doesn't do it. When the dresser drawer sticks ask McIntire why he puts them out that way. Never mind indigestion. Don't think my wife doesn't love me as all is well. As I can't think, figure it out for yourself, well."

Scoop has nothing to add to this epistle. As the writer says, figure it out for yourself.

A Delightful Affair

A society editor, it is being told, was sent to report a fire and he turned in the following story:

"A brilliant fire was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ophelier Ankle. A large number of friends and relatives attended the function.

Mrs. Ankle, who recently had her hair singed, made a charming escape in an exceedingly handsome henna silk blouse, the pnttern of which appeared on our woman's page last week.

"The firemen, who presented an attractive and striking appearance, were suitably garbed in blue, the tunics being full cut.

"The weather was quite delightful for an affair of this kind, a strong wind being quite noticeable. It is rumored that the fire was on a larger scale than any affair of a similar kind for years. It is also rumored thnt it cost Mr. Ankle about $25,000."

The Nineteenth Hole

Since the arrival of Dr. Juniper Socrates, the golf expert, in Oakland everybody seems to be well "Tee-ed" over the miniature course and prairie pool. Dr. Juniper was finally located at Sang Run and brought to the open-air Chic Sale house with the porch on it, which stands on the corner of the golf course, where he has been giving lessons on "puttin'" from 11 p. m. far into the night. His most ardent listeners are Jim Kerins, Hen McComas, Ikey Sincell, Emroy Bolden, Bill Sturgiss, and Mike Liller. Jack Towler is assisting Dr. Juniper in his lectures on the game of cow pasture pool.

Col. Bell was up there yesterday morning and snapped Emroy Bolden as he was playing a threesome. He goes into the game thoroughly, considering that clothes make the golfer.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Lecture Delivered by Salem Andrew Hart at Keith's Theatre, Baltimore

A Lecture on Christian Science entitled "Christian Science: The Revelation of God's Blessings," by Salem Andrew Hart, C. S. B., of Cleveland, Ohio, member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Among the comprehensive teachings of Christ Jesus are found the wisest of counsel and a perfect criterion for righteous living. In his Sermon on the Mount, he covered every condition of life so that none need be in doubt as to the right course of action under auy and all circumstances. The logic of the Master's teachings is so perfect that it cannot be denied. The Apostle Paul took up the work of full discipleship with the Master, helping to establish the Christian Church upon the Nazarene's teachings, and Jesus' true followers for a long period did likewise. But doubt and fear presented themselves, vision again became darkened, the works ceased to be performed, and discipleship became largely a question of doctrine and belief rather than of understanding and works. Christian Science has revived the works of the early Christians, and again the sick are healed and the sinner reformed through spiritual means alone.

The teachings of Christian Science are fully set forth in the Christian Science text-book, of which Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, is the nuthor Describing the basis and method of her discovery, Mrs. Eddy has written: "The Scriptures were illumined; reason and revelation were reconciled and afterwards the truth of Christian Science was demonstrated." (Science and Health, page 110).

Jesus taught that good cannot produce evil, and he proved by his works that sin and sickness are errors of belief which he could and did destroy. He promised that his followers should do the works that he was able to do (see John 14:12). and thanks to Mrs. Eddy's patient and tireless efforts in giving Christian Science to the world, thousands of her followers are ahle to follow the commands of the blessed Master today, as did the disciples of old.

Blessings For All

Students of Christian Science early learn to ponder and to love Mrs Eddy's beautiful statement in the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (page 206), "In the scientific relation of God to man, we find that whatever blesses one blesses all, as Jesus showed with the loaves and the fishes,—Spirit, not matter, being the source of supply"; and again on page 57 of this same book; "Happiness is spiritual, born of Truth and Love. It is unselfish: therefore it cannot exist alone, but requires all mankind to share it." In our modern Christian Era, Mrs. Eddy was the first to be blessed with the precious gift of Christian healing, when in the year 1866, with her discovery of Christian Science and its revelation of spiritual law, she grasped the stately import of the mission of Christ Jesus. On page 109 of the Christian Science textbook, Mrs. Eddy has written: "I knew the Principle of all harmonious Mind-action to be God, and that cures were produced in primitive Christian healiug by holy, uplifting faith: but I must know the Science of this healing, and I won my wsy to absolute conclusions through divine revelation reason, and demonstration." It was clear to Mrs. Eddy that a scientific knowledge of God belongs to spiritual man by divine decree: that what had blessed her so signally must bless all mankind; aud that it was her mission to present this unfoldment to the world in the pure correctness with which it had been revealed to her This she did in orderly fashion, in accordance with the divine plan revealed to her step by step, and recorded in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and in her other writings, including the "Manual of The Mother Church."

Study and Application

Through this study we find that divine Mind, Truth, alone governs man: that Truth alone sustains man with purity, peace, love, and sinless joy: that man is sheltered from ignorance, fear, lack, sorrow, sickness; in fact from error of every sort, by Truth. This understanding of Truth requires faithful and consecrated effort on our part. It is evident that Truth can neither know nor maintain aught that claims to be unlike itself, and we need to know this in order to experience the blessings of Truth. The teachings of Christian Science show clearly that the realization of the blessings of Truth comes only as we replace in thought, error with Truth, and false beliefs with true ideas; and having done this, to remain steadfast in the consciousness of Truth. In this way alone can we claim and realize man's inheritance of true being, man's at-one-ment with Truth. This realization will destroy forever the claim of an existence or power apart from God. The student of Christian Science soon learns the importance of careful study and application of the teachings of the Holy Bible. There is ample evidence that many have been lifted out of the depths of despair by reading the Bible daily, and as a result of this many healings of sickness and sin have taken place.

CONSERVING SABBATH IS THEME AT PARK MEETING

Drs. Davis and Wylie Uphold Sunday in Lord's Day Alliance Meeting at Mt. Lake Park

DEBATE HELD IN EVENING

"Christians can best serve God by conserving the Lord's Day," Dr. W. W. Davis, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of Maryland, said in his address at Mt. Lake Park on the morning of the annual field day of that organization, held last Sunday in the auditorium.

In witnessing what the Bible said about the Lord's day, Mr. Davis said: "It is God's gift, it is God's first gift, older than the home itself, and the purpose of the Lord's Day is for worship."

In comparing what it had done for the white race, he compared the importance of the white race 500 years ago, and its place during the past 200. "America was settled by lovers of the Lord's Day, and they have made the country what it is today by the study of the Bible and the observance of the Lord's Day. The white race was insignificant before religion became important with them."

Rev. David G. Wylie, president of the National Lord's Day Alliance, of New York, in his address in the afternoon, made a plea for the best of days and said that the Christian civilization was like a cathedral, supported by many columns—home, school, Bible, church, estate, Sunday.

He was in favor of the Sabbath because it was a divine institution, an economic necessity, and a witness to religion. It also set the world to singing, he said.

"Jesus kept the Sabbath but modified it and restored it to the original idea of the brightest and best day of all the week. It was restored to the day for doing good, visiting friends, worshiping, and having unharmful recreation.

"The State makes laws concerning the Sabbath but only because it believes that its people should be strong and virile, and to be this way they must rest. Enemies of the Lord's Day were described by Dr. Wylie as carcless Christians and commercialism. "Christians cannot expect unbelievers to observe the Sabbath if they do not do it themselves," he pointed out.

Dr. Wylie closed his address by expressing the belief that God would preserve the Lord's Day and keep it as it should be.

A debate was held in the evening on the subject, Resolved, That the responsibility of the pulpit for the conservation of the Lord's Day is greater than that of the pew. Rev. C. A. Shilke, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Oakland, took the affirmative side of the question, while Dr. W. W. Davis took the negative.

Approximately 300 attended the various meetings throughout the day, which were termed by Dr. Davis to have been very successful.

Scout Court of Honor to Meet Monday—Stove Needed for Camping Trip

The last regular meeting of the Court of Honor before the Oakland Boy Scout Troop takes its annual summer outing, will be held in the Masonic clubroom on Monday, July 28, Harland L. Jones, chairman, has announced.

A number of scouts who have passed examinations for merit badges given by the special examiners, will present themselves before the court on that evening.

Approximately 35 boys are making plans for the annual camping trip which will begin on August 3 and continue for a period of two weeks. The Scouts are in need of a cook stove as the one they have is practically useless, and anyone who has such an article, or knows where one can be obtained, is asked to communicate with George Hanst, scoutmaster.

The Scout benefit picture, "The Taming of the Shrew," starring Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, is being shown tonight at the Maryland theatre. The picture was originally scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, but due to the interruption of electric light service on Tuesday evening, the dates were moved to Wednesday and Thursday.

Plan now for yor Fair exhibits.

GARRETT COUNTIAN HELD FOR GRAND JURY ACTION

Raymond Ream Is Accused of Attacking Motorist on July 13

Charged with attacking the driver of a car who had offered him a ride home, Raymond Ream, of Garrett county, living near Frostburg, was arraigned Friday evening before W. A. Gonder, justice of the peace, at Oakland, and committed to jail for action of the December Grand Jury. He was held on a charge of unnatural conduct, after a charge of assault with intent to kill was dropped.

Officer E. D. Dryden, State Police, preferred the charges, on complaint of Edward Koontz, of Vesterburg, Pa., who said Ream asked him for a ride home, Sunday morning. Koontz, who is crippled in one arm and leg, said Ream was a stranger to him. After driving off the National Highway to the Johnson Road, this county, Ream attacked the driver and tore off the latter's clothing, Koontz alleged.

Officers S. F. Phillips and Dryden arrested Ream at the home of Bud Minnicks, on the Johnson road. The officers said Ream resisted arrest and that a bed was broken down while they were attempting to handcuff the man. Ream was subdued and taken to the county jail. Koontz is still under the care of a physician.

EVERYONE HAS CHANCE TO WIN IN GARDEN CONTEST

National Awards For Which Local Winners Are Eligible to Compete Are Announced

The "Award of Merit," the greatest honor that can come to any person for the improvement and beautification of home grounds, will be conferred on those gardens whose premises rank highest in the Yard and Garden contest, it was definitely announced this morning by Mrs. A. L. Lee, contest chairman.

This national distinction is given only to those individuals whose work in planting and beautifying their grounds is considered as an outstanding achievement and as a notable contribution in making America a more beautiful and fruitful nation.

The "Award of Merit" is eagerly sought after and highly prized by home gardeners in every part of the country, Mrs. Lee stated, and it is only conferred on prize winners in local Yard and Garden contests such as is being sponsored by the Oakland Civic club and The Republican.

Winners of the Oakland contest will be eligible to receive nine beautiful pieces of ornamental stone garden furniture, which have been offered as prizes in the 1930 National Yard and Garden contest, sponsored by the Yard and Garden contest association of America, Mrs. Lee announced.

Each contestant in the local contest has a chance to win one of these beautiful trophies, for entries in the national competition are open to all first prize winners in the local contests.

Stories and photographs of the winning yards in last year's National Yard and Garden contest were published in hundreds of the leading newspapers and national magazines throughout the United States, and all entrants are especially urged to take photographs of their yards and gardens when they are at their best.

All Have Chance

The family living on a small place has just as good an opportunity to win as does the owner of a large estate. Size of the premises makes no difference in deciding who is to receive this distinction, it was said. The determining factor is the degree of improvement and beautification of the home grounds brought about through the proper planting of trees, shrubs and flowers.

Local garden contests will be expected to keep up the improvement of their yards throughout the summer months in order that they may bring to Oakland the distinction of developing beautiful yards.

Members of the Civic club are now working on the list of prizes to be distributed locally to winners in the Oakland contest, and in all probability these will be announced next week, according to Miss Lottie Loar, president of the club.

"Since the beginning of the contest in Oakland, there has been a noticeable improvement in the appearance of the entire town," Miss Loar said.

TIME TO SELECT EXHIBITS FOR FAIR, SPEICHER SAYS

Farmers Should Be Planning Already for the 14th Annual Fair, Sept. 16, 17, 18 and 19

PREMIUM LIST REVISED

That farmers of Garrett and adjoining counties who are expecting to exhibit their products at the fourteenth annual Garrett county Agricultural Fair, should already be seriously selecting material from their ripened crops," was the opinion of Henry M. Speicher, general manager, who is at present busy preparing the annual premium list.

In this way their best exhibits will be shown and chances for prizes made greater, Mr. Speicher stated.

All of the copy for the premium list will be in the hands of the printer within the next week or ten days, and the catalog will be printed within a short time thereafter. The premium list will be an attractive one, according to Mr. Speicher, who has made a few changes in the various departments, increasing a number of prizes in the cattle classes.

Mr. Speicher further stated that he had been having the cooperation of practically everyone, and was assured that the exposition would have the united support of many in all parts of the county.

Since all premiums have been paid within the past few years, more and more people of the county have been entering exhibits at the Fair, and last year the largest number of exhibits in several years was recorded.

The dates for the Fair this year are September 16, 17, 18, and 19, and were set after Manager Speicher had found from the weather report that the week of September 15 was the best week on record in 16 years.

Shows, rides, concessions, free acts and other amusements will be arranged for within the next few days.

Baltimore Leaguers at Park

The fifteenth annual Epworth League Institute, Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, is now in session at Mountain Lake Park, having opened on Monday evening with Dr. W. N. Parrish, Baltimore, in charge.

At the first session on Monday evening Dr. Parrish outlined the week's program to the delegates present, and this has been carried out during the days of the Institute's sessions. The number present at the meeting is said to be about three hundred.

The conference will close on Monday, July 28.

FIRE ENTIRELY DESTROYS MOVIE HOUSE AT BAYARD

Blaze Is Thought to Have Been Started by Lightning

The Victoria Theatre, at Bayard, W. Va., was entirely consumed by fire Tuesday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock, during a heavy electrical storm, and it is supposed lightning is responsible. The loss is estimated at about $6,000, partially covered by insurance.

Efforts of the volunteer fire fighters were directed toward saving the houses of J. C. Foutz and Grant Kuhn, and the store of J. C. Foutz and the garage owned by E. F. Curray, which were nearby.

All fixtures, consisting of a piano, popcorn machine, peanut roaster, several hundred chairs, movie apparatus and other miscellaneous articles, were entirely destroyed. The theatre, which was owned by E. F. Curray and Jerry Harvey, of Bayard, and H. L. Bennett, of Parsons, has not been running for several months.

Thomas Fire department was called and rendered assistance. The Bayard Scout troop was on the ground doing service. A heavy rain, which fell shortly before the discovery of the fire helped to prevent further spread of the flames.

GARRETT COUNTY GIRL IS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Plunges Over Bank on Keyser-Piedmont Road—Rolls 100 Feet to B. & O. Tracks

Miss Mary Lohman, 24 years old, of Bloomington, this county, was instantly killed at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when the car which she was driving plunged off the Keyser-Piedmont road at Thunder Hill, two miles from Keyser, and rolled more than 100 feet to the rocks along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks.

The girl's neck was broken and she was badly crushed about the head and body. She was dead when extricated from the twisted wreckage of the car. The mishap was investigated by Officer H. C. Dunlap, of the West Virginia State Police.

State Police said the girl had borrowed the car from a man in Piedmont and was driving from that town to Keyser. Keyser police were told the girl was making a U-turn in the road when the machine plunged down the embankment. It was also reported that the girl, while turning the car at a service station, threw the gear shift to reverse instead of low gear, causing the car to back over the embankment.

POPULARITY OF DEEP CREEK LAKE INCREASING RAPIDLY WITH ORGANIZATIONS MAKING PERMANENT CAMPS

The popularity of Deep Creek Lake as a spot for summer camping and for water activities of all kinds, is rapidly increasing, if the number of groups that are now camping or are planning to camp, can be taken as a criterion. An estimate shows that at least 300 in organizations will have been encamped along the shores of the lake before the present season ends, and that approximately that many more will have spent some time in small parties along the lake. This estimate is exclusive of the many bathers who may be seen daily at Halsey's, Thaver's, The Will o' the Wisp, Rainbow Inn or at the many privately owned piers jutting out in the water.

While the summer encampment of groups of people continues, permanent summer cottages are being erected by property owners along the artificial body of water, property in general is being improved, motor and other boats are becoming quite numerous and more and more people are becoming convinced that Deep Creek Lake offers great possibilities as a drawing card for tourists and the moderately wealthy class of citizens.

At the present time the following organizations are encamped at some point along the shore:

Clarksburg troop of Boy Scouts, 30 in number, under Max Heymire, the scout executive, at Rainbow Inn peninsula; three troops of Scouts numbering 80 or more, from Pittsburg, Pa., at McHenry, who are quartered in their parmanent camp huts; 30 members of the Holy Cross University, Washington, D. C., who are students preparing to enter the priesthood, at their permanent quarters east of Glendale Bridge; 40 4-H Club boys of Allegany county and Garrett county, at the Oakland Boy Scout headquarters above Glendale Bridge; a number of residents of Piedmont, Westernport and Keyser, in their Green Glade lodge near Swanton.

Forty Scouts of Grafton Troop, under Rev. A. J. Torrey, scoutmaster, just closed a two weeks' outing spent at the Oakland Scout camp, and the Oakland Scout Troop, composed of about 40 boys, will leave here August 3 for their annual summer outing of two weeks. The Connellsville Scouts also expect to encamp along the lake sometime during the month of August.

Clarksburg Troop expects to return next year and to bring along the Boy Scouts, numbering approximately 300, who reside in that area.

The number of students from Holy Cross will increase each year until there are 60 in camp. They spend from the middle of June until the first of September at their outing place.

It is hoped to make the Tri-County 4-H Camp an annual affair along the lake, and it is said that inquiries have been received in Oakland from a number of Y. M. C. A. officials of West Virginia and Pennsylvania cities in regard to camp sites. It is also expected that the Grafton Troop will return next year.

With these organizations assured for future years, and more expected; with the addition of a number of cottages and increase in the number of camping parties each year, the outlook for Deep Creek Lake, the second largest artificial body of water in the United States, seems bright, according to a concensus of opinion of citizens, tourists and visitors in this section.

MOONSHINER FATALLY WOUNDS YOUTH NEAR DEER PARK WHEN STILL IS DISCOVERED; DIES IN HOSPITAL

Ray Uphold Succumbs After Leg Is Amputated—Was Fleeing With Father When Shot

WOUNDS BECAME INFECTED

At the door of a moonshiner, whose identity is unknown to the Garrett county officials, is laid the death of Ray Uphold, aged seventeen years, the son of Asa J. Uphold, of near Deer Park, who died early this morning in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where his right leg was amputated at a point below the knee. The youth was shot last Friday evening and was taken to the Cumberland hospital last night after infection developed.

The boy's left leg was also lacerated by buck shot, but the wounds were healing when infection developed in the right leg, which received most of the charge from the gun of the unknown moonshiner, which was fired at close range. The operation was performed by Dr. William A. Gracie.

Discovered Moonshine Plant

According to the boy's father, Asa J. Uphold, who came to Oakland this morning to arrange for the transportation of the youth's remains from here upon the arrival of train No. 21 at 3:30 o'clock, he and his son went into the woods about five o'clock and were hunting groundhogs. While going through the woods, Mr. Uphold said, they discovered a still and other parts of a moonshine plant a few steps from the point where they had seen it. Upon making the discovery, Uphold said that he and his son immediately started to run in the opposite direction, as they did not want to be discovered by the operators of the plant, who might mistake them for prohibition agents.

Uphold said they had taken a few steps when a shot rang out and his son called to him saying, "Oh, I'm shot." This occurred about seven o'clock. Mr. Uphold attempted to carry his son home but was compelled to give the task up after traversing the mountainside for a distance of a mile or more. Laying him down he walked to a farmhouse two miles distant where he secured help from the owner of a truck and in this vehicle the boy was taken to his home.

Dr. N. I. Broadwater was immediately summoned. Dr. Broadwater advised that the boy be taken to a hospital at once. His condition became serious yesterday and the removal of the wounded boy to the institution was accomplished yesterday afternoon.

Find Mash But No Still

Acting State's Attorney A. T. Matthews, Sheriff W. D. Casteel and Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith accompanied Uphold to the place described by him when he reported the shooting Saturday morning. The spot is in the Bethlehem Church community about two miles from Eagle Rock. The officers said they found a quantity of mash and evidence that a still had been in operation, but the apparatus had been removed.

No clues as to the identity of the owner of the plant or of the person who did the shooting have been discovered by the authorities, but added impetus to their efforts has been given since the report of the death of the youth reached Oakland this morning.

Sunday Was Hottest Day of the Season.

Sunday was the hottest day of the season, according to the government thermometer at Weber's, the temperature on that day rising to 94 degrees.

This was considerably higher than for the same time during the past ten years but did not set a new high record for July, A temperature of 101 was recorded in July of 1918. The records show, however, that the heat during the past few days has been greater than the average for this month.

Kempton Miner Taken To Memorial Hospital

Steve Kerlovich, of Kempton, a miner employed by the Davis Coal and Coke company, was taken to Memorial hospital, Cumberland, on Tuesday, suffering from injuries sustained while at work.

He is under the care of Dr. W. A. Gracie. His condition is not regarded as serious. He was taken to Cumberland in the coal company's ambulance.

SCHOOL OF MISSIONS TO CONVENE SUNDAY, AUG. 3

First Session Will be Camp Fire Service—Program to Continue Until August Ninth

Plans have been completed for the fourteenth session of the Mt. Lake Park Interdenominational Summer School of Missions, which will be held this year August 3 to 8 inclusive, at Mt. Lake Park, and many representatives of religious bodies are preparing to attend.

The session begins Sunday evening, August 3, with a camp fire service. Schools for seniors, young people and juniors are included in the class work which begins on Monday morning with Bible study taught by Dr. O. T. Olson, of Baltimore. This class will be held each morning from 9 until 9:30 and the following subjects will be discussed: The Master's Way, The Standards of the Way, The Crisis of the Way.

From 9:35 until 10:25 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, the Home text book, under Mrs. Dan Brummitt, will be taken up. Mrs. W. T. Elmore, a missionary of India, will have charge of the Foreign text book on Tuesday and Thursday. Mrs. F. I. Johnson, president of the Federation Women's Boards of Foreign Missions; Mrs. C. K. Lippard, department of junior work of the United Lutheran church in America; and Mrs. Richard Hall, Fairmont, secretary of the W. C. T. U., will teach "Methods."

Storytelling technique and stories will be in charge of Mrs. H. C. Roby, Baltimore, from 11:20 to 11:30. A group forum will be held in the afternoon from 3 until 4 o'clock. Evening speakers include Miss Helen Brickman, Dr. W. M. Danner, Miss Esperanza Abellera, Dr. W. C. Waltemyer, Mrs. Lippard, Dr. Johnson, and others.

O pageant will be held Friday evening and will be presented by the Methodist missionary society of Oakland. This pageant is considered very beautiful and many take part in it.

The girls from Camp Gleam, a camp held in connection with the school of missions, will close the school with a candle service. "This is an opportunity to enjoy something worth while," Mrs. B. H. Sincell, program chairman, said, "and everyone should take advantage of it."

Young People's League to Meet In Presbyterian Church

The Oakland Union Young People's League will hold its next meeting on Sunday evening, July 27, in the Presbyterian church at 6:30. Miss Mildred Stemple will be the leader.

After the meeting the league will go in cars to Mt. Lake where they will attend the closing session of the Baltimore Epworth League.

The Follow-your-leader hike last week was considered a great success. About thirty young people followed their leader, ending up at Henry Lauer's grove, near town, where games were played and sandwiches eaten. A trip to the lake is being planned for some evening in the near future.

Boys' Band Evening at Miniature Golf Course Tomorrow Evening

Tomorrow evening will be Boys' Band evening at the Miller Midget Golf course next to the William-James hotel, and half the proceeds on that evening will go toward the support of the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland, James Towler, manager, has announced.

The band will play a number of selections on the hotel lawn throughout the evening.

To Hold Tournament

The first tournament on the new miniture course will be held on Monday evening. The 12 men and 12 women turning in the lowest scores of the week previous, will be eligible to enter the contest. Prizes will be awarded.

A tournament will be held each Monday evening for the low scorers of the previous week, Mr. Towler stated.

DEBORAH, A LEADER IN A NATIONAL EMERGENCY

LESSON TEXT—Judgee 4:1-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Say to them that are of a fearful heart, be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompence: he will come and save you.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Deborah a Brave Woman.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Deborah a Brave Woman.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Notable Women Patriots.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Woman's Influence in Community and National Affairs.

The book of Judges covers the period from the conquest of Canaan and death of Joshua to the judgeship of Samuel. While Joshua and the elders of his generation lived, the people in some measure remained faithful to God, but the very next generation went into apostasy. Their decicnsioa may be accounted for by:

1. Their failure to drive out tho Canaanites when they took possession of the land. Their failure to carry out this command of God was their undoing.

2. Their amalgamation with the Canaanites. Their tolerance of the heathen about them was quickly followed by union in marriage.

3. Idolatry. Their intermarriage with the heathen was followed by worship of the heathen gods.

In order to teach this lesson intelligently it is necessary that the teacher have a grasp of the book of Judges from which it is taken. In chapter 2:6-19 is given a synopsis of the book. Observe (1) The sin of the people (vv. 6-13). (2) God's judgment for their sin (vv. 14, 15). (3) Their repentance (3:9). (4) God delivers them at the hands of the Judges (vv. 10-19). A repetition of sin, oppression by the enemy, repentance, and deliverance, is the story of the book of Judges.

I. The National Emergency (vv. 1-3).

1. Lapse into idolatry (v. 1).

Ehud was not only a righteous but a strong ruler. Under his judgeship, freedom had been enjoyed for many years. As soon as he was dead the people turned away from God.

2. The bondage of the people (v. 2).

The Lord abandoned them to be oppressed by Jabin, king of Canaan.

3. The people cried unto God (v. 3).

Affliction brought them to their senses.

II. The Judgeship of Daborah (vv. 4-10).

The great national emergency confronting Israel was met by a woman named Deborah. Her name means "Bee." As suggested by another, she exemplified her name by her industry, sagacity and great service to the public.

1. The place where she judged Israel (v. 5).

It was under a palm tree. She held an open air court for the administration of justice.

2. Her method (vv. 6-10). (1) Her summons to Barak (vv. 6, 7). Barak means "lightning." Deborah, being a prophetess, was able to select a man whose gifts would enable him to rally the forces needed to gain victory over the formidable foe. Deborah gave definite instruction as to the number of men and the strategy to be employed, assuring him that God would deliver Sisera into his hand. (2) Barak's reply (v. 8). He expressed an unwillingness to go unless Deborah would go with him. (3) Barak rebuked (vv. 9, 10). Deborah yielded to his request, but made it plain to him that it would detract from his honor as a conqueror, "for the Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman."

III. The Defeat of Jabin's Army (vv. 11-16).

Sisera, the captain, gathered a mighty army and went forth, confident of victory over the ill-equipped and undisciplined army of Barak, but he made one sad mistake—he did not consider that it was the Lord's battle (v. 15). Through supernatural interposition the enemy became panic-stricken (25:20).

IV. Sisera Killed by a Woman (vv. 17-24).

In his flight Sisera took refuge in Jael's tent. In the guise of friendship she committed a most heinous murder after inviting him into her dwelling.

V. The Song of Daborah and Barak (ch. 5).

This song was composed and sung in celebration of the marvelous victory which God had wrought. Deborah set forth in the most definite way that the secret of victory was the help of God.

Consecration

All truly consecrated men learn little by little that what they are consecrated to is not joy or sorrow, but a divine idea and a profound obedience, which can find their full outward expression, not in joy nnd not in sorrow, but in the mysterious and inseparable blending of the two.—Phillips Brooks.

God's Plan to Cleanse

God brings men into deep waters, not to drown them, but to cleanse them.—Aughey.

POLITICS IN REVIEW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore)

Just before we took our trusty typewriter in hand to record these lines we saw the first indication of real political activity in Baltimore City—activity and no hokum.

It was a big black and red poster pasted on the wall of a West Baltimore building announcing the candidacy of Charles J. Weiss for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket. The poster bore the portrait of Weiss and the whole thing was so striking that we rubbed our early morning eyes and said to ourselves:

"Here, at last is a Baltimore City Democrat with some pep."

Only the other day we heard that the opposition to Sheriff Potee's renomination was to be withdrawn and Deputy Joe Deegan was to be put back in the political pigeon hole for four more years. By this arrangement Sheriff Potee was to fill two vacancies among his deputies by naming Curran men and so here was to be peace.

As to the other court house places there is no definite word but no one has filed against anybody except the sheriff. The court clerks seem to consider themselves safe—until there is a conference. This conference is not supposed to take place until ex-Mayor Jackson returns from his northern trip. Then and not until then shall we see who is to be called and who is to be chosen by the Great Men of the Maryland Democracy.

Reports from the office of His Excellency picture him as not exactly the happiest man in the world. The breaks are not now so good. Some of his lieutenants die, others get sick. Many are discouraged, even though they put up a bold front.

Those who indicate to the Governor that the salvation of the Democratic party in Maryland this year depends on his withdrawal get no response. The Governor thinks he is the only man qualified to save the party and he wants vindication for the scandals that have marred his administration.

Reports from the counties indicate that the voters are now beginning to discuss politics and the expressions of opposition to the Governor among Democrats is very pronounced. If the voters vote as they talk it is all over with His Excellency right now. And in the city the opposition is becoming more vocal. Every day one hears the predicition that Baltimore City Democrats are determined to dispose of the Governor despite all the cooked up harmony meetings and public exhibition of "cordiality."

The city regulars want to keep their records straight but they admit that after voing for the Governor's reelection they can do little else—they cannot deliver the goods.

The Republicans, having made up their State ticket, have made no known move for a city slate. They are holding back to see what the Democrats do. Of course, the Democratic office holders over there think they have as much right to hold on as the Governor and there is no good answer to that argument.

The Governor has been wobbling around about calling a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of changing the registration dates. The days fall on Jewish holidays and are fixed by statute. Many Jewish residents will not register at all on such days and as there s to be an entirely new registration this year the total vote would be affected.

The Governor, in his present situation, will be damned if he does and damned if he doesn't. There's nothing for him to gain and the only thing for him to decide is which way he may lose least. The present situation is only one of the evidences of the messing up of things at Annapolis.

The special session of the Legislature will give the Governor's growing band of enemies a chance to fire some shot at him publicly.

Democrats continue to search for a candidate to pit against Fred Zihlman for Congress in the Sixth District. It is now reported that Oliver Metzerott may run for Congress again as the opponent of Stephen Gambrill if he can get the nomination without a primary fight. A. K. Love, of St. Mary's, has announced himself but he may be prevailed upon to withdraw as he did two years ago.

On the Eastern Shore the Republicans have agreed on A. Stengle Marin of Dorchester to run again in the hope of beating Representative T. Alan Goldsborough, there to date being no expressed opposition to the renomination of the latter by the Democrats.

There is a lot of uncertainty among the Democrats in the Third legislative district. The present Senator is Edward Colgan, who has more political independence than appeals to the Ritchie crowd. Mr. Colgan is thinking about running again, but at this writing had not made up his mind. Alfred E. Sharp has announced himself and Frank Purdum has been preparing to run, these latter two having been members of the last House of Delegates.

It gets around that Curran prefers Sharp but we shall see what we shall see when the big and little bosses meet the Governor. Then we shall also learn whether John L. Meyers will be permitted to run in the Sixth district and which way the cat will jump in the First where Senator Bouse and John A. Slowik are casting suspicious glances at each other.

In the Fourth (Republican) legislative district the Democratic nomination for the State Senate seems to be going begging. That district is largely dominated by the colored brother.

As to the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Second disrict—it's all mixed up.

And those Baltimore County Republicans are taking a long time to unscramble themselves.

Luncheon Sets Tongues Wagging

The luncheon given Governor Ritchie at the Chesapeake Club Friday of last week by his former Secretary of State, Philip B. Perlman, set gossipy tongues a-wagging at full speed and the lieutenants of His Excellency took this is a sign that the old and very friendly relations between the two Maryland statesmen had been renewed without reservations.

Those at the table besides the Governor and Mr. Perlman were Howard Bruce, who not long ago publicly said Ritchie could not be reelected, former Mayor Howard W. Jackson, who repeatedly asked: "Why nominate a man who can't be elected?" William Curran, whose defeat for Mayor in 1927 brought no tears to the Ritchie optics, and, we understand, one other statesman reputed to represent Frank A. Furst, who has recently been under the weather.

We have been able to get no report of what was said but we are told that a published report to the effect that it was resolved to ask Charlie Knapp to consider himself a committee of one to bring Charlie Bichy into camp was not correct, as the matter of the Bichy stubbornness was not discussed at all. Probably the affair was arranged so as to exhibit the Governor and ex-Mayor dining together and thus convince thousands of doubting Thomases hereabouts as well as in the counties that harmony now prevails among the leaders.

Within a couple of hours after the luncheon Mr. Jackson took ship with Mrs. Jackson for a trip to Maine, and the assumption is that he sought a northern climate in order to cool off from his recent exertions in trying to get a candidate in the field against Mr. Ritchie.

As to Mr. Perlman there will be much speculation. His role in the "peace and harmony" negotiations has brought upon him much criticism from those Democrats who think that the way to get rid of the Ritchie domination of the Democratic party is to get rid of it openly and without any pretentions.

Concerning Mr. Curran, his object is by now pretty well known. He wants to get Curran followers nominated for the Legislature and he thinks the Ritchie sign and seal will help. And anyone who thinks Curran is crazy to get the Governor reelected is probably thinking beside the book. He knows that Ritchie is looking out for Ritchie. So Curran is looking out for Curran. And as Curran and Perlman are friends and Howard Bruce and Perlman are friends, why talk about it?

We are told that the cooking and service at the Chesapeake Club are very good, yet we predict that Messrs. Perlman, Bruce, Jackson and Curran will soon be taking tea at the Executive Mansion in Annapolis. It would provide such a fine harmony story to hand out to the old Blanket, for that journal eats such stuff with avidity.

Trying to Get Women In Line for Ticket

Further evidence of the alarm of the State leaders of the Ritchie machine over the threatened wholesale desertion by women voters was given last week by the action of the Queen Anne's County bosses in placing a woman on the slate for the county treasurership. This was a repetition of what had been done the week before by the bosses in the adjoining county of Kent and was no mere coincidence for the Governor followed it up by naming a woman a justice of the peace in Belair.

We have no idea how this will work out but surely the women know that Ritchie has been in office for ten years and it is only now when his political hide seems to be about to be hung upon the line he has become solicitous about the woman voter.

We wonder whether the Baltimore women will demand one of the court house clerkships?

Republicans Keep Their Caucus Quiet

Reporters hereabouts have been so considerate that they have written nothing, so far as we can see, of the caucus or meeting of county leaders called by Senator Goldsborough a few days after the announcement of the Broening candidacy for the Governorship.

After a general discussion of the situation it was then and there decided that it was too late to start a primary fight against the Mayor and even if a successful fight could be made with a new candidate the effect on the general election would be disastrous and the chief outcome was the decision of Mr. Robb to accept the overtures of the Broening people and become the candidate for Attorney General.

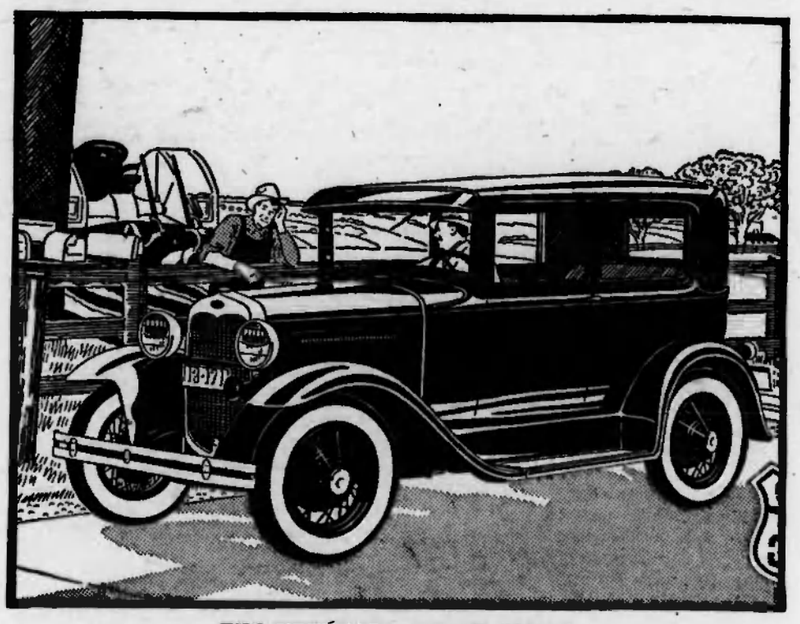
RELIABILITY ECONOMY GOOD PERFORMANCE



THE NEW FORD TUDOR SEDAN

YOU are buying proved performance when you buy a Ford. You know it has been built for many thousands of miles of satisfactory, economical service.

Letters from users in every part of the world show the value of the sound design of the car, good materials and accuracy in manufacturing. You sense a feeling of sincere pride in the oft-repeated phrase—"Let me tell you what my new Ford did."

Further tribute to the sturdiness, reliability and general all-round performance of the new Ford is shown in the repeated and growing purchases by government bureaus, by police departments, and by large industrial companies which keep carcful day-by-day cost records. In most cases, the new Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests covering speed and power, safety, comfort, ease of control, oil and gas consumption, low yearly depreciation, and low cost of up-keep.

They have found, as you will find, that the Ford embodies every feature you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

Who said it was hot?

Everybody around The Republican office says so, and the Amalgamated Society for the Prevention of Work held an indignation meeting about the weather on Wednesday morning. They would like cooler weather in which to do their loafing in the drug store and on Sincell's bench.

All kinds of methods were suggested for keeping cool. Neil Fraley gave his idea on how to keep cool by having as little as possible about the body, and appeared on the street this morning in the following garb:

Prepared for the Hottest

Ikey Sincell and Bill Frazee had other ideas about keeping cool. They contended that if they wore woolen underwear and overcoats they would keep the intense heat on the outside, and true to their promises they appeared on Second street this morning in the following:

On the Inside, Looking Out

Poky Shaw Lost

Somebody had to go and import a lot of members of the Democratic administration and park them here until after election. So if anyone sees a lot of blackbirds hovering about the construction building, don't get excited. Like a flock of ducks, they will go south in the winter.

Slim Shaw is still in a daze. He came from Kingwood the other day with his brother, Rebby, in his Eagle Rock plane and the intense heat got him all upset. He thought he was getting around the equator, and when he passed over the construction building and saw all the dark patches on the landscape he thought for sure he was on the edge of the Sahara desert, Africa.

He isn't entirely himself even yet. And after the nightmare on Tuesday when he had to carry a transformer single handed to restore electricity, Scoop can hardly blame him.

* * *

By the way, where are the other two ways of getting electricity to Oakland, promised several years ago, in case the regular circuit went bad? Two minutes without lights was the most that anybody would have to endure.

A marriage license was issued to a girl the other day by the name of Tocie Hallie. Scoop is glad that her name wasn't turned around to read Hallie Tocie, because then, even her best friends would not have told her, and she might never have known.

A sad case was reported to the drug store loafers last week. The C. and P. Telephone company, "Slim" in person, saved Ikey Sincell from falling into Wilson's creek, behind the G. N. B., by grabbing his arm as he was crossing the turbulent waters on a shaky log. The sad part about it is that he didn't fall in, according to Betty and Andalusia, the drug store twins.

The boss editor and Scoop himself gave up the printing business last Friday and went into the huckster trade. We peddled cabbage to the merchants all morning without losing our tempers, but what got our goat was when Lawrence Fraley said he would take those two cabbage heads, sitting in the front seat.

Tunes of long ago were enjoyed by the telephone operators in the local telephone office one day last week when the wires were kept hot with tunes about the "Good Old Summer Time". The boss editor had occasion to use the chorus of that good old ballad in print, and he sent Scoop to dig up the words. After calling on Bill Gibson, Thad Hinebaugh, Mrs. Thad and Mrs. Jim Treacy, Scoop was still without the words in their entirety. Everyone knew a line or so but it was not until after Mrs. Treacy and Mrs. Arthur Lawton had hummed and hawed it over the telephone for half an hour that success finally crowned the efforts.

Bill Gibson substituted the words Hoochie Koochie, for Tootsy-Wootsy, which wouldn't have looked so good in print. That's what his memory does for him.

An Interesting Fact

Piracy and Slavery.

Much has been written in regard to slavery in the Eastern United States, the causes of its early increase as well as the attitude of Maryland toward this once all-absorbing question.

One of the angles mentioned lightly, if at all, by a great many historians, has been treated by Matthew Page Andrews in his excellent history of Maryland and possibly accounts for the foothold the bondage of humans secured in the early seventeen hundreds.

Under the Royal Governors, piracy had grown to alarming proportions and Colonial trade suffered severely. Not only were trading vessels attacked, but plantations on the waterfronts plundered and the capital of the State once threatened, which occasioned the building of the first fort at Annapolis.

A number of these pirates were captured in Maryland and sent to England for trial prior to the establishment of admiralty courts in this Colony, while it was claimed that others received protection from a neighboring Colony.

Piracy and slavery increased proportionately in the same ratio, due, possibly, to the fact that sea captains found it safer to carry slaves than cargoes of merchandise. Also, there was apparently a feeling of kinship between them and the kidnappers of African savages. Prior to the early days of seventeen hundred the slaves were first taken from their native land to the West Indies and from those Islands reimported into the United States. But, becoming bolder and perhaps feeling more secure in their chosen profession, or perhaps sensing that the institution of slavery was beeoming more strongly entrenched in the Colonies, Negro captives were being brought direct from Africa by these freebooters.

The first American slaver, built especially for the slave trade, was constructed in the Massachusetts Bay Colony within two years after the founding of Maryland, and by 1712 it was estimated that of the 46,000 population of Maryland, 8,000 were Negroes. Slavery was growing by leaps and bounds and we note that by the middle of the 18th century the total slave population of Virginia was over half as large as that of the whites. In South Carolina the blacks outnumbered the whites.

In Maryland the blacks were employed extensively in the cultivation of tobacco, but there was a very considerable public sentiment in this State, as well as in Virginia, against the continuance of this traffic, which led to the incorporation, by Thomas Jefferson, in the original draft of the Declaration of Independence, an arraignment of King George III for promoting the traffic.

To the credit of Maryland, however, it can be stated, that at no time were her citizens engaged in the African slave trade.

RITCHIE CALLS SPECIAL SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Purpose To Change Registration Dates To Accommodate Jewish Citizens—Body to Meet 29th

A proclamation calling the General Assembly of Maryland into extraordinary session, July 29, to amend the dates for registration was issued yesterday by Governor Ritchie.

The Governor acted after more than a week's investigation of a situation created by the conflict of the registration dates with two of the most important religious holidays of the Jewish faith.

The Governor said he has taken the proper steps to assure himself that the legislators will limit themselves to the one subject and that it can and will meet, pass the necessary law and adjourn in one day.

Only the Senators, members of the House and the necessary desk officials will attend the session. Doorkeepers and numerous other paid attaches who swell the numbers flocking to Annapolis for regular sessions will not be needed for the one-day session, it was said.

Decides on Amendment

After consideration of the terms of the law in the case, the Governor explained he has found two or three alternatives, but believes the best course to follow would be an amendment of the existing law, providing for the substitution this year of new registration days for September 23 and 24 and October 7 and 8, which are set by statute. The former two coincide with the observance of Rosh Hashana, and the latter dates are the same as the Feast of Tabernacles.

Pointing out that the State should not permit any large group of its people to be disfranchised by circumstances wholly exceptional and unforseen and beyond their control, as is the case in the coincidence of the registration dates with the days sacred to the Jewish people, the Governor declared he has not acted because of any great demand or pressure from any source.

Has Studied Situation

"It is simply that I recognize an existing situation, have taken the time necessary to examine and appraise it calmly and carefully, and am convinced that fairness and justice to the people affected require a remedy which only the Legislature can give," he said.

In the matter of confining the action of the Senate and House of Delegates to the one subject, the Governor has the cooperation of Senator Philip Lee Goldsborough and Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

Would Limit Action

While they pointed out that the legal responsibility of deciding whether a sepcial session should be called rested with the Governor, they added that, if the session were convened, they would use their best offices with members of their party to curb any further action than the authorization of the registration change, if the Governor would do likewise.

The statement was made by Senator Goldsborough and Mr. Tait with the qualification that they were without authority to commit the Republican members of the legislative bodies.

Statement of Governor

The statement issued by Governor Ritchie in connection with his proclamation and the announcement that the Legislature would be given the necessary study and consideration before it convenes, follows in part:

"According to reliable estimates there are from 26,000 to 30,000 voting Jews in Baltimore, and of these it is estimated that 20,000 or more are Orthodox. The others are Reformed.

"On the first registration day, September 23, no Jew, Orthodox or Reformed, would be permitted to register by the tenets of his faith. On the three remaining registration days, September 24, October 7 and October 8, the Reformed Jew could register. The Orthodox Jews, however, could not register at any time on any of these days except between dark and 10 o'clock p. m., standard time, on September 24 and October 8.

Time to Register Too Short

"This would give the Orthodox Jews about three hours on each of these 2 nights in which to register, or about six hours in all. Under the most favorable conditions not more than twenty persons can be registered an hour in any precinct, so that in six hours 120 persons would be the maximum. There are a great many precincts in Baltimore in which several hundred voting Orthodox Jews reside, and it is perfectly obvious hat six hours are nowhere near enough to register these 20,000 or more persons, large numbers of whom live in communities.

"In addition to this, there are around 400 Jewish election officials in Baltimore city, and a great many registration officers are in Jewish homes. This is necessary so in many precincts of the city, especially as the officials are required to live in the precinct they represent, and the registration officers must be located within their respective precincts.

Would Bar Officials

"None of these registration officials, whether Orthodox of Reformed, could serve at all on the first registration day, September 23, and no Jewish home could be used at all that day for registration purposes. On the remaining three days, no Orthodox Jew would be permitted by his faith to serve as a registration official or to use his home as a registration office, except after dark on the nights of the second and fourth days.

"These circumstances would make it practically impossible either to have or man registration offices in a great many precincts on any of the present registration days.

"I have ascertained the general sentiment about an extra session as well as I could. It is a tribute to the heritage which distinctly belongs to our State that there has been but one expression from non-Jews all over the State, namely, that the extra session should be called in simple fairness to this large group of our people.

Puts Cost Above $8,000

"The cost of a one-day session of the Legislature as provided by law would be something over $8,000, of which about $815 represents per diem for the members and desk officers (no employes being needed), about $6,463 represents mileage and the balance would be for printing and binding the proceedings.

"I recognize that this is an appreciable amount, but it is not too much when weighed against the alternative of disfranchising a large group of citizens or when considered in the light of our State's traditional policy of tolerance in all matters of religion. Under the same circumstances the same consideration should and would be given to any other group of Maryland people."

THREE GIRLS INJURED IN AUTO MISHAP AT PUZZLEY

Thrown From Truck in Which They Were Returning Home

Miss Hannah Gates, aged 16, daughter of Rev. Daniel Boone Gates, of Eckhart, M. E. church; Miss Virginia Allison, aged 16, daughter of Rev. F. E. Allison, of Bowery street Congregational church, Frostburg, and Miss Elizabeth Grose, aged 16, of Levels, W. Va., a visitor at the Allison home, were injured Tuesday afternoon at Puzzley Run on the National Highway near Grantsville.

The girls had started on a day's hike and had had several lifts. They were returning home and had jumped on the rear of an ice truck. It had been raining and the truck skidded on the slippery road, following the sudden application of the brakes. All were thrown out.

The driver of the truck was held by Garrett county authorities for not having a driver's license. The girls were taken to Frostburg by Herbert Speyer, of Grantsville, and their injuries were dressed at the office of Dr. W. O. McLane, Jr.

Miss Gates was the most severely injured, sustaining a broken collarbone and bruises about the body. Miss Allison was cut about the face and on the right leg. Miss Grose was bruised about the body and suffered flesh lacerations on her legs.

DIED.

ALVIN F. GETTY

Funeral services for Alvin Francis Getty, 73 years old, a former Garrett countian, who died suddenly Friday afternoon at the home of his cousin, George Getty, Los Angeles, Cal., were held in Los Angeles on Sunday. His body is now on the way eastward and will arrive at Grantsville, the place of his birth on Saturday, where interment will be made.

Mr. Getty was employed for forty years in the First National Bank at Cumberland but was retired several months ago by reason of impaired vision and removed with Mrs. Getty to California. He was stricken with a heart attack last Thursday and succumbed twenty-four hours later.

He was a son of the late State Senator Wm. R. Getty, of Garrett county. Besides his widow, who was Miss Mollie Kepner, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kepner, of Oakland, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Bruce Lichty, of Meyersdale, Pa., and Mrs. Ella Keller, of Grantsville. The late John O. Getty, a prominent citizen of Grantsville until his death a few years ago, was a brother of the deceased. Mrs. Getty will return to Cumberland where she will reside with her sister, Mrs. Alice Steiner.

Civic Club to Meet

The regular meeting of the Oakland Civic club will be held Tuesday afternoon, July 29, at 3 o'clock at the home of Miss Thekla Fundenberg, Crook Crest.

Lightning Puts Oakland and Other Towns in Darkness

Lightning which at 4:35 o'clock Tuesday evening struck the sub-station of the Monongahela West Penn Public Service company at Howesville, W. Va., caused a five-hour suspension of service at Oakland, Mt. Lake Park, Deer Park, Aurora, Kingwood, Terra Alta, Tunnelton, Rowlesburg and outlying districts, company officials said.

One of the three 500-kilowatt transformers in the plant was destroyed and the others were badly damaged. Workmen made emergency efforts to get other transformers to the Howesville plant from St. Mary's, W. Va. The transformers weigh ten tons each and it was thought at first that current would not be resumed until Wednesday morning, but Oakland had lights at 9:25 p. m. on Tuesday evening, exactly five hours after the lightning had struck.

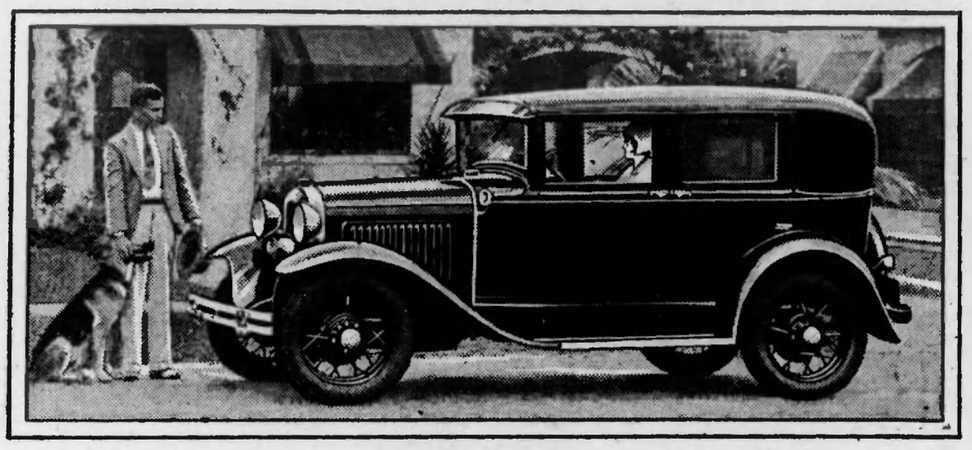
Ford Offers New De Luxe Sedan



Ford De Luxe Sedan

THE De Luxe Sedan, recently added to the Ford line, is designed for those who desire distinctiveness and unusual comfort in an automobile. The interior is inviting and roomy with wide doors to both compartments. Absence of rear quarter windows gives the car a striking individuality and affords privacy to the occupants.

Interior trimmings and appointments are luxurious. Upholstery is either in brown mohair or a deep tan Bedford cord patterned after that used in high-priced cars. Other refinements include arm rests for the rear seat, mahogany finished garnish mouldings on the windows and beneath the windshield, flexible robe rail and hardwars in an attractivs pattern.

The front seat is adjustable within a range of four inches to suit the convenience and comfort of the driver. It is movsd quickly and easily by a small, inconspicuous handle in the front center of the seat just above the floor.

The Ds Luxe Sedan, like other Ford body types, can be obtained in any one of several color combinations.

GRANTSVILLE

U. V. Bible School Closes

The Union Vacation Bible school closed on Friday, July 18, after a most satisfactory term of ten days with a daily average attendance of forty-six pupils.

Instruction was given, each day, in Bible stories, memory drills, music and art.

On the closing day, a public exhibition was given of the work of the pupils in each of thcsc studies followed by a picnic on the church lawn.

Rev. S. D. Sigler and his corps of five teachers feel that their time and labor were productive of gratifying results, and the art display, covering five tables, was so excellent that by request it was left on view in the social room of the Lutheran church for several days for the public to see it.

Escaped Injury in Wreck

Miss Helen Gulusha of Morgantown, W. Va., accompanied by Miss Dorothy Edwards and Miss Mary Martha Miller, narrowly escaped injury when the sedan driven by Miss Gulusha turned over several times as she was rounding the turn on this side of the stone bridge just east of Grantsville, about 11:30 Sunday morning.

Miss Gulusha was driving and applied the brakes; the car skidded some distance and plunged over the fence several feet below the road, completely wrecking the car.

Miss Gulusha has several bruises and a badly sprained right arm; Miss Edwards slight bruises and Miss Miller cuts and bruises about her faec and body.

Miss Gulusha had spent the past week with Miss Edwards and returned home Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gulusha, who had just arrived to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Edwards. The girls took the car and were taking Miss Miller home when the accident occurred.

PROCLAMATION

Proposing Amendments to the Constitution of the State, 1930.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1929, two Acts were passed, to-wit: Chapter 133 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," to authorize deputies in the Treasury Department to sign checks and warrants; and Chapter 348, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 133.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," so as to confer upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants, and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the State Treasury under regulations prescribed by the Legislature; and providing for the submission of said amendment to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoptio nor rejectiojn.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all of the Members of both of the Houses concurring), That an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Treasury Department," be and the same is hereby proposed, the said amendment, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become a part of said Constitution, and the said Sections as amended to read as follows:

2. The Comptroller shall have the general superintendence of the fiscal affairs of the State; he shall digest and prepare plans for the improvement and management of the revenue, and for the support of the public credit; prepare and report estimates of the revenue and expenditures of the State; superintend and enforce the prompt collection of all taxes and revenue; adjust and settle, on terms prescribed by law, with delinquent collectors and receivers of taxes and State revenue; preserve all public accounts; and decide on the forms of keeping and stating accounts. He, or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature, shall grant, under regulations prescribed by law, all warrants for money to be paid out of the Treasury, in pursuance of appropriations by law, and countersign all checks drawn by the Treasurer upon any bank or banks in which the moneys of the State may from time to time be deposited. He shall prescribe the formalities of the transfer of stock, or other evidence of the State debt, and countersign the same, without which such evidence shall not be valid; he shall make to the General Assembly full reports of all his proceedings, and of the State of the Treasury Department within ten days after the commencement of each Session; and perform such other duties as shall be prescribed by law.

3. The Treasurer shall receive the moneys of the State, and, until otherwise prescribed by law, deposit them, as soon as received, to the credit of the State, in such bank or banks as he may, from time to time, with the approval of the Governor, select (the said bank or banks giving security, satisfactory to the Governor, for the safekeeping and forthcoming, when required of said deposits), and he or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall disburse the same for the purposes of the State according to law, upon warrants drawn by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and on checks countersigned by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and not otherwise. The Treasurer or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall take receipts for all moneys paid from the Treasury Department; and receipt for moneys received by him shall be endorsed upon warrants signed by the Comptroller, or such deputy as may be authorized to do so by law, without which warrants, so signed, no acknowledgment of money received into the Treasury shall be valid; and upon warrants issued by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, the Treasurer shall make arrangements for the payment of the interest of the public debt, and for the purchase thereof, on account of the sinking fund. Every bond, certificate, or other evidence of the debt of the State shall be signed by the Treasurer, and countersigned by the Comptroller; and no new certificate or other evidence intended to replace another shall be issued until the old one shall be delivered to the Treasurer, and authority executed in due form for the transfer of the same filed in his office, and the transfer accordingly made on the books thereof, and the certificate or other evidence cancelled; but the Legislature may make provisions for the loss of certificates or other evidences of the debt; and may prescribe, by law, the manner in which the Treasurer shall receive and keep the moneys of the State.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the aforegoing sections as amended, shall be, at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, nineteen hundred and thirty, submitted to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State and at said general election the vote on the proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the following synopsis of said amendment, under the caption of:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
AMENDING SECTIONS 2 AND
3 OF ARTICLE VI."

"This amendment confers upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury of the State under regulations prescribed by the Legislature."

Approved: April 2, 1929.

CHAPTER 348

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Legislative Department," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of fifteen dollars per diem for every day he shall attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of ten dollars per day. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election for Members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against the said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: April 11, 1929.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ALBERT C. RITCHIE, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that this proclamation containing full, true and correct copies of the text of said Chapters 133 and 348 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1929, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months next preceding the general election to be held in the State of Maryland on Tuesday, the 4th day of November, 1930, at which election the said proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be submitted in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

The Great Seal of Maryland

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland. Done at the City of Annapolis, this 14th day of July, in the year nineteen hundred and thirty.

Callie's Cobra Was a Thorn

By LILLIACE MITCHELL

(Copyright.)

JIM BLAKE was in ndvertisiug. When he had first met Callie, they had both been on one of those Saturday hikes that city people frequently enjoy—for the day.

Callie, however, had always lived in the city. With the nsual contrariness of human nature she longed to live la the country. Jim, on the other band, had been born on a farm, had followed his father from one farm to another and had finnlly managed to finish high school at a northern Michigan lamber town where "men were men," as they themselves boasted. Jim liked to hike, but he hnd no particulnr love for the country as a place in which to live.

Just after they were engaged Callie found out that Jim hnted the country. Callie decided to take a "onesome" hike over her three-day holiday. Could she give up all idea of living in the country in order to marry Jim? Could she face life in the city forever?

A thing like that isn't decided in a moment.

Callie, with a light pack to carry, took a train that let her out at a lonely little wny-stntion, a hundred miles from the city. She dropped a postal card to Jim, telling him where she had gone.

Swinging into the country road with no sign of human habitation before her, Callie threw back her head and drew in deep breaths joyously. Ah! this was the life! Even Jim, darling Jim could offer nothing to compare with this. Singing birds, feathery trees, wild flowers springing up at the sides.

By night she had come to a pine woods where she unrolled her blanket, blew up her air pillow, and took oat the dainty sandwiches she had packed in the city.

Callie wondered if she could have good things sent out hy parcef post.

By morning she wished that she had brought a frying pan and hacon. The sandwiches were good but she could have eaten the three days' supply at once.

By noon her further hiking brought her to a high hill. A few scrub pines dotted it. Brush and spiny looking growths making hiking slow. Under the warm sun snakes glided through the brush, giving Callie little shivers along her spine.

She sat down to make sure that her [illegible] leggings were well fastened. A small gnrter snake slithered near her ankle. Callie let out a yell for help before she realized that there was no one to yell to. She began to wonder if she hnd been foolish to come out alone this way. If she missed the road and did not come to the town she was expecting to find—her heart skipped a beat and she rose to her feet, pulled down her little scarlet hat and pressed forward with clinched teeth.

It seemed now thnt all of the snakes in the world had congregnted in this spot and were gliding about in the sun. She tried to pretend that she could not see them. Then nt the side of a little stream where there were balgy stepping stones that rocked as one stepped upon them, a snake reared and darted towards her.

"A cobra!" she moaned as she lost her footing, stepped wildly on several stones and fell half in the muddy stream and half on the coarse brush bordering it.

When she took off her legging she fonnd two tiny marks. A quick tourniquet, turning, turning, turning until it seemed that all of the blood in her body had stopped flowing; cold hands, blood racing around and around her head—Callie was fear-stricken.

"Cobra—twenty minutes to live," she said in low tones.

The sun was going down now and she thought of herself lying out here never to be found. By her red hat, if she were ever found, Jim would know that it was she for he had helped her select that at a store on Michigan boulevard one Saturday afternoon. Drowsy, her head drooped forward on her chest.

She was aroused by the soand of a motor, and then a voice. She opened her eyes.

"You little idiot! Chasing off like this alone!" said Jim, shaking her.

Callie clung to him, now wide awake.

"I'm going to die—cobra," she whispered. "Oh, don't scold me now, Jim. I'm—dying—twenty minutes—"

He stared at her. He reached over to the place where she had thrown her legging and looked at it.

"There are no cobras in this neck o' the woods," he laughed. "You've got a spiny-thorn in your legging, girlie. Just a thorn—that's all! Lucky you wore that red hat. I got your card in the morning mail and drove right oat. The postmaster told me you were in last night nnd he said you wore a red hat. I've searched miles!

"Well, all ready to go hack to civilisatioa where snakes are snakes aad flats are flats and all of that? Plenty of snakes out in Lincoln park at the zoo and they're all classified for you—cobras and all," he teased.

Callie shuddered. "Say, Jimmie, can we stop some place and get a good meal?"

In a Nutshell

There are three ways of getting out of a scrape—push out, back out and keep out.

MT. LAKE PARK

The thermometer the past four or five days stood at about—but why bring that up? At that it was cooler here than in most plaees.

It seems just a little bit out of the way to suggest improvements when we know the community is spending about all it ean afford. But even so, it has been suggested that it would be a good move to change the sewer line so as to have the terminal below the residential part of the Park. Especially would the improvement be appreciated during periods of hot, dry weather, when the water supply gets low as at present.

The first unit of the Mountain Lake-Gormania road will soon be completed. Concrete is being poured.

The National Lord's Day Alliance, with addresses by Dr. David G. Wylie, president, and Dr. W. W. Davis, general secretary of Maryland, held its fifth annual field day at the Park last Sunday, with a fairly good attendance. The Boys' Band of Oakland gave a concert in the afternoon.

One of the very noticeable improvements in Loch Lynn, is the remodeling and repainting of the Pennsylvania House by Mr. H. V. Leighton. Located as it is in a commanding position on the heights above the village, its fresh bright appearance blends well with the natural beauty of the surroundings.

Monday ushered in the fifteenth annual Epworth League Institute, Baltimore Conference. It is very well attended, the registration today (Wednesday) being around 300, with more coming in Thursday. The registration last year was 326, exclusive of "weekenders". By Friday the number will probably approximate 350. These League Conferences bring to the Park high class, earnest young men and women, whose presence is appreciated.

It is sincerely hoped that the plan recently discussed looking to the advertising advantages of Mt. Lake Park will not be allowed to die or even lag. If the plans do materialize, the booklet will supplement the one issued and very widely distributed by the Rotary Club of Oakland, which has put in the mails 5000 of the very interesting and instructive publication, with 10,000 on the press.

The Bazar of the Womans' Civic Club of the Park held yesterday in the Tennis Club house was a very delightful and successful affair, well patronized.

Monday, July 28, continuing until August 7, we will have the summer school of Ministerial Training, Pittsburgh Area, for its 9th annual meeting. This will be followed by the Summer School of Missions, August 3-8.

This season has seen the return of many old friends of the Park, whose enjoyment consists in contemplating the old, but ever new, naturel beauties with which an All Wise Providence has endowed this strip of Western Maryland. To mention them all would be impossible. We therefore restrain a natural impulse to note the presence of those whom we recall at the present moment, and content ourselves by saying that they are thrice welcome. May the restful quietude of our mountain-top strengthen them physically and spiritually so they may return to us for many seasons yet to come.

The Misses Mildred Ford and Mary Sisk, Loch Lynn, returned home Saturday from Braddock Heights, having attended the Baptist Summer Assembly at that place.

Rev. J. Y. Fincher will preach at the Baptist church Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. L. W. Stephenson and little daughter, and Miss Blanche Cale, who spent the past several weeks in New Philadelphia, Ohio, are visiting at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Leighton.

DEER PARK

Those who were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lee included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hogans and daughter, Uniontown; Miss Violet Mason, Oliver and Robert Mason, Lee Shell, of Ohiopyle, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tasker and little daughter, Bloomington.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashful King and Grace and Claude King, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hardesty were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rexroad, Hoyes on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Flanigan and daughter Betty motored to Kempton and Pierce on Wednesday.

Mrs. Julia Hardesty and her granddaughter are visiting in our community.

Miss Marie Wotring, of Pierce, W. Va., was a visitor with friends in Deer Park over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shanholtz with two grandchildren and a friend, of Cumberland, were at the home of A. H. King on Sunday.

G. S. Walter and family, of Fairmont, were visiting Mr. J. W. Walter and family one day recently.

Mr. S. O. Broadwater and family and Harry Hardesty were visiting at Bethlehem on Sunday.

Miss Alice Campbell, Cumberland, was a home visitor over the week-end.

J. W. Walter is engaged in building a filling station in Deer Park.

Miss P. C. Reis and Lester Lee were Saturday evening visitors at the residence of Mr. Alex. Wilson.

Mrs. F. N. Reis, Mrs. Alex. Wilson and daughter Glenna and P. C. Reis were Wednesday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rodeheaver.

Six Hundred Boys and Girls Expected At 4-H Camp

In spite of the fact that the minimum age limit for delegates has been raised from ten to twelve years, it is expected that 600 boys and girls will attend the twelfth annual 4-H Club Week to be held at the University of Maryland campus from August 7 to 12, according to E. G. Jenkins and Miss Dorothy Emerson, State Boys' and Girls' Club Agents, respectively, for this State.

The week will be taken up with demonstrations, leetures and recreational activities, Mr. Jenkins and Miss Emerson being aided by individuals from other states, a number of county and home demonstration agents and older club members. Several of the prominent persons who will aid with the work are: Miss Pauline Spangler, a club leader from West Virginia, who will conduct demonstrations before the girls; Miss Edith Craig, of Boston, who will instruct in personal matters for young people and demonstrate storytelling and elocution, and Dr. R. G. Foster, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who will advise the adult leaders in methods and programs of work and play.

It is planned to spend a day in the Nation's Capital at which time it is hoped that the President of the United States and the Secretary of Agriculture will be seen. The trip to Washington will include visits to the more prominent buildings and places of interest. Also, the boys and girls will inspect the scientific work being carried on at the University of Maryland Experiment Station and each specialist will describe the particular work carried on in his line.

This year a new feature will be introduced in tha tapproximately ten counties will send teams of two boys each who will demonstrate better methods in dairying. The best of these teams will then be sent to the Timonium Fair in September and the winner there will represent the State at the National Dairy Show this fall at St. Louis.

About 40 All Stars, members of an honorary group of 4-H Club members, which recognizes outstanding work in the home and community, will arrive at the University in advance of the others and will largely take charge of all work and details. Sunday the fraternity will hold its consecration at which time new members will be taken in.

New Publication for Poultry Growers

A new publication "Developing and Housing the Pullets", prepared by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland Extension Service, has just been released and a copy may be obtained from the University by anyone who desires one.

This 12-page circular deals in a practical way with problems encountered in the rearing of pullets. The more common causes of poor development and low egg production in pullets are considered, from the brooding period until the birds are placed in the laying houses. Simple methods whereby many of the difficulties, which result in lack of vigor and stamina, may be avoided are explained and the extra profit derived from practicing such methods is stressed.

Important phases of rearing pullets that are covered in this circular include "Range and Exercise," "Shade and Green Feed," "Housing and Shelter," "Water and Feed," "Culling", and a discussion of the kind and type of laying houses that is best adapted to the pullet flock.

A request for Circular No. 77, addressed to the Extension Service of the University of Maryland, College Park, will bring a copy of this publication without cost.

Maryland Poultry Day—Tuesday, August 12

Poultry Day will be held at College Park Tuesday, August 12, instead of in June as heretofore. This change is made in order that interested poultrymen may also attend the farm marketing conference to be held at College Park, August 12 to 15, inclusive. Each afternoon will be devoted to consideration of poultry problems in Maryland, especially those of marketing, while the morning sessions will consist of problems of interest to all farmers, including poultrymen.

The first day of this marketing conference, Tuesday, August 12, is designated officially as Poultry Day on the same basis as heretofore.

SICKNESS DECREASES FOR FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR

Nearly 28,000 Fewer Cases of Communicable Diseases Reported

Nearly 28,000 fewer cases of sickness from communicable diseases were reported to the State Department of Health during the first six months of 1930 than during the corresponding period of 1929. From the first of January to the end of June of the current year, 19,778 cases of notifiable diseases were reported in the State, 8,337 in the counties and 11,441 in Baltimore city, in comparison with 47,748 during the corresponding period of 1929. From the first of January to the end of June of the current year, 19,778 cases of notifiable diseases were reported in the State, 8,337 in the counties and 11,441 in Baltimore city, in comparison with 47,748 during the corresponding period of 1929 when 26,651 were reported from the counties and 21,097 from Baltimore City.

In announcing the figures for the first six months of the current year, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, pointed out that the excessive total for the first half of 1929 was largely due to the influenza epidemic during which 23,809 cases were reported, 17,210 in the counties and 6,599 in Baltimore City. Influenza reported during the first six months of the current year, reached a total of 812 casaes, 480 in the counties and 332 in Baltimore City.

There were also reductions in the pneumonias and in tuberculosis. Of the former 2280 cases, 1350 in the counties and 930 in Baltimore City were reported up to the end of June of this year in comparison with 3645 during the first six months of last year, 1986 in the counties and 1659 in Baltimore City. There were 1445 cases of tuberculosis, 684 in the counties and 761 in Baltimore City, in comparison with 1749 during the first half of last year, 982 in the counties and 761 in Baltimore City.

Whooping cough, with 1043 cases, was only one-third as prevalent this year as it was during the first six months of 1929, when 3206 cases were reported. Scarlet fever, on the other hand, with 2275 cases reported, showed an increase over the total for the first half of 1929 during which 2023 cases were reported.

For the first time in the history of the Department, psittacosis, parrot fever, appears on the records, with a total of 27 cases, 11 in the counties and 16 in Baltimore City. There were 12 cases of endemic typhus fever, 11 in the counties and one in Baltimore City; in comparison with 3 in the same period of 1929, 2 in the counties and one in Baltimore City; 8 cases of tularemia, one in the counties and 7 in Baltimore City, in comparison with two during the same period of 1929, both in Baltimore City; and 14 cases of undulant fever—also known as Malta fever—10 in the counties and 4 in Baltimore City, in comparison with ten during the same period of 1929, of which 8 occurred in the counties and 2 in Baltimore City. Typhoid fever, with 119 cases, showed a slight increase over 1929 when 111 cases were reported. The smallpox record had no entries against it for the first six months of the current year.

The total number of deaths from all causes recorded in the State during the six months ending in June, was 11,088, of which 5,211 occurred in the counties and 5,877 in Baltimore City; in comparison with 11,945 during the corresponding period of 1929, when 5,585 occurred in the counties and 6,360 in Baltimore City.

Approximately 40 Attending First Tri-County 4-H Camp

Approximately 40 boys, members of 4-H clubs of Garrett and Allegany counties, are now attending the first tri-county 4-H camp, being held at the camping headquarters of the Oakland Scout Troop on Deep Creek Lake. The camp will close on Saturday morning.

The boys are in charge of E. G. Jenkins, State Boys club leader; Mylo S. Downey, assistant county agent of Allegany county; M. D. Moore, county agent of Washington county and John H. Carter, county agent of Garrett county.

The morning periods are given over to instructions in camp craft and other class work, while the afternoons are devoted to swimming and other recreation. Vesper services around the camp fire are being held during the evenings.

This is the first time that a tri-county camp for 4-H boys has been held, and it is planned to make this an annual affair.

Marketing Programs Are Now Available

Complete programs for the Farmers' Marketing Conference, to be held at the University of Maryland, College Park, are now available and copies may be obtained from John H. Carter, county agent, or direct from the Extension Service of the University. Those in charge of arrangements have been working for months, it is said, in an effort to provide the best program obtainable and to secure speakers and leaders for the discussions who are amply qualified, both by training and experience, to be of greatest value from the standpoint of giving counsel upon the particular marketing problems that concern producers in Maryland.

Those who attended, according to Dr. T. B. Symons, Director of Extension, who has been active in making arrangements, will have an opportunity to obtain first-hand information regarding the plans, policies, and activities of the Federal Farm Board, and to learn just how those plans may affect the marketing of products grown on Maryland farms. They can consider, he asserts, among themselves and with special authorities on the subjects, ways and means whereby efforts toward improved marketing methods in his State may be made to coordinate with broad plans that are being made along similar lines throughout the country.

In addition, outstanding leaders in the cooperative movement in Maryland and recognized authorities from other states and the U. S. Department of Agriculture will give the benefit of their experience and study upon phases of marketing to which they have given special attention.

Arrangements for meals and lodging at small cost have been made to accommodate those in attendance and President Pearson and other officials of the University are anxious that every farmer and his wife who can possibly do so will take advantage of the four unusually profitable and pleasant days that are provided.

Several farmers of Garrett county are expecting to attend, according to Mr. Carter.

Automobile Overturns

A Ford sedan, driven by Mark Moon, of near town, overturned last evening at the corner of Third and Alder streets as he was attempting to make the corner without hitting the cars parked on either side.

Both Mr. Moon and his daughter, Clara Moon, were cut by flying glass and bruised considerably. In turning over Mr. Moon's car struck the rear of the Packard automobile owned by Stuart F. Hamill and broke the bumper and tire carrier.

LEGISLATURE IN SESSION ONLY AN HOUR AND A HALF

Registration Measure Railroaded Through House and Senate In Record Breaking time Tuesday

IS SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Annapolis, Md., July 29.—In one of the shortest legislative sessions on record, the Maryland General Assembly met today, passed a measure changing registration dates for Baltimore City and one to defray costs of the session, and adjourned in one hour and thirty mmutes.

The legislators, working under suspension of rules, jammed the measures through without a hitch from Republicans or any anti-administration Democrat, as fast as the nearly score of roll calls necessary in each house could be completed.

The House convened seven minutes after noon, with the Senate going into session three minutes later. In joint session, they heard Governor Albert C. Ritchie's measure calling for the change in registration dates which conflicted with orthodox and reformed Jewish holidays, and immediately the administration bills, already printed, were introduced.

Speedy Action Taken

Then came the first roll call, that on suspension of the rules so that the bills might be considered by the Baltimore City delegation and the elections committee, to which they had been referred.

The Senate moved more speedily than did the larger House. Just 38 minutes after President David G. McIntosh called the Senate to order, both the measures were given approval, one to change registration dates from September 23 and 24 and October 7 and 8 to September 16 and 17 and October 9 and 16, respectively, and the other appropriating $9,000 to defray the session's cost. It then adjourned awaiting House action.

In the House, things were moving as speedily as the clerk could call the roll. The committees reported the measures favorably, again rules were suspended and the bills jammed thru for final passage.

Then came a forced wait while the Senate measures were sent to the House for concurrence. They underwent the same procedure and were sent back to the Senate and given final ratification along with the House bills.

Measure Immediately Signed

Then without going out of the capitol building, Mr. McIntosh, E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the House, and the clerks of the two branches took the engrossed measures upstairs where they immediately received the signature of Governor Ritchie, enacting them into law.

Both of the measures were treated as emergency legislation, receiving the unanimous vote in each house when they were brought to the floor, and became law as soon as they were signed.

The State legislators rallied to Governor Ritchie's call for the special session almost to the man. But one senator of the 29 was missing, and 112 of the 114 eligible members of the House answered the roll call. Even George C. Peverly, of St. Mary's county, ineligible to hold his seat since the last session, due to his appointment as State Land Commissioner, was in the House, though he could take no part in the proceedings.

The official absence of Peverly necessitated the appointment of George C. Hofferbert, of Baltimore City, as chairman of the Elections Committee, to which the bill changing registration dates was referred in conjunction with the Baltimore City delegation.

Praises Governor's Action

The session in the House was marked by a speech in favor of the bill by Daniel C. Joseph, Baltimore City member since 1914, in which he announced his retirement from the House. Joseph, himself a Jew, praised Governor Ritchie's action in calling the special session that his 25,000 fellow Jews of Baltimore City would be enabled to vote, as an impartial act, though he has been one of the greatest foes the Maryland executive ever has had, and in the session of 1929, was the leader of the Democratic insurgent bloc.

No Pary Opposition

Trouble from the Republican side of each house failed to materialize, following a conference between Governor Ritchie and Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee. Tait had sought to have the legislation limited to additional registration dates, allowing the old poll lists to stand for the coming primary in September and the general election in November.

Cool in action, the session from a point of temperature was anything else. The legislative chamber of the Capitol building, closed and unused since the 1929 session, fairly oozed heat and the members sat around with their coats off and shirts open at the neck, enacting the legislation that gave the Baltimore Jews the right to register and vote without violating the tenets of their church.

MAY ORGANIZE DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS IN LEGION

Meeting Called for Monday Night to Decide Question

Whether or not a drum and bugle corps will be formed by Proctor Kildow Post, American Legion, of Oakland, will be decided at a meeting of that organization, to be held Monday evening, August 4, at 7:30 o'clock at the City Hall, Joseph M. Gonder, post commander, has announced.

There will be for examination of the post, samples of drums and bugles from various musical concerns. A committee, composed of F. M. Lyon, W. H. Teets, and E. C. Liller, has been interviewing members with a view of ascertaining how many can devote the time required in practice in order to organize a drum and bugle corps.

All members are requested to be present. The membership of the post is rapidly increasing, Mr. Gonder stated. A recent visit to Kitzmiller produced very favorable results. It is the intention of the post members to visit other communities in the near future.

About 30 members are required for the drum corps, which will be divided into 16 buglers, 10 snare drummers, 1 cymbal player, 2 bass drummers, and 1 drum major. Russell Paupe, of Fort Cumberland post of American Legion, will help with instruction, it was stated.

OAKLAND CIVIC CLUB HAS REGULAR MONTHLY MEET

Entertainment Rendered By Girl Scouts and Miss Hinebaugh

Excerpts from an article commending the work of the Oakland Civic club for its orthopedic work, an article on girls, and entertainment by members of the Oakland Girl scouts and Miss Bess Hinebaugh, of Pittsburgh, were features of the regular meeting of the Oakland Civic club held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Thekla Fundenburg, on Crook Crest.

The excerpts, which were read by Mrs. C. M. Sinceli, were from the address given by Mrs. Sipple, president of federation of civic clubs, at the Twentieth Biennial Convention of the General Federation of Civic Clubs, held in Denver June 5 to 14, in which the splendid orthopedic work sponsored by the Civic clubs of Western Maryland was commended. The work of Garrett county was especially commended.

Miss Fundenburg gave an article by Anglo Patri, "Give Girls a Break," and spoke of the benefits of Girl Scouts. The Civic club voted to sponsor the Oakland Girl Scout Movement. The Oakland Girl scouts, as guests of the club, gave a short program which demonstrated the fine work of the organization.

Miss Bess Hinebaugh, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and formerly of Oakland, accompanied by Mrs. James P. Treacy at the piano, gave a number of vocal selections, one of them being of her own composition, which were enoyed very much. Miss Hinebaugh, who is soloist and flutist of the Pittsburgh Ladies' orchestra, and who broadcasts frequently over all four of the Pittsburgh radio stations, plans to give a costume recital early in August for the benefit of the Oakland Civic club.

The recital will be held in the Oakland High school building and the date will probably be announced next week. Miss Hinebaugh may send for her accompanist from Pittsburgh, for the recital, it was stated by Mrs. Julius Littman, and Mrs. C. M. Sinceli, members of the committee in charge.

After the adjournment of the meeting delightful refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Charles D. Bosley will entertain a number of her friends this evening with a bridge dinner at the Manhattan hotel.

SCOUTS TO BEGIN ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT ON AUGUST 3

Camping Party to Include 40 Who Will Spend Two Weeks on Deep Creek Lake

Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, will begin its annual summer encampment at its permanent quarters on Deep Creek Lake Sunday afternoon, according to George H. Hanst, scoutmaster, who, with the members of the Troop committee and Ladies' Auxiliary, are arranging the details for the two weeks trip. Thirty-five scouts at least are expecting to make the trip.

The daily schedule for camp will start on Monday and will consist of setting up exercises, cleaning up the grounds and inspection, rest hour, study hour, swimming three times a day, and a camp fire hour and program in the evening. All will be in bed by 9 o'clock.

The Scoutmaster is planning to add about a half hour of military drill to the daily program this year so that the troop will be able to make a better appearance during parades and other formations.

William Turney will again be the camp cook and a new stove has been donated for his use. James Lee and Kenneth Stahl, Eagle Scouts, and Leonard Murphy, will be assistant scoutmasters while in camp, and will be in charge of the swimming periods as well as other details. Robert Leary, a second class scout of Troop No. 80, of Baltimore, will accompany the scouts on their trip.

All but a few of the scouts will be second class or above that rank at the time camp opens, and those who are still Tenderfoot scouts are expected to pass their final requirements the first few days there.

Wednesdays and Sundays will be visiting days at camp and it is urged that everyone who can, visit the camp on these days, so that the camp program will not be interrupted.

Each boy attending camp is required to pay $5.00 and the balance of the expense for the two weeks is raised by the boys, the Ladies' Auxiliary, the Rotary club and other organizations. More than $60 was cleared on the benefit picture held last week.

Scouts and their supplies will be taken to camp in trucks and cars supplied by the merchants of town and by interested citizens and parents.

No School Appointments Have Been Officially Announced

No appointments to schools in Garrett county have been officially announced, according to Prof. F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, and it is not likely that they will be published before the second week in August, it was stated.

Appointments in many cases have not yet been made, and in others, those who have been appointed, have not yet accepted. There are still vacancies to be filled in both high and elementary schools. Included in these are several vacancies in the Oakland High school.

It is generally understood that Misses Margaret Kochenderfer, Rose Rice, Edna Kraft, Eva Falkenstein, and Messrs. W. W. Jenkins, O. T. Graser, and Foster Speicher will or have received their appointments, and that Prof. Foster D. Bittle, Williamsport, would be principal, in place of Miss Katharine T. Conley, resigned.

Fred Livengood, of Grantsville, Candidate for Sheriff

Mr. Fred Livengood, native son of Grantsville where he has resided all his life, is the latest aspirant to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Garrett county, coming to Oakland Tuesday for the purpose of filing his nomination papers and authorizing the Republican to insert his announcement as a candidate, which will be found on page seven of this paper.

Mr. Livengood has been identified with civic matters in his home town since reaching his majority and is counted as one of the leading citizens of Grantsville where he is engaged in farming and in other pursuits. He is well qualified as a business man for the position he aspires to fill and there is no doubt he will endeavor to fulfill the pledge that he will enforce the laws to the best of his ability as contained in his announcement should he be nominated and later elected.

FORMER ACCIDENT YOUTH DROWNS IN OHIO RIVER

Lloyd Hoover, 17, Goes Down Among Crowd of Swimmers.—Body Recovered Next Day

FUNERAL HELD SATURDAY

Lloyd Hoover, aged 17 years, formerly of Accident, lost his life last Wednesday evening in the Ohio river at Bellaire, Ohio, when he was in swimming with a large number of others at Waterworks beach. No one saw him go down and it was not until late in he evening that his clothing was found on the river shore.

The body was recovered Thursday morning, 15 feet from the diving board, by William Schunk, a high school lad and son of a professional diver. Coroner Neal who was called on the case, expressed the opinion that the boy was attacked with cramps.

The victim had been making his home with his nucle, W. M. Weyrich, at Bellaire, for some time. He formerly made his home with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Speicher, at Accident. His mother resides at Lumberport, W. Va. The youth had been employed for the past two years as a truck driver for Henry Heil Son's store.

Besides his mother he is survived by by two sisters, Mrs. Thelma Hester, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Cleo Wilcox, Clarksburg, West Va.; his grandparents, his step-father, one half-sister, two half-brothers, five aunts, three uncles and a host of friends.

His body was brought to the home of his grandparents on Friday evening. Funeral services were held in the Accident Lutheran church on Saturday afternoon by the Rev. E. E. Campbell, Bittinger, with interment in the Bittinger cemetery.

The deceased had been confirmed in the Lutheran church at Bittinger at the age of 12 by Rev. Campbell. He attended Accident High school and graduated with the class of 1928. His employer, J. P. Heil, paid him a high tribute when he said Lloyd Hoover was the most honest, Christian, upright boy with whom it had been his pleasure to work and associate, in the past two years. It was his desire to train him to be a partner in the business.

STAHL AND SINCELL WIN IN MIDGET GOLF TOURNEY

Extra Rounds Necessary to Determine Winner of Ladies

Kenneth Stahl with a 53 was winner of the men's tournament, and Miss Adeline Sincell with a 62 was winner of the ladies' tournament, conducted on Monday night at the Miller Midget golf course next to the William-James hotel. Stahl was presented with a pair of golf hose and Miss Sincell was awarded a mesh bag.

Miss Sincell and Miss Charlotte Bolgiano were tied at the end of the first 18 holes and at the conclusion of the second round of 18 holes both had 68, and it was necessary to play another 5 holes before determining the winner.

Other entries included Donald Stemple, second; Fred Chesley, third; James Lee, Casselman Chesley, Harry Brand, Richard Roy, John Weber, William Spiker, H. Snell, Stanley Bond, Bud Stemple. Others entered in the girls' tournament included Mary Bolgiano, Susanna Dixon, Caroline Brand and Mary Lee Mountcastle.

The next tournament will be held on Monday evening, and the 12 men and 12 women turning in low scores from Tuesday through Saturday night will be eligible to compete. The list of entrants will be posted on Sunday. Prizes will be awarded.

People Should Continue to Conserve Water Supply

Since the Mayor and Town council have prohibited citizens from watering lawns, washing automobiles, etc., in order to conserve the water supply, the people generally have responded very well, according to Ralph Thayer, president of the council.

The council is asking that this action continue until the present dry spell is broken up. Only in this way, he said, will Oakland be able to supply all of its people with water for drinking and cooking and general house use.

ROADS COMMISSION ASKS FOR BIDS ON SHOULDERS

To Be Built Thru Accident, Grantsville and Along Route 40

Advertisement of the State Roads Commission asking for sealed proposals for building one section of State Highway in Garrett county consisting of concrete shoulders through the town of Accident, the town of Grantsville, and along the National Pike from the Pennslyvania State line toward Keyser's Ridge, is appearing in today's issue of The Republican. The distance is 4.79 miles.

The contract is described identically as follows: one section of State Highway along the National Pike from the Pennsylvania State Line toward Keyser's Ridge, a disance of 3.6 miles; through Grantsville, a distance of 0.85 mile; and through Accident, a distance of 0.34 mile, making a total distance of 4.79 miles (concrete shoulders.)

The bids will be received until 12 o'clock noon, August 12, when they will be publicly opened and read.

OBTAIN AMUSEMENTS FOR ANNUAL K. OF P. PICNIC

Committee Engages Weaver Park Attractions, Pittsburgh

That the Weaver Park Attractions, of Pittsburgh, Pa., would furnish the amusement for the eleventh annual K. of P. picnic, to be held in Helbig's grove, at the north edge of town, on Monday, September 1, was announced yesterday afternoon by Harry Stemple, a member of the advertising committee.

The Weaver Park Attractions is the same company that furnished amusements at the picnic last year, and the manager assured the Knights of Pythias in a telegram yesterday that he would bring his shows and concessions here again on that date. There will be four rides consisting of a chairplane, whip, merry-go-round, and Ferris wheel, and a number of concessions.

The committee arranging for speakers has gotten in touch with a number of prominent people and the names of those who will address the gathering will be announced in the near future, Mr. Stemple said.

The grand lodge officials have already been invited and a number of them are expecting to attend.

Details and plans concerning the celebration were discussed at the meeting of committees last Friday evening following the regular weekly lodge session. Walter Hardesty was chosen secretary and treasurer, and C. F. White was named as assistant treasurer.

Eighteen Take Examination for Free Scholarships

Eighteen Garrett county High school graduates took the competitive examinations for free scholarships to a number of Maryland schools, which was held in the Oakland High school building last Saturday morning, Mr. F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, stated.

Content examinations were given in English, Literature and Grammar, Mathematics, Science, History and Social Science.

The following took the examinaions: John Stevenson, Hasaleah Yutzy, Adeline Sincell, Beulah Fike, George Houck, Bruce Jenkins, Gay Hamill, Susanna Dixon, Mary Friend, Alverta Dillon, Helen Sollars, Mildred Stemple, Leona Browning, Mary Callis, Beryldine Fulk, Martha Gonder, Mary Frantz and Everett Weitzell.

Full or partial scholarships are available in Western Maryland college (girl) Westminster; Blue Ridge College, New Windsor; Maryland Institute of Art and Design, Baltimore.

Awards will be announced within two weeks, according to Mr. Rathbun.

Miss Geraldine Nordeck To Lead Meeting of Young People

Miss Geraldine Nordeck will lead the next meeting of the Union Young People's league, to be held Sunday evening in the Methodist church at 6:45 o'clock.

The meeting last Sunday was well attended. Miss Mildred Stemple, the leader for the evening, developed her topic and gave the league some splendid thoughts. After the meeting about 25 of the young people attended the candle light service at Mt. Lake Park.

ROAD MAN KILLED BY EXPLOSION OF DYNAMITE

William Stein, Near Deer Park, Blown To Bits On Altamont-Kitzmiller Road Monday

FUNERAL HELD YESTERDAY

William Stein, aged about 32 years, of near Deer Park, was killed Monday at a point on the Aitamont-Kitzmiller road, now under construction, when a charge of dynamite exploded, blowing his body to bits. The remains of the dead man were gathered together and taken to Kitzmiller.

The dead man was foreman of the excavating gang employed by the contracting company having the building of the road in charge and according to witnesses he had placed eleven charges of the explosive in a particular section. Ten of the charges had exploded and Stein, thinking all had gone off, approached the place where the explosions had taken place. His employer, knowing that one of the charges had not been fired attempted to halt Stein as he approached the spot and could not make himself heard. Just as he reached the spot where the last charge had been placed it exploded. The man's body was dismembered and the trunk thrown a distance of twenty feet or more on a bank flanking the roadway.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at Elk Garden, West Va., with interment in the cemetery there. He is survived by his wife, two children and his mother, who arrived from her home in Detroit, Mich., yesterday morning to attend the funeral.

Mission School to Convene at Park on August 3

The Fourteenth session of the Mt. Lake Interdenominational Summer School of Missions will convene on August 3 at Mt. Lake Park.

The session will begin Sunday evening with a camp fire service, and continue each day and evening until the evening of August 8. There will be schools for seniors, young people and juniors with outstanding teachers in all three divisions.

A pageant will be presented Friday evening by the Methodist missionary society of the Oakland M. E. church. The school will close with a candle service, conducted by the girls from Camp Gleam, a camp held in connection with the school of missions. Many representatives of religious bodies are preparing to attend.

Mr. Arthur G. Cullers, District No. 8, Candidate for Nomination for House of Delegates

Mr. Arthur G. Cullers, farmer and stockman of District No. 8, with experience as a merchant and former postmaster in his community, highly respected and amiable in manner, announces his candidacy this morning for the Republican nomination for the office of Member of the House of Delgates from Garrett county. Mr. Cullers owns and operates the George W. Wilson farm near Wilson, W. Va., and is a heavy taxpayer. He states that should he be a successful candidate at the primary as well as at the general election his endcavors will be toward representing the entire county and not a favored section.

Drowns in Youghiogheny

Wayne Thomas, 17, of Elliottsville, Pa., was drowned in the Youghiogheny river while swimming at Somerfield Saturday afternoon about a mile below the bridge. Somerfield is on the National highway, about fifteen miles west of Grantsville.

Companions who swam to the other side of the river said Thomas was paddling in the water and was noticed to go down twice but they thought he was diving.

Mrs. Janoske Receives Burns In Gasoline Explosion

Mrs. Walter Janoske is suffering from shock and burns about the arms and face as a result of a gasoline explosion in the basement of her home about 9:45 this morning.

Mrs. Janoske was washing some clothes in a quantity of gasoline when the fumes became ignited by a gas burner nearby. The Oakland Fire department was called and the blaze was extinguished with practically no damage.

Dr. N. I. Broadwater was called and rendered medical aid.

POLITICS IN REVIEW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore)

As the time for candidates to file for local offices draws nearer the talk increases but there is no indication of a real fight in either party.

The Republicans do not want a fight, anyway, and as for the Democrats, most of the fight has been whipped out of them by the State administration.

One day we hear that Billy Norris will put up a great fight to dominate the city and that he will be aided by Gilbert Dailey and Ambrose Kennedy. Another day we hear that Billy Curran has made a slate for the whole city and will get away with it.

We think the slate to be known as the machine slate will be made up after a conference to be dominated by the Governor. Most of those who now talk of kicking up Jack will accept orders from His Excellence when the time comes. And certainly the Governor needs peace in the party.

Specifically we don't see any leader in the Democratic party in Baltimore City just now possessing the requisite strength to make a city-wide contest. John Mahon could stage such a fight, and so could Frank Kelly, but who can do it now?

So we look for the belligerent talk to continue for a couple of weeks longer and then they will be getting together on a give and take basis.

The Republicans, it appears, will wait on the Democrats. They may be able to make a slate without a contest but just who is to do the pacifying and scheming does not yet appear.

Some new leaders are coming to the front among the Republicans and among them is Simon E. Sobeloff, Assistant City Solicitor. The Mayor is said to rely more on Sobeloff than he does on any other members of his administration but it is now reported that Mr. Sobeloff is most likely to be named as the new U. S. Attorney to succeed Col A. W. W. Woodcock. It is said that Mr. Sobeloff has the backing of Judge Morris A. Soper, now abroad, and of others who are supposed to have a say in the filling of the place.

The Repbulican should have a good chance to capture the State's Attorneyship this year and it is up to them to name a vote getter. State's Attorney O'Connor, running again, has had two terms and many think he should step aside and give some one else a chance.

Sheriff Potee, it appears, is slated for retirement. Last week it was reported that a deal had been made to renominate him but it now seems that the opposition to him is so too strong, the women especially being after his scalp. Sheriff Potee is a product of Anne Arundel county and his father before him was a politician. Mr. Potee was sheriff of Anne Arundel county before annexation and was very strong over there. But the Baltimore City pace for a politician is said to have proved too much for him.

The clerk of the courts, all Democrats, sit tight. Reelection looks good to all of them. But if all hold on, then there is no place for the introduction of new blood.

Harmony Talk Is Fooling Few

The Democratic harmony talk fools few. Those who know the inside predict the slaughter of Governor Ritchie in the house of the regulars. This prediction becomes more frequent from day to day.

The Tolchester excursion and bull roast of the Stonewall and Eighteenth Ward Democratic clubs was well attended but did not result in anything politically profitable. The Governor had Willie Norris and Billy Curran on his steamer, the McLane, as exhibits in his peace program, but it impressed few. Probably the opinions of Norris and Curran on the wisdom of the Governor's continued candidacy are not far apart. And we have no reason to think that either of the two would weep copiously over the Ritchie defeat.

Howard Jackson has been out of the city all week and Philip B. Perlman sailed for Europe on Thursday to remain until after the primary. Charlie Bichy continues to keep his own counsel. Senator Edward J. Colgan couldn't stand the talk of being sidetracked by the Ritchie advocates and so he is again running for the Senate. Some of his friends continue to think that he should have stood aside and let Ritchie fight his own battles as it is recognized that the renomination of Colgan would help the Ritchie cause in the general election.

Regret That Maloy Is Not In Fight

There are thousands of Democrats who regret that William M. Maloy is not a candidate in the primary against the Governor, and that he is not is due chiefly to the fact that some of the opponents of His Excellency displayed bad judgment, mixed things up and kept them that way till the anti-Ritchie forces were separated though not captured. There does not appear to have been any change of sentiment among these people and if they have no opportunity to vote in a primary they will do a deal of damage in the general election.

All is not peace in the counties. Queen Anne's county has a new ticket to fight the machine slate and there is a split in Kent. And the Somerset Democrats are split wide open over the candidacy of Lorie Quinn for the State Senate. The Quinn followers say nobody except Quinn will be acceptable. So it appears that the county will again be easy for the Republicans.

In Baltimore county the getting together of the bosses has not been satisfactory. A slate has been made up with David G. McIntosh, Jr., for the Senate once more. And this displeases a lot of Democrats. Many think that McIntosh, after once announcing his retirement, should stay retired. The excuse of the leaders for putting him up again is that they thereby prevent a primary fight. But this is doubtful Democratic doctrine since the party lives by fights.

There are Democrats out there anxious to challenge the leadership of Harrison Rider and W. Gill Smith and there may be no better time to fight it out than this year of grace.

James J. Lindsay wanted the nomination for the Senate and State's Attorney Jenifer is said to have been willing to run, as he has grown tired of his present job. But there's McIntosh again after his futile and polite bout with the Governor.

In Montgomery county things are steadily becoming no better for Brooke Lee and his crowd. Some say that Lee is weakened by the alliance with Ritchie while others aver that Ritchie is weakened by his alliance with Lee.

Lee has backed down a bit in the latest legal procedure directed against his control of the county money. Three members of the Board of County Commissioners who have been directors in Lee's paper, the Maryland News, have withdrawn from active connection with that enterprise, thus admitting that the law was being violated by the Commissioners giving business to a concern in which they had an interest. So to date the anti-Lee Democrats have scored against the boss in no less than three legal bouts.

In Anne Arundel county there is much contention over the make-up of a Democratic ticket. One of the factors in the party down there, Jack Flood, has just passed away and the lower end of the county is actively hostile to Governor Ritchie and his lieutenants.

Ritchie Leaders Dying Off

One after another the Ritchie leaders die, the most recent to go being Jack Flood, long the proprietor of a beer garden at Curtis Bay. Flood could deliver more votes in the upper end of Anne Arundel county than any other man and therefore he was given great consideration by candidates.

Flood was of the Dr. George Wells generation, few of whom are now left.

The last important activity of Flood was in making a strong appeal to Representative Stephen W. Gambrill not to run against the Governor this year.

The recent mortality among the Ritchie leaders must be very disconcerting to the survivors.

Norris Hunting For A Candidate

William I. Norris, who, some say, expects to get the nomination for Mayor next year, is searching for a candidate for the State Senate in the First District. He wants some one to beat the Curran candidate who is expected to be Senator John H. Bouse.

William F. Jacobs has been asked but has declined and we hear that Norris has mentioned the subject to some others with the same result.

Norris claims that in the lower end of the district the elements heretofore loyal to Curran have changed front and that therefore with a sizable candidate he can beat Curran, who walloped him four years ago.

But in city politics what was true yesterday isn't always true today and may not be anything like the truth tomorrow.

RURAL AND URBAN AMERICA

The fact is that the United States is not united. There are two Americas within our borders—an America that takes its cue from the city, and this America that takes its cue from the city has consistently gained ground on the America that takes its cue from the country, says Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, who elabortes further as follows:

"The man of the boulevard and the man of the furrow are fighting for control of the American future. The trail of these two antagonistic Americas can be followed in the natural assembles of our churches, where liberalism fights literalism, and in the national conventions of our political parties, where, by and large, city men stick with city men and country men stick with country men, despite the powerful pressures for party regularity.

The conflict between rural America and urban America has up to date expressed itself politically in such issues as prohibition, religious regularity, radicalism and the like, with sporadic forays into the field of farm relief. By and large, the split on these issues has been a city-country split, and those are the issues that are all too often decided both State and National elections.

"We talk loudly about foreign policy, taxation and competing economic philosophies, but we decide elections in terms of the wetness or dryness, the Catholicism or Protestantism, the pro or anti-Ku Kluxism of the candidates.

"I say very little can be done by politicians to settle the issues which today dominate our politics. They are matters of social adjustment between the dying and the dawning of a social order. Rural Americas are adjusting themselves to changes more slowly than their city brothers. It is this slowness of adjustment that is wracking the two political parties to pieces and almost bringing the United States government to a standstill."

Will midget golf be followed by pee wee baseball, pony horseshoes, and wee wee football?

It is hot enough in Oakland but consider yourself thankful. Look what is happening elsewhere. Popcorn in Georgia is popping on the stalks in the fields. Hens in Kansas are laying hard boiled eggs, and persons in those countries have never heard of Lifebuoy soap.

If the farmers of this section want it to rain, here is a suggestion. Governor Ritchie went into the eastern part of the State the other day to make a political speech and immediately it started raining, breaking a long drought. Governor didn't need it because he is all wet anyway.

How To Be A Diver on 20 Minutes A day

The crowd was standing around on Gorman Thayer's pier. Many had been diving the jack-knife, swan, etc. Suddenly I heard the ringleader's voice say, "We will now have an exhibition dive from Scoop of The Republican office. It came like a flash of lightning. He was unexpectedly calling on me for a dive. No time to beg off—no chance to wriggle down the ladder.

As I started to get up, I heard a titter run around the platform. "Watch him make a fool of himself," I overheard someone whisper. "He's so scared of the diving board he will faint if he stands on it."

"He'll die on his feet," came another whisper. "This is going to be funnier than Chic Sale's 'Specialist.'"

I knew they were laughing at me and expecting me to make myself ridiculous but I only grinned inside. I stood squarely on my two feet and started for the board. Almost from the first step the smiles of doubt and derision faded from their faces. My firmness had them incredulous—amazed. Instantly the atmosphere became so tense that you could have heard a pin drop, but it didn't. No snickers nor sneers now—nothing but breathless attention. I walked calmly to the board—and taking my nose between my thumb and index finger, I jumped feet first and let gravity take its course—which they had all been expecting from the beginning anyhow, and I just couldn't disappoint them.

Even if Scoop could dive, he could never make the splash that Archibaldson does. Col Bell caught him just as he hit the water the other day and it shows him in his usual position while wound up in a jack-knife affair.

Fellow Picnic Haters

Cecil Smith and Walter Dawson have a masterpiece which they want all fellow picnic haters to read. The epistle was written by Walter, and here it is:

Don't ever let anybody ever fool you into going on another picnic. On Sunday, loaded down with deviled eggs, potato salad, iced tea, and tomatoes we pulled out from Oakland headed for the country. Everything went fine until we got to Hoopole ridge and had a flat tire. Cecil Smith, the only other man present, had the good fortune to mash his finger on the jack and he had to sit in the shade while I changed tires.

We turned off on a dusty road, one dusty enough to satisfy even the most critical dust-lover and were fortunate enough in getting behind a truck so large that we couldn't pass it.

Somehow we spread the "tablecloth" and sat down. By this time the womenfolk were so tired from arguing that Cecil and I had to prepare the meal. We opened the iced tea, but the ice had disappeared long ago and the temperature of the drink ranged around 185. This meant a trip for Cecil to the farm house, but again he had good fortune when he sprained his ankle and had to stay there.

When I returned lunch was ready. My plate consisted of a whole tomato split in half (yes, we forgot the salt), some potato salad, a sandwich, stuffed olives, a deviled egg, 39 ants, one white caterpillar, 16 flies, and a black spider. By the time we had finished our meal the ants had taken complete possession, using the thermos jug of tea for a swimming pool.

As tired as I was I wasn't going to do things halfway so I took all of the dirty paper plates, scattered them over the entire field, dumped the extra potato salad on the grass and threw the tomatoes in all four directions. This gave the place a real picnic look.

We finally got started home. On the way out we had been jammed into the car and now it seemed we could not get packed in the car as nicely going back and it ended up with me riding the spare tire. I didn't mind, though, for I was already numb.

This is my last picnic. The next time I begin to weaken I am going to have my wife cook some deviled eggs, potato salad, make some lemonade, place it on the kitchen floor, bring in some gravel to sit on and throw ants all over the place.

That will give us all the comforts of a first-class picnic right in our own home.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,

Group Action Essential To Solve Farm Problems

The controversy regarding reduction of acreage planted in wheat, which has been given prominence in the press throughout the country, serves to emphasize the need for and value of such events as the Farmers' Marketing Conference that will be held at the University of Maryland on August 12 to 15, according to Dr. T. B. Symons, Director of Extension. A successful marketing program, he states, must be based upon a program of production that is planned in the light of all the information that can be obtained regarding supply and demand as well as other economic conditions.

Dr. Symons further points out that improvements in methods employed in marketing farm products, whether they are in line of adapting production to demand, or in the strictly marketing procedure; are matters which cannot be effectively handled by individuals and, therefore, it is essential that producers organize and place themselves in position for group action.

The Farmers' Marketing Conference offers Maryland producers an opportunity to meet together and consider the problems most vitally affecting the profitable marketing of their products. At the afternoon sessions, those in attendance will divide into groups according to the products in which they are most interested. Grain and livestock growers will form one group, fruit growers another, dairymen a third, vegetable growers a fourth, and tobacco growers a fifth. Information will be given on the general situation regarding each commodity and practical problems will be discussed.

Every facility of the University has been placed at the disposal of the farm people of the State during the four days of the Conference and it is expected that a large number from each county and from each organization will take advantage of the opportunity for seriously studying some of their most perplexing problems.

and more economical

In size, speed and durability, the Chevrolet Six-Cylinder Truck is superior to any haulage unit ever built by Chevrolet. Yet, for all these decided advantages, it shows (according to many prominent fleet users) a lower maintenance cost than any other low-priced truck of similar capacity!

These basic facts should be borne in mind by everyone considering the purchase of an inexpensive haulage unit—in these days, when business men are watching transportation costs.

Many important features of the Chevrolet Six-Cylinder Truck are given below. Study them. Use them as a basis of comparison—to prove quality—modern design—and EXTRA VALUE!

An Interesting Fact

REVERDY JOHNSON

In that fateful crisis of our National history approaching the Civil War period, no individual State was more notably represented in the several branches of the Federal Government than the State of Maryland. Roger B. Taney was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; Henry Winter Davis was one of the most brilliant orators in Congress; Montgomery Blair sat in Lincoln's Cabinet, and Reverdy Johnson was the leader of the Union Democrats in the United States Senate.

Facts gleaned from Essary's "Maryland in National Politics" concerning the latter, stamp him as one of the most outstanding figures of that trying period.

Admitted to the bar in 1816, his ambition to forge to the front was inspired by such men as William Pinkney, Luther Martin, William Wirt and other intelligent giants of that day. But his path was not always strewn with roses. Unfortunately his brilliant career was interrupted by his connection, as counsel, for the Bank of Maryland (mentioned in a previous "Interesting Fact") which failed in 1834, during the administration of Governor Thomas, carrying down with it many banks and blasting the reputations and fortunes of many prominent citizens. While public indignation was running high over this failure, Johnson's family was driven from Baltimore and he himself temporarily banished. But not for long.

After his vindication, the State, by special act of the legislature, indemnified him for his losses and he was elected to the United State Senate by an overwhelming vote. Had it not been for his influence, coupled with that of his Maryland associates, it can not be doubted but that this State would have eventually cast its lot with the lost cause of the Southern Cenfederacy, thus vastly strengthening the rebellion and completely isolating the National Capital.

It was in 1854 when he again commanded National interest when without a fee, he became counsel for Dred Scott in that celebrated case, which has no parallel in American history. He also espoused the cause of Mrs. Surratt, who was tried for her life on the charge of complicity in the assassination of President Lincoln before a military commission.

Those who need to be convinced that there were giants in those days should read the entire chapter in Essary's excellent book, from which these facts are taken.

Lack of space forbids us to give further details in the life of this notable Marylander except to say that it was he who saved President Andrew Johnson from a verdict of guilty in impeachment proccedings by producing from a sick bed Senator Grimes, who had the one vote needed to prevent a verdict against the President.

A matter of local interest in connection with the subject of this sketch is the fact that his son Lieut. Bowie Johnson, home from the Civil War, came to Oakland shortly after the close of hostilities and here married the late Mrs. Johnson, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thayer, and sister of Mr. Fred. Thayer, of Oakland.

4-H CLUB BOYS CONCLUDE A SUCCESSFUL CAMP TRIP

17 Attend From Garrett County —Full Program Carried Out

The 4-H Club camp for boys of Allegany and Garrett counties closed on Saturday, July 26, following a most successful 3-day camp at the Oakland Boy Scout camp on Deep Creek Lake. The outing was attended by 34 club boys, seventeen of whom were from Garrett county with J. H. Carter, the county agent of this county, and Mylo Downey, assistant county agent of Allegany county, and E. G. Jenkins, State Boys' Club agent as directors.

Those attending from Garrett county were Bruce Jenkins, Allen Kelley, Wayne Hamilton, Earl Spoerlein, Harland Weitzell, Karol Rush, Merle Hinebaugh, Wade Umbel, Cecil Miller, Ernest Hauser, Wilbur Hollar, Randall Sebold, Roy Durst, Austin Glotfelty, George Coddington, Woodrow Hone, Lawrence Schroyer.

Upon arrival at camp the boys were divided into tribes with leaders: Blackfeet, Bruce Jenkins; Mohawks, John Hardinger; Bulldogs, John Armstrong; Lumberjacks, Wayne Hamilton.

The camp program followed the usual tradition of camping for boys and in addition offered demonstrations and instructions in agriculture, livestock and poultry. The early part of the morning was given over to instructions and demonstrations, followed by an asembly period each day at 11:30. At the assembly period on the first day Rev. C. A. Shilke talked on "Success in Life." On the second day Mr. W. B. Burress talked on the "4-H's." These talks were both interesting and educational and enjoyed by everyone present.

The afternoons were devoted to athletic events, swimming and fishing between the tribes. Roy Durst, John Armstrong, John Hardinger and Bruce Jenkins represented the 4-H's at vesper service held on the lake shore. After vesper service each evening, all gathered around the camp fire where stunts were contributed by the different tribes.

The boys chose by ballot the following outstanding campers: Best all round camper, John Hardinger; best sportsman, Bruce Jenkins; best athlete, John Armstrong; best swimmer, Ben Erim.

The camp was a success in every way and plans are being made to make this an annual affair. The club boys and leaders wish to thank all those who helped to make the first boys' 4-H Club camp a succes.

C. M. T. C. Ends After 30 Days of Military Instruction

Nineteen hundred representative young men, after 30 days of C. M. T. C. training at Fort Eustis, Va., returned to their homes today in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and the District of Columbia. Included in this number were Maurice Butler and Forrest Warnick, of Oakland.

During their stay in camp the fundamental principles of military science were taught along with thorough instruction in citizenship. Each year more enthusiasm has been shown by candidates in their work and the past 30 days have been marked by the rapidity with which they have grasped the idea of military discipline and training, according to one of the officers in charge.

To Broadcast Thirteenth of Series of 4-H Programs

The thirteenth of a series of national 4-H club programs to be broadcast over a national hook-up of 45 stations is scheduled for Saturday, August 2. The United States Marine Band will furnish the musical numbers and background, continuing the series of music-appreciation periods. American light opera music will be the feature of the day, and the numbers chosen are from "Babes In Toyland," by Victor Herbert, "Robin Hood," by Reginald de Koven, "Prince of Pilsen," by Gustave Luders, and "El Capitan," by John Philip Sousa. R. A. Turner, field agent in club work for the Central States, will announce the numbers and discuss them. The States cooperating in this program are Connecticut, which will be represented by a 4-H club girl, and Maryland, which sends a 4-H club boy and a member of the extension staff. Miss Gertrude L. Warren, Organization Boys' and Girls' Club Work, Office of Cooperative Extension Work, will also speak.

The time for the program is eastern standard time, 12:45 p. m. to 1:30 p. m.

DIED.

NAOMI IZOLA HARVEY

Naomi Izola Harvey, aged 20 years, 2 months, and 16 days, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Harvey, Bloomington, died at her home last Friday morning, July 18.

She was a member of the 1930 class of registered nurses of the Hoffman hospital, Keyser, W. Va., and prior to entering the hospital as a nurse she taught in the public schools of Garrett county.

Funeral services were conducted from her home near Walnut Bottom, Miss Ruth Schofield, Pentecostal evangelist, officiating. Her subject was taken from the 14th chapter of St. John.

She is survived by her parents, two sisters, four brothers and a host of relatives and friends.

LAWSON L. SCHOOLEY

Mr. Lawson L. Schooley, aged about 45 years, of Fairmont, W. Va., died at his home last Friday. Funeral services were held from the home Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock with interment in Clarksburg, W. Va.

The deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Schooley, of near Mt. Lake Park, and had been a resident of Fairmont, where he was employed as a meat cutter, for about 15 years. He was a member of the Methodist Protestant church of Fairmont.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Stella Hamill before her marriage; and his mother. His father died about two years ago.

Funeral of A. F. Getty Is Held At Grantsville

The funeral of the late Alvin F. Getty of Cumberland, who died ten days ago in Los Angeles, Cal., from an acute heart attack at the home of his cousin, Mrs. George Getty, was held at Grantsville Sunday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Ella B. Keller, with interment in the family lot at Grantsville cemetery. Rev. A. S. Bell, pastor of the Grantsville Methodist church officiated. Earl Townshend, Huntington, West Va., a nephew of Mrs. Getty, sang two selections, "Lead Kindly Light," and "Abide With Me."

The active pallbearers were nephews of the deceased; Dr. G. G. Getty, Lonaconing; D. B. and O. G. Getty, Meyersdale; W. D. Getty, Charles O. Keller, and Dr. B. T. Keller, Grantsville.

The honorary pallbearers were Henry Shriver, president, and the following members of the executive and clerical staff of the First National Bank, of Cumberland; H. A. Pitzer, T. B. Finan, Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., H. C. Landis, J. A. Hoover, L. W. Nave, Grant A. Weibel, Clarence F. Schaefer Carl W. Schaefer, H. A. Pitzer, Jr., Floyd C. Boor, Guy C. Chadwick, Rebeckah H. Otto, Mabel Piper and Angela Ward.

Flowers were in profusion, coming from the bank staff, friends and relatives of the family, many being sent from Los Angeles.

Mrs. Getty left Los Angeles on Tuesday, arriving with the body of her husband on Saturday at Meyersdale, going from thence to Grantsville.

Mr. Getty was a son of the late State Senator William Reed Getty, of Garrett county. For forty years he was general bookkkeeper of the First National Bank of Cumberland. Two years ago he was given leave of absence from the bank because of his failing sight. He and Mrs. Getty had spent the past year in Los Angeles. Besides his widow, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ella B. Keller, Grantsville; Mrs. Bruce Lichty, of Meyersdale, and one brother, Leonard E. Getty, Washington, D. C. He was 73 years of age.

Among the out-of-town relatives of the family present at the funeral were Mrs. Mattie Alexander, Miss Margaret and Ernest Townshend, of Huntington, West Va.;Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Reppert, and Miss Virginia Reppert, Flemington, West Va.; Mrs. Florence Porter, Oakland; Mrs. Ida Kepner and family, Scottdale, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lantz, Piedmont; Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Getty, Lonaconing, besides many relatives and friends from Meyersdale, Cumberland and other points.

Mrs. Getty will return to Cumberland this week, making her home with her sister, Mrs. Alice Steiner on Fayette stereet.

LEGION TO AID VETERANS IN FILING THEIR CLAIMS

To Fill Out Applications for Permanent Disability Allowance

Proctor Kidow Post, No. 71, American Legion, has arranged to fill out applications of veterans for permanent disability allowance under the recent World War veterans' act, passed July 3 by Congress, according to Joseph M. Gonder, post commander. A number of forms have been received and may be obtained either from Mr. Gonder or from Edward P. Kahl.

The law states that any honorably discharged ex-service man who entered the armed service of the United States prior to November 11, 1918, and served 90 days or more during the World War and who is or may hereafter be suffering from a 25 per centum or more permanent disability as defined by the director, not the result of his own willful misconduct, which was not acquired in the service during the World War, or for which compensation is not payable shall be entitled to receive a disability allowance at the following rates: 25 per centum permanent disability, $12 a month; 50 per centum permanent disability, $18; 75 per centum permanent disability, $24; total permanent disability, $40 per month.

There is a penalty clause that makes any person liable for any false claim In a sworn statement and knowing it to be false, guilty of perjury, and subject to a fine of $5,000 or by imprisonment.

There is belief among the Legion members that the number entitled to receive such disability allowance in Oakland and vicinity is very small, being confined to several that are now and have been invalids for sometime under medical treatment, and those injured in industrial accidents, since the war.

All applicants for permanent disability allowance or pension must bring their honorable discharge from the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard for war service and other data or correspondence regarding a claim that they may had since the World War with the Veterans' Bureau, and their wartime service serial number.

This information is required in filing out the application.

A representative of the Legion will call on its members and other ex-service men, who are invalids and cannot appear in person to execute such a form.

MARRIED

Graser—Underwood—A quiet home wedding was solemnized on Saturday, July 26, when Miss Isabel Price Underwood was united in marriage to Oren Thomas Graser, of Oakland, at the bride's home in Buckhannon, W. Va. Dr. C. E. Goodwin performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Graser wore her traveling suit, a lovely green ensemble, with egg-shell accessories, and carried an ivory prayer book, an heirloom in Mr. Graser's family. An informal dinner followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Graser, who is a daughter of Mrs. Jessie Underwood, is a graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan college, at Buckhannon, and formerly taught in Oakland High school for two years. For the past three years she has taught in her home town.

Mr. Graser, son of Mrs. Emma Graser, Scranton, Pa., is agriculture instructor of Oakland High school, is a member of Alpha Zeta fraternity, and was graduated from Pennsylvania State college. He received his master's degree at Columbia university.

The couple left for a motor trip through the New England states and upon their return will make their home in Oakland.

Crellin Ball Team Loses to Nine From Morgantown, W. Va.

Crellin A. C. baseball team was defeated by the Riverseam Coal company team of Morgantown, West Va., last Sunday afternoon, by the score of 7-6 in one of the best played games of the season on the Crellin field. Both teams were in top form.

Mickey pitched for Crellin and although he was touched for 14 hits he was tight in the pinches. Vilt and Shaffer shared the pitching for Riverseam and did good work.

Next Sunday Crellin will meet the Pepsi-Cola nine from Morgantown. This is one of Morgantown's best teams and a good game is expected. Colaw will probably be on the mound for Crellin.

Wins in Airplane Contest

Oscar Kimmell, 17- year old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Kimmell, of Wichita, Kansas, formerly of Hutton, won a trip to the national contest for model airplanes in Detroit, June 30 and July 1, after winning the outdoor endurance test in Wichita. Kimmell has won more honors in model airplane contests than any other Wichita boy. In a contest last fall he was awarded the new trophy for indoor endurance flying and in the recent contest won the eagle trophy in outdoor endurance contests.

Kimmell is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christian Grusendorf, and is also a grandson of Mrs. Samuel Kimmell, Hutton. His parents formerly resided near Hutton.

Starting Delphiniums From Seed

Seeds of delphinium lose their vitality quickly so that the best time to sow the seed is in the summer as soon the seed ripens. A cold frame filled with light loam soil will be found advantageous as a place to grow the seedlings. Sow the seed in shallow drills four inches apart. If seed is scattered thinly plants may be left undisturbed until spring. If crowded in the row they will be the better for transplanting to stand a few inches apart. After seeding, soak down the beds being careful not to wash out the seed. Cover cold frame with sash and lath screen or with muslin cloth until seeds germinate. Delphinium seeds germinate slowly and must not be allowed to dry out until after seedlings come up. They are best carried over winter in the frame until spring when they may be transplanted to the garden.

Seeding the Lawn

For most parts of Maryland the period between August 15th and September 15th is the most advantageous for seeding the new lawn. The preliminary grading and fertilizing of the soil should be started in ample time for the ground to settle. A smooth surface and a fine, well prepared seed bed should be prepared.

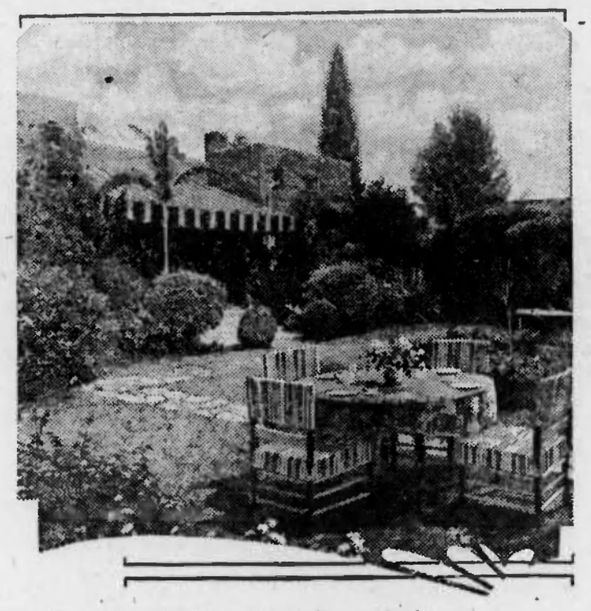
Since phosphoric acid does not seem to become well distributed when applied to the surface, it is highly desirable to apply generous amounts and to mix thoroughly with the soil before seeding. Superphosphate is the cheapest and best form altogether if bone meal is used some nitrogen will also be added. Phosphoric acid does not leach out of the soil so that one need not fear applying too much for the immediate needs of the grass.

Nitrogen fertilizers are readily distributed through the soil when used as a top dressing. Since this element leaches out of the soil it is more economical to make two or three applications during the year as the lawn needs it.

Kentucky blue grass and red top form the basis of most of the lawn grass mixtures. Other grasses are added for particular purposes. The perennial ryes are used to make quick effects. They are not usually very permanent types. Red fescue and other fine leaved fescues are particularly important for difficult situations under the shade of large trees. The use of white clover is largely a matter of taste, some like it, some do not. It will not stand trampling. Creeping bent and colonial bent are fine leaved types resembling red top and these are excellent grasses for fertile soils with a normal supply of moisture. They are often used for golf greens. They should be fed and watered liberally to secure the best results.

New lawns should be seeded heavily to obtain a thick stand as this has quite a bearing on the keeping down of obnoxious weeds. Annual applications of plant food particularly in early spring will aid in maintaining a thick sod which does not allow crabgrass and other weeds to get a foothold.

Outdoor Living Rooms Added to Homes Thru Inspiration of Garden Contest.



Attractive and enjoyable outdoor living rooms are being created this year wherever Yard and Garden contests are held. In fact, there is a decided vogue for these ultra-modern garden features all over the country.

The outdoor living room shown in the above illustration is in the rear grounds of quite a pretentious home. However, the size of the lot makes practically no difference in the development of such an area. Privacy is gained through planting of trees, vines or shrubs.

Inside these walls of living green the outdoor room is carpeted with neatly clipped turf. Bright hued flowers form the decorations. To make this outdoor area comfortable and livable as well as beautiful the home gardener installs garden furniture, chairs of wicker or natural wood finish, seats, swings, occasional tables, etc. Frequently, in the hot summer, breakfast, luncheon or supper is served on the lawn.

UNDERWOOD

The farmers have practically finished with the hay harvest and are cutting their oats. The crops are short, due to the hot, dry weather. Pasture is scarce and corn is suffering from lack of rain.

Sunday school will be held at ten o'clock a. m., with preaching at 11, and Christian Endeavor and prayer meeting on Sunday evening.

PROCLAMATION

Proposing Amendments to the Constitution of the State, 1930.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1929, two Acts were passed, to-wit: Chapter 133 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Marylund, title "Treasury Department," to authorize deputies in the Treasury Department to sign checks and warrants; and Chapter 348, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 133.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," so as to confer upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants, and to sign, countersign und issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the State Treasury under regulations prescribed by the Legislature; and providing for the submission of said amendment to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoptio nor rejectioln.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all of the members of both of the Houses concurring), That an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Treasury Department," be and the same is hereby proposed, the said amendment, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become a part of said Constitution, and the said Sections as amended to read as follows:

2. The Comptroller shall have the general superintendence of the fiscal affairs of the State; he shall digest and prepare plans for the improvement and management of the revenue, and for the support of the public credit; prepare and report estimates of the revenue and expenditures of the State; superintend and enforce the prompt collection of all taxes and revenue; adjust and settle, on terms prescribed by law, with delinquent collectors and receivers of taxes and State revenue; preserve all public accounts; and decide on the forms of keeping and stating accounts. He, or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature, shall grant, under regulations prescribed by law, all warrants for money to be paid out of the Treasury, in pursuance of appropriations by law, and countersign all checks drawn by the Treasurer upon any bank or banks in which the moneys of the State may from time to time be deposited. He shall prescribe the formalities of the transfer of stock, or other evidence of the State debt, and countersign the same, without which such evidence shall not be valid; he shall make to the General Assembly full reports of all his proceedings, and of the State of the Treasury Department within ten days after the commencement of each Session; and perform such other duties as shall be prescribed by law.

3. The Treasurer shall receive the moneys of the State, and, until otherwise prescribed by law, deposit them, as soon as received, to the credit of the State, in such bank or banks as he may, from time to time, with the approval of the Governor, select (the said bank or banks giving security, satisfactory to the Governor, for the safekeeping and forthcoming, when required of said deposits), and he or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall disburse the same for the purposes of the State according to law, upon warrants drawn by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and on checks countersigned by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and not otherwise. The Treasurer or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall take receipts for all moneys paid from the Treasury Department; and receipt for moneys received by him shall be endorsed upon warrants signed by the Comptroller, or such deputy as may be authorized to do so by law, without which warrants, so signed, no acknowledgment of money received into the Treasury shall be valid; and upon warrants issued by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, the Treasurer shall make arrangements for the payment of the interest of the public debt, and for the purchase thereof, on account of the sinking fund. Every bond, certificate, or other evidence of the debt of the State shall be signed by the Treasurer, and countersigned by the Comptroller; and no new certificate or other evidence intended to replace another shall be issued until the old one shall be delivered to the Treasurer, and authority executed in due form for the transfer of the same filed in his office, and the transfer accordingly made on the books thereof, and the certificate or other evidence cancelled; but the Legislature may make provisions for the loss of certificates or other evidences of the debt; and may prescribe, by law, the manner in which the Treasurer shall receive and keep the moneys of the State.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the aforegoing sections as amended, shall be, at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, nineteen hundred and thirty, submitted to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State, and at said general election the vote on the proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the following synopsis of said amendment, under the caption of:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
AMENDING SECTIONS 2 AND 3 OF ARTICLE VI."

"This amendment confers upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury of the State under regulations prescribed by the Legislature."

Approved: April 2, 1929.

CHAPTER 348

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Legislative Department," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of fifteen dollars per diem for every day he shall attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of ten dollars per day. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election for Members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against the said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: April 11, 1929.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ALBERT C. RITCHIE, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that this proclamation containing full, true and correct copies of the text of said Chapters 133 and 348 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1929, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months next preceding the general election to be held in the State of Maryland on Tuesday, the 4th day of November, 1930, at which election the said proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be submitted in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

Lesson for August 3

NAOMI AND RUTH: A STUDY IN RACIAL RELATIONSHIPS

LESSON TEXT—Tha Book of Ruth.
GOLDEN TEXT—And hath made of ona blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the faca of the earth.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Ruth a Helpful Daughter.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Naomi's Faithfulness Leads Ruth to God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Neighbors of Other Races.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Way to World Brotherhood.

I. How Naomi and Ruth Were Brought Together (1:1-15).

On account of famine in Bethlehem of Judah, Naomi with her husband and two sons sojourned in the land of Moab. After the death of her husband, her two sons married Moabitish women. After a time her sons died also. After the death of her sons, Naomi resolved to return to her homeland, having heard that the Lord had visited his people in giving them bread. They went to Moab to escape trouble but only got into more. This is always the case when God's people go into the world to escape difficulties. It was not until Naomi was thus chastised that she resolved to return. When the time came for her to go, Ruth and Orpab accompanied her for a distance.

II. Ruth's Noble Choice (1:16 18).

Greatly as Naomi loved her daughters-in-law, she would not have them go into this matter blindly. She wished them to know the seriousness of their action.

1. No chance for them to marry again (v. 11).

Naomi told them that she had no more sons for whom they could wait. In that day for a woman to be unmarried was the greatest disgrace. Society differed then from now. No avenues were open by which women could earn their living.

2. Heathen gods must be renounced (v. 15).

Idolatrous worship could not be carried on in the land where God's people dwelt. This was delicately touched upon when Orpah went back. She went back when it was plain that there was no chance for her to get a husband. After Orpah's return Naomi put an additional test upon Ruth, that of giving up her religion. Ruth was equal to the occasion. Her mind was fully made up. She was willing to accept as her God the One who was able to produce in his subjects the nobility of character she had observed in Naomi. Ruth's determination was so definite and unfaltering that her expressions have come down to us in words which "no poetry has outrivaled and no pathos has exceeded, and which has gone through centuries with the music which will not let them be forgotten." She was determined to share Naomi's journey, her home, her lot in life, and grave in death, whatever or wherever that would be. To crown it all, she renounced her heathen gods and worshiped Jehovah, the true God.

III. Blessings Which Attended Ruth's Choice.

1. She found the true God (1:16).

Instead of a heathen god who was unable to help her, she had the Living God, the God of Israel.

2. She found friends (ch. 2).

As she went to glean she was led to the field of Boaz, a man of grace and wealth. The servants of Boaz treated her with consideration.

3. A good husband and happy home (chs. 3 and 4).

4. An honored place in the Israelitish nation (4:13-17).

5. She became a link in the chain of the Redeemer's ancestry (4:18-22 cf. Matt. 1:5).

The one who fully decides for Christ and gives up all for Him shall receive a hundredfold in this life and in the world to come eternal life.

The story of Ruth is a fine example, first, of right racial relationship. The union of Ruth with Israel was around the true God. And, second, of dispensational truth:

(1) The famine in the land indicates the testing of the Jews in the great tribulation.

(2) The going into Moab indicates the sojourn of the Israelites among the nations.

(3) The sickness and death in Moab indicates the chastisement of the Jews and their sorrows in the present age.

(4) The return to the land indicates the gathering of Israel to their own land, Palestine.

(5) Ruth's decision indicates the gathering of the Gentiles through the influence of the Jews.

(6) The marriage between Boaz and Ruth indicates the union of the church with Jesus Christ.

Adds Charm to Character

Small kindnesses, small courtesies, small considerations, habitually practiced in our social intercourse, give a greater charm to the character than the display of great talents and accomplishments.—Kelty.

Finding Happiness

God made the world to be happy in, but all the happiness some people get is hunting for trouble on a dark night with a dim lantern.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

GLADES

Rev. H. M. Gelnet filled the pulpit at the Glades church last Sunday. He was accompanied by Charles Killius, Springs, Pa.

Mr. Lyman Schrock, Akron, Ohio, who spent a week at his home, returned to that place last Saturday.

Mr. Simon Brenneman and son Harold were doing some carpenter work for William Glotfelty last week.

Misses Goldie and Freeda Beachy and Bernice Walls spent Saturday night and Sunday at their home here.

Mrs. Nevin Broadwater and two children, Grantsville, are spending a few days with home folk.

Misses Lucille, Isabel, and Mr. Kermit Glotfelty spent Friday evening with friends at Hoyes.

Quite a few of the Glades people attended church at the Dung Hill church last Sunday evening.

Miss Goldie Beachy gave a marshmellow toast in honor of her sister Freeda's 17th birthday anniversary on last Saturday evening at Beachy Hall. Those present were Freeda Beachy, Lawrence, Raymond and William and Melda Miller, Cabey McKenzie, Rexford Bittinger, George Bach, Carl Frazee, Martha and Paul Kinsinger, Mildred Miller, Vernon Maust, Grantsville; Goldie Beachy and Bernice Walls, Meyersdale; Ruth and LeRoy Emory, Cecil and Harold Brenneman, Alma, Mae, Randall and Earl Beachy, Clayford, Raymond, Ralph and Arthur Detrick, Bittinger; John Frickey, Kermit Glotfelty, Beulah and Howard Alexander, Martha, John and Jonas Beachy, Alice Bowser, Carl Stephen, Velma Johnson, Elmer and Ernest Beachy.

Clarence Stephen and son Carl were Sunday guests at the home of N. E. Orendorf.

R. E. Alexander and three children spent Monday evening at the Simon Beachy home.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I hereby announce myself a Republican candidate for Judge of the Orphans' Court, subject to the decision of the September primary election.

If nominated and re-elected, I will discharge the duties of the office to the best of my nbiilty, as I have in the past.

I would like to see all voters, both women and men, personally, but that I cannot do, and most of you know me.

I have been a taxpayer for sixty years; have paid as high as $600 tax a year, so if you think me deserving of the office, I shall be grateful for your support.

Thanking you in advance, I am,
Very respectfully yonrs,
T. W. CASTEEL.

MT. LAKE PARK

Not because of what we have said but perhaps in spite of it, a concrete suggestion has been made by C. P. Martin looking to the advertising of Mountain Lake Park. As you will likely remember this has been a favorite topic in this column, and it now appears that all that remains to be done is the expenditure of a little energy and time on behalf of the merchants and others interested in building up the Park. Mr. Martin resolved himself into a committee of one to hunt for the most available site for the placing of such an advertisement, and found it. What is more, he has secured a permit from the land owner to place such an advertisement just at the end of the new bridge across the river at Gorman, at a point where it must meet the eye of every motorist passing over the Northwestern. It would seem the part of wisdom and good business to raise the necessary funds and place this advertisement at the earliest possible moment so that when the new roads are completed, this section will get its fair share of the tourist trade.

Following on the heels of the Baltimore Conference Epworth League, which closed last Sunday, the Summer School of Ministerial Training, Pittsburgh Area, began its ninth annual session Monday afternoon. It will continue until August 7.

The success of the lecture courses is assured when it is noted that such eminent theological teachers as Dr. Oscar Thomas Olson, Prof. Lindsay B. Longacre and Bishop Francis Wesley Warne are in charge. On Wednesday Bishop Thoburn delivered an address to an appreciative audience. The registeration on yesterday was 76. This number will be augmented by last-of-the week arrivals.

Interlocking with the above meeting, the Interdenominational Summer School of Missions will begin its meetings on the 3rd of August and continue until the 8th. The chairman is Mrs. B. H. Sincell, Oakland, while the secretary is Miss Emma Hamill, of the Park.

Word has been received of the death of Mr. Lawson L. Schoolcy, which occurred last week at his home in Fairmont. Mr. Schoolcy was a native of Garrett county, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Schooley. His father died some two years ago.

Mr. Schooley has long been a resident of Fairmont, where he was employed as an expert meat cutter. He was a popular and highly respected citizen of his adopted city. Interment was made at Clarksburg.

There are but few cottages on the Park unoccupied, while the general business depression seems to have lessened the number of tourist guests at the hotels and eating places. This was to be expected, although the hot, dry summer, which seems likely to extend into August, may somewhat improve this condition.

Mr. Marvin Harmison, who has been in Romney, W. Va., for the past year with his father, who continues very ill, visited friends in the Park and Loch Lynn on Wednesday.

Mr. E. R. Parker, who has been in New York City for the past ten days on business connected with his publishing business, has returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Naylor, of Wheeling, were the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. MacClelland Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Welch and sons, who are now located in Akron, Ohio, are the guests of Mrs. Chance at Hamilton Hall. It will be recalled that a number of years ago Mr. Welch was engaged in business at the Park, being located in the Hayden property, now occupied as a Pentecostal church.

The lawns and flowers, which gave great promise earlier in the season, are showing the effect of the hot weather and lack of rain. While this is true, yet from reports received from those from other sections of the country, the heavy dews and fogs have kept Garrett county in better condition than most of the other communities. At that it is estimated that crop production will be cut at least fifty per cent.

Notices have been posted concerning the wasteful use of water during the present drought. With proper conservation, the Park will not experience dangerous shortage. But we will have to be careful. Other communities are taking due precaution.

GORTNER

The Brethren have recalled their appointment here for next Sunday.

There will be a social held at Lynn Dale school house next Tuesday evening, August 5, for the benefit of the United Brethren church.

Mr. Gorman Cullers, Bayard, is employed at the home of Mr. Simon Swartzentruber during harvest.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Beachy and daughter Barbara and Dr. Donald Cotter, of near Meyersdale, visited relatives and neighbors on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Gnegy, of Red House, visited Mrs. Gnegy's brother, Mr. Asa Maury, at the home of Mr. Noah Lichty, on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee and children, Miss Florence Deems and Mrs. Mary Lee were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Beckman, at Lynn Dale, on Sunday.

The employes on the pea vinor met at the home of the manager, Mr. Harvey Swartzentruber on Thursday evening and held a weiner roast. Other refreshments consisted of watermelon, bananas and ice cream. Those present were Mr. Leroy White and family, Misses Helen Fike, Hallie Harvey, Dora Louise Spoerlein, Freida and Lena Slabaugh, Messrs. Frank Bizer, Lawrence Bittinger, Wayne Taylor, Ernest Spoerlein, Samuel Slabaugh, Roy Lichty, Francis and Neil Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sisk, Mrs. Anna Bittinger and Mrs. Mildred Sanders. Messrs. Slabaugh and Lichty furnished music on the mandolin and guitar.

Mrs. Paul Welch spent several days at Accident and Cumberland recently.

Miss Helen Fike who has been employed at the home of Mr. Harvey Swartzentruber, has returned to her home at Mason.

Miss Fannie Yoder spent the week-end at Grantsville.

Mr. William Grodon, New York, painted the interior of Mr. Elwood Schlossnagle's bungalow last week.

Mrs. Harvey Gortner, of Grantsville, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Gortner. She was accompanied home by her daughter, Margaret Jane, who had been visiting her grandparents for a week.

Mr. Dale Sanders, Mannington, W. Va., is home on a visit.

Mrs. Lee Shaffer and children, Red House, were supper guests at the home of Mr. S. W. Slabaugh on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mellotte, Pittsburgh, Pa., recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin. They were accompanied to Pittsburgh on Sunday by Miss Ida Martin, who will be their guest for a week or two.

Mr. and Mrs. John Roby, Loch Lynn, took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Joel Slabaugh on Friday.

Messrs. Gorman Cullers and James Deems spent the week-end over the mountain.

Mr. Elwood Martin visited friends at Hauser on Sunday.

Mrs. Noah Slabaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sisk, Misses Mattie Davis, Lena and Anna Virginia Slabaugh visited Miss Grace Filer and Mrs. Charles McFarland in Frostburg, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Christ Yoder, daughter Mary, and son Allen, Grantsville; and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Yoder, Norfolk, Va., spent Friday and Saturday with friends here..

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Spoerlein, daughter Dora Louise and son Ernest, were in Cumberland on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Detriek and son were guests of Mrs. Amanda Hoff on Sunday.

Earl Sporelein spent several days camping along Deep Creek with the 4-H boys of Garrett county.

GRANTSVILLE

Olin H. Yoder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Yoder, of Grantsville, and Miss Pauline Wilma Jeffreys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jeffreys, of Addison, Pa., were married at the Center St. Methodist Parsonage, Cumberland, by the pastor, Rev. Harry Evaul, on Sunday afternoon, July 27, at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Yoder is a graduate of the "Repard School of auctioneering," of Indiana, and is clerk at G. W. Diefenbach's store, in connection with his auctioneering work.

Mrs. Yoder is a school teacher in Addison, Pa., a graduate of Uniontown High school, and has recently completed a course at the California State Normal, California, Pa. They left after the ceremony by automobile for Washington, D. C., and other cities to spend a week.

Child Injured by Auto

Sonny Stanton, 7-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stanton, was hit Friday evening in front of their home by a passing automobile, and thrown several feet across the road. He was badly bruised about the face and body but not seriously injured. He was playing at the side of the road back of his father's parked car and was out farther in the road than usual and two cars passed, the one going west striking the child who was picked up unconscious by his father.

News Briefs

Mrs. G. A. Lininger and son, Carmon Lininger and grandson from Waterloo, Iowa, motored here accompanied by the former's father, Jonas J. Gnagey, who had spent several months with his daughter. While here they visited Mrs. W. C. Loechel, Mrs. J. U. Stanton, brothers and sisters near Grantsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Beachy and son, of Akron, Ohio, spent several days with his father, Ward Beachy, and brother Lee.

W. D. Getty has returned from a week's trip to Baltimore and the Eastern shore.

Mrs. Ella Keller and daughter, Miss Ruth, have returned from a two-week's sojourn at Rehoboth Beach, Delaware.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Glotfelty, July 24.

Mrs. Marian Broadwater, who fell and fractured her hip is improving.

Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Stanley Anderson and daughter, of Universal, Pa., visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Durst. Mrs. Anderson and daughter will remain here for a week.

Card of Thanks.

We desire in this manner to thank the friends for the many kind deeds done at the funeral services of Lloyd Hoover, who was drowned last Wednesday in the Ohio River. We also desire to thank Mr. P. J. Heil for his kind consideration and help at this time of sorrow.

Grandparents and other Relatives.

VOLUME 54. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, AUGUST 7, 1930. NUMBER 25.

SEEKS TO IMPROVE FISH PROSPECT OF DEEP CREEK

Congressman Zihlman Has Been Active In Effort To Enlist Support of Federal Fish Bureau

ARE TO BE HERE TODAY

Deep Creek Lake, in Garrett County, may yet prove a fishing ground of more than ordinary merit, notwithstanding the great disappointment that has been experienced by anglers during the past two or three fishing seasons, if plans now under consideration are carried out.

Today a representative of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, Washington, will meet interested residents of Garrett county at Deep Creek Lake to discuss the whole matter and to decide just what the national government can do to improve conditions existing there.

Congressman Frederick N. Zihlman, who recently spent several days in Garrett county and being a lover of angling, lost a half day of his outing fishing in Deep Creek Lake. He returned to Oakland in the evening determined to have conditions corrected, if possible, for he was a greatly disappointed man. He had caught no trout but instead a bushel or more of those goggle-eyed tench.

The Congressman informed The Republican that he would take the matter up with the Fisheries Department at as early a date as possible.

Following his return to Washington, Mr. Zihlman wrote Swepson Earle, of the Maryland Conservation Commission, concerning existing conditions, a copy of the letter being sent to The Republican, which is printed

MISS BOSLEY AND SUMMER RESIDENT WIN GOLF TILT

Caddies Hold Contest Friday and Juniors on Saturday

Harry Brand, summer resident of Mountain Lake Park, with a 52, was winner of the men's tournament, and Miss Evelyn Bosley with a 61 was winner of the ladies' tournament, conducted on Monday night at the Miller Midget golf course next to the William-James hotel. Brand received a sport belt and Miss Bosley a novelty necklace and bracelet.

These tournaments are held every Monday evening and the twelve men and women turning in the lowest scores during the week are eligible for entrance. These names are posted every Saturday evening so that there will be no possibility of those eligible not being aware of the fact. There will be a change of prizes each week.

The names and scores of those entered in the Monday night tournament are Harry Brand, 52; Fred Chesley, 57; C. Buell, 57; Nelson Offutt, 57; Casselman Chesley, 59; Robert Hicks, 59; Seymour Offutt, 60; Stanley Bond, 60; R. Laing, 60; John Weber, 61; H. Snell, 62.

In the ladies' tournament were Miss Bosley, 61; Mrs. W. B. Burruss, 62; Hasaleah Yutzy, 63; Elizabeth Floyd, 69; S. Scott, 71; Charlotte Bolgiano, 71; Mary Bolglano, 72; Mary Adeline Scott, 72; Helen Hinebaugh, 73; and Barbara Burruss, 76.

The caddies on the course had a tournament on Friday morning, which was won by J. Billy Yutzy with a 61, and Bill Glotfelty with a 66 was runner up. On Saturday morning there was a contest for boys twelve years of age and under, won by William Tillett with a 58.

Republican Voters Will Have Opportunity of Voting for a Woman Candidate for Register of Wills

The Republican today presents the candidacy of Mrs. Nina O'Brien Riley, of Election District No. 7, as a candidate for the nomination for Register of Wills, as will be seen by referring to the political announcement page of this paper.

Mrs. Riley, prior to her marriage several years ago, was one of Garrett county's well qualified school teachers.

The candidate in her announcement states that she believes she is qualified to handle the business of the office.

Mrs. Riley is the wife of Mr. Jasper Riley, a progressive farmer of the Pleasant Valley section.

FAIR MANAGER SECURES SHOWS FOR '30 EXHIBITION

Probably Largest and Best Entertainment To Be Presented

Henry M. Speicher, general manager, has just announced that he has contracted with the American Exposition Shows to exhibit here during the Fourteenth Annual Garrett County Agricultural Fair this year, which is to be held on September 16, 17, 18 and 19, at the Fair grounds, near town. The American Exposition shows will bring with it five rides, 20 shows and 40 concessions. A good negro minstrel is also promised to accompany the show during the fair. Mr Speicher stated that the American Exposition Shows is the best carnival that he has ever seen, and he was told by several responsible persons that it is the best on the road this year.

Mr. Speicher also states that there will be airplane acrobatics and parachute jumps every day of the fair as free entertainment.

Grains crops are reported to be very good this year, while the potato crop is said to vary in different sections of the county.

Farmers of Garrett county and the adjacent counties who are expecting to exhibit their products should be considering seriously at this time the selection of material from their ripened crops.

The premium list this year will be a very attractive one and many important changes have been made in the various departments.

Everyone is urged to enter exhibits at the fair and all are requested to attend and thus make this fair a success in every respect.

LEGION MAY FORM DRUM CORPS AT MEETING MONDAY

Objective Thirty Men Before Purchasing Instruments—War Mother Is Recovering

At the meeting of Proctor Kildow Post, American Legion, of Oakland, Monday night a representative from the Conn Instrument Company was present for the purpose of discussing the formation of a drum and bugle corps. It was decided by members of the post, after receiving prices on the instruments, to hold a special meeting Monday night, August 11, in order to find out the number of men available to qualify for a drum and bugle corps. It is the object of the post to get the corps started as soon as possible, according to Joseph Gonder, post commander. All the members of the post were enthused over the idea of the drum corps and everything points to the immediate formation.

Twenty-three men is the lowest possible number that can form a drum and bugle corps, but the local post is desirous of having at least thirty men in the organization. There were twenty-three men present at the meeting Monday night, and it is hoped that every member will turn out for the special meeting this coming Monday.

At the special meeting next Monday night, R. B. Wood, the organizer of the Kingwood and Grafton drum and bugle corps, will be present, and also Captain C. P. Wilhelm, Kingwood, W. Va., and Russell Paupe, Cumberland, will attend. R. R. Gilbert and Russell Brown have signified their willingness to help by instrueting the members.

Commander Gonder stressed the importance of every member of the legion being present at the meeting Monday night.

Due to the increase in membership of the local post, Mr. E. C. Lawrence has been appointed delegate to the State Convention to be held in Baltimore on August 28, 29, and 30. This enables Proctor Kildow post to have three delegates present at the State convention, as Joseph Gonder and Milton Sincell had already been chosen to go as delegates. The alternates are Edward Kahl, A. G. Hesen, and Ronald McIntire.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion will hold a food sale on Saturday, August 9, at Smouse's store. Miss Theresa Welling and Mrs. Joseph Gonder will be in charge. All patronage will be greatly appreciated.

Letter From Mrs. Kildow Read

The local post received a very nice letter from Mrs. William Kildow stating that she is improving rapidly and thanking the post for flowers that they had formerly sent to her. Mrs. Kildow received a fracture of the hip when she fell in her state room on her return from France recently in company with the Gold Star Mothers of Maryland.

Miss Josephine Towler, Charlotte Court House, Va., is a guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Towler, at the William-James Hotel, having arrived in Oakland several days ago.

ANNUAL TENNIS TOURNEY IS SET FOR AUGUST 11-16

Former Stars Are Expected To Participate; Last Year's Champions To Play This Season

The Eleventh Annual Tennis Tournament for the Western Maryland Championship, sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will be held at Mountain Lake Park from August 11 to 16, and will be held under the auspices of the Women's Civic Club.

Keen competition is expected as John Brown, who won the first tournament in 1920; Jarvis Adams who won both in 1921 and 1925; and Wright Hugus, the winner in 1922, are expected to attend. Everyone who attended last year remembers the finals between Sam Cohn and B. F. Arkle; both will be here again this year. Arkle won the West Virginia Championship at Charleston this year while Cohn was last year's champion. Arkle's victory last year gave him the first leg on the new cup which must be won three times before becoming one's permanent property.

The first leg on the new "Women's Singles Cup" was won last year by Miss Mary Will Wakeford, Mobile, Ala., who is also entered this year, as is Miss Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown, W. Va. Miss Carspecken has just played Mrs. DeLoyd Thompson, the winner of the first eup, in the finals at Hot Springs, Va.

Anyone wishing to enter are to send their entries to Mrs. Wilson Lee Camden, Mountain Lake Park. Entries for singles close on Saturday, August 9, at 8:00 p. m.; for doubles, when draw is made, evening before doubles play begins. Five courts will be available, and they will be put in the best of condition before Monday.

It is hoped by the committee in charge that the Oakland people will respond. Daily and weekly tickets can be obtained at very nominal prices.

There is to be a reception at the Bowling Alley on Monday night and on Wednesday night there will be a dance at the Mountain Lake Hotel. On Friday night a frolic will be held at the Bowling Alley, it was announced by Mrs. Camden yesterday.

The first Western Maryland challenge cup in men's singles was in competition for nine years and was won permanently by Gwynn King, Washington, D. C., in 1928. The names of the following players are inscribed upon the trophy: John Brown, Connellsville, Pa., 1920;Jarvis Adams, Pittsburgh, 1921; Wright Hugus, Wheeling, W. Va., 1922; Ray Johnson, Pittsburgh, Pa., 1923; Kier Boyd, Pittsburgh, Pa., 1924; Jarvis Adams, Pittsburgh, 1925; Gwynn King, Washington, 1926, 1927, 1928.

The Women's Singles Cup was in competition for five years and was won permanently by Mrs. DeLloyd Thompson, of Washington, Pa., in 1928. The names of the following contenders are inscribed upon the cup: Miss Sara Wright, Frostburg, Md., 1924; Miss Elizabeth Hugus, Wheeling, W. Va., 1925; Mrs. DeLloyd Thompson, Washington, Pa., 1926, 1927, 1928.

The new challenge cups for these events, first placed in competition in 1929, were won by B. F. Arkle, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Miss Mary Will Wakeford, Mobile, Ala.

These cups become the property of the players first winning three times, not necessarily in scucession, and the winners are awarded custody of the cups for one year. Suitable trophies will be awarded the winners and runners-up in all events.

Men's singles begin August 11th, at ten o'clock a. m.; women's singles begin August 12, at 10 a. m.; men's doubles begin August 12, at 2:30 p. m. Mixed doubles begin August 12 at 2:30, and women's doubles begin on August 13.

Mr. E. E. Friend, Register of Wills, Candidate for Renomination by Republicans

Mr. Edwin E. Friend, present Register of Wills of the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, announces his candidacy for renomination at the primary election to be held on Monday, September 8th.

Mr. Friend, through the years he has held this very important office, has given the duties of the position his undivided attention and has been at all times accommodating and a splendid official, according to those who have had occasion to transact business affairs with the Court.

WATER CONSUMPTION IS LIMITED BY TOWN FATHERS

Ordinance Passed Monday Carries Penalties for Unlawful Use —Sewage System Extended

Sensing the acuteness of the large continued drought and its consequent effect upon the water supply within the limits of the city water lines, the Mayor and Town Council approved and passed an ordinance regulating the consumption of water in Oakland Monday night at a regular meeting of the town fathers.

The ordinance restricts the use of water for all purposes other than for domestic and office use, and particularly curtails the use of the city water for washing automobiles, sprinkling lawns, or gardens.

While the Mayor and Council asked for the cooperation of the citizens in conserving the water supply a week or so ago, yet the passage of the ordinance carries with it certain penalties for the conviction of any person, firm or corporation, for the wilful waste of city water. The penalties range from a fine of five dollars and costs to $25 and costs, or five to twenty-five days imprisonment in the county jail.

Two Sections of Sewage Ordered Laid

One sewer line of approximately 350 feet was ordered laid on East Green street and one section of approximately 225 feet was ordered laid in South Oakland to care for two residences that in the past have not been served by the town's sewage system. It was also ordered that the water line crossing under Little Youghiogheny river near Third street be renewed while the water level of the river is at a very low state.

Purity of Water Is Assured

A report read at the meeting of the council on Monday from the city chemist assured the Mayor and Council that the present water supply in the mains was 100 per cent pure, and while the spring and well supply was low, yet the water was as pure as it is during a more regular season.

14TH SESSION OF MISSION SCHOOL TO CLOSE FRIDAY

Pageant Will be Presented by Oakland Missionary Society

The fourteenth session of the Mt. Lake Park Interdenominational Summer School of Missions will close tomorrow evening with a pageant to be presented by the Methodist missionary society of the Oakland M. E. church. The school, which has been in session since Sunday, under the leadership of Mrs. F. I. Johnson, seems to have taken on new life, according to those present, and it has been declared that the program, in its entirety, has been one of the strongest and most helpful that has been presented in many seasons.

The need of a new awakening of the spirit in the hearts and minds of the Christian people of America, has been stressed in the classes which have been held throughout the week.

Schools for seniors, young people, and juniors have been held with outstanding teachers in all three divisions and prominent speakers have been present and delivered addresses each evening.

Camp Gleam, a camp for girls, held in connection with the school, has been in charge of Miss Anna F. Shaw, of Round Bay, an experienced leader. Classes are held each day with discussion graoups which are adapted to their own ages and needs. Plenty of recreation is provided.

All are invited to the closing session on Friday evening.

Crellin Band To Play for W. O. W. Outing Aug. 31 and Sept. 1.

The Crellin Band has been engaged to furnish music for the Woodmen of the World Log-Rolling and Uniform Field day to be held at Row's Park on Conochocheague Creek, six miles west of Hagerstown on Sunday, August 31, and Monday, September 1 (Labor Day). Competitive company and individual drills will be held on Sunday afternoon with a band concert and one hour of W. O. W. songs by a special choir and members of the organization. Monday, September 1, will be devoted to sports and various amusements.

A feature of the day will be a game of baseball between the Cumberland W. O. W. and the District of Columbia W. O. W. teams.

Plans are being made to entertain a large crowd, and as there are a large number of members throughout Garrett county it is expected there will be a large delegation join in on this celebration.

ROAD WORKER SENTENCED FOR CUTTING AFFRAY

Was Choking Woman When Another Colored Man Interfered

Nathan Johnson, colored, was severely cut on the arm by Lovett Lynn, another negro, during a quarrel late Saturday night at the rooming house above the office of the Eastern Land Corporation on Third street. The argument was about the amount of rent to be paid by Johnson. At the trial Monday morning before E. I. West, Justice of the Peace, Lynn claimed that he was under the influence of liquor and had no recollection of what he was doing and was unable to give a clear statement of what took place.

Johnson said that he had been asleep but, awakened by the sound of a quarrel and altercation, he got up to investigate. He found that Lynn had a colored woman by the throat. When he sought to interfere, Lynn turned on him with a butcher knife and stabbed him in the arm. In the meantime the other roomers had called policeman B. B. Nethkin who placed Lynn in jail.

After hearing the evidence, Justice E. I. West sentenced Lovett Lynn to one year in the House of Correction.

HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPALS ARE NAMED BY BOARD

Vacancies In 3 Schools Filled by Appointments Recently Made

Principals for the three Garrett county high schools where vacancies prevailed—Oakland, Accident and Kitzmiller—have been filled by recent appointments made by the Board of Education, the three appointees having signified their willingness to accept the positions offered by entering into contracts with the Board.

Foster D. Bittle, for six years principal of the Williamsport (Md.) high school, will have charge of Oakland high school. Mr. Bittle is a native of Frederick county. He received his A. B. degree at Gettysburg College and his A. M. degree at Johns Hopkins University. Following his graduation he taught in the high school at Frederick and afterwards at Williamsport from which point he comes to Oakland with excellent recommendations.

Other appointments on the high school faculties of the Oakland and other schools of the county have not yet been announced with the exception of the principals referred to above.

Benjamin O. Aiken, a graduate of Duke University at Durham, N. C., where he received his A. M. degree, will be principal of the Accident high school. Mr. Aiken has been principal of the Poolesville (Md.) school for three years and like Mr. Bittle, carries with him recommendations of a high class from the school officials of Poolesville.

At Kitzmiller, Ollie P. Jones, a native Marylander; graduate of Blue Ridge College, where he received his A. B. degree, and a student at the University of Maryland and West Virginia University, recently principal of the Mannington (W. Va.) high school, will be the principal.

Union Young People's League Holds Picnic at the Lake

Last night the Union Young People's League enjoyed a moonlight picnic on the shores of Deep Creek Lake. The program included swimming, a short session around the campfire and refreshments. Everyone had a very enjoyable outing and plans are being made for a similar picnic in the near future.

The meeting Sunday will be at 6:45 in the Lutheran church. Miss Willaveen DeWitt of the Presbyterian church will be the leader.

The meeting held last Sunday, which was led by Miss Geraldine Nordeck, was the best attended of the season, as there were about fifty present. More young people are wanted to attend these weekly meetings.

Mexican Found Along Track Had Fallen From Train

Yesterday morning a Mexican was found lying alongside the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks near Swanton in a dazed condition. The authorities in Oakland were notified as it was at first thought that the man was a victim of an assault. Later it developed that a physician's services was the only thing required. According to Dr. N. I. Broadwater, who attended the injured man, he was suffering from cuts and bruises about his head and body as the result of falling from a moving freight train. After being cared for by the physician the man was placed on a westbound train.

Two Cars In Collision

A Ford roadster was practically demolished at the corner of Third and Alder street last Saturday evening about 10:30 o'clock when it collided with an Essex car, headed south on Third street.

The Ford was being driven by a man by the name of Ash of Garrett county. The Essex car was driven by a man from West Virginia, whose name could not be learned. Ash paid the damages on the Essex car, which were slight. No one was injured.

FOREST FIRES CONTROLLED BY FAITHFUL FIGHTERS

Rain Yesterday Assisted Workers In Their Efforts to Subdue Flames In Wide Scope

A forest fire that might have caused untold disaster to Garrett county was finally brought under control Tuesday evening thru the heroic efforts of Fire Chief George Kerins and a group of thirty-five or forty men who had been recruited from Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and the Mount Airy Canning Company. The fire started about three quarters of a mile south-east of Mt. Lake and due to the terrible dry condition soon became of menacing proportions. When Chief Kerins and his men arrived on the scene many acres of forest on the west side of the old Deer Park road, between Mt. Lake Park and Broadford were already in flames. It was almost a Herculean task to undertake but after two days and two nights of constant fighting, and with the aid of the slight rainfall Wednesday, it was finally brought under control. According to Kerins, there were times when the situation seemed hopeless, the fire burning faster than the men could follow it. Luckily the fire was halted before it reached several acres of oats located on farms nearby. The fighters were forced to work with water soaked cloths tied over their mouths and nostrils due to the dense smoke that clung close to the ground. Before the conflagration was finally brought under control, over 700 acres of forest land was completely devestated, according to Mr. Kerins.

In all probability the fire was caused by someone carelessly tossing a lighted cigarette or match to the ground not thinking what serious damage might be caused. The numerous fires that have occurred recently within the county should be ample warning to everyone to take more than the usual precautions against starting forest fires thru the careless handling of matches, cigars or cigarettes.

Most of the other fires reported were either extinguished or gotten under control without serious damage resulting. One however, near the Cranesville bridge at the old Welch farm, required the services of the Oakland fire fighters before being controlled and several smaller fires around the vicinity of Sang Run required the presence of fire warden A. L. Sines. In the vicinity of Crellin little damage was reported done by several small forest fires that, luckily, were quickly prevented from spreading by able fighters from that section.

Least Rainfall During July

Comparing the temperature and the rainfall for the month of June and July, as recorded by the government station at Weber, a mile south of Oakland, it is noted that during June the temperature ranged from 26 to 87 degrees, while in July recordings were made ranging from 39 to 95. June 1 was the coldest day with the 26 degree reading, while Monday, August 4, was the hottest day of the summer, the temperature reading 96 degrees. The rainfall in June was 4.61 inches, and in July 1.91, the lowest precipitation ever recorded at the Weber station for a month's period.

OAKLAND DOCTOR RETURNS FROM EUROPEAN TRAVELS

Visited Several Main European Countries and Attends Clinics

Dr. Henry W. McComas returned home yesterday morning after a two months' European tour as the sole delegate from Maryland of the American Public Health Association. The chief purpose of the trip was to study health and hygiene and its relation to mankind from maternity to old age.

Dr. McComas states that there were three main meetings: the Congress of the Royal Sanitary Institute at Margate, England; the International Hygiene Exhibition, at Dresden, Germany, and the International Congress on Micro-biology, at Paris, France.

Those in the tour were received at every city on the route by the officials and the ministers of health of the cities and nations entered.

At Leysin, Switzerland, a visit was made to the clinic and Hydro-Therapeutic establishments of Dr. Auguste Rollier. Many schools were visited along the way and much attention was paid to child life. Round table discussions were entered into upon the steamship as to what one would see, and did see and drew from it.

Dr. McComas also went on many side trips and saw many of the show places of Europe. Oberammergau was visited on the way home where the Passion Play was witnessed.

Dr. McComas brought home with him many gifts and bits of finery for members of his family and friends.

Homemakers Picnic August 20.

The Second Annual County Wide Homemakers' picnic will be held Wednesday, August 20, from 11:30 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

Each club has a committee who will arrange the picnic lunch menu. Club members are advised to get in touch with their local committee. Bring necessary dishes for picnic lunch.

Homemakers thruout the county who are interested in what homemakers clubs do are invited to attend this picnic.

POLITICS IN REVIEW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore)

Nobody got anything political out of the special session of the Legislature which met Tuesday under the call and special direction of the Governor.

The Republicans might have done better had they insisted that instead of four days for a complete new registration in Baltimore City being provided there should be two days of supplemental registration, letting the old registration stand on the books for two more years.

But the Governor was very much afraid of this proposition. He shuddered at the thought of the thousands of names of women voters which were added to the list in 1928. He wants to get them off.

So far as we can see the Republican leaders missed a chance by not having an amendment to the Ritchie bill offered so as to place the members and the party on record. But Mr. Tait seemed too good natured. Perhaps he thought he would have been accused of hindering meritorious legislation.

Chairman Hargest of the City Committee, wanted the party people to make a stand on this proposition and we think he had the right side of the question. But the water has gone over the dam.

The four year new registration plan was adopted at a time when annual elections were held throughout the State. Now we have elections every two years instead of annual. By spreading out the new registration money could be saved as is now done by the biennial election plan.

The Governor seemed to be nervous over the special session. He apparently feared that some new matter might be brought before the session. There were new matters in the background that might have been brought up. They would have been disturbing to the fourth term candidate. But the danger having passed the candidate can now rest a while.

Reports from the counties indicate that the unrest among the Democrats previously reported, is growing. The feeling is that there has been too much of a one-man government and the desire is for a change. The Republicans seem now to have the election in their hands and it will be their own fault if it is thrown away.

Recent days have shown more activity of Republican candidates in the city as it is coming to be realized that the chances of the minority party should now be better than the prospects of the usual majority party.

The greatest contention is for the State Senate and signs indicate a fight in each of the six districts on the Democratic side.

Sheriff Potee now knows he has to fight one of his deputies in the person of Joseph Deegan, something entirely new in Baltimore. And Charles J. Weiss continues his campaign for the place regardless of the bosses and near bosses.

Nobody has appeared for the Republican nomination for Sheriff. Months ago John J. Hanson said he would run again but to date he hasn't. A Republican candidate might have a chance this year.

Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown is the first woman to file for office in the city this year. She has filed for the House of Delegates in the Fourth District and as that is usually Republican she should be a winner. Miss Brown is a lawyer and while studying for the bar did newspaper work around the courts. She will have strong backing among the women voters.

Organizing "Non-Partisan" Ritchie League

We hear that the object of a little meeting down at a shore the other night, sponsored by William Horst and Joseph M. Smith, was to organize a Ritchie Non-Partisan League for the campaign and that another meeting is soon to be held at the Southern Hotel.

The whys and the wherefores of such a league we do not yet understand, but we suppose that the movers of the enterprise think it time to do something in an effort to save His Excellency from what now appears to be coming in November. A non-partisan league might be a good thing.

We hear that Messrs., Smith and Horst are advocates of the nomination of R. Walter Graham for Mayor next year and this move may be a part of the plan to put the City Comptroller forward although his name was not mentioned at this week's preliminary meeting. Prior to the last city election Mr. Horst was a strong supporter of William Curran but it appears that the two are not longer close politically.

Meanwhile some friends of former Mayor Howard W. Jackson say he has not given up the idea of serving as Mayor again and that he might throw his hat in the ring soon after January 1 next.

It is certainly apparent that more than one candidate for Mayor on the Democratic ticket next year has the idea that he is the Ritchie choice just as there are many candidates for the State Senate in Baltimore City who think they have the Ritchie blessing on their heads already.

Baltimore County Democrats in a Stew

The Democratic party in Baltimore county is reported to be in somewhat of a ferment over the announcement of the local ticket favored by the party bosses. Particular objection is raised to the indorsement of State Senator David G. McIntosh, Jr., for another term at their are several others who would very much like to have the honor of representing the State's richest county in the Senate.

James J. Lindsay, Jr., had his eye on the place and was quite willing to run and the selection of Mr. McIntosh must have been quite a disappointment to him. He was put on the slate of the bosses for a return trip to the House of Delegates along with some other present members of that body while a new man was brought forward in the person of Holmes Alexander of the Green Spring Valley, sponsored by Senator McIntosh.

Opponents of the slate sponsored by Harrison Rider, W. Gill Smith and Senator McIntosh talk of an opposition ticket and a storng drive against McIntosh who not so long ago was running for Governor as the anti-Ritchie candidate and who has said he would not return to Annapolis. It has been reported that Edward H. Burke might become the candidate of the antis for the Senate but at this time no action has been taken.

The country normally has a very heavy Democratic majority as the Republicans have been poorly organized in recent years. For months the Republicans have been talking of putting up a strong ticket but just now they are waiting to see what the Democrats do.

Since Mr. Burke called on the party's executive committee at Towson on Thursday and spoke his mind about party matters is has been reported that he is unable to make the race for the Senatorial nomination as the competitor of Senator McIntosh because of professional engagements. So it is up to the opposition to pick a candidate and do it quickly.

Mr. Burke's charges of high handed management of county affairs and especially the bond issue will make quite a stir throughout the county. So the Republican prospects are improving.

What Is The Party Organization?

Sheriff Potee has posters out announcing himself as the "organization" candidate for renomination. Deputy Sheriff Joseph Deegan has cards announcing himself as the "organization" candidate for Sheriff. Over in Queen Anne's county there are two distinct groups of Democrats calling themselves the "organization" candidates. So the main question is, especially in Baltimore City, what is the organization?

It was very puzzling to the outsider and will become more so as the primary campaign advances.

Mayor Broening Makes Good Move

Mayor Broening made what most well informed persons consider a good move when he named H. Webster Smith as the chairman of the Public Improvement Commission. It should bring much support to the Mayor in his campaign for the Governorship.

Mr. Smith, who was himself mentioned for the Gubernatorial nomination, was asked by the Mayor to take the place vacated by Robert Garrett and did not in any way seek it. He accepted it, we are informed, without any conditions and has a free hand to use his own judgment.

Those who know Mr. Smith speak well of him and the Mayor's critics have been silenced on this point at least.

Week's Best Trick In Western Maryland

What might be described as the best trick of the week was the stunt of the Brooke Lee-Ritchie people in getting out a petition asking David J. Lewis to become the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Sixth District. A list of leaders indorsing Lewis was published and the effort was made to show that the sentiment for Lewis was unanimous. But the fact was that there was only about one real Lewis man signing the request for the Alleganian to run.

The situation in the Sixth district is that the Democratic nomination has gone begging. It has been peddled around for weeks but no well informed Democrat thinks there is a reasonable chance of beating Representative Frederick N. Zihlman. The latter has been on his job and is strong thruout the district not only with his own party butalso with many Democrats. Thus it is that most people up there think that Zihlman is as good as re-elected already.

Of course if the Brook Lee people, who care nothing at all for Lewis, can get him in the field again they can hammer him out of political existence and be rid of him permanently.

Use of Telephones Is Increasing in Maryland.

The use of the telephone in Maryland is showing a steady increase in the State. During the first six months of the year there has been a net increase of 5,249 telephones, according to statement made by Frederick J. Irish, general manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

Telephones in the Cumberland district have increased 145 since January 1, which makes 8536 now in service. By central offices Oakland has been increased by 64 and Cumberland by 83.

The company operated 213,255 telephones at the close of business June 30. In addition there were 2,657 service line telephones, making a total of 215,912.

Not only has there been a substantial increase in the number of telephones added to the Maryland system during the six month period, but according to Mr. Irish there was a steady increase in the use of the telephone. During the period telephone users made 161,041,000 originating calls, which was an increase of 3,840,000 over the number made the first six months of last year.

SOME SWIMMING "DON'T'S" OUTLINED BY BOY LEADER

Scout Executive's Recommendations Should Be Followed

Because of the large number of drownings that have occurred recently in the State, Mr. W. Perry Bradley, Secretary and Executive of the local organization of Boy Scouts, has outlined, at the request of Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, precautions which should be taken by all swimmers and bathers. Mr. Bradley's recommendations follow:

"From the standpoint of health, there is probably no exercise better calculated to keep the body in good condition than swimming. But certain necessary rules should be observed: First of all, have an examination made by an experienced physician to be sure you have no heart condition or organic defect that would make indulgence in the sport dangerous. If your physician says that it is safe for you to go into the water, lose no time in learning to swim.

"But: Don't swim right after eating. Wait about two hours.

"Don't swim while overheated. Wait until you have cooled off.

"Don't swim until you are completely exhausted. Stop before you are all tired out.

"Don't dive unless you are sure the water is deep enough. Serious injury or death is likely to result from foolhardiness in this respect.

"Don't go into the water if you are not well. Think of the other fellow as well as yourself. Colds, pink eye, eye, ear, nose and throat infections and other communicable diseases are spread through swimming pools and bathing beaches.

"Last year there were 152 deaths from drowning in Maryland. This year in the month of June alone, 24 persons lost their lives unnecessarily in this way. Each week-end as the crowds throng to the shores, we hear of risks foolishly taken and of lives lost as a consequence.

"Observance of the precautions mentioned above will help greatly to reduce the danger of accidents.

"In addition, there are certain hazards that should be avoided. Underwater swimming has proved decidedly dangerous and is known to have been the cause of many deaths. It is of little practical value and should be discouraged.

"Long distance swimming, overtasking one's strength and endurance, is often a direct cause of trouble. A properly manned boat should always accompany the swimmer.

"The danger from diving into unknown water cannot be over emphasized.

"Ring buoys should be conspicously displayed wherever people assemble for the purpose of bathing or swimming. Docks, floats, piers and life boats should all be equipped with the valuable piece of life-saving apparatus.

"Qualified guards should be in charge of every public swimming pool. Inexperienced bathers or swimmers should not be permitted to enter the pools when the guards are not on duty."

BITTINGER

Some workmen who were engaged in making ready a saw mill seat on the George Ruckle farm, near here, last week, failed to entirely extinguish a fire on the ground before they quit work on Saturday evening and the smouldering embers were fanned into a flame some time Sunday afternoon. The fire spread to the adjoining timber land and a terrific forest fire kept men fighting all Sunday night. The flames resulted in much damage to the timber and woodland.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peterson, of Columbus, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus Frazee, of Somerfield, Pa.; Mrs. Clyde Shope and Mrs. Bessie Porterfield and daughter Betty, of Harnedsville, Pa., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Broadwater at their home here one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buckle and children, of Cumberland, spent Sunday afternoon visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Ira F. Holtsclaw, of New Mexico, is spending a few days here at the Lutheran parsonage as the guest of her brother, Rev. E. E. Campbell. Mrs. Holtsclaw is accompanied by an attractive little Mexican girl.

Charles Guthrie, of Friendsville, spent a couple of days last week in this community trying to interest residents in the purchase of some local real estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brenneman spent last Sunday visiting Mrs. Brenneman's sister in Grantsville.

Jonas Orendorf, a native of this village, but now of Baltimore, spent part of last week visiting relatives and old friends in this community.

Jacob Brenneman and Frederick M. Bittinger attended the Clan picnic at Friendsville last Saturday.

Rev. Benjamin Smith, New Creek, West Va., is conducting a successful series of meetings in the Bethesda German Baptist church, near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Beachy and little daughter, of Akron, Ohio, spent last Friday night with Mr. Beachy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Beachy, at their home near this village.

Messrs. Harvey Broadwater, Jesse Wilt, Walter Broadwater and Ira Broadwater, of the Backwoods settlement, were business callers in this village last Monday morning.

Guy O. Yutzy, one of the smiling and hopeful candidates for the office of sheriff, was seeing his many friends in this section on Monday of last week.

Miss Benthien, Conuty Demonstration Agent, of Oakland, and Miss Keller, of College Park, called on acquaintances in this neighborhood on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Silas O. Wiley, of Salisbury, Pa., spent last Thursday evening with relatives here.

It is but a few short days until the annual Sunday school picnic will be held here. Make a note of the date—August 16, and come and spend the day with us.

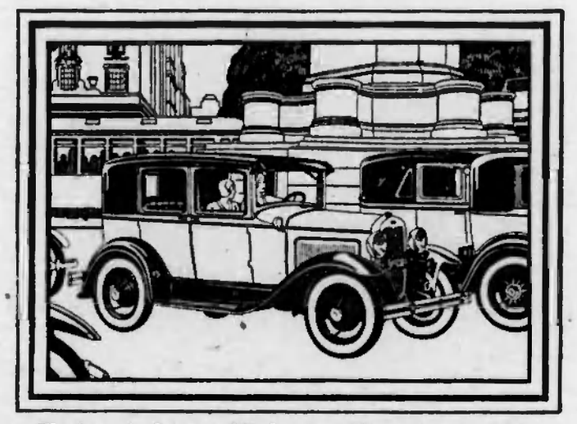
Meeting the Needs of Millions of People



The low-priced automobile has brought greater opportunity and added hours of recreation to millions of men and women.

BECAUSE the automobile is such an important factor in the lives and prosperity of so many people, the purpose of the Ford Motor Company is something more than the mere manufacture of a motor car.

There is no service in simply setting up a machine or a plant and letting it turn out goods. The service extends into every detail of the business — design, production, the wages paid and the selling price. All are a part of the plan.

The Ford Motor Company looks upon itself as charged with making an automobile that will meet the needs of millions of people and to provide it at a low price. That is its mission. That is its duty and its obligation to the public.

The search for better ways of doing things is never-ending. There is ceaseless, untiring effort to find new methods and new machines that will save steps and time in manufacturing. The Ford plants are, in reality, a great mechanical university, dedicated to the advancement of Industry. Many manufacturers come to see and share the progress made.

The greatest progress comes by never standing still. Today's methods, however successful, can never be taken as wholly right. They represent simply the best efforts of the moment. Tomorrow must bring an improvement in the methods of the day before. Hard work usually finds the way.

Once it was thought impossible to cast gray iron by the endless chain method. All precedent was against it and every previous experiment had failed. But fair prices to the public demanded that wasteful methods be eliminated. Finally the way was found.

A better way of making axle shafts saved thirty-six million dollars in four years. A new method of cutting crankcases reduced the cost by $500,000 a year. The perfection of a new machine saved a similar amount on such a little thing as one bolt. Then electric welding was developed to make many bolts unnecessary and to increase structural strength.

Just a little while ago, an endless chain conveyor almost four miles long was installed at the Rouge plant. This conveyor has a daily capacity of 300,000 parts weighing more than 2,000,000 pounds. By substituting the tireless, unvarying machine for tasks formerly done by hand, it has made the day's work easier for thousands of workers and saved time and money in the manufacture of the car.

All of these things are done in the interest of the public — so that the benefits of reliable, economical transportation may be placed within the means of every one.

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

A football team has been organized at the Oakland hotel.

The hottest day of the season was on Sunday, when the thermometer at Sturgiss' Pharmacy registered 83 degrees. Thermometers in different parts of the city registered from 80 to 93 degrees.

Mr. and Mrs. King Delawder and Miss Lola Cross spent Sunday at Lake Cleveland, the guests of G. W. Delawder.

W. C. Dunnington, of Terra Alta, and Clyde Watson, of Kingwood, were in Oakland on Saturday.

Misses Cora Jones and Hattie White of Terra Alta, were in Oakland Monday and Tuesday, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Scott T. Jones.

Oakland, Md., it seems, will have an electrie light plant soon. That shows progress, and The Republican can claim all the credit of this progressive movement as it was the first to agitate the subject.—Kingwood Journal.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson Humbird, of Cumberland, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. W. R. Offutt, in Oakland.

The automobile fever has been fatal to several Oakland residents this week. Dr. Webb Ravenscroft purchased a Maxwell; J. C. Renninger has possessed himself of an E. M. F.; H. C. Sincell drove an Oakland from Pittsburgh yesterday, and Messrs. Semmes and Stuart Hamill are on the way home from Baltimore with a Pullman.

Rev. and Mrs. E. Manges returned to Oakland yesterday from a week's visit to relatives and friends at Johnstown and other points in Pennsylvania.

Notes from Local Health Department For July.

Miss Martin, Garrett County public health nurse participated in the following activities of the health department of the county during the month of July:

Eighty home visits were made. A man from Crellin was sent to Johns Hopkins Hospital for examination and treatment. A girl from Swanton and one from Hoyes were taken to Cumberland and fitted with glasses.

Through the Red Cross four children were taken to Miners' Hospital, Frostburg, where their tonsils were removed. These children came from Swanton, Oakland, Friendsville and Grantsville.

Several of the children who were fitted with glasses in June were visited. Two little girls said that they could see airplanes as they fly over since they are wearing glasses. They were unable to see them before. They all marvel at being able to distinguish objects at a distance.

From our "poor fund," provided by the churches of Oakland, food was provided for two families; train fare was provided for a girl who needed to see a doctor, and mosquito netting was bought to cover the crib of a sick baby.

Several investigations were made and several homes visited in the interest of children who are not receiving proper care.

Three persons were taken to a doctor's office for examination and treatment.

A health float was decorated and driven in the Home Coming parades at Oakland on July 4 and 5.

The Byron W. King School of Oratory has been very fortunate in securing the play rights of "The Mollusc," which will be presented as part of their Odeon the last week of August, from August 26th and lasting through and including August 30.

"The Mollusc" found its origination in London, where it was played successfully for several years. When the New York play producers found it would be an assured success they secured the play rights of it and it was presented in New York for several seasons.

It has been described by the best critics as being the one production which faithfully portrays certain individuals in every town. Ann Tennant takes the leading part in the play. Miss Tennant has had a very successful season in the production of this play and is well qualified to take the lead. Carl Emerson Williams has been cast to play opposite Miss Tennant. He is the husband who attempts to reform his wife, who is Miss Tennant, "The Mollusc."

Others of the outstanding characters of this splendid production are Franklin Randcroft Hipps and Sue Pearl Hamilton.

SEEKS TO IMPROVE FISH PROSPECTS OF DEEP CREEK

with this article.

It is expected that the Maryland Department of Conservation will be represented at the meeting today.

Mr. Zihlman's letter follows:

Washington, D. C., July 29, 1930.

Mr. Swepson Earle,
Commissioner,
Department of Conservation,
Baltimore, Md.

Dear Mr. Earle:—

I was up in Garrett county last week and talked with quite a number of the fishermen there about the situation in Deep Creek Lake and advised them I would take the matter up with the Bureau of Fisheries of the Department of Commerce and see if they could suggest anything that might improve conditions and eliminate the goggle-eyed bass and provide some real sport for the hundreds of anglers who would be attracted to that section if conditions were improved.

I talked with Mr. Radcliffe, Asst. Commissioner of the Bureau of Fisheries, yesterday (Mr. O'Malley being away in the Alaskan Salmon fishing region) and he stated that to his mind it was purely a state matter but that the Bureau would be glad to cooperate in every possible way to bring about an improvment of conditions existing in Garrett county.

Mr. Radcliffe made the following suggestions: First, that a supply of good sized large mouth bass be secured this fall by the State Conservation Commission from the Eastern Shore of Maryland and that the Bureau of Fisheries would furnish one of their fish cars to transport these bass to Garrett county; second, that the Bureau would secure for you a supply of small mouth bass from the Lake Erie section, providing you would send some one out to get them and transport them to Garrett county. He believes that these two species of fish would help to clean up the troublesome small fish that are so annoying at the present time. Further, he thinks that a separate fish pond should be provided some where in the vicinity to raise small bass to a size sufficient to take eare of themselves before they are put in Deep Creek Lake. Mr. Radcliffe is of the opinion that the two kinds of fish named will do well in these waters.

Mr. Leech of the Bureau of Fisheries is going up to Garrett county on August 7 to talk over the proposition with some of those interested, and if you could arrange to have Mr. LeCompte, or some one else, present I believe it would bring about a thorough understanding of the problem and perhaps a solution of it, so that large numbers of visitors who enjoy this type of sport will be attracted to this section.

As you know, Garrett county has no industry and if the conditions which exist can be improved, and some large fish developed, it will give the county a substantial summer population which will materially aid them in their line of business and trade as well as increase their assessable basis.

Will you please advise me at Cumberland, if it will be possible for some one representing your office to be in Oakland on the 7th of August.

With all good wishes and thanking you in advance for your cooperation and interest in this matter, I am

Very sincerely yours,
F. N. ZIHLMAN.

MARRIED

White—Tucker—The marriage of Miss Alice Marie Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McPherson Tucker, to Mr. J. Leyden White, Jr., took place at ten-thirty Monday morning, July 28, at the home of the bride's parents, 5705 Enright Ave., St. Louis, Mo., in the presence of the relatives of the couple. The bridal party entered the living room, which was appropriately decorated for the occasion, where the beautiful ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. O. G. Reuman, assistant pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church.

The bride was attired in a tailored gown of Pussy Willow silk, in tones of cream and brown, with hat and slippers of brown. She wore a corsage of Gude rosebuds.

The mother of the bride wore a pretty pale blue chiffon dress and the groom's mother was gowned in a becoming pink chiffon.

A reception followed the ceremony, after which the newlyweds left for Chicago, Ill., where they will make their home at 6321 Winthrope Ave.

The bride is a graduate of Hosmer Hall and attended Washington University of St. Louis.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leyden White, Sr., of the Ranelagh-Wilmar Apartments, and a grandson of the late Mr. John Cornelius of Oakland, at whose home he was born. He is a nephew of Mrs. James D. Hamill, 58 Oak street. During his boyhood he spent many summers at her home, with his cousins Misses Frances and Isabel.

Following his schooling in Washington, D. C., he attended the A. to Zed School, Berkeley, Calif.; Nazareth Hall Military Academy, Nazareth, Pa.; Peekskill Military Academy, (R. O. T. C.) Peekskill, N. Y.; the Kelvin Preparatory, N. Y .City, and he was a member of the class of 1925, Columbia University, New York. Mr. White is assistant director of publicity of the Alemite Corporation, Chicago.

Harrigan—Coddington—At St. Peter's Catholic church this morning Miss Doris Coddington, of near town, was united in marriage to Mr. William Harrigan, of Brooklyn, New York. Rev. Fr. William J. McVeigh performed the ceremony. Miss Coddington was attended by her brother and sister, William and Mary Coddington.

After the ceremony the couple left for a motor trip thru the northern states, and upon their return will make their home in Cleveland, Ohio, where the groom is an electrical engineer.

Chambers—Eichelberger—A quiet home wedding was solemnized on Tuesday, August 5, at 3:00 p. m., when Mrs. Nettie J. Eichelberger was united in marriage to Mr. William H. Chambers, of Oakland, at the bride's home on Oak Street. Dr. Archibald A. Moore performed the ceremony. Those in attendance were Mrs. S. S. Williams and Miss Eva Kepner.

DIED.

JACOB WESLEY FEATHER

Jacob Wesley Feather, a retired farmer, and former resident of Mountain Lake Park, died at his home at Bruceton Mills, West Va., August 2, at 7:30 o'clock a. m., aged 84 years, 11 months and 24 days. Funeral services were held at his late residence Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Interment occurred in Oakland Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 p. m., in the family lot.

Mr. Feather was a Civil War veteran, having served in Co. K, 17th W. Va. Volunteers.

He is survived by his wife and three children: T. O. Feather, of Seattle, Washington; Mrs. Coral E. Whitesell, at home, and D. C. Feather, of Pitcairn, Pa. Two grandchildren and one great-grandchild also survive.

MRS. MARY ANN HAUGER

Funeral services were held at Terra Alta on Tuesday for Mrs. Mary Ann Hauger, 85, who died at the home of Mrs. Almedia Wilhelm, near Terra Alta. The services were conducted by Rev. W. D. Cunningham. Burial was in Terra Alta cemetery. Mrs. Hauger is survived by five daughters—Mrs. Belle Kimmell and Mrs. Jennie Liller, of Oakland; Mrs. Rhesa Stockett, of Grafton; Mrs. Emma Freeland, of Keyser, and Mrs. Lydia Smith, of Hutton.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all who so kindly assisted us at the time of the death of our brother, John Rodeheaver, who died July 14. For the service of Rev. Shilke and also the Jr. Order of Fairchance, Pa. We thank all those who donated the use of their cars and for the beautiful flowers.

DESSIE RODEHEAVER.

MT. LAKE PARK

Mr. Nat T. Frame, director of the Agricultural Extension Division of West Virginia University, with Mrs. Frame and son Robert, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grimes the past week. Mr. Frame, we learn, is to conduct the country life conference on Farmers' Day at the Park, August 30, and he and Mr. Grimes were conferring with Mr. Frank E. Baker, manager of the Park, relative to plans for the big meeting.

Guests the past few days at Mr. and Mrs. Grimes' cottage were Mr. H. R. Laughlin, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B. and O. Railroad, who with his family spent Sunday with Mrs. Grimes' mother, Mrs. R. E. Laughlin.

Mr. Charley Hiskman, former mayor of Morgantown, and one time baseball player with New York, Washington and Cleveland, with his family, visited the Grimes' Sunday afternoon.

Dean Fromme, Director of the Experiment Station of West Virginia University, with Dr. Orton, of the University, and their families were visitors in the Park the past Sunday.

For the past several years activities at Mt. Lake Park have usually closed with the annual tennis tournament about the middle of August. This year, however, the last week of August will wind up the entertainment season. It promises to draw the interest from far and near with the splendid program now being arranged by the Byron King School of Oratory of Pittsburgh. There will be five days of this Odeon and the week will close with the First Annual Country Life Conference and Farmers' Day Saturday, August 30, with a dramatic performance by the King players in the evening.

Mrs. Etta Sanders and Miss Dessie Rodeheaver returned to Uniontown today after having spent a couple of weeks at their cottage in the Park.

While a detailed account of the coming of the Eleventh Annual Tennis Tournament appears in this issue, we want to particularly mention it in this column, because it is one of the important events in the activities of the Park. Perhaps no other single occasion gives to this resort the publicity that is given to it by the tennis meet among the class of sport-loving people.

We wish to call attention to this tournament for the added reason that while the Ladies Civic League has managed by the very hardest work to meet expenses incident to their efforts, it has been individual sacrifice of time and the lending of their credit when necessary to meet a deficit. For the reason that this meet means quite a lot to both the Park and Oakland, we want to take this opportunity of urging on all financially able to purchase season tickets. Every seat ought to be sold in advance. This would not only insure financial success, but a large gallery inspires the players to their best efforts.

* * *

During the last few days there was a dense pall of smoke hanging low over the Park and surrounding country. We first noticed it coming over the horizon from the direction of the big woods fire near Parsons, W. Va. Particularly in the evening the heavy cloud was very noticeable. Following that was the threatening fire starting near Deer Park and extending in the direction of the Park down to the road just above the lake. But the danger is now over, thanks to the efforts of the Oakland Fire Department, aided by many volunteers. And the rain of Wednesday morning completed what the firemen left uncompleted.

What is expected to be a gala occasion is promised by the Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn at a celebration to be held when the new Mountain Lake-Gormania road is opened for public travel. The details, of course, are not complete, much depending on the actual completion of the road. As the matter now stands, it is proposed to finish pouring the concrete by next Saturday. If so, then a date for the formal opening can be fixed. Invitations will be sent to the Governor and other state officials, as well as to citizens of this county. Any who may be missed in the sending of the special invitations will be notified through the local press of the date, and what to expect. All may be assured that nothing will be left undone to give every one a good time. There will be public addresses, band concerts, a basket picnic, and if possible to arrange, a venison Bar-B-Q. This celebration will be held along towards the close of the present month.

* * *

This is one season when we have almost a full house, practically all of the cottages being occupied. However people are still coming in and there are inquiries. Every one with a cottage vacant, should notify some of the real estate agents, so that no one will go away disappointed.

Mrs. Helen Carr, widow of the late Dr. Hugh Carr, of Fairmont, who is critically ill at the home of her parents in Wheeling, we understand, is slightly improved. Mrs. Carr and daughter Miss Kitty have frequently visited at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Logan L. Carr at the Park. Aside from the fact that Dr. Hugh Carr was one of the foremost surgeons of the Eastern United States, his charming personality made for him a host of freinds. The reports from the bedside of Mrs. Carr will be anxiously awaited.

* * *

Mrs. Burch is temporarily occupying the Dr. McComas cottage on Deep Creek Lake. She will remain there until the new Mt. Lake-Gormania road is completed.

Mr. Ralph Finnell, Parkersburg, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary A Bussell, and sister, Miss Myrtie Finell. He is connected with the Revenue Department.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Frame, Detroit, are the guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Frame.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fleming are business visitors in Fairmont.

The ladies of the U. B. church will hold a chicken dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Ford, Thursday, the 14th, beginning at 5:30. We bespeak for it a large patronage.

Mr. J. C. Frame, spent Sunday and Monday at the Park.

Next Sunday morning Dr. Fancher will deliver a sermon in the Baptist church. In the evening Rev. Jesse will preach in the U. B. church.

Rev. John Fisher, of Walkersville, Md., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Fouch.

Miss Ruth Ream and Miss Dorothy Gibson will leave this morning for College Park to attend a convention of the 4-H Clubs, to which they were chosen as local representatives. It is expected that approximately 600 representatives will be in attendance.

Death of Okey Schooley

The death of Mr. Okey Schooley, while not unexpected, was received with sadness by his large circle of friends. Mr. Schooley had been confined to his bed for a number of months. He was a most highly respected eitizen, his genial and kindly disposition, together with his unquestioned integrity and honesty of purpose, winning him many friends.

The funeral services were held at his late residence in the Park, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Middaugh in charge. He is survived by one son, Thomas Schooley, and a daughter, Miss Helen Schooley. Interment was made in the Oakland cemetery.

Last Friday the annual picnic of St. Mark's Lutheran Sunday school was held on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Bittinger, a mile or two out of Oakland on the Military Road. Here the members of the school ranging in age from two to more than 80 enjoyed the day and the dinner, the games and other entertainment provided for them immensely. There were approximately a hundred and twenty-five present.

Mr. Frank McRobie, of Altamont, one of the very few Garrett county Civil War veterans still living, was in town on business Tuesday. Those of the Oakland people who are advancing in years well remember when a very large number of veterans of both the North and South lived here and participated in affairs of a military nature. Now there are probably less than twenty soldiers of the Civil War surviving who are residents of the county notwithstanding the fact that at the outbreak of hostilities between the North and South Garrett county sent hundreds of men to the front.

Potter, Merchantville, N. J.; Mrs. Samuel Welch, Akron, O., Edward Chance, Clarksburg, W. Va.; Mrs. B. F. Selby, Oakland; Carlton Chance, Mt. Lake Park.

Saw Mill Burned Thursday

A steam saw mill located in the Ryan's Glade section of Garrett county, which was owned and operated by Messrs. H. V. Leighton & Son, of Mountain Lake Park, was completely destroyed by fire last Thursday afternoon. In addition to the destruction of the mill some lumber was also burned.

Crellin Team Victor Over Morgantown Team.

Crellin A. Ci nine defeated Pepsi-Cola nine of Morgantown, W. Va., on Sunday afternoon at Crellin by a score of 4-3. Don Colaw was on the mound for Crellin and limited the visitors to eight scattered hits, three of the eight hits being bunched in the first inning which produced two runs for the P-Colas. Colaw was in excellent form and retired 15 P-Cola batters by the strike-out route. Shorts pitched for the visitors and dealt up a good brand of ball, retiring seven by strike-outs. The game went into the ninth innings with the score tied 3-3, but the P-Colas could get na farther than second base when the third man went out. Crellin opened its half of the ninth with a smashing three-base hit by Berny Wilt, who was batting for Welch. Sanders followed Wilt to bat and slammed out a single into right field which scored Wilt to end the game. Chico, P-Cola's third sacker, led the Morgantown team at bat with two singles in gour times up.

Score by innings:

P-Cola	2 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0	3	8	1
Crellin	1 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 1	4	10	1

Batteries—P-Cola, Smith and Shorts; Crellin, Sereno and Colaw.

Dairy Improvement Association Has Inspector at Work

Members of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association in Garrett county are receiving the services of William F. DeBerry, inspector, one full day of each month, and at present, while the association is composed of only 10 members, Mr. DeBerry is devoting ten days per month to the work of building up the dairy herds of the county, according to John H. Carter, county agriculture agent.

The association expects to increase the number of its members to 26 within the near future, it was stated by the county agent, who in his column in this issue of The Republican points out the advantages to be derived in dairy farming from the association.

State 4-H Club Week Aug. 7-14.

The Garrett County 4-H girls attending Club Week include Mildred Stemple, of Oakland, who will have a special part in the week's program since Mildred was one of the two Maryland girls to attend National 4-H Camp in Washington, D. C. last June, and Ruth Ream and Dorothy Gibson, of Loch Lynn, who will represent Garrett county with a team demonstration.

At the 4-H County Rally held in Oakland last April six clubs participated in team demonstrations and of this group Loch Lynn placed first.

The group leaves Oakland Thursday at 9:45 a. m., and will return Tuesday, August 12, at 3:29 p. m.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

By SCOOP—HIMSELF

The prison gray paint which was just recently applied on The Republican office by Combs & West, partners in the art of building make-up, didn't have any effect in keeping Scoop in Oakland because here he is sitting on his bunk at scout camp with a sunburned back, and briar scratches all over his legs.

Thus far the ants have stayed out of the bed, and the flies out of the soup, but the hornets still remember me from last year.

Due to the long drought Scoop thought it was necessary to sacrifice the camp in order that all might have rain. No one ever went to camp without hitting a rainy period, and true to old custom, it happened. The scouts are now taking credit for breaking the dry spell.

Since Scoop is on his "vacation" there really shouldn't be anything in this column this week, but the boss editor insisted because he wanted his subscribers to be at least partially satisfied.

Archibaldson might add something to this before it gets in print, but I doubt it. He likes to keep his reputation.

Dairy Herd Improvement Association Essential for Results In Raising Dairy Calves

Invaluable to succcssful dairying is Bulletin 319, University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment station and farmer's bulletin No. 1604, U. S. Department of Agriculturc, Washington, D. C.

Dairy farming is one of thc leading agricultural industries of Maryland. Mllk probably will always bc the primary dairy product of the state because of the demand for fluid milk by the four comparatively near large cities, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

The averagc cow gives birth to her first calf at about two and one-half years of age and thereafter remains in the milking herd for approximately five years. In 1928 is was estimated that there were 187,000 dairy eows two years old and ovcr on farms in Maryland. On the basis that one-fifth of the dairy cows on the average will have to be replaced annually this means that 37,400 heifer calves must be raised each year simply to maintain the present number of dairy cows. In order to allow for probable deaths among the young stock, some increase in the size of the herd, and to permit careful selection, the dairyman finds it necessary yearly to keep approximately three heifer calves for each ten cows; for Maryland this means the raising of 56,100 heifer calves annually.

The high prices asked for cows, the difficulty of buying healthy cows at any price, the probability of introducing diseases into the herd and the fact that the experiences of many dairymen show that usually little or no improvement results from the practice of buying cows to maintain the herd, is tending to discourage this practice and to encourage the breeding and raising of the best heifer calves. The most practical way to improve the quality of dairy herd is to use only good purebred sires and to raise heifer calves from the best cows in such a way that they will be strong, healthy and vigorous at maturity.

The question is, How do you know the sire you are using is a good one, will his daughters have an increase milk production over their dams? The most satisfactory and economical way to determine the value of a herd sire is through a Dairy Imprvoement Association. By using the records of a Herd Improvement Association it is possible to select the best calves from the highest producing dams thereby increasing the value and the income from your herd.

A Dairy Herd Improvement association has been recently organized in Garrett county and is doing excellent work. Every dairyman is invited to make inquiry in regard to results obtained. The County Agent will be glad to discuss this work with you. Call 132-W or send a crad to the County Agent.

Card of Appreciation To Oakland Creamery Company

The members of the Garrett county Dairy Herd Improvement association wish to thank the Imperial Ice Cream company and the Oakland Creamery company for the splendid support and cooperation they have given in organizing a Dairy Herd Improvement association in Garrett county. They especially want to thank Mr. George D. Sprague, manager of the Oakland Creamery company, for lt was through his influence and interest in the advancement of dairying, the Imperial Ice Cream company furnished free all necessary equipment for the association.

Young Tender Beets

Small beets should be canned whole. In preparing leave on an inch of the stem and all of the tail while blanching. This is to prevent loss of color. Blanche in boiling water until skins losen, then cold dip. Slip skins. Pack into jars, add one tenspoon of salt to each quart, fill with boiling water, semi-seal, and process for 2 hours in water bath or 40 minutes in pressure cooker at 10 pounds.

Pickled Beets

Cook small beets until tender. Cold-dip and slip skins. Cover with spiced vinegar and simmer for 15 minutes. Seal in clean, hot jars. Golden wax beans, stems of Swiss chard, or small carrots may be pickled in the same way.

Beet Relish

One quart beets, diced, 2 red peppers, ½ cup grated horseradish ¾ cup sugar, 1 medium-sized white onion, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 cups vinegar.

Cook beets until tender, cold-dip, and slip skins. Cut or chop beets, onions and peppers. Combine ingredients and cook mixture until it is clear. Seal in clean, hot jars.

Apple Marmalade

Four lbs. peeled and cored apples, 4 lemons, grated rind and juice, 1 pt. water, 1 ounce dried ginger root, sliced; 4 lbs. sugar.

Chop the applcs, and mix with lcm- on rind and juice and ginger. Boil sugar and water in a saucepan for 2 minutes. Add apple mixture, and boil until thick and clear. Seal hot in sterilized jars.

Spiced Peach Jam

One cup peach juice, 2 lbs. sugar, 4 lbs. peaches (skins and pits removed) ½ stick cinnamon, 1 tablespoon whole cloves (level), 1 inch long piece ginger root, 1 teaspoon whole allspice (level).

Put peach juice in a preserving kettle. Add sugar and bring slowly to a boil. Chop the peaches fine and add them to the syrup, and add spices tied loosely in a cheesecloth bag. Boil rapidly until the mixture jellies. Remove spices, Seal in sterilized jars.

Fruit Butters

Any friut such as peaches, apples, plums or grapes, etc., or a combination of several fruits may be made into fruit butter. Wash and simmer the fruit, with a very little water, untll tender. PROCLAMATION

Proposing Amendments to the Constitution of the State, 1930.

WHEREAS, at the Janusry Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held ln the year 1929, two Acts were passed, to-wit: Chapter 133 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," to authorize deputies in the Treasury Department to sign checks and warrants; and Chapter 348, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 133.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," so as to confer upon tha Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants, and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the witndrawal of funds from the State Treasury under regulations prescribed by the Legislature; and providing for the submission of said amendment to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoptio nor rejectiojn.

Section 1. Ba it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all of the Members of both of the Houses concurring). That an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Treasury Department,"be and the same is hereby proposed, the said amendment, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become a part of said Constitution, and the said Sections as umended to read as follows:

2. The Comptroller shall have the general superintendence of the fiscal affairs of the State; he shall digest and prepare plans for the improvement and management of the revenue, and for the support of the public credit; prepare and report estimates of the revenua und expenditures of the State; superintend and enforce the prompt collection of all taxes and revenue; adjust and settle, on terms prescribed by law, with delinquent collectors and receivers of taxes and State revenue; preserve all public accounts; and decide on the forms of keeping and stating accounts. He, or such of his deputies as may be nuthorized to do so by the Legislature, shall grant, under regulations prescribed by law, all warrants for money to be paid out of tbe Treasury, in pursuance of appropriations by law, and countersign all checks drawn by the Treasurer upon any bank or banks in which the moneys of the State may from time to time be deposited. He shall prescribe the formalities of tha transfer of stock, or other evidence of the State debt, and countersign the same, without which such evidenca shall not be valid; he shall make to the General Assembly full reports of all his proceedings, and of the State of tbe Treasury Department within ten days after the commencement of each Session; and perform such other duties as shall be prescribed by law.

3. The Treasurer shall receive the moneys of the State, and, until otberwise prescribed by law, deposit them, as soon as received, to the credit of the State, in such bank or banks as he may, from time to time, with tbe approval of the Governor, select(the said bank or banks giving security, satisfactory to the Governor, for the safekeeping and forthcoming, when required of said deposits), and he or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall disburse the same for the purposes of the State according to law, upon warrants drawn by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and on checks countersigned by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and not otherwise. The Treasurer or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall take receipts for all moneys paid from the Treasury Department; and receipt for moneys received by him shall be endorsed upon warrants signed by the Comptroller, or such deputy as may be authorized to do so by law, without which warrants, so signed, no acknowledgment of money received into the Treasury shall be valid; and upon warrants issued by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, the Treasurer shall make arrangements for the payment of the interest of the public debt, and for the purchase thereof, on account of the sinking fund. Every bond, certificate, or other evidence of the debt of the State shall be signed by the Treasurer, and countersigned by the Comptroller; and no new certificate or other evidence intended to replace another shall be issued until the old one shall be delivered to the Treasurer, and authority executed in due form for the transfer of tha same filed in his office, and the transfer accordingly made on the books thereof, and the certificate or other evidence cancelled; but the Legislature may make provisions for the loss of certificates or other evidences of the debt; and may prescribe, by law, the manner in which the Treasurer shall receive and keep the moneys of the State.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the nuthority aforesaid, That the aforegoing sections as amended, shall be, at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, nineteen hundred and thirty, submitted to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State, and at said general election the vote on tha proposed amendment to the Constitution sball be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the following synopsis of said amendment, under the caption of:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT AMENDING SECTIONS 2 AND 3 OF ARTICLE VI."

"This amendment confers upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury of the State under regulations prescribed by the Legislature."

Approved: April 2, 1929.

CHAPTER 348

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Legislative Department," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of fifteen dollars per diem for every day he shall attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of ten dollars per day. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election for Members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against the said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: April 11, 1929.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ALBERT C. RITCHIE, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of tha Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that this proclamation containing full, true and correct copies of the text of said Chapters 133 and 348 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1929, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months next preceding the general election to be held in the State of Maryland on Tuesday, the 4th day of November, 1930, at which election the said proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be submitted in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of tha State for their adoption or rejection.

Tree Contest for Finding Large Trees Is Being Conducted

The State Department of Forestry has sent out a last call to its six hundred field men, including the District Foresters and Forest Wardens thruout the State, to scout their sections for big trees in the state-wide tree contest started a few years ago by the Maryland Forestry Association, and which is still open. The object of the contest and the purpose of the search is to discover, measure, and photograph the biggest of each growing within the State, then, as a permanent record, a description of the largest tree of each kind, with a picture, if possible, will be published in a book that is now being prepared by the Forestry Department on the noted trees of Maryland.

Anyone who has a very large tree of its kind, whether native of foreign species, should send in the measurements to the Forestry Department, Baltimore, so as to get it in the record. Three measurements are required:

1.—The circumference, in feet and inches, around the trunk of the tree at a point 4½ feet above the ground.

2.—The greatest diameter of the spread of the crown in feet.

3.—The height of the tree in feet.

It should be noted that the biggest trees of the species that ordinarily do not reach large size rate just as high as the big trees of the big species. Take, for example, the boxwood which ordinarily is a bush,—one was found in the vicinity of Vinton, Somerset county, that measured 3 feet 8 inches in circumference at 4½ feet from the ground, and had a spread of crown of 19 feet, and measured 28 feet in helght. Likewise the alder, which is generally a bush growing in swampy places, was found of tree size near Oakland, measuring 11 inches in circumference at 4½ feet, 8 feet spread of crown, and 21 feet in height. Also the holly, which ordinarily does not reach tree size, was found, in the case of a tree near Easton, to have attained the enormous size of 7 feet, ten inches in circumference at 4½ feet, with a spread of 42 feet, and a height of 53 feet.

Maryland is noted for its big trees and those already mentioned make a large and distinguished collection of something over 600 trees, comprising 110 species, but there are many more to be heard from.

The Forestry Department, in publishing the list, wants, as far as possible, to have recorded the biggest tree of its kind in each class, so that honor will be placed where it belongs.

In order to make this possible, everyone who knows about the biggest "big species" or the biggest "little species" should send in the records. The representatives of the Forestry Department will make official measurements and photographs wherever practicable. The closing date of the contest is January 1, 1931, and each person who reports what proves to be the biggest trees of its kind will be rewarded with a handsomely engraved certificate.

So far records from Garrett county are eleven big trees of ten different species. There must be many more trees of large size for their species.

The official cards for recording large tree measurements will be sent upon request to the State Department of Forestry, 1411 Fidelity Building, Baltimore.

In Michigan, the cherry crop this year is the largest in its history, being valued at more than 2 million dollars.

In Baltimore, last Saturday afternoon, surrounded by guards armed with sawed-off shot guns, side arms and tear gas bombs, 25 million dollars was removed from one bank to another across the street. The removal of this fortune was viewed by a great crowd of the curious, but no automobiles were allowed to park within a block of the spot.

MOODY BIBLE INSTITUTE RETURNS TO MT. LAKE

Interdenominational Conference Will Extend to 24th Inst. With Many Noted Speakers Present

The Interdenominational Bible Conference, under the auspices of the Moody Bible Institute Extension Department of Chicago, is being held at Mountain Lake Park, from August 9th to the 24th. This Bible Conference is being held again at Mountain Lake Park after a period of eight years' recess there, and many noted teachers will give addresses.

During the first week of the conference Mr. A. H. Stewart and Rev. C. E. Wakefield will be the principal speakers. Mr. A. H. Stewart, a Canadian contribution to the Conference movement, is devout in spirit, and gifted with knowledge and experience that assure the value of his message. Mr. Stewart will be a daily speaker from August 10-16, at 11:00 a. m. Rev. C. E. Wakefield, D. D., of Toledo, Ohio, Bible teacher, is a former executive secretary in the Methodist Episcopal communion. Rev. Wakefield for some years has been engaged in Bible teaching in Conferences and training schools. He will discuss "Great Themes of the Fourth Gospel" at 10 o'clock each morning during the first week of the Bible Conference.

Rev. Robert E. Fritsch, D. D., teacher of Bible at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., is a man of culture and scholarship. He will speak daily from August 17-24.

Rev. Henry Ostrom, D. D., of Greencastle, Ind., will be a speaker during the closing days of the conference. Rev. Ostrom is today rated one of the most constructive expository preachers in America.

Rev. James F. Harrison, young people's specialist, of the Extension staff of the Moody Bible Institute, will hold daily meetings for boys and girls during the conference at 7:00 p. m.

Mr. Raymond O. Nelson, of Jamestown, N. Y., will be the song leader. His fine baritone voice is the channel for his effective interpretation of gospel songs.

A Redeemed Prisoner

Vincent J. Steffan, Field Secretary of the Steffan Prison Association and prison missionary, will also be a speaker at the Bible Conference, Thursday and Friday evenings, August 21 and 22. The mingling of Mr. Steffan's message on the redemption of criminals with the scripture exposition and teaching that dominate the Bible conference will lend a fine variety and add a chapter on applied Christianity that the audience may well afford to hear. They will find how a little Hungarian-born lad, caught in the whirlpool of sin's Niagara, was permitted to know the meaning of salvation and the privilege of throwing out the life-line to others in like distress.

Mr. Steffan receives an enthusiastic hearing from young people when he gives practical talks on how to avoid the pit-falls of life and some observations of law enforcement. The gist of his message on how to bring young people to useful citizenship is "Teach them there is a God, teach them to read the Bible, and teach them to be Christians. This will solve the crime problem."

The program is as follows: 9:30 a. m., Devotional service; 10:00 a. m., Scripture exposition; 11:00 a. m., inspirational address; and 7:30 p. m., song service, Bible address.

Rotarians To "Attend International Convention" Friday

At the regular weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary Club to be held at the William-James hotel on Friday, plans are being made to show a one reel of the International Rotary Convention held at Chicago during July. Delegates from all the foreign countries as well as from all over the United States were present as this convention. This film that is to be shown depicts all that went on during the convention and was made for the purpose of giving all the Rotary members an idea of what the convention was like, according to Delbert Davis, member of the Board of Directors.

If proper arrangements cannot be made for showing this reel at the William-James, the members will go to the Maryland theatre where it will be shown after the dinner at the hotel.

Bishop Warne To Preach In St. Paul's M. E. Church Sunday

Bishop W. F. Warne, of the Methodist Episcopal church, who has been delivering a series of lectures at the Pittsburgh Area Summer School of Theology held at Mountain Lake Park, has remained over for a few days and will occupy the pulpit at St. Paul's church on Sunday morning. Bishop Warne has had a wide experience, having traveled extensively, and will bring a stirring message to the local congregation. Oakland people are fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing him. The public in general is invited.

GOVERNMENT FISH EXPERTS ANALYZE DEEP CREEK LAKE

Will Submit Report of Findings to United States Bureau of Fisheries Immediately

Mr. H. L. James, a representative of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, Washington, D. C., was in Garrett county last Thursday for the purpose of deciding what can be done to improve the fish prospect at Deep Creek Lake. He was accompanied here by Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, Mr. Swepson Earle, Conservation Commissioner of Marlyand, and Mr. Albert Powell, in charge of the fish hatcheries at Accident and Cumberland, Maryland. Accompanied by Dr. Webster Ravenscroft and Mr. Raymond Houck, the party spent some time on Deep Creek Lake catching many specimens of the goggle-eyed tench and examining them. Mr. James stated that he would submit his report to the department and would let the authorities know in the near future the best course to follow. There are three fish that are best suited to rid Deep Creek Lake of these tench, according to Mr. James, and these are: the small mouthed bass, the large mouthed bass, and the pike. Of these the small mouthed bass is considered the most favorable. Whatever fish are placed in the lake, these must be of adult size and they must be placed there in large quantities. According to Mr. James, the government will supply the fish and the state must pay the cost of transportation.

The party then had lunch at Rainbow Inn, where the complete situation was discussed. Mr. James said that the fish in Deep Creek Lake would be larger if they had the proper food, but due to the recent construction of the lake, the proper vegetation has not had time to form.

W. B. BURRUSS TO SPEAK SUNDAY ON LOCAL TOPIC

To Discuss "What Is the Matter With Oakland" at 11 O'Clock

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, W. B. Burruss, nationally known speaker and sales counsellor, will speak in the Garrett Memorial Presbyterian church on the subject, "What is the Matter with Oakland," a topic of vital interest to every citizen of the town. The Oakland Rotary Club has been invited to attend this meeting in a body.

Last Sunday, Mr. Burruss, in his brilliant, pungent, and witty style, delivered an address to a large and appreciative audience at the Presbyterian church on the subject, "One Man Told Another." Taking his text from the first chapter of the Gospel of John, "Andrew told Peter, Philip told Nathaniel," Mr. Burruss pointed out that Christianity began and has continued its world-conquering spread through personal contacts, one man telling another the good news of the Saviour of mankind.

Exactly so, the speaker continued, every movement for community welfare makes its progress—one man telling another the word of faith, of confidence, of good will.

Unfortunately it is also equally true that evil influences spread in precisely the same manner—by personal contact, one man telling another the word of doubt, of distruct, of ill will. Thus the scandal-monger carries on his whispering campaign of destruction. Thus the character-assassin stabs in the dark with poisoned words. Thus the foundation of the community and the nation are undermined by this subtle errosion of confidence.

Miss Isabel Hamill will entertain the Thursday Night Bridge club at her home this evening.

LEGION FORMS DRUM CORPS COMPOSED OF 30 MEMBERS

Neil C. Fraley Made Business Manager—Instruments To Be Ordered Immediately

With a large membership present at a special meeting of Proctor Kildow Post, No. 71, American Legion, Monday evening, a bugle and drum corps of thirty members was perfected and the instruments to equip the new organization will be ordered in the next day or two by the committee in charge of the corps, it was stated this morning.

According to the committee having in charge the organization as the membership in the corps now stands there will be two bass drummers, one Scotch drummer, cymbal player, 12 snare and tenor drummers and 14 buglers.

Officers were named at the meeting of the corps when Neil C. Fraley was made business manager and Hugh Teets was selected as leader of the buglers. According to the committee a leader for the drummers as well as for the buglers will be selected from within the corps to assist in training the members in handling the different instruments.

Other ex-service men who are eligible for membership in the drum and bugle corps and who have not signified their intention of joining are requested to notify either Mr. Fraley, manager, or a member of the committee immediately so that sufficient instruments may be purchased at one time.

The thirty members who have joined the corps are Ernest C. Liller, chairman of the committee; W. H. Teets, F. M. Lyon, members of the organization committee; Neil Fraley, manager; Julius Littman, James Fazzalari, H. E. Renn, Edward Kahl, C. C. Reckard, A. G. Hesen, Robert Helbig, Donald R. Sincell, Walter Janoske, Harry Friend, Harold Dawson, Irvin R. Rudy, Richard Maroney, O. Milton Sincell, E. F. Nine, R. J. Gaither, W. H. Lower, Edward Lawrence, O. Halsey, Joseph M. Gonder, Francis Gower, Frank Pifer, Joseph Ferguson, Earl Selders, Theodore Shaffer and Townshend Naylor.

Civil War Veteran Dies

Mr. David W. Durst, aged 83, after a lingering illness of more than eight months, died at his home on Oak street at 4:30 o'clock this morning. The deceased was born in New Germany, this county, and moved to Oakland 41 years ago where he continuously resided since that time.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Earl, of Oakland, and Lloyd, of Wheeling, W. Va. A sister, Mrs. Jane Durst, New Germany, also survive.

No funeral arrangements have as yet been made.

WOMAN SWIMMER WILL TRY 13-MILE SWIM IN LAKE

Young Frostburg Girl Will Enter Water at Two o'Clock On Sunday Afternoon.

A long-distance swimmer will endeavor to swim the length of Deep Creek Lake on Sunday and will begin her fete at two o'clock in the afternoon, according to Walter W. Wittig, of Frostburg and Deep Creek Lake.

Mr. Wittig, in making the announcement concerning the event, stated to The Republican that Miss Regina Housare, 19 years of age, of Frostburg, had been in training a great part of the summer and feels that she is now in condition to make the gap of thirteen miles between the wall of the dam to the most distant point up the lake, which is near North Glade, during an afternoon and early evening swim. Mr. Wittig said that Miss Housare is a strong, healthy young woman and is a swimmer of note in Allegany county.

The event is being extensively advertised in Allegany county and many persons from Frostburg, Cumberland and other towns in that section are expected to visit Deep Creek Lake on that day and witness the attempt to swim the lake. The swimmer will leave the shore that may prove the most advantageous in relation to the wind on the lake that day, and will wear a specially construeted bathing suit for the occasion.

MOTHER AND FOUR KIDDIES FLEE FROM BURNING HOME

Strangling of Children Causes Tourists to Notice Fire

Mrs. W. L. Thomas and four children barely escaped from the fire which destroyed their home, situated about two miles from Oakland on the Oakland-Accident road near Brant schoolhouse, at 2:00 a. m., Friday. Tourists, who were fixing a tire nearby, were attracted by the sound of children strangling and upon investigating found the house in flames. Mrs. Thomas had just time to pass the children out to the tourists and get out herself before the house caved in. Mr. Thomas was in Fairmont, W. Va., at the time, and was not aware of the fire until he returned home Friday evening.

Only a very few pieces of furniture was saved. The house was partly covered by insurance. The people of Oakland and the surrounding community responded very liberaly by donating clothing and household furniture, and by Friday evening the Thomas's were very comfortably settled in the Brant schoolhouse.

Bed and Banks of Creek Being Cleaned and Limed

Using all precaution to keep Oakland in a healthy condition during this unusually dry season, the Mayor and Council ordered the Wilson creek bed cleaned and limed, which work is now being done by a corps of men.

All little pools along the creek bed are being drained and the entire bed and banks along the stream are being limed. The work is being carried on from the mouth of the stream near the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks at the Oakland station toward the source of the stream northeast of the Oakland Creamery company.

LOSS TO AGRICULTURE IS HEAVY BECAUSE OF FROSTS

Temperature of 30 Degrees On Tuesday Morning, Following Drought Ruins Growing Crops

SHOWERS THIS MORNING

Following a drought of approximately two months, heavy frosts Tuesday morning with the Government weather bureau at Weber, a mile from Oakland, reporting the mercury at 30 degrees, and yesterady morning a slightly higher temperature, all but ruined the farm and gardens in this area, entailing a loss incalculable, especially to the corn and buckwheat crops.

Corn, at its best this season, would have probably made a half crop, with buckwheat showing a little better until the freeze of Tuesday when both crops were entirely destroyed. The early buckwheat, however, did not mature owing to the excsive hot and dry weather, but the later crop of this staple would have yielded some returns.

While some parts of the county escaped the freeze, especially fields located away from the glades, the loss is severely felt by the farmers. Gardens, of course, suffered the same effects. Potatoes are reported to be les than half a crop owing to the dry weather, and it is probable that the frost did not injure this crop materially.

This morning at five o'clock rain came and for several hours heavy showers prevailed.

To Arrange For Parade For K. of P. Picnic

A. R. Martin, Dr. H. W. McComas, and Guy O. Yutzy were appointed as members of the committee in charge of the parade, to be held in the morning of the Labor Day celebration, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias lodge. The appointment was made at the last meeting of the members in charge of the picnic, held last Friday evening.

The committee is arranging for a number of floats, trades display, etc., for the parade, and is asking that organizations of the town take part.

A. G. Gortner, Edward P. Kahl, and Olin Hardesty were in Pittsburgh yesterday purchasing novelties for the concessions.

Mr. Nathan R. Selby Enters Senatorial Race In Garrett County

Mr. Nathan R. Selby, of Selbysport, announces his candidacy in The Republican today as an aspirant for the State Senate. Mr. Selby states in his card to the voters of the county that he is a candidate following the insistent demands of his friends.

He was a member of the House of Delegates a number of years ago, later becoming a candidate for the Senate, but was defeated for the nomination at the primary election. He later again became a candidate and was again defeated for the nomination.

Mr. Selby is a farmer and dealer in lumber and mine material in Selbysport where he has been successful in his business relations for a number of years.

S. F. Cuppett, Former Judge of Orphans' Court, Seeks Renomination.

Mr. S. F. Cuppett, of Friendsville, who served several years as a member of the Orphans' Court, announces his candidacy for nomination on the Republican ticket in todays' issue of The Republican. After serving a term as judge, Mr. Cuppett retired. During his incumbency as an officer he was conscientious and extremely careful in the discharge of his duty as such.

FIREMEN TO GET TWO NEW LAFRANCE FIRE TRUCKS

Buys One New Pumper, While Company Will Replace Year-old Truck With a New One

The purchasing committee of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department has just closed a contract for a newer and more modern engine pumper of the American-LaFrance Company, 750 gallon capacity type, and a No. 99 truck to take the place of the Dodge chemical truck now being used. These two fire trucks are expected to arrive within the near future according to George Kerins, chief. The Oakland department is now in the process of selling the old Dodge truck, and several offers have already been received.

As was stated in an earlier issue of The Republican, the American-LaFranee fire engine, which was purchased last year at a cost of $12,000, has never performed to the satisfaction of members of the fire department, as the claim was made that the machine in not a modernly constructed one. In view of these exicting conditions, the LaFrance Company offered to replace the truck with an exact duplicate in a later model with all modern improvements, if the Oakland company would purchase a No. 99, 500 gallon capacity pumper truck at a cost of $5500, to replace the Dodge Chemical truck. This is what the members of the local fire department have just suceeeded in bringing to a reality, the order for these trucks going in to the American LaFrance Company Tuesday morning. The purchasing committee of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department includes all the officers of the organization: George Kerins, Fred Peddicord, A. G. Gortner, Emroy Bolden, Grover Stemple, Milton Sincell, W. W. Dawson, and Leo Helbig.

To Attend Terra Alta Homecoming

All the members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department with the fire truck will be in the parade at Terra Alta on Saturday, August 16, at 2:00 p. m., during the Homecoming celebration. The Oakland Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band will also be present.

SCOUT TROOP TO BREAK CAMP MONDAY MORNING

Large Number of Tests Being Passed—Signaling Is Stressed

The Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts will break camp on Monday morning and return to their homes after two weeks at their permanent quarters on Deep Creek Lake, nine miles north of Oakland, where they have been enjoying real scouting opportunities, studying scouting, and getting plenty of work, rest, swimming and recreation.

During the camp thus far over forty-five tests have been passed and preparations made for examination in a large number of merit badges. Five scouts, Carroll Casteel, Kenneth Lawton, Fred Peddicord, Robert Utterback, and George Stuck, have become Second Class during their outing and a number of others are nearing the First class rank. They will be given their official rank on Saturday evening at a special troop ceremony.

During the past ten days special stress has been laid on the tests in signaling, and practically all of the scouts have passed their requirements. James Lee, Kenneth Stahl, Leonard Murphy, Harley Dawson, and Elvin Iman have all been instructing in this work.

Those who have passed tests include George Browning, Carroll Casteel, Walter Dawson, Gerald Iman, Lewis Jones, Kenneth Lawton, George Kerins, Robert Leary, Roger Maroney, John McIntire, Fred Peddicord, Leroy Stewart, George Stuck, Eugene Showe, Robert Utterback, David Walter, Howard Naylor and Gene Nordeck, and the tests passed include tracking, compass, firebuilding, judging, cooking, nature, tree felling, signaling, first aid, safety, swimming, and thrift.

The troop is indebted to Mr. Henry Lauer for ice cream on Sunday, to Mr. George D. Sprague for iee cream on Wednesday afternoon. The troop also wishes to thank Rev. B. T. Trevey for coming to camp last Sunday evening for a religious service.

Stuart Hamill has passed his requirements for Life Saving.

NEW YORK WOMAN IS TOLD OAKLAND IS "UNUSUAL AND CHARMING"; SHE IS HAPPY SHE CAME FOR VACATION

That Oakland is really known for its climate, its delightful situation upon the top of the Allegheny Mountains and its natural beauties is pointed out in the following article written for The Republican by Miss Ella H. Bryan, of New York City, who is a guest at the William-James Hotel.

Miss Bryan first learned of Oakland's beauty through a ticket agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company at an office of the company on the corner of 42nd and Lexington streets in New York City after she had informed him that she wished to spend a vacation of several weeks in a small city, "unusual, charming and with high altitude." Miss Bryan's story is self-explanatory and is as follows:

"I came to Oakland first through the courtesy of an official in the New York City B. & O. office on 42nd and Lexington, who helped me to locate the kind of mountain town I was seeking. I wanted something unusual, charming, with high altitude. Oakland seemed to be all of this. I sent for the Oakland papers, The Republican and the Democrat. Reading in The Republican an interesting letter by Miss Mildred Stemple, of Oakland, I wrote to her and her reply with its fine description of Oakland decided my coming here.

"I have found Oakland and its people all I could wish. The town itself has a striking and unforgettable personality born of its permanent American population. Most of my time during the last ten years has been spent in New York City, but there you miss the sense of permanence Oakland has, for the great city has an unreality about it due to its incessant changes. Here values are stable. New York City has been very lovely to me and I have an affection for it, but a writer ought to come to a place like Oakland each summer, away from the cruel heat of the big town. My work is published under pen names. Under the name Clinton Dangerfield, I have just had a novel published 'Blair of the Bar X L'—a love and adventure story of the west, and in DeBlanche Colton Williams recent book collection of short stories, 'New Narratives,' one of my short stories, 'Lady New Luck,' by Clinton Dangerfield, is given a place. People seem to love the little freckle-faced boy in 'Lady New Luck.' She by the way was a racing mare. I love the boy myself because all my characters are dream people. I never write about people in real life, because that's another world. Besides we can never understand our friends and acquaintances as we can comprehend our day-dream folk. Of course all of us have day dreams. If indulged in too much it makes you absent-minded and for this reason I have had numerous escapes from the New York traffic.

"Its difficult to remember that there on the streets one is in danger every second from the huge, almost unmanageable flow of cars. The famous explorer, Mr. Beebe, who writes so exquisitely of the jungle, is reported to consider New York City traffic more perilous than the wilds of Papua.

"So Oakland with its safety and beauty is a darn good place for day dreaming, and I hope to send other writers here."

Lesson for August 17

SAUL, A MAN OF GREAT POSSIBILITIES WHO FAILED

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 9:15-17, 25-27; 10:1; 15:9-11; 31:1-4.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore let him that thinketh he etandeth take heed lest he fall.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A King That Disobeyed.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A King Who Failed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Avoid Failure.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Profit from Failure.

The sad failure of Saul should be a warning to every young man. Few men in history had greater advantages.

I. Saul's Advantages.

1. A worthy inheritance (9:1).

His father was "a mighty man of power." One's inheritance is a strong factor in determining his success or failure in life.

2. His natural gifts (9:2).

He was a "choice young man."

(1) He was humble (10:22).

When facing the responsibility of national leadership, he hid himself.

(2) He was considerate of his father (9:5).

Not being successful in the mission committed unto him by his father and thinking that his father would be concerned about him, he proposed to go back.

(3) The grace of God was upon him (10:5-7).

God visited him with his grace to enable him to see the divine choice.

(4) The Holy Spirit came upon him (10:10).

Acceptable service can be rendered only in the energy of the Holy Spirit.

(5) He was zealous for God (11:4-15).

As the leader of his people, he performed service because of his zeal for God.

3. The friendship of Samuel (15:35).

So strong was Samuel's attachment for Saul that he greatly mourned his death.

II. Saul Made King (1 Sam. 8-10).

1. The demand of the people (8:1-22).

The reason for this demand was threefold:

(1) Samuel was incapacitated by old age (v. 5).

(2) His sons were unfaithful (v. 5).

Samuel, though a good man, greatly blundered in the appointment of his sons as judges of Israel.

(3) Desire to be like other nations (v. 5).

The surrounding nations had strong leaders as rulers. Therefore, it was but natural that the Israelites should desire such leadership. Samuel protested against their action and took the matter to the Lord in prayer. The Lord directed him to point out to the people the meaning of their action.

2. Saul chosen to be king (9:1-11).

While Saul was on an errand for his father Samuel found him and anointed him. (1 Sam. 10:1-16). In due time the divine choice was confirmed by the people at Mizpeh.

3. Saul displays leadership (1 Sam. 11).

He displayed his military genius in effecting a great victory at Jabez over the Ammonites.

III. Saul's Failure (ch. 15).

1. The command to Saul (vv. 1-3).

He was commanded utterly to destroy the Amalekites. The reason assigned was their evil treatment of Israel after they came out of Egypt. (Ex. 17:8; Deut. 25:17).

2. Saul's disobedience (vv. 4-9).

The command was only partially carried out. Agag, the king, was spared and the best of the goods appropriated.

3. Saul rejected by God (vv. 10-25).

(1) Samuel cried to God (v, 11).

The news of this disgraceful affair greatly disturbed Samuel, moving him to pray to God day and night.

(2) Saul's hypocritical pretense (vv. 13, 16).

This pretense carried a lie upon its face.

(3) Samuel rehearses before Saul God's dealing with him (vv. 17-23).

God is more concerned with having his commands obeyed than he is to have sacrifices offered unto him.

IV. The Divine Judgment Falls (15:26-35).

1. The loss of his kingdom.

For the presumptuous offering of sacrifice the dynasty passed from Saul's house.

2. Under control of the evil spirit (16:9-11).

When allegiance to God is refused Satan takes control.

3. His shameful death (31:1-4).

Samuel forsook him, leaving him alone to suffer in disgrace.

What Mortal Man Can Do

But what can mortal man do to secure his own salvation? Mortal man can do just what God bids him do. He can repent and believe. He can arise and follow Christ as Matthew did.—W. Gladden.

The Star

Like the star that shines afar, without haste, and without rest, let each man wheel with steady sway round the tasks that rule the day and do his best.—Goethe.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL SCHOOL OF MISSIONS

By ALICE PARKER HALL.

The dominant note sounded by all of the speakers and instructors appearing on the program of the Interdenominational School of Missions, which was held at Mountain Lake Park the past week, was the need of a new awakening of the Spirit in the hearts and minds of the Christian people of America, so that they may feel more keenly their responsibility in the great work of evangelizing the nations of the earth who are looking to them to carry the gospel message to those who have not heard.

Under the devoted and inspiring leadership of Mrs. F. I. Johnson, president of the Federation of Woman's Boards of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, who has served for the third year as program chairman and leader of methods for the school, it seemed to have taken on new life, and many who have been attending for years declared that the program in its entirety was one of the strongest and most helpful that has been presented in many seasons.

The speakers and the instructors brought stirring and virile messages that aroused in their hearers a new zeal for service and a greater desire to be more worthy followers of the Christ whose cause they represent.

The intense heat had very little effect on the attendance of the school by those who registered for the week, for they were apparently so eager to profit by the feast of good things prepared for them that they went early and remained throughout most of the periods.

Quite a number who lived some distance from the Park drove to the school each morning and returned to their homes after the night sessions.

The Setting For The School

A beautiful and appropriate background for the school, which was held in the auditorium, was provided by Mrs. E. L. Davidson, a summer resident of the Park, and a sister of Dr. F. I. Johnson. With the assistance of some guests in her home the front of the auditorium was transformed into a bower of beauty by the lavish use of pine tree branches, shrubery and garden flowers, and a missionary atmosphere was developed by the use of large photographs of native leaders in foreign fields, posters, maps and various visualized helps that were introduced daily by the leaders of methods.

Directly over the platform was suspended a beautiful satin banner on which was the inscription, "The World for Christ," which had been presented by Dr. C. W. Baldwin, in memory of his wife, who had been active in missionary work in the M. E. church, and hung from the ceiling were one large and two small paper lanterns in gold, rose and blue, on two sides of which were crosses which were reflected when the lights were on.

Mission Study Classes

A regular and important feature of the program of the school for each year is the instruction given by expert teachers on the mission text books that are to be used during the coming year by the various denominations represented in the school. This year the Home Mission books for adults were "Trailing the Conquistadores," by Samuel G. Inman, and the study book for seniors was "Between the Americas," by J. S. Stowell. They were both taugh by Mrs. Dan Brummitt, chairman of the Jubilee Committee of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"A Cloud of Witnesses," by Elsie Singmaster, and "India on the March," by Alden H. Clark, were the text books for the adult and senior missionary societies, and these were reviewed by Mrs. W. T. Elmore, who served for many years as a missionary in India.

Mrs. C. K. Lippard, General Light Brigade Superintendent of the United Lutheran Church in America, conducted study classes for leaders of juniors. The study for the Home Society was "Sugar is Sweet," by Dorothy McConnell, and for the Foreign, "The Traesure Hunt", by Mrs. Margaret Seebach.

Methods.

The Methods period, conducted by Mrs. Lippard and Mrs. Johnson, were of unusual interest and offered many helpful ideas for the presentation of the text books in local missionary societies.

Suggestions for devotional periods were given in a series of talks and forums led by Mrs. C. Richard Hall, State Corresponding Secretary and director of publicity of the West Virginia W. C. T. U., in which the importance of building missionary programs on a spiritual foundation was stressed.

The Art of Story Telling

A feature of the program which had a strong appeal, particularly for the young people of Camp Gleam, was the story-telling periods conducted by Mrs. Maud F. Roby, director of religious education in Washington. In addition to outlining the art of story telling, Mrs. Roby gave beautiful examples of the art in the form of stories that were especially suited to the religious and missionary training of youth.

Demonstrations and Bible Talks

Attractive and impressive demonstrations that might be used with good results by local mission circles were given under the direction of Miss Charlotte Anderson, who had charge of this particular phase of the work.

The morning Bible talks by Doctor Oscar T. Olson were of real practical value in helping to show how the truths it reveals may be applied to everyday life and in turn through God's followers reflect His goodness to those with whom they come in contact.

Deeply spiritual were the afternoon talks given by Bishop W. T. Warren, who from his many years of service as a missionary to India, brought from his full experiences many incidents of answered prayer and the redeeming power of God that carried with them renewed faith and strength to his attentive audiences.

Prominent Speakers.

The night sessions were rich in the vital and soul-stirring messages that were delivered by men and women who lived and worked in home or foreign mission fields and saw the results of the gospel message in the lives of those whom they served, and who know the needs and worth of missionary effort. Among those who appeared on the evening programs were:

Miss Helen Brinkman, director of religious education for the Indian schools; Miss Esperanza Abellera, leader of youth in the Philippines, now attending Columbia University; Dr. W. M. Danner, general secretary of American Missions for Lepers; Mrs. C. K. Lippard, former missionary to Japan; Mrs. Brummitt, Mrs. Johnson, and Dr. F. I. Johnson, business manager of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal church.

At the close of each address an open forum was held in which the speakers answered questions asked by those in the audience.

Camp Gleam.

The girls from Camp Gleam composed the choir for each evening service, and the music for all sessions was directed by Mrs. W. E. Beall, of Laurel, Md., and Mrs. E. W. Yates, of Cumberland, Md., was the piano accompanist. Mrs. Johnson presided at all meetings.

Camp Gleam, which provided such a delightful home for the girls, was in charge of Miss Anna F. Shaw, an experienced camp leader, of Round Bay, Md., and her assistants were Miss Sarah Evans and Miss Katherine Jones, of Fairmont, W. Va., who have been regular members of the camp for the past several years.

While the camp is conducted in connection with the school, and the girls assisted in every way possible in making the school a success, they had their own classes and discussion groups at camp which were adapted to their own ages and needs. They also had recreational periods that provided happy social times during their stay at the Park and friendships were formed that were wholesome and may prove to be of lasting duration.

The theme of the camp this year was "Christ in Every Life," and the camp song each year is "Follow the Gleam."

Many girls, through the years that the camp has been in existence, have caught their first vision of service to God and others during their stay at Camp Gleam, and have given their lives to definite Christian work because of the impressions received while there.

Filling A Need

While the purpose of the school and camp is achieved through the programs that are so carefully and prayerfully planned and executed, back of them all must be the consideration of and arranging for the ways and means whereby they may be furnished and the working out of the many details that must be attended to during the course of the year to make the school possible. For all these credit is due Mrs. B. H. Sincell, of Oakland, Md., who is general chairman, and Mrs. J. L. Stratton, treasurer, of New Castle, Pa., both of whom have served as officers of the school over a long period of years, and through whose tireless efforts the school has been continued from year to year, and at times in the face of difficulties and discouragements.

The registrar for this year was Mrs. A. A. Richards, of Mountain Lake Park, and the literature room was in charge of Miss Della Sherman, of Baltimore, who had as her assistant Mrs. G. E. Hoffman, of Fairmont, W. Va. Miss Sherman has served long and faithfully in the capacity of literature secretary.

The need of the Mountain Lake Park Interdenominational School of Missions and the benefits to be derived from attending it have become established facts and the leaders in charge of the movement feel that the prospects for future growth and development are brighter today than ever before.

Banquet and Pageant

The closing of the school for this year was marked by two events of more than passing interest, when the girls of Camp Gleam tendered a banquet to the instructors and workers of the school, with Miss Anna Shaw, assisted by Miss Evnas, as hostesses, in charge, where a feast of good things, prepared by Miss Hicks, in charge of the Deaconess Home, was served in the large dining hall of the camp, and the presentation of a pageant by the Women's Missionary Society of St. Paul's church of Oakland, at the auditorium.

At the camp a gorgeous rainbow formed at one end of the dining hall and from it ribbons of purple and yellow, the camp colors, met at the center and branched out to the corners with the subject to be talked upon by the various speakers of the evening: "Sunshine," by Mrs. Johnson; "Shadows," by Mrs. Dan Brummitt; Miss Roby gave one of her readings and Miss Shaw opened the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, which disiosed the honor roll of the girls in camp, from which all could feel that the Christ spirit had been influencing the girls to a higher and better plane of living.

Following the banquet all went to the auditorium where Dr. Johnson delivered a splendid lecture and then the school closed with a very wonderful pageant presented by the Oakland Methodist Missionary Society, which was deemed the best ever given here. Words of praise were expressed by everyone, as it was a beautiful closing for the most successful school of missions ever held at the Park.

This report cannot be closed until mention is made of the delightful singing of Miss Bess Hinebaugh, of Oakland and Pittsburgh, who appeared on the platform Thursday night and rendered vocal solos to the delight of the audience.

CHILD WELFARE CLINICS TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

Will be Under the Direction of State Health Department

Toxin anti-toxin and child welfare clinics will be held on Wednesday afternoon, August 20, at 2:00 o'clock at the office of the county nurse in the Court House in Oakland under the direction of the Maryland State Department of Health.

These clinics are for the purpose of preventing the development of diphtheria by the administration of toxin anti-toxin, three doses of which, given one week apart is a sure preventative. Every child from the age of one year up through the grade and high schools should be treated. Persons submitting to the treatment at the clinic will be getting $9 worth of medicine absolutely free of charge, so it will be to one's advantage to be present and receive the treatment.

At the same time a complete physical examination will be given to all children of school age. Slight defects are often discovered which may be treated, thus preventing serious illness later.

Everyone having children of school age should take them to the clinic—they deserve this opportunity and treatment.

Birthday Surprise Party Tendered Ryan's Glade Lady

A birthday surprise party was given Mrs. George A. White, of Ryan's Glade, on Monday evening, August 4. Seventy-nine were present and all enjoyed a very pleasant evening. Those from a distance were: Mrs. Jane Harvey and daughter Edna, of Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Emily Tinker and two daughters, Marguerite and Elizabeth, of Morgantown, W. Va.; Don Griffith, of Parsons, W. Va.; George Steele, of Zilman, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Harvey and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harvey and family and Mllo Wilson of Short Run.

Mrs. White was the recipient of many useful presents. The evening was spent in playing games and singing, after which refreshments of ice cream, cake and melon were served.

AFTER a hard, hot day . . . to stretch out luxuriously in your chair with the breeze coming in the window . . . that's living. But to leap from your chair and climb the stairs to the telephone . . . ISN'T.

Every extension telephone you have installed means that much less expenditure of energy, that much time saved . . . that much more comfort . . . and all for a few cents a day.

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Old Electric Light and Power company was incorporated Wednesday by the following gentlemen: S. T. Jones, J. Lee McComas, Gilmor S. Hamill, A. G. Sturgiss, D. E. Offutt, Henry J. Mayers, Chas. S. Davis, Maurice W. Thomas, John W. Hart, Geo. O. Milier, E. K. Goldsborough, and E. H. Sincell. The object of the company is to furnish Oakland and Mountain Lake Park with electric light.

Work has been commenced on Geo. D. White's new residence on Alder Street.

Mrs. L. Leary has a chicken with only one wing. This is another freak of nature and is quite a curiosity.

Miss Cora Naylor returned to her home in Hedgesville, W. Va., yesterday. She had been on a protracted visit to her brothers, A. D. and E. G. Naylor.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Misses Erma and Madge Workman, of Wheeling, W. Va., are visiting their sister, Mrs. Grover Stemple, having arrived in Oakland last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Lawton, of Lonaconing, who spent a week with Mrs. Margaret Lawton and other Oakland relatives, returned home Tuesday morning.

Capt. and Mrs. R. R. Sanner, of Uniontown, Pa., are here on a visit to their son, Mr. N. R. Sanner. Capt. Sanner was engaged in educational work in Oakland a number of years ago and is highly regarded by many of his former pupils and his old time acquaintances.

An Interesting Fact

There are two elements, among many, that contribute to progress. Patriotism and rivalry. These, developed by the growing pains of business expansion of our infant country, resulted in the construction of two great arteries of trade, which after the lapse of more than a century are again being used for the purposes for which they were originally intended. We refer to the National Highway, now known as Route No. 40 and the Northwestern Turnpike, known as Route No. 50.

The National Highway, the earliest and certainly the most famous highway across the mountains, was projected in 1803, at the admission of Ohio as a state, to be constructed by the United States from a fund arising from the proceeds of the sale of United States lands located within the boundaries of the new state. The road was actually begun in 1811.

For many years the mails and passengers were carried over the mountains, the latter by fast express, probably with good reason called "shakeguts". These stage coaches were run in relays. Starting at Baltimore the first night was spent at Hagerstown, the second at Cumberland, the third at Uniontown, and the fourth at Wheeling. Equipped with horns, we can imagine the cities of these and other hamlets along the old National dropping the task in which they were at the moment engaged, and rushing to the designated stopping place to receive the latest news or engage in a bit of gossip, or indulge in a glass of that which is now verboten with a passing friend or a new acquaintance, or perhaps to mail a letter to a relative or sweetheart on the outpost of civilzation at Wheeling, West Va.

Stage travel was frequently delayed by reason of the numerous droves of cattle, sheep and hogs, and from the old-fashloned Conestoga wagons in which most of the freight for the west was conveyed from Baltimore and Frederick to Wheeling.

The road was famous for the number and excellence of its inns, which, on the mountain division, averaged one for every mile. The uniform price charged for warm meals was twenty-five cents, with a drink of whiskey thrown in. At mid-day a cold meal was furnished for a "icvy"—twelve and a half cents—with the usual drink of whiskey free.

The Northwestern Turnpike was first suggested by George Washington, who had been associated with Braddock in the building of the National, and who, as some writers have said, became fearful that the building of that road would divert trade from his beloved Virginia, abandoned the enterprise, returned to Virginia and sought a route from Winchester to Wheeling located wholly in Virginia. How well he succeeded is attested by the fact that at only one point, in Garrett county, Maryland, does the Northwestern Turnpike leave the state of Virginia. Unquestionably, this latter road was conceived by Washington through patriotism for his native state and was built as a rival of the National Road.

Eastern Maryland undoubtedly owes much of its early development and present prosperity to the wisdom, foresight and energy of those hardy princes of trade who readily preceived that fortune awaited those who first secured the business of the great Northwestern Territory and diverted it to the east instead of allowing it to seek other markets.

The National Road, a century and a quarter after its conception is still a great traffic artery, over which, not the lumbering stage coach or the Conestoga freighter, but the swift automobile and the powerful truck, carries hundreds of thousands of passengers and ton upon ton of freight to the eastern marts, leaving a golden stream in the wake.

ANNUAL WATER PAGEANT TO BE SHOWN SATURDAY

Minnetoskans to Present "Doll Shop"—Public is Invited

The members of Camp Minnetoska will present a pageant, "The Doll Shop", at the camp Saturday afternoon, August 16, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Following the pageant a water exhibition will be featured by the campers who range in ages from seven to sixteen. The pageant was produced and is being directed by Miss Lucy E. Hyde, one of the directors of the camp. No admission will be charged and anyone who desires may bring a basket dinner and enjoy the day on the camp site. This camp is situated on the Maryland-West Virginia border at what is known as the Dr. McComas lake and was purchased four years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hanses and Miss Hyde of Baltimore, who have successfully conducted a girls' camp each summer for the past four years.

ANTIQUES WILL BE EXHIBIT AT FIREMEN'S CONVENTION

1875 Fire Engine, Hose Reel To Be Displayed at Terra Alta

Participating in the home-coming and State convention of the West Virginia Volunteer Firemen at Terra Alta today, tomorrow and Saturday, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has loaned some of its old relics that have been stored in the buildings at Halethorpe, the site of the "Fair of the Iron Horse" of 1927. These exhibits include: The Conestoga Wagon; coach of Charles Carroll of Carrollton; old hose reel used at Cumberland 1855 to 1900; old LaFrance fire engine used at Cumberland, 1875 to 1900; quarter-size model of the Tom Thumb; replica of ox yoke made by Abraham Lincoln in 1831.

The Conestoga wagon is an original and was built at Middletown, Pa., in 1813. The coach of Charles Carroll of Carrollton was selected because that distinguished signer of the Declaration of Independence was one of the founders and first directors of the Baltimore and Ohio in 1827. The small model of the Tom Thumb will no doubt attract attention, as the original Tom Thumb locomotive was the first built in America, having been constructed by Peter Cooper and ran between Baltimore and Ellicott City in 1830.

Most of these relics of transportation of a bygone day will also be exhibited during the Golden Jubilee of the West Virginia State Fair at Wheeling, W. Va., August 29 to September 6.

DIED.

MRS. ASA BEEGHLY

Mrs. Asa Beeghly, of Cumberland, and a former resident of Accident, died at the Allegheny hospital, Cumberland, Thursday, August 7, at the age of 47 years and 3 months. Mrs. Beeghly had been ill several days and died following an operation at the above named hospital.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Park and Aubrey, and one daughter, Kathryn, all of Cumberland; two grandchildren, six brothers, who were pall bearers at her funeral; and two sisters, Mrs. Adam Hetrick, of Morgantown, W. Va., and Mrs. Irvin Shaffer, of Cass, W. Va. She is also survived by a large number of other relatives. Nieces of the deceased were the flower bearers and the floral tributes were beautiful. Funeral services were conducted in St. Paul's Lutheran church at Accident, Sunday morning by Rev. L. K. Young, of Gettysburg, Pa., a former pastor. Interment in the Accident cemetery.

MT. LAKE PARK

The eleventh annual tennis tournament promises to be the most successful yet held. With the courts in prime condition, the weather cool and snappy and such veterans as B. F. Arkle, of Wheeling, 1929 champion; John Brown, 1920 champion; John O'Laughlin, Bob Considine, Ralph Weber, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Martinez, Mary Will Wakefield, Margaret Carspecken, Paul Sullivan and other former and many new players entered, there should be some close and exciting plays. There are nearly sixty entries.

August 23 has been fixed as the date for the celebration of the completion of the first unit of the Mountain Lake-Gormania improved road. Committees from Gormania, Loch Lynn, Oakland and Mountain Lake Park are hard at work perfecting plans to make this occasion one long to be remembered. The presence of the Oakland and Crellin bands is assured, with a probability that bands from Keyser and other towns will be here. Special invitations have been forwarded to Judges Sloan and Doub, Mayor Broening, Chairman Uhl, District Engineer Downey, F. N. Zihlman, David A. Robb and others to be present and participate in the day's festivities.

While details are not yet completed, it has been tentatively agreed by the general committee that after the formal opening of the road at the Loch Lynn end, a motor parade will form and go to Baker's grove, a point about midway of the completed road where a basket picnic will be staged and short addresses made by several of the outstanding invited guests. In connection with the picnic a pleasant surprise is planned by the committee, which will be a delight to the gastronomically inclined.

Everything will be free—no admission, nothing to sell. It is expected that fully five thousand people will attend the celebration as already citizens of Petersburg, Keyser, Piedmont, Gormania, Romney and nearby places have assured good delegations. All plans will be matured and ready for publication in next Thursday's issue of The Republican.

It is expected that August 30th, Farmer's Day, will be the occasion for one of the largest gatherings in the history of Mountain Lake Park. The Agricultural Extension Service of West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland are cooperating. Addresses will be made by Hon. Gray Silver, of Martinsburg, and Nat T. Frame, of the West Virginia University Extension Division of which he is director.

A preliminary meeting will be held at Thoburn Inn next Friday evening at which Mr. Frame will be present and plans will be discussed for the big day. It is expected that a large crowd of farmers from the three adjacent states will be present on the day, August 30.

The Interdenominational Bible Conference, under the auspices of the Moody Bible Institute Extension Department, began at the Park on the 9th and will continue to the 24th. The principal speakers of the present week are Rev. Dr. A. H. Stewart, of Toronto, and Dr. Cassius E. Wakefield, of Toledo. The boys' and girls' hour at seven o'clock each evening is proving interesting and instructive to both old and young. These meetings are in charge of Mr. James E. Harrison, of Chicago, who by cartoons, stories and songs holds the interest of his audience. Next week the principal speakers will be Dr. R. R. Fritsch and Dr. H. Ostrom.

From all the information we can get Byron W. King's Odeon, which will be at the Park August 26-30, will be one of the really worth while events and should receive the support of all who desire to encourage bringing to the Park high class entertainments.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moomaw, of near Princeton, N. J., formerly of Garrett county, are here for a short time with relatives, having arrived in the Park a few days ago.

Mr. C. R. Richards, of Tulsa, Okla., accompanied by his son John, is here for a visit to the former's mother, Mrs. A. A. Richards. Mr. John T. Richards, who has been a guest of his mother, has returned to his home in Oklahoma City.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pollard, Jr., of New York City, are here for a visit with Mrs. Pollard's mother, Mrs. Wm. Skyles.

Mrs. Charles E. Hardesty is the guest of friends and relatives in Buckhannon, W. Va.

Preaching next Sunday evening in the Baptist church by Rev. Dr. Fancher.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harvey, of Ellicott City, Md., stopped here for a short visit with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Harvey, on their way home from a motor trip to Canadian points of interest.

Dense smoke, presumably from the large forest fires in Pendleton county, W. Va., carried by an east wind, completely hid Backbone Mountain from sight on Wednesday.

Washington Woman Injured In Mishap by Hit-and-Run Driver

Mrs. Harry Evans, 3220 Wisconsin Avenue, Washington, D. C., is at the Manhattan Hotel, Oakland, where she is suffering as the result of being injured by a hit-and-run driver a mile or two south of Oakland on Route 37 yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Evans, accompanied by Mr. Evans and their two children were en route to Oakland and opposite a pile of stone being used to widen the roadway their car was struck by a passing automobile and forced on to the rock pile. Mrs. Evans' injuries consists of a badly lacerated scalp and bruises about her body. No other members of the party were hurt.

The driver of the car causing the accident did not stop, but speeded up and got away.

Winner of Cedar Chest Contest Is Located In Grafton

It was not until yesterday that the person holding the winning number in the cedar chest contest, which was held on June 4 at the Maryland Theatre, was found, when C. F. Vogeding, of Grafton, presented the stub of the winning number to a member of the committee in charge of the contest and received the chest.

This cedar chest was given away last Hollowe'en at the Firemen's convention, which was held here that evening, but the winner turned it back to the firemen, hence the second contest at the Maryland Theatre on June 4. The winning number which Mr. Vogeding held was 358.

PRIZE LIST IN GARDEN CONTEST IS ANNOUNCED

$30.00 Will Be Split Six Ways—Many Have Chance to Win

The list of prizes to be awarded by the Oakland Civic Club in the local Yard and Garden contest has just been announced, according to Mrs. A. L. Lee, contest chalrman. The prizes are as follows: First prize, best yard, $5.00 in gold; second prize, best yard, $2.50 in gold; first prize, best garden, $5.00 in gold; second prize, best garden, $2.50 in gold. There will also be a prize for children or a "Junior Prize". There will be a prize of $2.50 in gold for the best yard or garden submitted by a boy, and also a prize of $2.50 for the best yard or garden submitted by a girl. Each contestant ln the local contest has a chance to win one of the nine beautiful pieces of ornamental stone garden furniture which have offered as prizes in the 1930 National Yard and Garden contest, sponsored by the Yard and Garden contest Association of America, Mrs. Lee stated.

The family living on a small place has just as good an opportunity to win as does the owner of a large estate. The determining factor is the degree of improvement and beautification of the home grounds brought about through the proper planting of trees, shrubs and flowers.

The date of the awarding of the prizes will be announced later.

Oakland Man and Summer Visitor Win In Golf Tourney

Stanley Bond, with a 48, was winner of the men's tournament, and Miss Mary Adeline Scott, visiting at the home of W. B. Burruss at "Hemlock Hollow", with a 55, was winner of the ladies' tournament, conducted on Monday night at the Miller Midget golf course next to the William-James hotel. The prize this week for both winners was ticket for eight free games, to be used when so desired.

These tournaments are held every Monday evening and the twelve men and women turning in the lowest scores during the week are eligible for entrance. These names are posted every Saturday evening so that there will be no possibility of those eligible not being aware of the fact. It is especially urged that those who intend to play in the tournament let the authorities know as early as possible Monday morning.

The names and scores of those entertained in the Monday night tournament are: Stanley Bond, 48; Fred Chesley, 50; Bill Bond, 55; Sam Bond, 56; John Weber, 57; Paul Turney, 57; W. S. Chesley, Jr., 57; Harry Brand, 58; Casselman Chesley, 59; Kenneth Graves, 59; and Ralph Turney, 70.

In the ladies' tournament were: Mary Adeline Scott, 55; Evelyn Bosley, 56; Elizabeth Floyd, 57; Adeline Sincell, 61; Stanley Scott, 62; Mrs. W. B. Burruss, 65; Barbara Burruss, 69; Mrs. Ralph Kercheval, 72; and Mrs. Henry W. McComas, Jr., 73.

In the boys' tournament held last Saturday, J. Billy Yutzy, with a 54, was winner, and Lawrence Dixon, Jr., with a 58, was runner-up. The prize for this tournament was five free games.

CONSIDINE BEATS ARKLE IN TENNIS TOURNAMMENT

Ace From Washington, D. C., Eliminates 1929 Champion

Only two of the original eight seeded players remained in the running in the men's singles of the Eleventh Annual Western Maryland Championship Tennis Tournament as a result of the defeat of Benjamin F. Arkle, of Washington, 1929 champion, Edgar "Tack" Hammer, of Greensburg, Pa., and W. J. Clardy, of Pittsburgh, in fourth round matches played yesterday.

Considine Beats Arkle

Arkle's hopes of repeating his 1929 triumph were blasted by Bob Considine, District of Columbia Champion, who romped off with the match in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4. Edgar Alcorn, Pittsburgh racqueter, eliminated Edgar T. Hammer, 6-2, 6-2; Dr. John O'Loughlin, Pittsburgh, disposed of W. J. Clardy, 6-3, 6-4 and William S. Ramsay, Uniontown ace, conquered Ralph Weber, of Oakland, 6-2, 6-3. Ramsey and O'Loughlin are the only seeded players left in the men's singles.

In the semi-finals, scheduled for two o'clock today Considine will oppose Alcorn and O'Loughlin will play Ramsay.

Women's Singles Started

Four of the eight second round matches in the women's singles were played off yesterday with the following results: Margaret Carspecken, Morgantown, defeated Emily Bolgiano, Baltimore, 6-0, 6-1; Miriam Sullivan, Pittsburgh, defeated Maycita DeSuza, Washington, 6-3, 6-2; Mrs. Margaret Graham, Washington, defeated Ellen Jane Grimes, Mt. Lake Park, 6-2, 6-3, and Mary Will Wakeford, Washington, 1929 champion, defeated Betty Whitefield, Washington, 7-5, 6-2.

Men's Doubles

The Washington combination of Bob Considine and Lieut. S. K. Robinson crashed the second round in men's doubles when Jones and Saperstein, Bridgeville, Pa., defaulted. Thomas and Mulliss, of Martinsburg, also won their second round match from Florian, of Washington, Pa., and J. H. Moore, Pittsburgh, 6-4, 7-9, 6-0.

A gallery estimated between 200 and 300 people witnessed the matches.

Statement Concerning Legislation

—ISSUED BY—

Dr. Henry W. McComas

Republican Candidate for Nomination for State Senator.

Oakland, Maryland, August 11, 1930.

To the Voters of Garrett County:—

Realizing that it will be impossible for me to see all of you before the primary, I wish in a brief way to outline my position on certain matters of interest and my ideas as to how I can best serve you in the State Senate.

1. If nominated and elected, I will do all possible to carry out the wishes of the people of this county, all sections alike, as expressed to me, and shall at all times welcome expressions of opinions and wishes.

2. I do not favor and will not support any measure for the issuance of bonds for this county without a provision submitting the same to the voters for acceptance or rejection. I believe this to be in accord with the wishes of the citizens of this county.

3. I will support, as I have always done, any measure for Statewide enforcement of the prohibition law; will represent my county in the way that the people have voted on that question and will support all measures that are for the best interests and welfare of our State and county.

4. I will neither introduce nor support any measure having for its object the exemption of any corporation or individual from its or his fair share of State and county taxes. I believe that this burden of supporting our county and State should be borne by all alike and that none should be exempted and the burden thus increased on others. I further believe that any measure exempting any power or other company would be unconstitutional and void. However, measures tending to reduce the tax burden upon citizens generally will have my support.

I respectfully solicit the support and influence of all citizens of the county.

HENRY W. McCOMAS.

COUNTIES SHOW INCREASE IN COST OF EDUCATION

Average Cost During Year 1929 Was $54.55 For Each Pupil

An increase in the cost of educating a day school pupil in the Maryland counties was shown in 1929, figures released by the State Board of Education recently, reveal.

The average cost throughout the State was $54.55, an increase of $1.93 over the previous year. Baltimore county's cost was $57.19, a 79-cent increase.

Garrett county, which has many one-teacher schools and no colored pupils, had the highest figures, $71.12, for each pupil. The lowest was the county of Charles, with $42.60.

Superintendent Rathbun, in commenting on the figure for Garrett county, said that although the figures were higher than other counties, this was due to the large number of one-teacher schools with 8, 10 and 12 pupils each, and that consolidation of schools was bringing this figure down considerably. Had it not been for consolidation of some of the schools during the past two or three years the cost per pupil would be higher than it now is, he stated.

Only three counties—Carroll, Prince George's and Kent—showed a decrease. Increases of from $3 to $6 occurred in Montgomery, Cecil, Garrett, Washington, Calvert, Dorchester, Harford, Anne Arundel and Somerset.

General control cost an average of $1.85 per pupil, a three-cent increase. Under this heading are included expenditures for maintaining the offices of the County Board of Education and Superintendent as well as the salaries and traveling expenses of the superintendent and attendance officer.

In general, the counties showing the highest cost for general control have a small enrollment or a large proportion of pupils in one-teacher schools.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

By His Brother

Scoop being on a well deserved (?) vacation, hobnobbing with the ants, flies and hornets at the scout camp on Deep Creek Lake, the boss editor thought it might increase the circulation of Garrett County's Leading Newspaper to have his column this week done by another member of the family who happens to be spending his vacation in this particular garden spot.

As Scoop informed the writer today by radiogram, it is entirely due to the scouts going to camp that this section was blessed with the rainfall it experienced Wednesday, for every year their going to camp has been a signal for old Jupe Pluvius to turn on the spiggot. Hereafter, the city fathers would be wise in insisting on Scoop taking the scouts camping at regular intervals thus insuring the proper amount of rainfall at all times.

The unemployment situation in Oakland is becoming more and more a national calamity and should be given serious consideration by every citizen, according to a member of the Amalgamated Society for Prevention of Work. He maintains that he was forced to turn down eighteen offers of jobs the past week because he felt there were so many others who needed the work more than he did. (Don't write in and ask for information concerning these positions as it cannot be given out). However, it does show how acute this great problem has become even in Oakland.

Several requests have come in thru the mail for lessons in etiquette, particularly on how to behave when invited out to parties at night. Here are a few that everyone should remember:

Never strike your hostess with a bottle.

Never spank your hostess or any other female guest.

Never resort to excessive oratory.

Never make an anatomical analysis of female guests.

Never sleep on the piano.

Never resort to excessive screaming.

Never absent yourself too frequently from the party.

Never become totally inebriated.

Never destroy furniture.

Never lose your equilibrium.

Never start throwing glasses.

Never insult the other guests.

Never get caught doing any indiscreet petting.

Never refuse to go home when asked.

Never become nauseated (it might spill on someone.)

If you will follow these simple rules of etiquette you will soon become the social lion you would like to be and will never be excluded from any party no matter how small a one it may be. Any other information concerning any branch of etiquette will gladly be printed in this column at your request. Simply mail your problem to Salvation Mamie, care of Scoop and it will be promptly taken care of. If you wish a private reply enclose a self addressed, STAMPED envelope. Stamps are necessary for Mamie has nothing but Russian rubles to use for money and Uncle Sam refuses to accept them, anyway.

PROCLAMATION

Proposing Amendments to the Constitution of the State, 1930.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1929, two Acts were passed, to-wit: Chapter 133 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," to authorize deputies in the Treasury Department to sign checks and warrants; and Chapter 348, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 133.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," so as to confer upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants, and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the State Treasury under regulations prescribed by the Legislature; and providing for the submission of said amendment to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoptio nor rejectiojn.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all of the Members of both of the Houses concurring), That an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Treasury Department," be and the same is hereby proposed, the said amendment, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become a part of said Constitution, and the said Sections as amended to read as follows:

2. The Comptroller shall have the general superintendence of the fiscal affairs of the State; he shall digest and prepare plans for the improvement and management of the revenue, and for the support of the public credit; prepare and report estimates of the revenue and expenditures of the State; superintend and enforce the prompt collection of all taxes and revenue; adjust and settle, on terms prescribed by law, with delinquent collectors and receivers of taxes and State revenue; preserve all public accounts; and decide on the forms of keeping and stating accounts. He, or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature, shall grant, under regulations prescribed by law, all warrants for money to be paid out of the Treasury, in pursuance of appropriations by law, and countersign all checks drawn by the Treasurer upon any bank or banks in which the moneys of the State may from time to time be deposited. He shall prescribe the formalities of the transfer of stock, or other evidence of the State debt, and countersign the same, without which such evidence shall not be valid; he shall make to the General Assembly full reports of all his proceedings, and of the State of the Treasury Department within ten days after the commencement of each Session; and perform such other duties as shall be prescribed by law.

3. The Treasurer shall receive the moneys of the State, and, until otherwise prescribed by law, deposit them, as soon as received, to the credit of the State, in such bank or banks as he may, from time to time, with the approval of the Governor, select (the said bank or banks giving security, satisfactory to the Governor, for the safekeeping and forthcoming, when required of said deposits), and he or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall disburse the same for the purposes of the State according to law, upon warrants drawn by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and on checks countersigned by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and not otherwise. The Treasurer or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall take receipts for all moneys paid from the Treasury Department; and receipt for moneys received by him shall be endorsed upon warrants signed by the Comptroller, or such deputy as may be authorized to do so by law, without which warrants, so signed, no acknowledgment of money received into the Treasury shall be valid; and upon warrants issued by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, the Treasurer shall make arrangements for the payment of the interest of the public debt, and for the purchase thereof, on account of the sinking fund. Every bond, certificate, or other evidence of the debt of the State shall be signed by the Treasurer, and countersigned by the Comptroller; and no new certificate or other evidence intended to replace another shall be issued until the old one shall be delivered to the Treasurer, and authority executed in due form for the transfer of the same filed in his office, and the transfer accordingly made on the books thereof, and the certificate or other evidence cancelled; but the Legislature may make provisions for the loss of certificates or other evidences of the debt; and may prescribe, by law, the manner in which the Treasurer shall receive and keep the moneys of the State.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the aforegoing sections as amended, shall be, at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, nineteen hundred and thirty, submitted to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State, and at said general election the vote on the proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the following synopsis of said amendment, under the caption of:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
AMENDING SECTIONS 2 AND 3 OF ARTICLE VI."

"This amendment confers upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warranta and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury of the State under regulations prescribed by the Legislature."

Approved: April 2, 1929.

CHAPTER 348

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Legislative Department," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of fifteen dollars per diem for every day he shall attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of ten dollars per day. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election for Members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against the said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: April 11, 1929.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ALBERT C. RITCHIE, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that this proclamation containing full, true and correct copies of the text of said Chapters 133 and 348 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1929, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City Baltimore, one of which shall be published the German language, once a week for at least three months next preceding the general election to be held in the State of Maryland on Tuesday, the 4th day of November, 1930, at which election the said proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be submitted in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

The Great Seal of Maryland

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland. Done at the City of Annapolis, this 14th day of July, in the year nineteen hundred and thirty.

FOR REGISTER OF WILLS.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

The undersigned announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of Register of Wills, subject to the result of the Republican primary election, and most respectfully solicits the votes of the members of his party in all sections of the county.

The duties of my office, requiring my presence there daily, precludes an active campaign on my part, however much I would like to call upon my party associates and friends.

My experience in the office to which I again aspire, has been attained by close application and attention to details, with the result that I am sure that I am better qualified to carry on its affairs than ever before.

Thanking my friends for past support and earnestly soliciting their continued influence at the polls, I beg to remain, Very respectfully,
E. E. FRIEND.
Mt. Lake Park, District No. 7.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

The undersigned, a resident of Election District No. 7, announces her candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of Register of Wills, subject to the result of the Republican primary election to be held September 8th, 1930.

This announcement is made at the request and solicitation of my many friends over the county.

I fully believe, if nominated and elected, I am qualified to handle the business of this office.

Soliciting the support of the voters of Garrett county in the coming primary, I am,
Very respectfully yours,
(Mrs.) NINA O'BRIEN RILEY.

CALL ON MR. LEWIS TO BE A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

HIS STATEMENT

Hon. David J. Lewis,
Cumberland, Maryland.
Dear Mr. Lewis:

The undersigned believe that the people of the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland are insistent upon a change in the character of representation which they have had in the House of Representatives for the past fourteen years.

It is natural that in this connection our thoughts should turn to you. We believe that we voice the sentiment of the great majority of the people of the counties in which we live when we say to you that we believe by character, training and general ability you are better qualified than any other available Democrat in the Sixth District to make a winning fight for Congress this year. We are, furthermore, confident that, if you accede to this request, you will carry Washington, Frederick, and Montgomery counties by substantial majorities.

We believe that your candidacy would be pushed with the vigor and constructive statemenship which your record has established, and which you are fully capable of continuing, and would be crowned with success in November.

To the end, therefore, that the Sixth Congressional District may once again be restored to its rightful place in the esteem of the people of this State and of the country at large we, the undersigned, earnestly urge you to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the House of Representatives from this District and tender you our sincere and earnest offers of support.

Signed by:

Blair Lee, Sr., Robt. G. Hilton, Dr. Benj C. Perry, Lacy Shaw, Dr. J. W. Bird, Robert Peter, Jr., Bowie F. Waters, Josiah W. Jones, Ben. G. Davis, Emory L. Coblents, E. Brooke Lee, Montgomery Co. David C. Winebrenner, 3rd, Dr. Charles H. Conley, Jas. H. Gambrill, Jr., J. O. Snyder, Jacob Rohrback, Geo. A. Reed, William J. Grove, Frederick Co. Wm. P. Lane, Jr., B. M. Hartle, Dr. J. Hubert Wade, J. V. Jamison, Dr. D. C. R. Miller, Harry E. Bester, Washington, County.

Answer to Mr. Lewis

Gentlemen:

Your invitation, to become the Party's Candidate for Congress, I should say frankly, affords me the highest satisfaction; for, you will bear witness that I have not sought this great mark of distinction at your hands. However, I recognize that the compliment of your preference is not wholly personal and is far from being gratuitous. It is apparent that "the people of the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland are insistent upon a change in the character of representation which they have had in the House of Representatives for the past fourteen years." An unprecedented situation does exist in the District which affects its honor and its right and power to speak in the House of Representatives, a situation which imposes special responsibility on leaders of the great politicial parties within the District.

The party leaders of the majority party, though having full knowledge of this situation have not chosen to remedy it. They say that the problem is met by the "presumption of innocense", attending the indicted party and so they refuse to take the initiative to obtain another choice. Certainly they misunderstand the meaning and application of this legal phrase. The "presumption of innocense" is a defensive plea which belongs to the criminal court room where its application and its limitations are rightly understood. It is a defensive not a qualifying legal phrase. It does not even excuse the indicted person from giving bail or going to jail in default; and if his name happened to be on the Jurors list, would he be permitted to serve? Certainly the Judge would bruskly strike the name from the Jury list, however loudly the "presumption of innocense" were shouted from the prisoners dock.

This is also the attitude of the House of Representatives. Under its unwritten rules an indicted member is expected to absent himself during its sessions, and his voice is silenced. It is my belief that if these leaders had met this duty within their party you would not have taken the action you have taken. Nor should I now feel bound to accept your invitation after the strenuous effort recently made by me in the field. It is not yet too late for these leaders to act. Certainly they have qualified men in each of the five counties.

OLD AGE PENSIONS —WORLD COURT—

In my campaign of 1928 I fully discussed both of these subjects and need now only reaffirm my convictions as to both. One is essential to prevent war, and the other to save worthy veterans of industry, thrown on the scrap heap, from ending their days in the poor house.

* * *

THE TARIFF AND UNEMPLOYMENT

Without question more injury has been done to business, industry and consumers by the recent tariff legislation, beginning with its inception in January, 1929, and still continuing, than by any tariff legislation in our history. An extra session called to bring relief to agricultural producers where their prices were below the average level has culminated in granting or increasing tariff favors to industries whose war-time prices still hang over us, of which shoes and clothing are examples. Schator Norris had inserted in the tariff bill an anti-monopoly clause providing that if the domestic producers combined to maintain prices, that is fix prices, the tariff on the products should be suspended. The Senate and House (Republican) conferees combined to strike out this provision, refusing even to let the House vote on it although it had passed the Senate.

This occasion does not permit detailed discussion, but it is fitting to say that an intensive study I have made of 282 commodities in the Tariff Act of 1922, representing $1,700,000,000, in wholesale value shows that in order to effect a benefit of $300,000,000 to these favored interests, burdens of $1,060,000,000 are imposed on consumers. In the single instance of sugar the benefit granted to Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines and the sugar beet states amounts to $117,609,106, although there is no problem of American labor and its standards to protect in these regions. But this benefit in 1929 cost the American Consumers $418,378,000 per annum in a higher price for sugar and yet the tariff on sugar was increased. In some instances the ration of the burden on consumers as compared with the benefit to producers rises as high as 60 to 1, and for the 282 articles studied the ratio averages more than 3 to 1. No Congressman justifies these rates except to the few of his constituents who get the "benefits. He relies on the circumstances the consumers "in his District" are "asleep" as indeed they mostly are in all Districts.

The Tariff Commission could not rectify, in ten years, these grave injustices; and it is not intended that it should. The clause inserted by the Senate providing for a Peoples, that is Consumers, Counsel before the Tariff Commission, met the same fate in conference as the anti-monopoly or price fixing clause, and the House was not permitted to vote on it.

The idea of "equal protection" has been lost in the trading process, for special tariff favors, and the resulting tariff is a menace and obstacle to our farms and other efficient industries. It has been found that these tariffs have been levied in 160 instances on essential raw materials going into our manufacturers, thus discouraging such manufacture by increasing its costs and prices, and so reducing its sales, and increasing unemployment. Our more efficient industries, including the farm, had built up an export market of $3,078,707,000 in nine countries of Europe and Canada against imports about one half or $1,563,764,000, in 1928. These export markets have been reduced and the countries affected are threatening retaliation against our exports for these unjust tariffs. Six of these countries, besides already buying from us twice as much as they sold, are debtor countries who must find some way to pay us their debts. The stoppage of our exports to them is adding to our unemployment list and the distress of the country. The Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act can only be fairly entitled "An Act to Discourage American Industry."

THE PLIGHT OF THE MARYLAND MINING INDUSTRY

Another important situation within the District which has suffered by the serious neglect of Congress is the unmerited and unnatural plight of the coal mining industry in Allegany and Garrett counties. Once the outstanding industry of Maryland, it is today practically at a standstill, its miners suffering and the operators facing bankruptcy. There are still left undug in these mountains, five billion tons of coal, enough to supply the nation for ten years. In 1920 we sent to our natural Maryland market, less than 200 miles away, six million tons, which is now cut to one half, while the New River and Pocahontas regions, over 400 miles from this market have actually increased their shipments and driven out the Maryland coal.

The cause of this decadence is not chargeable to nature nor to operators and miners. It is found in a discrimination in the freight rates charged by the railways which compels the Maryland coals to pay much more per unit of service for delivery to market than charges made to the more distant regions. The subject is so important that I give some examples of these rates and the distances involved.

A study of these rates shows that the charge from Maryland mines to Maryland markets averages $1.63 per 100 ton miles against an average of 77 cents from the Pocahontas and New River fields to the same markets, and $1.15 average for revenue on all freight hauled by the B. & O. R. R. in 1924. This inequality is even more emphatic when one considers that coal is usually the most cheaply hauled of all commodities, and that while the Maryland haul and market are all down grade, the West Virginia coals must be hauled uphill over the Appalachin divide before reaching the tidewater slope. If the rate per 100 ton miles now in effect from the southwestern fields of West Virginia were applied to the Maryland mines, the average reduction in freight would be about $1.31 per ton, and the freight rates on Maryland coal consumed in Frederick, Hagerstown, Rockville, and adjacent points would be reduced about $1.33 and $1.70 per ton respectively. This reduction, if equitably divided in the market price between consumer and producer, would be largely beneficial to the entire state.

	Actual Rate Gross Ton	Distance Mines to Delivery Miles	Rate per 100 ton Miles Gross Ton	Amount of Actual Discrimination Against Maryland Coal Fields, Compared With New River and Pocahontas Total per Ton
Maryland Field
To Baltimore	$2.71	213	$1.27	$0.96
To Washington	2.71	188	1.44	1.24
To Hagerstown	2.33	114	2.09	1.70
To Frederick	2.71	157	1.73	1.33
Average			$1.63	$1.31
Pocahontas and New River Fields
To Baltimore	3.60	440	.82
To Washington	3.13	400	.78
To Hagerstown	2.82	470	.60
To Frederick	3.91	444	.88
Avcrage			.77
B. & O. R. R. Average for all Freight			$1.15

It is sincerely believed that if the Maryland railways were free to act they would rectify these indefensible inequalities.

The result of this discrimination is that the miners homes are becoming valueless and operators are actually bankrupt. Meanwhile consumers of coal embracing all the counties of Western Maryland and the cities of Baltimore and Washington are forced to pay these excessive rates.

This discrimination is chargeable to the Railway rate making powers. It began a generation ago when the railroads themselves made the railway rates, and made them with a view to advance the railway interest without reference to comparative cost of service. The government, however, some years ago took this rate making power away from the railroads and is now the responsible rate maker; and the railroads themselves have lost this power.

Congress has the same costitutional power to determine Railway or coal tariffs that it has to make protective tariffs, and both equally concern the protection of domestic industries. The occasion was presented and it would have seemed fitting enough had the representative of this District, when these industrial tariffs were under discussion called attention to the unjustice railway tariffs which have blasted Maryland Coal Mining. But neither then nor at any time during the eight years which the industry has been languishing from this cause has such a voice, not even that of the District's representative, been raised in the house or any bill been introduced by him for the relief of the industry. This subject should surely have been brougt to and kept constantly before the eyes of Congress. The railways serving the region are now powerless. Although the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was exempted from taxation by the State of Maryland for the very purpose of effectively serving its industries and I have no doubt stands willing to have this done, still it is important. The constitution prohibits either the Government of the States from levying an export tax on any product of the State, and in spite of this an export tax, in substance, of about $1.50 per ton in the form of discriminating railway rate is imposed on Maryland coal. It is this unjustifiable tax upon it which has driven it out of even Maryland, its natural market. It is doubtful if in all the history of misgovernment such wrongs have ever before been inflicted on an industry.

For many years I have given study to the subject of railway transportation. In no country where the government has taken the responsibility for making rates, whether under private or government ownership, has the discrimination been permitted which is now resting like death on Maryland mining. Our government ought not only be just; it ought to establish justice with convenient speed, with promptness.

It is my purpose, if elected, to arouse Congress, and the Interstate Commerce Commission, to the discharge of the public duties thus neglected. Such an appeal in the House may itself prove effective to bring relief through Commission initiative. Meanwhile, both political parties have declared for a policy of stabilization in the coal industry. An organization may result of the entire coal industry, actuated by the same constructive spirit which gave us the Federal Reserve Bank system. Either course would serve to restore Maryland mining to its natural rights and thrill our mountain homes with new hope.

PROHIBITION

When the Volstead bill was presented to President Wilson for approval he advised the Congress to exempt the lesser stimulants used as bevcrages such as light wines and beers. Congress declined to make this modification and Wilson vetoed the bill: When in Congress I supported an unsuccessful prohibition amendment but I have always thought that the gravemen of intemperance was found in the strong alcoholic drinks aided by the saloon, and had I been in Congress I should have adopted the Wilson method of treatment. Ten years of an attempt to enforce a larger program than the Wilson program has not changed my opinion. Personally I have obeyed the law without exception, and if elected will support the appropriations necessary to it with other laws, but now as then I should vote for a program allowing local communities to exempt these beverages from the enforcement status upon condition that they join in the enforcement of the status against the strong drinks and the saloon.

But it is certain that this more moderate program would enjoy the same opportunity for complete success now as, I believe, it did then. The public mind is not now in the same receptive mood, as one finds from contact with his neighbors, confirmed by polls. Opinion breaks into three divisions, those who favor the Volstead Act, those who oppose all Federal prohibition legislation, and a class between them who favor the Wilson view. One hears the first and the second classes call each other fanatics or outlaws, while agreeing to denounce those of the Wilson view as "stradlers". So tense have the divisions become that honesty or character serves little to save either class to the good opinion of the other.

But it seems obvious that to secure an all round enforcement an overwhelming proportion of the people, not a third merely, or even a bare majority, must subscribe to the objects of a law, as they do to prohibitory criminal status such as those against counterfeiting, forgery, or false pretense. Without this substantial concurrence of view I fear the human being cannot be effectively controlled against his will even for his own good. However, certain facts and elements in the problem are admitted by all three divisions of opinion. They admit that drunkenness and the saloon are evils against which society must defend itself; that the federal government and the state government are charged with duties of greater or less degree to suppress these evils; that the problems vary with the kinds of population found in cities and country side and with different geographical areas, and that all these factors are to be considered. Granted, this be all true. Where is the body of men who are to adjust these elements into a reasonable rule of conduct and a workable program? I do not think it is Congress. Each of its members stands committed to one of these divisions of opinion, and feels he must "make good" on it or his constituents, at the primaries or the coming election.

Meanwhile momentous economic and political questions have arisen and will continue to arise. What is to be the effect of temperance controversies upon them? It may be well to quote a notable utterance of Woodrow Wilson. After pointing out that temperance questions "are social and moral, not political", he added:

> "Whenever they have been made the subject matter of party tests they have cut the lines of party organizations and party action athwert to the utter confusion of political action in every other field. They have thrown every other question, however important, into the background and have made constructive party action impossible for long years together. My judgment is very clear in this matter. I do not believe that party programs of the highest consequence in the political life of the state and nation ought to be thrust to one side and hopelessly embarrassed * * * * * by making a political issue of a great question that is essential non-political, non-partisan, moral and social in its nature."

The coal mining and other conditions peculiar to this Congressional District aptly illustrate the truth of the above statement. "What is going to be done to save Maryland Mining?" a citizen inquires. Another citizen answers: "I don't know. Tell me, first, how the candidates stand on prohibition." Other District matters of the gravest importance may be shunted off in the same way.

Under these conditions a Constitutional Convention, in which the whole subject shall be considered, is indicated, as it seems to me. "There is a science of lawmaking" it has been said. "It is the science of feasibilities." The Constitutional Convention which formed our government surely proved itself a master of this science. The members of this Convention would not meet as Republicans or Democrats but as citizens charged with historic responsibilities; and when the Convention got through with its work it would adjourn sine die, its members not committed to seeking personal "vindication" by reelection. It could, and likely would, consider the whole matter in a dispassionate spirit and for the best interests of the Republican; and its decisions and recommendations would likely possess sufficient weight with the states to carry a solution. Already a large number of the States have made formal application for the calling of such a convention by the Congress. When convened it might consider other matters, e. g., the elimination of "lame duck" sessions and perhaps the lengthening of the term of the representative, say to four years.

It is true that more than one hundred and forty years have passed without the meeting of such a convention although it was thought it would occur each generation. Certain it is that the good accomplished by prohibition is accompanied by a situation which is intolerable to men who love their government and know that it can only survive through the wisdom of its laws and the practical respect rendered them. The spectacle of Congress violating a Constitutional Amendment and the Volstead Act for which they voted goes far to explain the bootlegger banditary which imperils life itself in large cities. By their oaths of office, by their votes for the law these Congressmen had pledged themselves to respect and obey it. Perhaps even modification may not provide a solution. It may be that the forces of defiance encouraged by the examples of such law breaking members of Congress may continue to grow and encompass a complete route of the forces of Government. Certain it is that the present conditions of lawlessness are intolerable and a challenge to the supremacy of government.

ACCEPTS CALL

These gentlemen, in my judgment, are some of the more important subjects calling for consideration by Congress, and my point of view in regarding them. I accept your call, and will enter the Primaries accordingly.

During the six years of my membership in Congress I found its duties left me no time to practice my profession. The salary, $10,000 a year, affords ample remuneration and relieves the member from the necessity of seeking additional outside business profits or emoluments. Accordingly, it will be my aim to give my duties to the District and the Country the whole of my energy and time.

It may be that other candidates may also announce themselves, indeed, the Hon. Fuller Barnard, Jr., has already done so. Mr. Barnard has served sincerely the county of Allegany as State's Attorney, and after four years acquired himself with honor. If it be the judgment of our party associates that he or another can render the better service I shall join them in adding my earnest support.

Very sincerely,
DAVID J. LEWIS.

"THE PATSY" WILL BE SEEN AT MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

Will be Presented Opening Night of the Odeon, August 26

The Byron King's School of Oratory has secured the rights to produce the well known play known as "The Patsy." This performance will be presented in the Mountain Lake Park Amphitheatre on the opening night of the Odeon, Tuesday, August 26, at eight o'clock.

This play has had two years' run in New York at the Booth Theatre and was written by that well-known playright Barry Conners. It is a comedy in three acts. "Comedy" in this instance fails to express the hilarious scenes and amusing instances brought to a climax by its splendid human characters. The main theme is about a girl named Patricia Herrington, called "Patsy" for short. She has a sister with more pulchritude but less manners, petulant, selfish and overbearing except when she has an iron in the fire. The father of these two daughters has a job on his hands and how he scrambles through with not only the two problems of the daughters, but also with a wife will be appreciated by all the poor bedraggled husbands in the audience with similar home situations. And after all it is a story just about the typical American home—one that everybody will enjoy seeing and getting a big laugh out of.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR JULIUS C. RENNINGER

Garrett County State's Attorney Succumbs Thursday Following Cerebral Hemorrhage

CAME TO OAKLAND IN 1896

Funeral services for Julius C. Rennlnger, aged 56, State's Attorney for Garrett County, who died at 8:30 o'clock last Thursday evening, were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late home on Second street. Rev. C. A. Shilke, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, officiated. Interment was made in the Oakland cemetery, with Oakland Lodge, No. 192, A., F. and A. M., in charge.

The deceased had been in ill health since June and was stricken last Saturday with a cerebral hemorrhage, which caused his death.

Mr. Renninger was born October 26, 1874, in Cumberland and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Renninger. He was graduated in 1895 from the University of Maryland Law School and was admitted to the bar in Cumberland the same year.

Came to Oakland in 1896

Mr. Renninger moved to Oakland in 1896 and had practiced law here since that time. He was a senior member of the firm of Renninger and Offutt and served three terms as State's Attorney of Garrett County at different periods.

He married Miss Gerturde Scherr, of Eglon, W. Va., in 1900. Besides his widow, he is survived by a son, Julius C. Renninger, Jr., a student at Princeton University; and a sister, Mrs. Anna O'Neil, New Orleans, La.

Fraternal Connections

Mr. Renninger was a past grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias lodge of Maryland. He Was a thirty-second degree member of the Masonic fraternity in Cumberland and of Cumberland Chapter, Rose Croix. He was also a member of the Royal Arch Masons of Terra Alta, W. Va., Woodmen of the World, Jr. O. U. A. M., and other fraternal organizations. He was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran church of Oakland.

The deceased was active in Republican politics in Garrett county. He appeared frequently in removed Garrett county criminal and civilian cases in the Allegany county courts.

Active pallbearers at the funeral services were Messrs. Henry Lauer, Joseph E. Harned, A. D. Naylor, Paul Mitchell, Dr. William W. Grant, and B. H. Sincell.

Honorary pallbearers included W. F. Broening, Judge D. Lindley Sloan, Judge Waggaman, Judge A. A. Doub, Hon. F. N. Zihlman, Harry Nice, Leander Schaldt, Gerard Everstein, William R. Offutt, Harry Sincell, Dr. H. W. McComas, Dr. N. I. Broadwater, Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh, G. A. Fraley, G. S. Hamill, Fred Thayer, E. Ray Jones, A. T. Matthews, E. Z. Tower, George Browning, James Willison, Harland L. Jones, James L. Pollock, H. A. Loraditch, W. L. Burkhart, E. J. O'Neil, H. P. Stuck, R. E. Sliger, Stuart F. Hamill and Walter W. Dawson.

Those attending the services from a distance included Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Scherr, H. L. and M. C. Scherr and Miss Alma Scherr, Morgantown, W. Va.; Mrs. Theodore Renninger, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Miss Dorothy O'Neill, of New Orleans, La.; Dr. and Mrs. A. A.

Gilead Broadwater, Democratic Candidate for Commissioner.

Mr. Gilead Broadwater, merchant of Grantsville, sprung a surprise on his political associates last Saturday when he came to Oakland and filed with the Board of Supervisors of Elections a certificate of candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the office of County Commissioner. Mr. Broadwater, until he embarked in the mercantile business at Grantsville a number of years ago, was engaged in agricultural pursuits. In both he has been quite successful. He is a member of one of the oldest families in the county as well as one of the largest.

Following Mr. Broadwater's determination to be a candidate on the Democratic ticket, Mr. Louis A. Morgart, of Jennings, also announced his candidacy for Commissioners, and as there are three members of the Board to be elected, these two men, without entering into a primary contest, are now the candidates to be voted for at the general election in November.

BENEFIT RECITAL TO BE PRESENTED FOR LIBRARY

To Be Held August 29 in Connection With School of Oratory

A dancing recital, given by Misses Bolgiano and their class of pupils, for the benefit of the Oakland Free Public Library, will be held in the Mt. Lake Park amphitheatre on Friday afternoon and evening, in connection with the Byron King School of Oratory, it has been announced. Admission will be 50 cents.

The work of these young ladies is well known among the people of Oakland and the Park, and a public demonstration is always received with favor both on account of its assured excellence and novelty, and because of the fact that many children of these communities take part. Miss Emily Bolgiano, who studies at the Bard Avon School, will assist with readings, which Oakland audiences always know to be most pleasing, and Miss Mary Virginia Willison, who is an accomplished pianist, will accompany the dancers.

It is earnestly hoped that all persons will attend this entertaining exhibition, or purchase a ticket, the library president stated. The library is heavily in debt, and these performers, who are generously giving their services to help a good cause, deserve support. The Library has been a source of pleasure for years, and would be missed if it were forced to go out of existance. Tickets will be sold by children of the town.

PROHIBITION MAY BECOME ISSUE IN STATE ELECTION

Senator Goldsboroughs Demands That Republicans in Maryland Adopt Dry Platform

TAIT FAVORS SHOWDOWN

Prohibition as an out and out issue in the Maryland state elections in November has been demanded by Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough, after the Republican candidates themselves had not made known their stand on the liquor question when they fired the opening gun of the campaign at Hagerstown, last week.

The stand of the senator, Titular head of the Republican party in the state was made before the party's state committee meeting at Baltimore on Saturday. He previously, with Galen L. Tait, chairman of the committee, had demanded that the Republican Gubernatroial candidate be dry.

The party platform will not be drawn until the state convention, which will be held following the primaries, and Mayor Broening, the unopposed candidate for the governorship nomination has intimated that he will let that body determine his stand.

Ritchie a Known Wet

Governor Ritchie is unopposed for the Democratice nomination, and adoption of a bone platform might establish the coming campaign as an out and out wet-dry fight, with his wet leanings which have made him a national figure.

Mr. Goldsborough's stand was made known in a letter to the committee in which he gave tacit approval to Mayor Broening's candidacy, with one paragraph devoted to a short resume of his political achievements. The letter was read by Mr. Tait, who gave a like brief endorsement to the Republican Gubernatorial candidate be meeting.

Mr. Tait will still be the party chairman at the state convention and he with Senator Goldsborough will be the ruling powers, and if they hold their present standards, a dry platform will be adopted on which the Mayor and his running mates, David A. Robb for attorney General, William N. Jackson, for comptroller, and Dr. Charles Waner, for clerk of the court of appeals will have to make their campaign.

Short Circuit Causes Slight Blaze at Mt. Lake

A short circuit in the electric wiring caused a slight fire at the home of Howard Reinhardt, near Hamilton Hall, Mt. Lake Park, about 10:30 o'clock Monday morning.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire department was called but the blaze had been extinguished before the firemen arrived.

Another fire call was turned in Tuesday morning at 6:10 from Waingold's garage where a bus belonging to the Monongahela West Penn company had backfired and ignited, but the call was cancelled almost as soon as it was turned in. No damage resulted.

SCHOOL OF ORATORY WILL BEGIN SESSIONS TUESDAY

Stage Preparations Being Made This Week by Dramatic Director and His Assistants

The dramatic director of Byron King's School of Oratory, with his assistants, arrived in Mt. Lake Park this week to prepare the stage for the performances to be presented at the amphitheatre next week. The understanding is that if the Odeon is a success then the School of Oratory comes to Mt. Lake Park next summer for eight weeks, from early in June to the first part of August.

The interest and response to the advance sale of tickets has been most surprising, it is reported, and according to the local people who are working to bring this institution to Mt. Lake Park for eight weeks next summer the only thing left to do is to make arrangements for board and room at the various hotels and boarding houses in the Park. Already two managers of small hotels have approached the local representative with bids for the many students the school will bring along.

Next week's performances begin Tuesday evening at eight o'clock and continue the remainder of the week, afternoon and night, in the amphitheatre. The plays are the hits of Broadway and the actors and actresses who take the leading parts are those who have been performing in New York and over the country. These plays are not amateur performances, it is stated.

The biggest day of the week, Saturday, August 30, promises to be a memorable one in the history of Mt. Lake Park. Agricultural leaders from Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia, farmers and business men from the seven surrounding counties of the three states, and delegates from the great leading industries and organizations of the city of Pittsburgh will go into session for group discussions Saturday morning while the best orators and most well informed men in the agricultural field will address the mass meeting in the amphitheatre in the afternoon. The Honorable Gray Silver, known as the best informed man on agricultural matters, will be the principal speaker. Nat. T. Frame, director of the Agricultural Extension division of West Virginia University, who has a national reputation in his field, will also speak.

Other speakers include Jennings Randolph, Elkins, W. Va.; and many prominent men and women from Pittsburgh. The day will wind up with a play in the amphitheatre by the players secured by the King's School of Oratory.

William Albert Groves for House of Delegates

William Albert Groves, of Deer Park, District No. 10, is a candidate for Legislative honors, his announcement being found in The Republican today.

Mr. Groves has been a farmer all his life, but is at present engaged as a foreman by the Tri-State Engineering Company at Waynesburg, Pa. He is a son of W. W. Groves, of near Deer Park and is a man of mature years and good judgment. He has been with his present employers for a period of three years and at times has thirty or more men under his direction.

Jobless In Garrett County Number 153.

The number of persons living in Garrett county, usually working at a gainful occupation, who were reported on the unemployment schedule of the Fifteenth Census as without a job, able to work and looking for a job, was 153, according to John J. Stump, supervisor for this district.

The figures are preliminary and are subject to correction, and will be supplemented later by data for other classes of persons not at work at the time of the census, such as those who had a job but were sick or temporarily laid off.

Annual Anti-Saloon League Meets Sunday at Park

The annual meeting of the Anti-Saloon League will be held at Mt. Lake Park, on Sunday, August 31. George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, will speak at 11 o'clock a. m., and John A. McSparran, past master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, will speak at 2:30 p. m. Music will be furnished by the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland.

18-YEAR OLD GIRL SWIMS FIVE MILES IN DEEP CREEK

Zihlman Girl Goes Distance in 4 and One-fourth Hours Despite Choppy Waves

Braving the cold and choppy waters of Deep Creek Lake, nine miles north of Oakland, Miss Regina Howsare, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alanza Howsare, of Zihlman, Allegany county, swam the distance between the bridges that cross the lake in four hours and 15 minutes Sunday afternoon in the presence of several thousand people who lined the banks of the stream to witness her exhibition of endurance.

Miss Howsare, who is regarded as an expert swimmer, was confident that she could cover the entire distance of the lake under favorable conditions, but due to the choppy waters limited her exhibition to five miles. She will attempt to swim the entire distance of the lake, which is fifteen miles, in the near future.

Miss Howsare entered the water at 2:44 o'clock and by the time she swam from one bridge to the other and returned it was 6:59 p. m. The bridges are located 2½ miles apart. Two boats followed her but no aid was necessary since Miss Howsare emerged from the water in splendid condition. It marked the first time that Miss Howsare had swam in any body of water other than a swimming pool.

OBJECT OF COUNTRY LIFE DAY, AUG. 30, EXPLAINED

Preliminary Conference Held Last Friday at Mt. Lake Park

Preliminary to Country Life Day, August 30, at Mt. Lake Park, a conference was arranged at Thoburn Inn by Mr. Jack Grimes, between Mr. Nat T. Frame, director, and Mr. T. D. Gray, Landscape Specialist, West Va. University Extension Service, and several citizens of Oakland and the Park, last Friday evening.

Mr. Frame outlined the ultimate aim of the movement, stating that the present purpose was to determine whether or not the plan in mind was workable in this section. He stated that there was quite a scope of territory in West Virginia, extending around Parsons, Elkins and Aurora, as well also as in Somerset county, Pa., which by reason of soil distribution, climate and topography properly belonged in the Western Maryland section. He further stressed the idea that county and state lines so far as common interests were concerned, should be obliterated or at least ignored.

The idea was further advanced that after a careful survey of the industries of the surrounding territory, the boundaries should be definitely established and advertised under an appropriate name to be selected, the object being to develop a closer relationship with Pittsburgh, Baltimore, and other industrial centers for the purpose of finding channels for the distribution of the products of the regional section. Such a plan of mass cooperation would prevent class being arrayed against class, industry against industry, business against business, sects against sects, factions against factions and sections against sections. The plan, generally speaking, would provide for commodity groups to be set up, such as the potato growers, livestock, dairy and poultry associations, buckwheat and maple syrup, whose purpose would be to market the products of the farmers.

A further object would be to develop the tourist trade by means of regional advertisement, no one community in the regional section receiving undue publicity over another community. In other words the motto of the region would be "All for one and one for all."

It is urged that each community in Garrett county, as well as the neighboring counties of Mineral, Tucker, Grant, and Preston, send representatives to Mt. Lake Park on August 30, at which time a conference will be held and a general plan of organization discussed.

Scalded In Explosion

Bud Stevens, of Rowlesburg, was badly scalded when a boiler or some other water container, exploded in a cabin near the watering trough, on the Kitzmiller-Altamont road, yesterday afternoon, it was learned this morning.

PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED FOR PARADE ATTRACTIONS

K. of P. Lodge Perfecting Plans for 11th Annual Picnic

Prizes are being offered by Garrett Lodge No. 113, Knights of Pythias, for attractions in the Labor Day parade, to be held during the eleventh picnic celebration on September 1.

Alvey Martin, a member of the committee in charge of the parade, has announced the following prizes: best drum corps, $25.00; artistic float, $10; most comic attraction or float, $5; best comic group, $5; best clown $3; second best comic clown, $2.

The parade will take place at 10 o'clock and will consist of floats, trades display, bands, organizations and other attractions. The procession will end at the picnic grounds at Helbig's grove, at the north edge of town, where the Weaver Park Attractions company will have a number of rides and concessions, and where a number of other amusements will be stationed.

The picnic is held every year under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias lodge, and all committees are working to make this bigger and better than any previous year.

Prominent speakers will address the gathering. There will be a fireworks display at night, and a Ford roadster will be given away.

MUCH ACTIVITY IS SHOWN ON SCOUT CAMPING TRIP

Oakland Troop Closes One of Most Successful Outings Within Past Several Years

After one of the most successful outings within the past several years, according to the scout master, Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, returned Monday morning from their annual two weeks' camping trip at their permanent quarters on Deep Creek Lake.

Since the beginning of camp Ward Hinebaugh has practically reached the goal of Eagle Scout, seven Tenderfoot scouts were advanced to the second rank, four have reached the first class rank, and all but one member of the troop have passed their 50-yard swimming test, and two more members of the troop were added to the group who have obtained the merit badge in Lifesaving.

More than 100 tests were passed during study periods in camp, as compared with 60 last year. Howard Naylor, a Tenderfoot Scout, passed the highest number of tests in camp, having 16 to his credit. Others to pass tests included George Browning, Carroll Casteel, Walter Dawson, Richard Gonder, Gerald Iman, Lewis Jones, Kenneth Lawton, George Kerins, Robert Leary, Roger Maroney, John McIntire, Gene Nordeck, Fred Peddicord, George Stuck, Leroy Stewart, Eugene Showe, Robert Utterback, David Walter, Willis Hull, Howard Naylor. Preparations for merit badges were completed by Donald Stemple, Richard Glotfelty, Stuart Hamill, Robert Altstetter, Ward Hinebaugh, and Kenneth Lawton.

At the closing ceremonies on Sunday evening Fred Peddicord, Carroll Casteel, Kenneth Lawton, Robert Utterback, George Browning, George Stuck and Arthur Naylor were given their second class rank, while Richard Gonder, George Stuck, Lewis Jones, and John McIntire were advanced to the rank of first class. George Stuck passed from Tenderfoot to First Class with the exception of two months' service, necessary between advancement from one class to another.

Awards were presented as follows: best scout, exclusive of officers, Carroll Casteel, an official camping mess kit; best all-round scout, Harley Dawson, official scout axe; best patrol leader, Lewis Lawton, official scout knife; best patrol, Fox, pins to each member.

An average of 38 attended the camp during the two weeks, and the entire expense will not run over $325, according to the scoutmaster. There will be sufficient funds this year to take care of all bills, it was stated.

Court of Honor Monday

The regular meeting of the Court of Honor will be held Monday evening at 7:30 in the Masonic clubroom, H. L. Jones has announced. Quite a number of scouts will be in attendance to be examined on numerous merit badges.

Paul L. Romesburg, of Garrett, Pa., lessee of Morgart Mine No. 1, at Jennings, has placed cutting machines in the mine and expects to have a large output this winter and for some years to come.

SIXTY-NINE CANDIDATES FILE FOR BALLOT PLACES

Largest Number Aspire For Office of Sheriff—Factional Fight Apparent Among Democrats

FOUR WOMEN ASPIRANTS

After a last-minute rush of candidates the office of the Board of Supervisor of Elections for Garrett county closed at midnight Monday, the last day for filing, with seventy aspirants for office on its list. Nearly half of the number filed their certificates Monday.

Among the last-minute filings were the certificates of W. R. Browning, U. O. Blocher and Robert W. Sheckells for members of the Democratic State Central Committee, and William Miller and J. Frank Browning for delegates to the Democratic State Convention.

The belated certificate of candidacy of Bruce Friend, Republican candidate for nomination for County Commissioner, mailed at Fearer, according to the cancellation stamp, on Monday, August 18, was delivered to the office of the Supervisors yesterday afternoon, and was received by the Board, the election law providing that such date prior to the hour of filing certificates with the Supervisors is prima facie evidence that the paper is a legal document and as such must be received by the Board.

In addition to the seventy local or county candidates there are eleven aspirants for State and Congressional honors. The Republican candidate for Congress, Mr. Zihlman, has no opposition, and neither have the candidates on the Republican ticket for State offices. The only contest apparent at this time, except those of a local nature, is between David J. Lewis and Fuller Barnard, Democratic candidates for the Congressional nomination.

A local factional fight has been launched, however, among the Democrats. The aspirants for members of the State Central Committee of that party number nine. Six members compos the committee. Of these, those who claim to be regulars, are opposed by W. R. Browning, U. O. Blocher and Robert W. Sheckells. Others who have filed for members of the committee are Asa T. Matthews, Miss Frances C. Hamill, J. L. Ralston, Norval Speelman, S. K. Schlossnagel and Robert L. Wilson.

There also looms a friendly contest among Republicans for members of the local governing body, which is composed of four. Seven candidates have filed.

Dr. Henry W. McComas will be opposed in the Republican primary by Nathan R. Selby for Senatorial hon-

George Giessman Springs Surprise and Gets Into Race for County Commissioner

Geo. Giessman, former Treasurer, announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for County Commissioner Monday evening with the filing of his certificate of candidacy in the office of the Board of Supervisors of Elections. Mr. Giessman's card to the voters of the county appears in the list of candidates printed in The Republican today.

Faints Upon Seeing His Car Damaged

Glenn Sallock, of Terra Alta, W. Va., fainted Tuesday evening when he emerged from the Maryland theatre and saw that his Nash automobile, which he had parked in front of the Court House steps earlier in the evening, had been run into by another car and badly damaged.

The two fenders, running board and door on the left side were smashed. The car was bumped by Harry Harmon, who was driving a Graham-Paige automobile. He turned into Third street from Alder street and was unable to completely negotiate the turn. The other occupant of the Graham-Paige car was "Shine" Notes, colored.

Mr. Henry C. Myers Announces Candidacy for Sheriff.

Mr. Henry C. Myers, of Oakland, adds his announcement to the list of Republican aspirants for the nomination for Sheriff in this issue of The Republican. Mr. Myers has been an old-line Republican all his life, the son of a Civil War veteran, and at the present time a valued member of the Republican State Central Committee for this county. Always active in the affairs of his party, he has yet to receive consideration for the work he has done.

JONATHAN AND DAVID: A NOBLE FRIENDSHIP

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 18:1-4; 20: 16-17, 32, 34, 41, 42; II Samuel 1:17-27.

GOLDEN TEXT—A man that hath friends must show himself friendly and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Two True Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC—David and Jonathan, Friends.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding Worthy Friends.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Friend Who Does Not Fail.

The friendship of David and Jonathan has become immortalized in the world's thought. It was unique in that it occurred between two men of rival worldly interests. Jonathan was the crown prince, heir to the throne according to hereditary rights. David was heir by divine choice and arrangement. Jonathan knew this and magnanimously waived his natural personal rights in favor of the one he knew God had chosen.

I. Friendship Established Between David and Jonathan (I Sam. 18:1-4).

1. Love at sight (vv. 1, 2).

Following the interview of Saul and David, after the victory over Goliath, Jonathan's soul was knit with that of David. He loved David as his own soul. While there was mutual love, this pleasing trait stands out more prominently in Jonathan than in David.

2. A covenant established (vv. 3, 4).

The bringing of David into Saul's home gave opportunity for expression of love between Jonathan and David. This love resulted in the establishment of a covenant between them. Following this love covenant, Jonathan stripped himself of his court robe and his equipment and gave them to David. This act was a virtual abdication of the throne to David.

II. Jonathan Defended David Against Saul's Frenzy (I Sam. 19:1-7).

David went into the battle with Goliath out of zeal for God and true religion, not for personal glory, but it turned out as always, that because he put God first, God honored him. On David's return from victory over the Philistines, according to oriental custom, he was met by a triumphal chorus of women of all the cities of Israel, chanting praises to him for his victory over their enemy. They ascribed more praise and honor to David than to Saul. To hear sung the praises of a shepherd boy as surpassing his own was too much for Saul. It aroused murderous envy which had been slumbering in his heart and moved him to attempt twice to kill David. This is not an imaginary sin. Its counterpart may be found in many of our own hearts. The only cure for this dreadful evil is to put God first—to think more of him and our duty to him than our reputation before men. In Saul's third attempt to kill David, Jonathan defended him before his father, from whom he secured the oath that David should not be slain.

III. Jonathan Revealed to David Saul's Murderous Attempt (I Sam. 20:30-40).

The beginning of the new moon was celebrated by sacrifices and feasting at which all the members of the family were expected to be present (v. 5). David's excuse for being absent was that he might go home to attend the yearly sacrifice of his family. The annual feast was more important than the monthly feast. Matters were now so serious that Jonathan and David renewed the covenant between them. In this renewal the terms were broadened beyond the life of Jonathan (vv. 14, 15). Saul's anger was now so fierce that for Jonathan to be found in David's company was most dangerous, so he cleverly planned a sign by which he could make known to David Saul's attitude and purpose. True friendship is proven in warning those who are exposed to danger.

Concerning friendships, observe:

1. It should be made while both parties are young. This is the time when hearts are capable of being knit together.

2. Real friends are few. Great care should be exercised in the formation of friendships, for while loving everybody, it is possible to have only a few friends.

3. Both parties must be God-fearing. David and Jonathan both recognized their obligation to the Lord, and that his help was essential to the welfare of both.

IV. David Mourns for Jonathan (II Sam. 1:17-27).

When David learned of Jonathan's death he sincerely mourned, remembering his undying loyalty and his personal worth.

Love Is the Conqueror

Love alone in this world is the conqueror; by love alone can the nations of the world be brought into the paths of peace; to pursue and to attain love is to pursue the one thing needful to attain the only thing in the world.—Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin.

God's Presence or Absence.

I think I can say, through grace, that God's presence or absence alone distinguishes places to me.—William Burns.

Roth Reunion Held

The annual reunion of the Roth family was held at Ream's Grove, Crellin, on Sunday, August 17. Quite a number of the family from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Michigan were present, notwithstanding the inclement weather. A basket lunch was served.

S. M. Roth, Hagerstown; Sidney D. Phillips, Cumberland, and D. O. Roth gave interesting talks. All officers of the association were re-elected and included Alphin Roth, president; Stevens M. Roth, vice-president; A. R. Martin, secretary; Earl Roth, assistant secretary; Wm. Hauser, treasurer, and D. O. Roth, historian.

Death of H. G. Bills, Native of Grantsville, Md., at Wheeling, W. Va.

Henry G. Bills, a native of Grantsville, Md., but for the greater part of his 64 years of life a resident and prominent business man of Wheeling, W. Va., died at his home in the latter city at 5:30 o'clock Friday morning, August 8, of Bright's disease. He had been sick since April 9, this year.

Mr. Bills was born in Grantsville, April 5, 1866, the son of the late Charles and Barbara (Hammond) Bills. He is survived by his wife, Mary Jane (Wright) Bills, a native of Kentucky; one son, H. Wilson Bills, of Chillicothe, Ohio; two brothers, Frank Bills, of Lonaconing, Md., and Charles H., of Grantsville, and one sister, Mrs. Mary (J. A.) Frazier, of Berkley, Cal. One sister, Louisa, and three brothers, John, George and Andrew Bills, preceded him to the grave.

Henry G. Bills grew up in his native village. He received a good public school education in his native village, which was later augmented by much useful knowledge acquired in the school of experience. While yet a lad in his "teens" he studied telegraphy under a Grantsville tutor, and was still quite young when he secured a position as a Western Union telegraph operator in Pittsburgh, and in course of time receiver of press reports sent over the wires by the Associated Press and other news agencies. He also became an expert in handling market reports for brokerage houses. But the last twenty-five years of his life were devoted to the telephone business in West Virginia.

About 40 years ago he went from Pittsburgh to Wheeling as an employe of the Western Union Telegraph Company, resigning from that company a few years later to return to Pittsburgh as a telegrapher for a brokerage company. Less that three years afterward he went back to Wheeling and entered the employ of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company as salesman, and remained actively affiliated with that company since December 23, 1905. As the result of good work and good conduct he was made manager of the offices of the Wheeling District of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company in October, 1906, after less than one year of service with the company.

On November 1, 1921, he was transferred to Morgantown, W. Va., as manager of the offices of the same company there, and held that position until January 21, 1927, when he returned to Wheeling to accept the position of commercial representative of the company in that city, which position he held until his death. Had he lived until April 5, 1931, he would have been eligible for retirement, on having spent more than 20 years in the service of the company and reached the age of 65.

During the many years of residence in Wheeling he was not only prominent in business circles, but took an active part in the civic affairs of that city. He was a charter member of the Wheeling Rotary Club and was a much beloved and highly respected citizen.

He usually spent his annual vacation in his native village, where he was always a welcome visitor. He had a warm affection for the beautiful environments of his youth and for the good people of his old home town who will miss his annual visits.

Mr. Bills' last home, in which he passed away, was at 50 Fifteenth street, Wheeling. Funeral services were conducted at a mortuary home, 1308 Chapline street, at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, by Rev. W. H. Fields, pastor of the First Christian Church of Wheeling.

Early Sunday morning a motor caravan, conveying his body, left Wheeling and journeyed via the National Pike, a distance of 106 miles to Grantsville, where the mortal remains of Henry G. Bills were laid to rest beside his father and mother, brothers and sister, in the Bills family plot in the Grantsville cemetery, where the funeral cortege arrived shortly before noon.

The committment services were in charge of Rev. S. D. Sigler, pastor of the Lutheran Church.

The active pallbearers were: Milton Rodamer; Fred Livengood, D. W. Dorsey, W. E. Stanton, Stewart Rodamer and G. J. Gnagey, friends of the deceased in Grantsville. The honorary pallbearers were associates of Mr. Bills in the service of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company—Harry Drummond, commercial department; Frederick Dunning, district superintendent; George Thrall, district plant superintendent; J. White and W. Petty, all of Wheeling, W. Va., and Harry Roberts of Clarksburg, W. Va. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Among the friends and relatives who attended the burial were Mrs. Thrall, Miss Jule Heftly, Miss Anna McDonough, all of Wheeling; Miss C. Wright, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bills, Lonaconing; Mr. and Mrs. Goodlow Jackson, Cumberland.

The death of Mr. Bills is sincerely mourned by his bereaved family, business associates and a host of loyal and admiring friends.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

By SCOOP—HIMSELF

It's a good thing the paper is full of other articles and ads this week, because Scoop can hardly get down to work after his two weeks' sojourn in the wilds along Deep Creek Lake, acting as "Papa" to 33 ornery young'uns.

During his stay, too, he lost track of all the drug store loafers and wise crackers, and doesn't really know what is going on in Oakland. Even Col. Bell, when interviewed, couldn't give much satisfaction, as he says the kodak business is rushin'.

Scoop's brother did right well last week, but if he thinks that Scoop is going to take care of all the mail that comes to Salvation Mamie on questions of questionable etiquette, he is sadly mistaken. Everything addressed to Salvation Mamie will be forwarded to Pittsburgh for disposal.

* * *

This business of forming a habit is terrible. After having got up at 6 o'clock every morning for the last two weeks, Scoop had to go and get up at the same time yesterday morning in Oakland, but he was just in time for the fire whistle.

* * *

Hearing a commotion on the street Tuesday morning Scoop thought it was a bunch of political handshakers in a quarrel but when he got down the 68 steps leading from his office an Austin car was just pulling away from the curb. Jim Kerins said it was young and would grow, while somebody alse said it was liable to run up your sleeve if you put out your hand to turn a corner.

Right after that some candidate shoved a campaign card in my hand that had been printed in Chicago and asked for my support at the coming primary.

Thirty-five or thirty-six mothers of the community are wondering what Bill Turney, the scout camp cook, does to his food to make their boys eat like they do when away from home. They go for food in camp that they wouldn't think of eating at home. The cook even had Scoop cating spaghetti and pumpkin, but he still holds out on letting any cheese go down his Aesophagus.

IT'S WISE TO CHEVROLET CHOOSE A SIX

Announcing a new production record

2,000,000 Chevrolet Sixes now on the road

Since January, 1929, Chevrolet has produced and sold over 2,000,000 six-cylinder automobiles—nearly five times as many as any other manufacturer has ever built in an equal length of time.

These 2,000,000 buyers have chosen Chevrolet because it offers many desirable qualities not obtainable in any other car so low in price—

—the smoothness, silence and flexibility of a modern six-cylinder engine—the comfort and roadability of a modern, full-length chassis—and the style, safety and distinction of bodies by Fisher.

Yet, despite these fine car advantages, the Chevrolet Six is unusually economical. Its gas, oil, tire and upkeep economy is unsurpassed. And

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

G. E. Messersmith has completed a handsome buggy for Robert Felty. Bob says, "ain't she a daisy?"

W. McC. Brown, of Bayard, was in Oakland on Friday.

The summer season in Deer Park is unusually successful. The B. and O. hotel has a large number of guests.

Simon Myers, living about 3 miles southwest of Oakland, killed a rattlesnake on Friday which measured 4 feet 2 inches, and had 18 rattles.

While rlding at Mt. Lake last Saturday Robert Thornburg's horse became unmanageable and threw him against a barbed wire fence, cutting his leg very badly. Dr. H. W. McComas dressed his wounds.

Misses Frost, of Brady's are visiting Mrs. D. E. Offutt this week.

Jacob Stuck, the old reliable Republican of Selbysport, was in Oakland on Saturday.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Tank cars of the B. and O. were hauling water from the Oakland pumping station to points west including Terra Alta and Hutton. Continuation of the drought would make it necessary to supply Rowlesburg also, due to low water in Cheat river.

Beginning tomorrow free delivery of express goods received at the local office will be inaugurated. Mr. Thayne White has been appointed delivery agent by the express company.

Mr. Nelson Thomasson, Chicago, arrived in Oakland Saturday to visit his parents and also his sister, Mrs. C. E. Offutt.

Mr. Charles F. White and son Fritz, Hutton, spent Tuesday in Oakland with Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Jarboe.

Doub Jr., Judge Doub, Judge Sloan and George Henderson, all of Cumberland; and William Gunter, Frostburg.

Resolutions on the Death of Mr. Renninger Adopted by the Council of St. Mark's Lutheran Church

At a regularly called meeting of the Council of St. Mark's Lutheran Church of Oakland, held Monday evening, August 18, the following preamble and resolutions in memory of the late Julius C. Renninger, were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, Almighty God in His infinite wisdom has removed from earthly existence the late Julius C. Renninger, an esteemed and honored member of our Church, Sunday School and community; it is

RESOLVED, That we, the members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church and Sunday school bow in humble submission to the will of God, trusting, though we do not understand, He will keep us in true faith;

That we acknowledge with gratitude to God the years of unselfish service the deceased has rendered to his Church; so ably assisting in her various governing bodies. For a number of years he served as Sunday School Superintendent; often he served on the Church Council and for a number of years he was president of this governing board. He always gave his best in wisdom and service;

That we also acknowledge the service he rendered his community. With his eloquence and sound judgment he bore influence and carried esteem in fraternal circles that will long be remembered. He was held in high regard by the Court as well as by all members of the bar; he always showed a willingness to be fair in the administration of justice;

That we commend to God his loved ones who are left to mourn, and assure them of our prayers and any further help;

That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Church; that they be published in the weekly papers and that a copy be sent the bereft family.

By order of the Church Council of St. Mark's Lutheran Church.
C. A. SHILKE, Pastor.
H. C. SINCELL, President
E. P. KAHL, Secretary.

Children Receive Toxin-Antitoxin Treatment

Thirty-nine children attended the child welfare clinic, held Wednesday afternoon in the office of the county nurse, and 98 received the first inoculation of toxin-antitoxin treatment for the prevention of diphtheria. Children receiving the immunization are requested to return on Wednesday, August 27, at 2 p. m., for the second treatment.

Capper Medals to Two Best Girl Canners in County

Special awards by Senator Arthur Capper, of silver and bronze medals to the two best 4-H girls who enter Garrett County's best jar of home canned fruits, vegetables and meats in the National Canning Contest at Shenandoah, Iowa, is announced in a message to The Republican from Shenandoah, where the contest is being held under the auspices of the Household Science Institute.

Senator Capper, long a friend of the 4-H clubs and a member of the National Committee on Boys' and Girls' Club Work, in making the awards said that he hoped these awards would serve to encourage home canning work among farm girls and that they would prove of value to 4-H club leaders and extension workers in furthering this work.

REPORT ON DEEP CREEK IS MADE BY FISH BUREAU

Findings Are Submitted to Congressman Fred N. Zihlman

Hon. Lewis Radcliff, Acting Commissioner, Bureau of Fisheries, Washington, D. C., has submitted a report to Hon. F. N. Zihlman on the recent inspection of Deep Creek Lake, made by Mr. James of the United States Bureau of Fisheries and Mr. Swepson Earle, State Conservation Commissioner.

Mr. James' report brings out the fact that Deep Creek Lake is now overstocked with small rock bass, ranging in size from four to six inches. There are also a few good sized trout to be found in the lake. The rock bass, which are to be found in such large numbers, are of very little value either as a food or for sport. It is impossible for these fish to develop, due to a lack of natural food, in sufficient quantity to nourish them. The banks of the lake are of shale and gravel, rather steep and devoid of vegetation, thereby furnishing very little in the way of a food supply. It is therefore necessary to augment the food supply by artificial means, such as planting acquatic plants or by planting minnows and shiners in the water. Should the level of the water fluctuate to any great extent during the year, the plant life would be killed before it had a chance to attain sufficient growth. Minnows and shiners are not available in any quantities from other sources, but the original stock in the watershed will probably supply this type of food in the long run.

It has been suggested that the excess bass be destroyed by means of dynamiting, poisoning, etc. This, however, would not be practicable as it would destroy the other fish. The Bureau suggests the planting of other species of fish in the lake which are desirable for angling and which have predaceous, carnivorous characteristics which will lead them to be active competitors for the food supply and to prey upon the small rock bass. The most desirable fish in this line are brook and rainbow trout, largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleyed pike, pike and pickerel.

Congressman Zihlman has offered the suggestion to the Bureau that they diminish the number of small fish in the lake by seigning them out and transferring them to other waters, thereby increasing the food supply for the number left in the lake. In this way a great many of the small undesirable fish could be removed from the lake.

It has further been pointed out by the Bureau of Fisheries that Deep Creek Lake is not suited for trout, due to the fact that a great deal of the lake is shallow water and the portions of the lake suited to the production of trout are a limited number of acres of deep water. The conditions in the lake are admirable for the establishment and natural reproduction of both species of bass. In view of the high esteem in which the small mouth bass is held by anglers, it would appear that the best interests of the public would be served by concentrating on this form.

It should be pointed out that the development of Big Pool, in Washington county, as now contemplated by the State, should constitute a perpetual and productive source of supply of bass fingerlings for fall and spring planting in Deep Creek Lake, when they should range from three to six inches in length and be sufficiently large to combat the present adverse factors.

There is a question as to the advisability of planting walleyed pike in the lake, due to the apparent lack of good sized tributary streams and creeks for spawning grounds. Previous efforts to plant these fish have not been successful and the fact that this species must be planted as fry, will indefinitely delay the desired results. The supply of this species is very limited and would have to be brought from the Great Lakes area or Lake Champlain.

Pike and Pickerel are among the most predaceous fresh-water fish and would undoubtedly have considerable value in reducing the numbers of rock bass. Their spawning requirements are more in accord with those of the bass, and for this reason their successful establishment could be more confidently expected. The question of securing a supply of these fish for Deep Creek Lake would be a difficult one.

It therefore remains for the Bureau of Fisheries and the Conservation Commission to work out some solution of this problem. It is obvious, that whatever course is followed, the recovery will undoubtedly require as much time, or more, than has been required for the present unsatisfactory conditions to develop.

GORTNER

Mr. G. D. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Miller and two children, of Springs, Pa., spent Sunday here where the former filled the appointments in the Union church.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beachy and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Mary Crowe.

Mrs. Tena Murphy, Mrs. R. J. Edmuston and Mrs. Anna Bittinger were at Bruceton Mills on Tuesday.

James and Florence Deems, Mr. Roy Lee and family were visiting home folk on Sunday.

Misses Virginia and Helen Mosser spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Hervey Roth.

Messrs. Rufus Beachy and John Remo, of Mifflin county, Pa., preached to the Amish congregation on Thursday.

Misses Grace Filer and Mary Sisk, Loch Lynn, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sisk.

MISS REGINA HOWSARE

Miss Regina Howsare swam the distance between the two bridges of Deep Creek Lake last Sunday afternoon, despite the cold and choppy condition of the water. It is said she will repeat her performance in the near future.

CONSIDINE IS WINNER IN ANNUAL NET TOURNAMENT

Washington, D. C., Star Wins Western Maryland Title

Robert Considine, District of Columbia champion, won the men's singles championship in the eleventh annual Western Maryland tennis tournament, sponsored by the Women's Civic Club, by defeating Dr. John O'Loughlin, Pittsburgh star at Mt. Lake Park, on Saturday afternoon.

The Washington ace was forced to play four sets before downing the Smoky City racqueter by scores of 6-1, 6-1, 4-6 and 6-2. Considine is the second player to gain possession of the championship trophy which was won last year by B. F. Arkle, of Wheeling.

Miss Carspecken Wins

Miss Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown, W. Va., flashed brilliant tennis in the women's singles to defeat Miss Mary Will Wakefield, of Mobile, Alabama, 1929 champion, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3. In the semi-finals Miss Carspecken defeated Mrs. Ruth Martinez, Washington, D. C., 6-4, 6-4, while Miss Wakeford eliminated Miss Frances Walker, Washington, 6-1, 7-5.

After winning the singles title Considine teamed up with Lieut. S. K. Robinson, of Pasadena, Cal., to win the men's doubles championship, defeating B. F. Arkle, Wheeling, and William S. Ramsey, Uniontown, Pa., in the finals which went 6-3, 3-6 and 6-3.

Repeats In Doubles

The women's doubles championship was won by Miss Carspecken, Morgantown, and Miss Miriam Sullivan, Pittsburgh, who defeated Miss Frances Walker and Mrs. Ruth Martinez, Washington, in the finals, 6-4, 9-7.

ACCIDENT

Personal Mention

Misses Elma and Olga Georg, Louise Harmon, Georgia Eckert, Nettie and Gertrude Wiedenhammer, of Baltimore were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vandebee, of Preston, Minn., left Friday for their home after spending two weeks visiting at the home of Mrs. W. A. Speicher and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ault and other relatives.

Rev. Felix Robinson, of New York, formerly of Accident, visited at the home of Mr. Henry M. Speicher Friday and Saturday.

Quite a number of the Accident people attended the picnic at Bittinger last Saturday, which was quite a success.

Miss Margaret Friend, who has been very ill for the past two weeks, is much improved.

Arthur Lininger and family, Champion, Pa., visited relatives here last week. They returned home Monday, being accompanied by Mrs. Leah Lininger, who will remain with them for several weeks.

Albert Glass and family, Uniontown, spent the past week visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Kemp and other relatives here.

STATEMENT OF

Samuel J. Cole

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR HOUSE OF DELEGATES

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County, Maryland:—

In order that the people of Garrett County may understand my position on some of the points of importance to them at this time, I wish to make the following statement:

1. I am against any issuance of bonds for this county without a provision submitting the same to the voters for acceptance or rejection.
2. I will support the prohibition law in the way the people have indicated by their votes.
3. I will support measures tending to reduce taxes upon citizens and will vote against the exemption of any corporation from its share of State and county taxes.
4. If I am nominated and elected to the Maryland Legislature I will at all times try to know the desires of the people and act accordingly.

Respectfully submitted,
SAMUEL J. COLE,

Republican Candidate for nomination for House of Delegates.
Kitzmiller, Md., August 19, 1930.

PROCLAMATION

Proposing Amendments to the Constitution of the State, 1930.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1929, two Acts were passed, to-wit: Chapter 133 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," to authorise deputies in the Treasury Department to sign checks and warrants; and Chapter 348, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 133.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," so as to confer upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Depsrtment, to sign, countersign and grant warrants, and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the State Treasury under regulations prescribed by the Legislature; and providing for the submission of said amendment to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoptio nor rejectiojn.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all of tha Members of both of the Houses concurring), That an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Marylsnd, title, "Treasury Department," be and the same is hereby proposed, the said amendment, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become a part of said Constitution, and the said Sections as amended to read as follows:

2. The Comptroller shall have the general superintendence of the fiscal affairs of the State; he shall digest and prepare plans for the improvement and management of the revenue, and for the support of the public credit; prepare and report estimates of the revenue and expenditures of the State; superintend and enforce the prompt collection of all taxes and revenue; adjust and settle, on terms prescribed by law, with delinquent collectors and receivers of taxes and State revenue; preserve all public accounts; and decide on the forms of keeping and stating accounts. He, or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature, shall grant, under regulations prescribed by law, all warrants for money to be paid out of the Treasury, in pursuance of appropriations by law, and countersign all checks drawn by the Treasurer upon any bank or banks in which the moneys of the State may from time to time be deposited. He shall prescribe the formalities of the transfer of stock, or other evidence of the State debt, and countersign the same, without which such evidence shall not be valid; he shall make to the General Assembly full reports of all his proceedings, and of the State of the Treasury Department within ten days after the commencement of each Session; and perform such other duties as shall be prescribed by law.

3. The Treasurer shall receive the moneys of the State, and, until otherwise prescribed by law, deposit them, as soon as received, to the credit of the State, in such bank or banks as he may, from time to time, with the approval of the Governor, select (the said bank or banks giving security, satisfactory to the Governor, for the safekeeping and forthcoming, when required of said deposits), and he or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall disburse the same for the purposes of the State according to law, upon warrants drawn by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and on checks countersigned by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and not otherwise. The Treasurer or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall take receipts for all moneys paid from the Treasury Department; and receipt for moneys received by him shall be endorsed upon warrants signed by the Comptroller, or such deputy as may be authorized to do so by law, without which warrants, so signed, no acknowledgment of money received into the Treasury shall be valid; and upon warrants issued by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, the Treasurer shall make arrangements for the payment of the interest of the public debt, and for the purchase thereof, on account of the sinking fund. Every bond, certificate, or other evidence of the debt of the State shall be signed by the Treasurer, and countersigned by the Comptroller; and no new certificate or other evidence intended to replace another shall be issued until the old one shall be delivered to the Treasurer, and authority executed in due form for the transfer of the same filed in his office, and the transfer accordingly made on the books thereof, and the certificate or other evidence cancelled; but the Legislature may make provisions for the loss of certificates or other evidences of the debt; and may prescribe, by law, the manner in which the Treasurer shall receive and keep the moneys of the State.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the aforegoing sections as amended, shall be, at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, nineteen hundred and thirty, submitted to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State, and at said general election the vote on the proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the following synopsis of said amendment, under the caption of:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT AMENDING SECTIONS 2 AND 3 OF ARTICLE VI."

"This amendment confers upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury of the State under regulations prescribed by the Legislature."

Approved: April 2, 1929.

CHAPTER 348

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Legislative Department," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of fifteen dollars per diem for every day he shall attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of ten dollars per day. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election for Members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against the said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: April 11, 1929.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ALBERT C. RITCHIE, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that this proclamation containing full, true and correct copies of the text of said Chapters 133 and 348 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1929, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months next preceding the general election to be held in the State of Maryland on Tuesday, the 4th day of November, 1930, at which election the said proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be submitted in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

DIED.

MRS. DANIEL E. ORENDORF

Mrs. Daniel E. Orendorf, daughter of the late Peter P., and Mary C. Lohr, aged 50, died at her home near Oakland, at 5:15 p. m., Wednesday evening after a lingering illness of some months. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from St. Mark's Lutheran church, of Oakland, Rev. C. A. Shilke, pastor, officiating. Interment will be made in Oakland cemetery.

The deceased is survived by her husband who is a member of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, and two children, H. Max Orendorf, at home; Mrs. E. C. Bay, Detroit, Mich., and her mother, Mrs. Lohr.

Mrs. Georgia Hoye Dunnington, wife of W. Creed Dunnington, of Mt Lake Park, died suddenly Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock. She had been in failing health for two years but had arisen for her breakfast on that morning. She retired to her room following breakfast and was discovered dead sometime later.

Funeral services were held from Bolden's Funeral home, Oakland, with interment in the family cemetery at Deer Park.

She had been married for 25 years and is survived by her husband and one step-daughter, Mrs. William Grimes, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

MISS ETHEL LOAR

The death of Miss Ethel Loar, of Clarksburg, W. Va., was announced last night to relatives in Oakland, her demise having occurred at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Loar was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson L. Loar and had been a confirmed invalid for many years. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

MARY RUTH BROWN.

Mary Ruth Brown, 18 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown, died at her home four miles from Bayard, W. Va., Monday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock. Death was due to typhoid fever. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at White church, on the Loch Lynn-Gorman road. The deceased is survived by her parents, three brothers and four sisters. She was a sophomore in Bayard high school.

Services Held for Last Local Civil War Veteran

Funeral services for David Durst, the last Civil War veteran to reside in Oakland, who died at his home in Oakland last Thursday morning at 4:30 o'clock, were held Saturday afternoon from the home, Rev. B. T. Trevey officiating, assisted by Dr. Archibald Moore, of Oakland, and Rev. William Anderson, of Mt. Lake Park. Members of Proctor Kildow Post, American Legion, had charge of the interment in Oakland cemetery.

The deceased was born in New Germany, this county and moved to Oakland 41 years ago. He was married twice, his first wife being Amelia Sheets. No children were born to this union. A few years later he was united in marriage to Miss Lucinda Beachy. Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, Earl, who resides at home; and Lloyd, of Wheeling, West Va.

Mr. Durst was one of a large family, all of whom are dead except one sister, Miss Mary Jane Durst, who has been making her home in Oakland for the past three years. He was a member of the M. E. church, and the church choir rendered "The Old Rugged Cross," "Abide With Me," and "Rock of Ages," his favorite pieces.

David Durst was a son of Daniel and Eliza Compton Durst. Robert Compton, his great grandfather, was messenger boy to General George Washington during the Revolutionary War. Mr. Durst served his country three years during the Civil War and had an honorable discharge. He was a shoemaker by trade, a good citizen, and a man of pleasing personality.

Relatives attending from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Durst and daughter, of Wheeling, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kamp, Elkins, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Chris Durst, Grantsville; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Robeson, Avilton; Mrs. Raley and daughter, Mrs. Stevens, Miss Beatrice Nathan, Grantville; Mrs. Ella Augustine, Friendsville; Mr. Ward Beachy, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Beachy and child, Grantsville; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Durst and family, Underwood.

MT. LAKE PARK

A home wedding, beautiful in its simplicity, was solemnized at the home of Rev. and Mrs. William Anderson, Loch Lynn Heights, when their son, William, was united in marriage with Miss Katherine McNeeley, at high noon Sunday, August 10. Rev. Anderson performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in Napoleon blue crepe, with crystal trimmings. She was attended by Mrs. F. O. Anderson, of Salisbury, Pa.

The groom is well known in Garrett county, formerly having been assistant bookkeeper with the Kendall Lumber company. He is now connected with a wholesale house at McKeesport.

The happy couple left immediately after lunch for their future home at McKeesport.

Mrs. E. T. Meadows announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Pauline Meadows, to Mr. William N. Bolen, of Wheeling, W. Va., Saturday, August 19, at Mountain Lake Park. Rev. W. M. Shultz performed the ceremony.

On last Sunday, at the Aid Hall, Loch Lynn, a reunion of the White family was held. Mr. Murray White, aged 90, and Mrs. Ellen Tasker, aged 87, were two of the older White clan present. The day was spent in pleasant reminiscences and the renewing of old friendships. A feature of the meeting was the rendition of a song composed by Mrs. Charles E. Hardesty, by her husband. About 200 sat down to a bountiful dinner at noon.

Again the magic circle of friendship has been broken by the death of Mrs. W. C. Dunnington, which occurred last week. Mr. and Mrs. Dunnington have long been identified with the interests of the Park. The passing of Mrs. Dunnington, while not entirely unexpected, her death coming suddenly, was a distinct shock to the community. Many expressions of sympathy and condolence have been expressed by her large circle of friends.

The second annual Junior Western Maryland Tennis Tournament will be held at Mt. Lake Park on August 27, on the courts at the Bowling Alley. Entries for singles are fifty cents to be sent in advance to Logan Weber, Oakland, Md.

Last year this Junior Tournament excited quite a good deal of interest among the younger crowd. The cup was won by Keeler Foss, after an exciting contest with Miss Frances Grimes. The rules this year provide that all players must be under eighteen years of age. Both boys and girls of that age are invited to compete. The rules further provide that all players must be on the courts at 10 o'clock on the morning of the play.

Final arrangements have been completed for the celebration of the completion of the first unit of the Mt. Lake-Gormania road, to be held on August 23. The place for the big dinner and the speaking has been fixed at the Murphy grove, on top of Little Mountain, at the end of the good road. The underbrush has been cleared, tables built and everything possible done to make the large crowds as comfortable as possible. In case of rain, arrangements are being made to take care of the situation.

The crowd will assemble at the Loch Lynn end of the road and the motor procession, headed by the bands, move to the grove. Arrangements have been made for the bus to return to Loch Lynn after conveying the band boys to the place of celebration, and any one without means of conveyance will be taken to the grove gratis.

Large donations of food have been made by the good people of Ryans Glade, White Church, Gorman and Bethlehem—enough for all.

Prominent speakers are expected from Maryland, a number of whom have accepted.

Mrs. Minnie F. Ludington, wife of Mr. George Ludington, of Baltimore, died suddenly yesterday morning at the Park. Mr. and Mrs. Ludington came to the Park several weeks ago, in the hope that her health would be benefited. The nature of her illness, however, was such that small hope was held out for her recovery. Mrs. Ludington was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Armstrong, who first came to the mountains in 1882.

The body was conveyed to the late home of the deceased in Baltimore Wednesday night, where the funeral will be held.

HIGH SCHOOL BUS RIDES COST MORE IN MARYLAND

Average Increase Per Pupil in 1929 Over Previous Year In the Counties Was $3.77.

Average transportation costs per county high school pupils in 1929 showed an increase of $3.77 over those for 1928, although the average annual cost of transportation for a county elementary school pupil showed a decrease of $1.68, according to a report issued by the State Department of Education on last Saturday.

In six counties, Garrett, St. Mary's, Harford, Calvert, Wicomico and Allegany, the cost of transporting elementary school pupils was at least $5 lower than in 1928. In Kent and Talbot, there were increases of $9 and $4.50, respectively. Three counties, Garrett, Kent and Cecil had costs of more than $40 per pupil.

The average amount spent from public funds for each high school pupil transported in twenty of the counties totaled $27.62. In three counties, Carroll, Harford and St. Mary's, pupils had to get to high school at their own expense. This also was the policy in Calvert the preceding year, but in 1929 the county adopted free transportation for pupils to the high schools.

Anne Arundel changed from the plan of requiring high school pupils to pay part of the cost of transportation on the county bus lines.

In 1929 transportation was furnished to ninety-nine graded elementary schools, forty-eight two-teacher schools, and twenty-six one-teacher schools, showing an increase of thirty-eight schools having elementary grades only to which children were transported in 1929.

Some Counties Own Busses

In the fall of 1929, of the 583 motor busses used for the transportation of children, 39 were owned by the county boards of education, and the remaining 544 were owned by the contractors. Montgomery owned 18, Baltimore 12, Garrett 3, Calvert and St. Mary's 2 each and Anne Arundel and Harford counties 1 each.

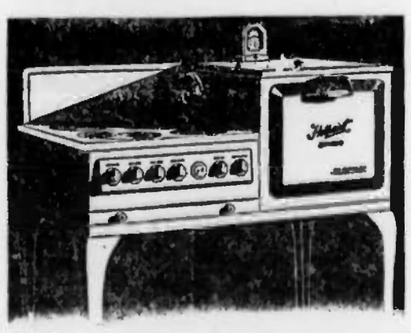
make an electric range practical for every home

These four sensational new improvements remove every obstacle to owning an electric range. They make it possible for every woman to realize her dream of cooking the easiest, cleanest and most modern way . . . that is with electricity.

It's no longer necessary to count current cost. For the new low rate of only 1¾c for every kilowatt hour over 150 a month makes electricity a remarkable bargain in convenience. As a result, all the advantages of electric cookery are available for even the home with the limited budget. And in addition, other time and labor saving electric appliances may be enjoyed more freely; the cost of ample lighting is less.

The 1¾c rate, alone, would be great news. But just think . . . you can have a beautiful, all-white, 1930 model electric range for as low as $129.50 installed. We put in adequate meter entrances without charge as part of the company's equipment where an electric range is to be in use. So you save more than $50.00 on an original installation or whenever you move to a new house.



No matter from whom you purchase your range or how long you've had it . . . it's as simple to connect as your electric iron.

But economy in current, p u r e hase price and installation cost is only part of the story. The new Hotpoint ranges also make an important new saving in cooking t i m e. Faster cooking is another example of the great strides electricity is taking in solving your home-making problems . . . lightening age-old household tasks . . . and giving you wonderful new leisure.

Detailed information about how the four new improvements will affect you as a range owner will be gladly given at our office. Stop in the next time you are in the neighborhood.

COUNTY TEACHING STAFF FOR 1930 IS ANNOUNCED

Three New Principals Named for High Schools—Oakland High to Have Fifteen Instructors

TEN POSITIONS STILL OPEN

Three new principals for Garrett County High schools, a new principal for Oakland Grammar school and six new instructors in Oakland High School were named for the ensuing school term, in addition to other appointments, it was learned this morning at the office of the Board of Education for Garrett county.

Mr. Rathbun, County Superintendent, pointed out that the list of teachers was but tentative and might be changed to some extent before the opening of school on Monday, September 8. There are still ten vacancies to be filled.

The teachers of the county will meet in Oakland on Thursday and Friday, September 4 and 5, at the high school building, where the work of the year will be outlined.

The new principals appointed by the Board of Education are F. D. Bittle, of Williamsport, Md., who will take the position made vacant by the resignation of Miss Katharine T. Conley, Oakland High School; B. O. Aiken, of Bethesda, Md., will be principal of Accident High School in place of Austin A. LaMar, resigned. O. P. Jones, of Morgantown, W. Va., will be principal at Kitzmiller High School, taking the place of Joseph M. Bishop, resigned.

Morris L. Stier, of Glenlg, Md., will be principal of Oakland Grammar School.

The new instructors for Oakland High school include Charles S. Warner, Bel Air, history; W. K. Whitcraft, White Hall, Md., mathematics; Miss Mary Thomas, Grafton, W. Va., English; Miss Monna Bland, Morgantown, W. Va., music; Bernard N. King, Lonaconing, history. Oakland High school will have fifteen instructors this year.

Law Governing Attendance

All children who are 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 or 12 years of age (or to their actual 13th birthday) are required by the State school law to attend school each and every school day unless specifically excused by some provision of the said law.

Children 13, 14, 15 or 16 years of age (or to their actual 17th birthday) who have not completed the seventh grade, are required by the state school law to attend school the entire time schools are in session, beginning Monday morning, September 8th unless they are lawfully and regularly employed.

Children who have received a certificate of graduation from the seventh grade are not to return to the elementary schools as pupils unless they are given permission by the Superintendent of Schools so to do.

Pupils Must Be Vaccinated.

Parents are advised to see that all children entering school have been successfully vaccinated, as no child will be permitted to enter school who has not been vaccinated and has a certificate to that effect.

The list of teachers for high and elementary schools as given out at the School Board office contains the following names of teachers and the schools to which they have been assigned as teachers:

High Schools.

Friendsville—W. J. Glenn, principal; Ethel Roberts, Clifford E. Funk, Roselle Bishoff, Charley B. Miller.

Grantsville—W. Day Mullinix, principal; Emma Caulk, Frank Getty, Margaret Leighton, Harley Spoerlein, Ruth Conley.

Accident—B. O. Aiken, principal; Arthur Scrogum, Helen Custer, Marguerite Carter, Marguerite Bewley, H. W. Beggs.

Oakland—F. D. Bittle, principal; W. W. Jenkins, Rose Rice, Edna Kraft, Martha Engle, Margaret Kochenderfer, Foster Speicher, W. K. Whitcraft, Calvin S. Warner, Mary Louise Thomas, Nathan B. King, Eva Falkenstein, Oren T. Graser, Monna Bland. Commercial teacher to be supplied.

Kempton—Asa Lewis, principal; Kathryn Speicher.

Kitzmiller—O. P. Jones, principal;

Contest Entrants Urged To Clean Up Grounds Before Final Inspection

All entrants in the Oakland Yard and Garden contest are being urged by members of the Oakland Civic club to clean up their yards and gardens for the final inspection of the judges which is to take place in the near future.

It was pointed out that if the clean-up was attended to immediately the entire town would look more presentable for Labor Day, September 1.

Finances of County In Good Shape, County Treasurer Says

The office of the county treasurer is being swamped with people coming to pay their taxes before the end of the discount period, according to Mr. A. L. Lee, treasurer. "Taxes are coming in unusually fast and we have plenty of money in the bank to cover all orders," Mr. Lee stated. "The financial condition of the county is in as good shape as previous years if not better."

The funds of the treasurer were considerably augmented on Wednesday when two checks came in from the Youghiogheny Hydro-electric corporation, amounting to $112,525.28. This amount is practically one-fourth of the entire county taxes.

Mr. Lee said that because of September 1 being Labor Day and a legal holiday, people coming to pay their taxes on September 2 would be eligible to receive discount rate

PROGRAM COMPLETE FOR FARMERS' DAY AT PARK

Sessions Will be Held Morning, Afternoon and Evening

The program for "Farmers' Day" at Mt. Lake Park has been completed and barring inclement weather a large turnout is being predicted. The program opens at ten o'clock and continues all day and into the evening, the night feature being the farewell performance in the amphitheatre by the Byron King players who have been giving performances at the Park since Tuesday.

Nat. T. Frame, director of the Extension Division of West Virginia University, will lead the discussions in the morning conference being introduced by the chairman of the meeting, Mr. John H. Carter, county agent of Garrett county.

In addition to three state extension services being represented at these meetings, county agents from nine counties with delegations are coming and representatives from the following industrial and social organizations: National Dairy Council, Farmers Cooperative Sales, Pittsburgh Board of Education, Pennsylvania R. R., B. & O. Railroad, Pittsburgh Retail Merchants Association, Pittsburgh Planning Commission, The Metropolitan Commission, West-Penn Co., Parent-Teacher Association, Congress of Womens Clubs, Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Maryland State Forestry Department and many other institutions and agencies.

The afternoon meeting in the amphitheatre will open with a concert by the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland. Hon. Gray Silver will make the principal address of the afternoon and will be introduced by Mr. Jennings Randolph, of Elkins, who will be the Chairman for the afternoon meeting. Mr. Randolph will introduce several men and women for short talks, among the number being David J. Lewis, Nat. T. Frame, T. B. Symons, Mrs. R. W. Johnston, President of Congress of Womens Clubs, and others.

Civic Club Meets

The regular meeting of the Oakland Civic Club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Thekla Fundenburg. After the opening devotions and the regular business meeting, entertainment was furnished by Miss Daisy Grant, of Washington, D. C., and by Karl Emerson Williams, associated with the Byron King School of Oratory and the Ambassador theatre, of New York.

Miss Grant gave a piano recital, while Mr. Williams gave two readings, one a negro character sketch, and the other "Deburau", translated from the French by Sacha Guitry.

Following the entertainment refreshments were served by the hostess.

Robbers Enter Loch Lynn Store

Tuesday night the store of Harvey & Ream, Loch Lynn, was entered by thieves, who got into the building through a rear window. They were evidently frightened away before securing any loot, as a careful check failed to reveal anything missing. The cash register, which contained only a small sum of money, was not disturbed. It is thought that the securing of food was the chief object of the visit, as the door between the warehouse and the main room was carefully locked by the thieves on the wareroom side, in order, it is presumed, to insure the safe loading of a truck with flour, meat and other staple articles stored therein. There is no clew as to the identity of the party or parties.

BYRON KING SCHOOL WILL CONTINUE PRESENTATIONS

Friday Performances To Be In Connection With Bolgiano Dancers For Library Benefit

WILL CLOSE ON SATURDAY

The Byron W. King School of Oratory which has been giving performances in the Amphitheatre at Mt. Lake Park since Tuesday evening, will continue the presentations this evening, tomorrow and Saturday with plays that are hits of Broadway, and other special features.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock a one-act play will be presented, "Suppressed Desires," and also "Odds and Ends," by Nathan B. Keener.

Friday at 2 p. m. and again at 8 p. m., there will be a Children's Kermiss, a wonderful day's performance combining with the Misses Bolgiano dancing classes for the benefit of the Oakland Free Public Library.

Saturday will be known as "Farmers' Day." At 10 a. m., there will be a farm and regional conference in the auditorium with Nat T. Frame director of extension work of West Virginia University, in charge. The Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland will give a concert at 2 p. m. in the amphitheatre, and at 3 o'clock there will be speaking. Hon. Gray Silver will talk on agricultural matters as well as a number of others.

"Applesauce", a three-act play, will be given by the actors and actresses of the Byron W. King school, at 8 o'clock p. m.

Many persons who have attended the plays thus far have stated that "It's the finest thing of its kind that has ever been in Mt. Lake Park." Every player is a real artist and interprets his part in the plays to the satisfaction of all who have witnessed the performances.

The Oakland Hardware and Furniture company, in donating the use of furniture; the H. Weber and Sons company, in donating flowers; the Mrs. Hardy Candy company, in supplying candy, have contributed to the success of the shows, and those who have witnessed any of the plays are hoping that the school will return to Mt. Lake Park next year for its summer term.

Admission to each performance throughout the remainder of the week is 50 cents. There will be no charge for Saturday morning and afternoon programs.

Mr. Burruss to Address Rotarians at Inter-City Meeting

Mr. W. B. Burruss, inspirational sales counsellor, a summer resident of Hemlock Hollow, near Oakland, will be the principal speaker at the Inter-city Rotary meeting, to be held this evening in the William-James hotel, Oakland. Morgantown, Terra Alta and Oakland clubs will take part in the meeting.

Franklin Randcroft Hipps, of the Byron King School of Oratory, will be on the program, and J. L. Grimes will entertain with the banjo.

COUNTY HORSESHOE CHAMP WILL BE CHOSEN AT FAIR

Tournament Being Held This Year Under P. A. L., Baltimore

A champion horseshoe pitcher of Garrett county will be chosen again this year who will be eligible to compete for the State championship honors, it has been announced by Grover Stemple, mayor, who received word from the Playground Athletice League of Baltimore, sponsor of the tournaments.

The horseshoe tournament for Garrett county will be held during the annual agricultural fair, at the fair grounds, near town, and an official referee from Baltimore will decide the winner. Last year Paul Welch, of Gortner, was crowned Garrett county champion, but was eliminated in the State tournament at Baltimore.

A meeting will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the City Hall, Oakland, for all those interested, Mr. Stemple stated, and the county chairman will be selected at that time. Entries will be received at the meeting or may be sent to Mr. Stemple. "Now is the time for everybody to get busy and practice ringing the peg," Mr. Stemple stated. "Ladies are not barred from entering into competition."

HARMONY MEETING HELD AT ACCIDENT YESTERDAY

Leading Democrats of County Met In Convention for the Purpose of Naming Local Ticket

3 OF COMMITTEE RESIGN

With a reported attendance varying from 25 to 50, and with nine of the fifteen districts of Garrett county represented, Democrats assembled in the high school building at Accident yesterday afternoon for a harmony meeting and for the avowed purpose of naming a full county ticket.

Mr. U. O. Blocher, member of the County Committee, called the meeting to order, stating that its object was for the purpose of nominating a local ticket, give the county committee authority to fill vacancies on the ballot and above all to harmonize the differences existing between the two wings of the party and present a solid front at the fall election.

Former Senator John W. McCullough was named presiding officer of the meeting and Mr. W. A. Gonder, of Oakland, was chosen as its secretary.

With the organization of the convention completed, nominations of candidates for the various local offices was declared in order, but before the motion was adopted Mr. Blocher tendered his resignation as a member of the county committee and withdrew his name as a candidate for re-election as a member of the committee. His action was immediately followed by the resignation from the committee by W. R. Browning and Robert W. Sheckells as members of the committees and also as candidates to succeed themselves on the governing body of the organization.

Nominations for candidates for the State Senate was then taken up and the following nominated, all of whom declined: John W. McCullough, Wm. Miller, Norval Speelman, W. H. Hinebaugh, E. A. Browning, Fred. P. Miller, Charles F. White, U. O. Blocher.

For House of Delegates candidates J. Elbert Michael, of Bloomington district, Ervin Stanton, of Grantsville, and Mrs. Thaddeus C. Hinebaugh, of Oakland, were named. As in the case of the Senatorial nominees, these also declined to become candidates.

Charles A. Bender, of Grantsville, was nominated for County Commissioner with two other Democratic candidates from the same district who filed their certificates with the Board of Supervisors of Elections several days before the time expired for the filing of such papers. District No. 3 has three persons on the party ticket for this office.

Mr. C. Ervin Stanton, of Grantsville, was named as the candidate for County Treasurer, and U. O. Blocher, of Grantsville, as a delegate to the Democratic State convention.

With the adoption of a resolution empowering the governing committee to fill all vacancies on the ticket, the convention adjourned.

For the purpose of carrying out the instructions of the convention relative to naming candidates for the vacancies now existing, the committee will meet in Oakland on Tuesday, September 2.

MOTORIZED TRAINS BEGIN SERVICE THRU OAKLAND

Gasoline-Electric Coaches Used on Trains Nos. 35 and 36

Gasoline-electric powered coach and trailer service went into effect the latter part of last week on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad between Cumberland and Grafton, replacing the steam-powered trains, No. 35 and No. 36. The trailer is a regular day coach.

Train No. 36 arrives in Oakland at 9:48 a. m. eastbound, and train No. 35 arrives here at 5:00 p. m., westbound.

The change was made, railroad officials said, because of the reduced operating expense of at least $500 monthly. The motor-driven coach handles baggage, express, and passengers. It is said that the gasoline-electric coach has difficulty in making the high mountains on schedule time, and it is supposed that a larger motor will be installed in a short time. Rail motor cars and trailers have been in use on Baltimore and Ohio branch lines for several years, and have been found to be highly successful in level country. A further extension of the service is expected.

Barn and Contents Destroyed by Lightning

Fire, caused by a bolt of lightning, entirely destroyed the barn belonging to John W. Herman, Republican candidate for the Board of County Commissioners, at Fort Hill, five miles from Swanton, early Tuesday morning.

Mr. Herman was able to get all the horses and cows out in plenty of time, but quite a lot of hay and oats were consumed by the flames. Insurance on the building amounted to $1,200, it was stated.

Aid was summoned and the small outbuildings and house were saved. The total loss will be about $2,000, Mr. Herman stated.

ANOTHER EAGLE SCOUT IS ADDED TO OAKLAND TROOP

Ward Hinebaugh Becomes Eligible for High Rank at Court of Honor Monday Evening

OTHERS NEARING GOAL

The goal of all scouts, the rank of Eagle, was attained at the regular meeting of the Scout Court of Honor on Monday evening when Ward Hinebaugh passed five merit badges and became eligible for the promotion.

The rank of Eagle has now been attained by nine boys since the formation of the troop in 1924, the other eight receiving their title about August, 1926, after being started well on their way by Rev. A. J. Torrey, Oakland Troop's first scoutmaster.

To become an Eagle Scout it is necessary to pass twenty-one merit badges, twelve of them required, first aid, life saving, personal health, public health, cooking, camping, civics, bird study, pathfinding, pioneering, and athletices or physicial development. It is also necessary for the scout to live up to the scout oath and law, the motto and the daily good turn.

Harley Dawson, Lou Lawton, Richard Davis, James Nordeck, Joseph Sollars, and Elvin Iman are not far from the goal of Eagle Scout and some of them expect to reach the mark before the end of the year.

The Court of Honor on Monday was the most successful held in several months, according to H. L. Jones, chairman, thirteen scouts presenting themselves for examination. Twenty-five merit badges were passed. The awards are as follows: Robert Altstetter, firemanship; Kenneth Lawton, firemanship, handicraft; Stuart Hamill, lifesaving; Carroll Casteel, bookbinding; Ward Hinebaugh, bookbinding, camping, plumbing, lifesaving, bird study; George Kerins, swimming; Schell Hoye, physicial development.

Elvin Iman, physical development, camping, personal health, public health; James Treacy, physical development, first aid, personal health; Richard Glotfelty, handicraft, pioneering; Donald Stemple, pioneering; Harley Dawson, bird study; John McIntire, public health.

Mr. E. R. Jones was unanimously elected as a member of the Court of Honor, and was appointed as special examiner in the Civics merit badge. Members of the Court present included H. L. Jones, chairman; H. A. Loraditch, vice-chairman; Henry Lauer, A. D. Naylor, W. W. Dawson, Dr. W. W. Grant, D. R. Sincell, James A. Towler, and George Hanst, scoutmaster

Premium Lists of Fair Are Ready for Distribution

Premium lists of the Fourteenth Annual Garrett county fair are ready for distribution, and may be obtained from The Republican office or from Mr. Henry Speicher, general manager, Accident.

Messrs. A. L. Lee, Guy Hinebaugh, A. R. Martin and Henry Speicher were in Meyersdale, Pa., last week to see the American Exposition Shows, and it appears to be the best carnival ever scheduled for this section. The carnival will have five rides, 20 shows, 40 concessions, and there will also be airplane acrobatics and parachute jumps.

Governor Ritchie and Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, will each be in Oakland during one day of the fair, and also Congressman F. N. Zihlman. "I don't like to make the agricultural fair simply a carnival, so it is hoped that farmers will bring in their grain, cattle, fruit, and other exhibits, so that we can have a real display of Garrett county products," Mr. Speicher stated.

The prompt payment of premiums during the past few years is increasing the exhibits and last year was the largest in number of exhibits in several years. It is hoped that the Fair will be even greater this year.

LARGE NUMBER EXPECTED FOR LABOR DAY PICNIC

To Be Held Under Auspices of Local Pythians—Parade To Feature Morning Activity.

PRIZES TO BE AWARDED

With plans matured for a more pretentious parade than ever before, more amusements, distinguished and widely-known speakers and other attractive features, everything is in readiness for the Eleventh Annual Labor Day picnic, to be held in Helbig's Grove, at the north edge of town, Monday, September 1, under the auspices of Garrett Lodge, No. 113, K. of P., at which thousands from adjacent states and hamlets are expected.

The parade, scheduled for 10 a. m., will open the day's activities and a number of prizes are being offered this year in order to make it interesting to the participants as well as to the onlookers. Alvey R. Martin, in charge of the parade, announces the following prizes: Best drum corps, $25; most artistic float, $10; most comic attraction or float, $5; best comic group, $5; best clown, $3; second best clown, $2.

The parade will consist of Grand Lodge officers and speakers, members of the Knights of Khorassan and local lodge members, the Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts, the Terra Alta and Oakland Fire departments, the Gilbert-Brown band and two other bands, a number business floats and a trades display. It will form on Oak street, facing west and will proceed along the principal streets of the town.

Following the parade, which will disband at the picnic grounds, there will be a number of band concerts. Public speaking will begin at two p. m. Among those who will make addresses are Hon. Samuel A. Kendall, of Meyersdale, Pa., who is scheduled as the principal speaker, while a number of the Grand Lodge officers of the Knights of Pythias of Maryland are expected to make short addresses. The Grand Lodge officers who are expected to be present include S. T. Brotemarkle, Grand Chancellor; Jos. D. Boan, Vice-Grand Chancellor; C. Thomas Summers, Grand Prelate; A. Elwood Martak, Grand Keeper of Records and Seal; Nelson A. Russler, Benj. H. McKindless and Reno S. Harp, Supreme Representatives; George R. Johnson, Joseph W. Snyder, John S. Strine and Carroll Pierson.

Park amusements of all kinds are scheduled for the entire day. The Weaver Park Attractions of Pittsburgh, consisting of a merry-go-round, Ferris wheel, a chair plane, whip and a number of games of skill, will furnish the entertainment. A Ford automobile will be given away at five o'clock and there will be a display of firewords in the evening.

There will be ample parking space provided for automobiles and the local Boy Scouts will assist in parking the cars.

Those in charge of the picnic this year include Edward P. Kahl, general manager; A. R. Martin, parade chairman; Walter Hardesty, secretary and treasurer; C. F. White, assistant treasuerer; Charles W. Ream, A. T. Matthews, W. W. Dawson, A. G. Gortner, Charles Reckard, H. L. Stemple, M. W. Mann, Olin Hardesty, David W. Walter and others, on various committees.

I. O. O. F. Anniversary Celebrated at Loch Lynn

The thirty-fifth anniversary of the organization of Oak Lodge No. 8, I. O. O. F., and the sixty-fifth birthday of Mr. J. H. Sims, a charter member, were celebrated last Wednesday evening at Loch Lynn, in the local lodge rooms. Mr. Sims is the only charter member remaining in the lodge.

After the regular session a number of the members made short talks, the principal speakers of the evening being Rev. E. R. Hauser, Clearfield, Pa., a member of the local lodge, and Rev. S. A. Jessee, pastor of the U. B. church. Refreshments were served by the committee. A large birthday cake was presented to Mr. Sims by Rev. Hauser in the name of the lodge, in a happy congratulatory address.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Burruss gave a dinner party at their summer home, Hemlock Hollow, on last Friday evening at which Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomasson, Monte Vista; Mrs. Fred. Holtzman and Mr. and Mrs. D. Edward Offutt, of Oakland, were guests.

Messers. Emroy Bolden and Walt Janoske have finally returned from Winchester where they got lost (that's what they say) upon their return from Washington last Sunday. Mayor Stemple, who happened along, sent out a searching party and even went to the police station. They said they recovered their bearings again as they started on the road to Harper's Ferry. They are still trying to convince their wives that they got lost.

Chicky-Chicky-Chicky

One of our notorious bootleggers on the outskirts of Quality Hill was called on the other day to do some quick thinking, (as if that would throw off suspicion.)

A quantity of corn fell off the truck and into the middle of the road just as the driver was turning into the driveway of this Oakland "citizen." He knew the neighbors all had their eyes stuck out of the windows, so he gathered in the spilled corn and atarted calling his chickens. Too bad he had no chickens.

And when these Oakland bootleggers are able to lay out $1,000 in cash, in case they wish to purchase property, it makes the efforts of the honest people of town look sick. These bootleggers seem to have all the soft Schnapps.

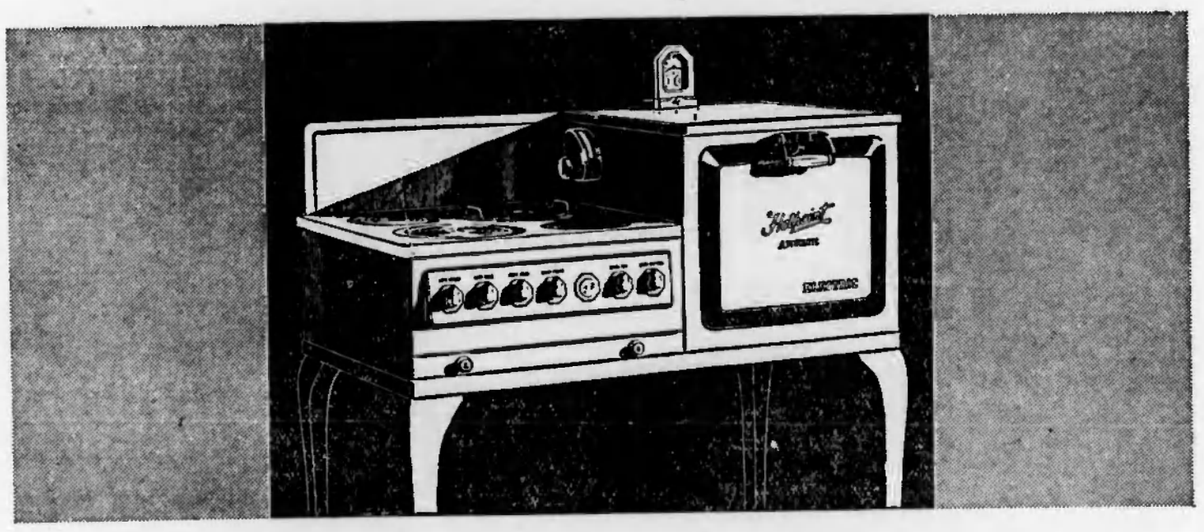
NEW ELECTRIC RATES...NEW PRICES...

NEW FREE INSTALLATION . . . NEW COOKING SPEED

make electric cooking most practical for every household



If you have ever considered electric cookery impractical for your own home, the four sensational improvements now offered will remove every objection you may have had.

For, the cost of operation at the new minimum rate is now reduced to nearly one-half . . . the price of a modern range is attractively reduced . . . installation now costs you nothing . . . and science has made electric ranges as speedy as the housewife could desire!

Now you can easily and economically realize all the joys of electric cookery. Serve delicious, nourishing meals without having to stay home to watch the cooking! Never need to guess whether foods will be underdone or overcooked! Never scour another sooty, smudgy cook-pot! Always have a kitchen free from fumes and greasy oven-smoke!

~~3¢~~–1¾c
New rate cuts electric cost almost in half after first 150 kilowatt hours.

~~$50.00~~–$0.00
Now this company provides all wiring connections to your electric range.

~~$150.00~~–$129.50
Material price reduction in ranges

~~100%~~–129%
•9 per cent faster cooking than in any previous model.

With all these advantages, is it any wonder that electric ranges are being used by more than a million housewives?

At the new electric rate of only 1¾c for every kilowatt hour over 150 a month, electric cookery is a real bargain. You can cook at a cost of only a few cents a day.

You can get an ultra-modern, all-white enamel electric range for as low as $129.50 installed. We will make all wiring connections without charge to customer.

And the up-to-date electric range compares favorably in cooking speed with any other fuel range. Come in and let us show you how the four new improvements remove every obstacle to cooking with electricity!

Yard and Garden Contest Is Still On.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Oakland is beautiful despite the fact that the drought left its imprint upon much of the vegetation, but not half so destructive as in many of the neighboring towns, for which we are grateful. But we must not forget the Yard and Garden Contest is still on and very soon the judges will make their final rounds, so let's get everything in "apple-pie order",—not only clean the yards and gardens, but the walks and rid everything of weeds, especially the rag weeds to prevent hay fever

Labor Day will likely bring great numbers of guests to Oakland, so let us look our very best by cleaning up the town; make our homes and yards attractive and welcome "the strangers within our gates."

You know one appreciates any courtesy shown one when in a strange town, so "do as you would be done by."

Miss Grimes Wins Junior Tennis Tourney.

The Western Maryland Junior Tennis Tournament was held at Mountain Lake Park yesterday. There were 31 entries, or about double those of last year. This tournament is growing in popularity and favor and unquestionably will develop into one of the major events of the Park. Mr. Ralph Weber and Miss Katherine McLain, to whom much of the success of this year's event is due, are enthusiastic over the future of the junior tournament.

Miss Frances Grimes was the winner in yesterday's contest. In the girls' event she won 6-2, 6-1 over her sister, Miss Ellen Jane Grimes, and also won the three year cup, 7-5, 6-3, over Henry Dill.

In the boys' event, Henry Dill, of Parkersburg, W. Va., won over H. Bittinger, of Mt. Lake, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

DIED.

LAFAYETT FRAZEE

Funeral services for Lafayett Frazee, aged 70 years, of Friendsville, who died Saturday morning following a stroke of paralysis, were held Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the M. E. church, Friendsville, Rev. A. S. Denning, pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. T. E. Shea. Interment was made in the family cemetery near Friendsville.

The deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie Frazee, one brother Harvey Frazee, of Terra Alta; and one sister, Mrs. Elvira Thomas, of Markleysburg, Pa.

MRS BUSHROD L. HARDESTY

Mrs. Susan Moomaw Hardesty, aged about 48, wife of Mr. Bushrod Hardesty, retired railroad conductor, of Loch Lynn Heights, died suddenly at her home at 11 o'clock last night of a heart attack.

She is survived by her husband, and the following children: W. D. Hardesty, Morgantown, W. Va.; Oliver and Opal, at home; also one step-son, Charles Hardesty, mayor of Loch Lynn; and one step-daughter. Funservices will be held Sunday at 2 p. m., from the home, with interment in the Pleasant Valley cemetery.

NAOMI JO HARVEY

Naomi Jo Harvey, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Harvey, born May 2, 1910, died July 18, 1930, age 20 years, 2 months, and 16 days.

One year of this brief life she spent teaching the Meyers school, then she entered training at Hoffman hospital, Keyser, W. Va. She was to have graduated with the 1930 class, but owing to a breakdown of her health she had to leave the hospital in February, coming to her home near Barnum, W. Va., where all that was possible to be done for her was rendered in kind, tender nursing and care by her mother, father, brothers and sisters.

In May, thinking perhaps there would be more chance for her recovery in a sanatorium, she entered one near Baltimore but doctors there gave no hope whatever, so she was brought back home, where she remained until death claimed her.

Naomi Jo was of a cheerful disposition, loving to be of service to others. She oft made the remark, "I am ready and oh so willing to go."

Floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, nurses from the hospital acting as flower girls. Miss Ruth Scofield of the Pentecostal, and Rev. Hodges of the M. E. church had charge of the funeral services, with interment in the home cemetery. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Harvey, brothers, Harry, of the Junction, W. Va.; Duke and William, of Hampshire; Woodrow at home; sisters, Mrs. Margaret Athey, Shaw, W. Va.; Mrs. Beulah Herman, Luke, Md., survive.

Swimming Expert. To Try Deep Creek Lake

Francis Blake

Francis Blake, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Blake, of Frostburg, graduate of the Frostburg State Normal School the past year, has made arrangements to come to Oakland Saturday and prepare to swim the entire length of Deep Creek Lake on Sunday afternoon. Accurate measurements secured during the past few days reveal the length of the lake from one extreme to the other is seventeen miles net. He will enter the water and swim until he accomplishes his feat or is fatigued.

He already holds a record of a continuous ten mile swim in the James river at Old Point Comfort, Virginia, making the distance in six hours. He also holds the post championship for 220 yard dash and a 100 yard dash at Fort Eustis, Virginia, made while a member of the Citizens' Military Training Camp.

Young Blake is six feet four and one-half inches tall and weighs two hundred pounds. He acquired the art of swimming at the early age of seven and is considered one of the best male swimmers in Western Maryland if not the entire State.

Open Season for Squirrel, Dove and Railbirds

The open season for the hunting of Railbird is September 1 to November 30, inclusive, E. Lee LeCompte, state game warden, has announced.

It is unlawful to hunt squirrel or dove in Allegany or Garrett counties except between October 1 and November 9, inclusive, he said.

Bag limits are as follows: railbirds, 25 per day; squirrels, 10 per day; dove 25 per day.

To Hold Lutheran Meeting

All Lutheran families in this section are invited to Mt. Carmel Lutheran church, Aurora, W. Va., this Sunday afternoon and evening. A basket lunch is to be eaten on the lawn of the church, after which a vesper service is to be held in the church. The sermon will be preached by Rev. C. A. Shilke of Oakland.

This fellowship service is under the auspices of the brotherhood of the Synod of West Virginia and is intended to stimulate interest in the general work of the church.

It is hoped that many Lutherans will take advantage of this opportunity for fellowship and reunion.

Boger Reunion Is Held

The Boger reunion was held August 10, at McCleery's grove, Warren, Ohio, with 87 present, including a number from Garrett county. Included in this number were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Steyer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wayme Hansford and family, Emery Shillingberg, Raymond Shillingberg, of Steyer. Others present were from Newport, Ky.; Cortland, Ohio; Uniontown, Pa.; Delightful, Ohio; Warren, Ohio; and Leavittsburg. The next reunion will be held at Steyer, the date to be set later.

POLITICAL STATEMENT BY

Arthur H. Green,

Republican Candidate for Nomination for House of Delegates.

To the Voters and Taxpayers of Garrett County:—

I find that it will be impossible for me to see and talk to all of you personally before the primary election, I therefore take this method of expressing my views on certain matters of interest and my policy of action if nominated and re-elected to the Maryland House of Delegates.

1. I will at all times support any measures tending to reduce our tax burden and will at all times champion and fight for any and all measures looking to the progress and advancement of our County and our State.

2. I do not favor and will not support any measure calling for a bonded indebtedness unless same carries a provision submitting it to a vote of the people for acceptance or rejection. I believe this is in accord with the wishes of the majority of the taxpayers of this county.

3. I will at all times endeavor to carry out the wishes of ALL THE PEOPLE OF THIS COUNTY and shall welcome any expressions of opinions and wishes.

4. I will honor the oath of office and at all times stand and vote for the ENTIRE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES AND ALL OF ITS AMENDMENTS.

Pledging my support to all measures which are honorable and upright, and soliciting your support and influence, I remain,

Respectfully yours,

ARTHUR H. GREEN,

Republican Candidate for Nomination for House of Delegates.

Swanton, Md., August 26, 1930.

A FALSE RUMOR

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

The rumor has been circulated that I have made the statement that if I am defeated in the primary fight for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Garrett County, I would make every effort to defeat the successful candidate in the general election in November.

I want to state to the Republican voters of Garrett County that since I cast my first vote I have been affiliated with the Republican party and if I am defeated in the primary fight I intend to support whole-heartedly the party's candidate in the general election.

Very respectfully yours,

E. W. ADAMS,

Republican Candidate for Nomination for Sheriff.

A STATEMENT

—BY—

N. R. SELBY

Republican Candidate for State Senate

To My Republican Friends:—

As a private citizen I have always advocated any movement that tended toward the development of Garrett County and promised the betterment of the condition of its citizens. The official record of the 1906 and 1918 sessions of the Legislature of Maryland, when I had the honor to represent Garrett County in that body, furnish absolute proof of the sincerity of my interest and my loyalty to the citizens of this county.

Now, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the honor of State Senator for Garrett County, I take this means of making known to all my Republican friends my position with reference to certain important matters which will engage the next session of the Maryland Assembly.

I am unalterably opposed to the passage of any and all measures which may be proposed for the issuance of bonds for Garrett County for any purpose whatsoever, and pledge myself to consistently and persistently oppose the passage of any law or proposition to authorize the issuance of bonds, with or without a referendum, or to countenance any proposal to increase the burden of taxation of the people of Garrett County.

I shall never cast my vote or use my influence for the enactment of any law to exempt any corporation or company doing business or holding property within the county or State from the payment of their just and equitable share of public dues and taxes..

I shall, at all times, advocate the strict and persistent enforcement of all laws, including the Eighteenth Amendment, and all general and local laws in reference there to, and, if elected, I shall represent all the people of the County and every section thereof, and shall always be found at my post to protect and safeguard your every interest.

I shall always regard myself as your servant, ready and willing with all my energies, to serve your highest interests so far as they may be made known to me.

I therefore earnestly and respectfully solicit your vote and support at the primary election in September, with the assurance that your favorable consideration will be sincerely appreciated and that, with or without your support, I shall always be your faithful fellow citizen ready at all times to do you service.

With sincere thanks for your past support and again soliciting your vote at the coming primary, I have the honor to remain,

Sincerely yours,

NATHAN R. SELBY,

Republican Candidate for the State Senate.

A Statement by Mr. Albert Markley.

Oakland, Maryland, August 25, 1930.

To the Citizens of Garrett County:—

With the near approach of primary day a number of issues have been raised and I wish to state my position clearly on the one which appears of most general interest, that is, the question of a bond issue for Garrett County.

If nominated and elected to the House of Delegates, I shall neither introduce nor support any measure creating a bond issue for Garrett County unless it contains a provision that the same shall be submitted to the voters of the county for rejection or ratification before the same shall have any effect. I believe this to be in accord with the will of the people of this county.

On all other questions I shall endeavor to vote in accordance with your wishes as now or hereafter expressed, and will do everything in my power to promote your interests. The interests of all citizens and of all sections of the county will be my chief concern.

Your support and influence are respectfully solicited.

Very truly yours,

ALBERT MARKLEY,

Candidate for House of Delegates.

Mr. J. C. Myers Asks For Support At the Primary Election

To the Voters of Garrett County:—

I find that it will be impossible to see all the voters of the County before the primary, and therefore I take this opportunity to ask the support and influence of each Republican voter at the primary election.

Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain,

Very respectfully yours,

J. C. MYERS,

Republican Candidate for Nomination for County Commissioner.

Notice to the Voters

When you vote for me on September the 8th I want you to distinctly understand that I am in favor of all Law Enforcement, and that if I am nominated and elected to the office of Sheriff I will show no favoritism or partiality to any lawless element or individual.

It is possible for you to obtain reasonably accurate information concerning the reputation and character, habits, sentiments and qualifications of every candidate.

I am confident that you are capable of making your own decision without being influenced at the last minute by rumors and political propaganda.

I want you to give every candidate your fair and unbiased consideration. Then let your conscience be your guide, and may the best man win.

Very respectfully yours,

J. S. TEATS

Republican candidate for nomination for Sheriff.

Traveling westward on the National Highway from Grantsville one day this week, a party of motorists from Mountain Lake Park, noticed that a large sign board giving directions to tourists how to reach the Northwestern Turnpike from Keyser's Ridge, was on fire. Upon investigation it was found that a great quantity of heavy oil had been spread upon the back of the signboard and the fire set. Fortunately the flames had not reached the stage where they could not be extinguished with what the motorists had on hand.

ROAD OPENING JUBILEE ATTRACTS LARGE NUMBER

Unit of Loch Lynn-Gorman Road Opened With Rejoicing

More than 1,500 were in attendance at the celebration held last Saturday in Murphy's Grove, two miles from Loch Lynn, in connection with the opening of the first unit of the improved highway from Mt. Lake Park to Gorman. More than two miles are no completed.

Long before the hour for the formal opening of the road the crowd began to arrive in automobiles, on horesback and by wagon. Many came on foot, until, when the parade formed at the beginning of the road in Loch Lynn, there were from five to six hundred people present. They continued to arrive and during the dinner hour it is estimated that there were several hundred automobiles and approximately 1,500 people on and about the grounds.

The parade formed about 11 o'clock headed by Mayor Hardesty, of Loch Lynn, Mayor Grover Stemple, of Oakland, and A. R. Martin, also of Oakland. The Oakland fire company, the Crellin, Bayard and Oakland bands joined in to make the day a success.

Following a free dinner, cafeteria style, there were a number of addresses by David A. Robb, Cumberland; W. B. Burruss, W. R. Offutt, Mrs. William T. Burch, G. Clinton Uhl, ex-senator H. J. Speicher, N. R. Selby, and Dr. Henry W. McComas, who was the toastmaster of the occasion.

Among those present from outside the county were Col. Robinson, superintendent of construction, his wife, and L. G. Downey. Mayor Hardesty and Loch Lynn council. Ladies of Gorman, Loch Lynn, and intervening settlement arranged the picnic dinner.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Emma Catharine Cresse vs. Gilbert Sthempson Cresse.
No. 2976 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states:—

That the plaintiff was married to the defendant March 3, 1920, with whom she resided until June, 1921, at which time the said defendant deserted the said plaintiff while they resided at Bayard, Grant County, West Virginia; that, although the conduct of the plaintiff toward the said defendant has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said Gilbert Sthempson Cresse has, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her; that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that there was one child born of said marriage, Russell Dale Cresse, eight years of age, who is in the custody and care of your oratrix; that your oratrix has been a resident of Garrett County, Maryland, for more than two years next preceding the filing of this suit, but the defendant is not a resident of Maryland, his last known address being Camden, New Jersey, but his present place of residence being to your oratrix unknown.

The bill then prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii of the plaintiff from the defendant, for the guardianship and custody of the said infant child, Russell Dale Cresse, for general relief and for an order of publication.

IT IS THEREUPON, This 27th day of August, 1930, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiff by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 27th day of September, 1930, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 13th day of October, 1930, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree should not to be passed as prayed.

Mrs. K. R. Rasche Pays a Beautiful Tribute to the Late Julius C. Renninger.

The floral offerings were among the most beautiful ever seen in Oakland and almost concealed the easket. Let us all lay a forget-me-not upon the grave of the unforgotten dead. We will miss him, and what he might have continued to do out of his keen civic pride in our fast growing city nestling among the pines and the oaks 2400 feet above sea level. Whether a man is missed or not depends on what he was and what he accomplished when he was among the living.

There are many people in Oakland, and in her near sister cities, who feel that something has been rudely taken, that a gap has been left, that the current of daily existence will not meet and pass along as smoothly as a gulf-stream where a bucket of water has been dipped out. Little did we think a few weeks ago when we exchanged a mutual "so long" that the words of Jonathan and David would so soon be appropriate as we gaze through our silent tears upon his vacant chair—"Tomorrow thou wilt be missed because thy seat will be empty."

The strings of the harp of his home life were always in tune and daily rendered their sweet music for the comfort and happiness of his dearest ones. Manliness found expression in his intercourses with his conferes. The day has passed when our present world respects the cloth of the pulpit, the lawyer, or the press, unless it finds a man within. His life was gentle, his chosen profession was—the motto of the old Salem Register seemed his—'Here patriot Truth her glorious precepts draw, pledged to religion, liberty, and law.'

Professional life did not dry up noble motives. This writer has known him since he came from Cumberland in 1896 when our town was but a crawling infant. He has helped to make Oakland a happier and a more beautiful place in which to live.

If a great life consists in a thought conceived in the fervent mind envisioned youth, and executed with the solid force of manhood, then Julius C. Renninger, Garrett County's State's Attorney, was great.

More beautiful and fragrant than the flowers we laid upon his casket, is his dear memory which we will not let die, emblematic of the delicate flowers that sprung from the hearts of many men, women and children who came under the sunshine of his generous encouraging presence and his quiet smile. Better than granite of marble monument, which may mark his resting place is the name he has written in letters of gold, upon the hearts of his fellow men.

We love to think, the hand that has written so many briefs, was lifted in prayer to Jehovah who hath said "Him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out." God's finger has touched him and he sleeps. Let us bid him goodnight. On the resurrection day we all hope to greet each other with a happy, happy goodmorning.

PROCLAMATION

Proposing Amendments to the Constitution of the State, 1930.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1929, two Acts were passed, to-wit: Chapter 133 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," to authorize deputies in the Treasury Department to sign checks and warrants; and Chapter 348, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 133.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Treasury Department," so as to confer upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants, and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the State Treasury under regulations prescribed by the Legislature; and providing for the submission of said amendment to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoption nor rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all of the Members of both of the Houses concurring), That an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Treasury Department," be and the same is hereby proposed, the said amendment, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become a part of said Constitution, and the said Sections as amended to read as follows:

2. The Comptroller shall have the general superintendence of the fiscal affairs of the State; he shall digest and prepare plans for the improvement and management of the revenue, and for the support of the public credit; prepare and report estimates of the revenue and expenditures of the State; superintend and enforce the prompt collection of all taxes and revenue; adjust and settle, on terms prescribed by law, with delinquent collectors and receivers of taxes and State revenue; preserve all public accounts; and decide on the forms of keeping and stating accounts. He, or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature, shall grant, under regulations prescribed by law, all warrants for money to be paid out of the Treasury, in pursuance of appropriations by law, and countersign all checks drawn by the Treasurer upon any bank or banks in which the moneys of the State may from time to time be deposited. He shall prescribe the formalities of the transfer of stock, or other evidence of the State debt, and countersign the same, without which such evidence shall not be valid; he shall make to the General Assembly full reports of all his proceedings, and of the State of the Treasury Department within ten days after the commencement of each Session; and perform such other duties as shall be prescribed by law.

3. The Treasurer shall receive the moneys of the State, and, until otherwise prescribed by law, deposit them, as soon as received, to the credit of the State, in such bank or banks as he may, from time to time, with the approval of the Governor, select(the said bank or banks giving security, satisfactory to the Governor, for the safekeeping and forthcoming, when required of said deposits), and he or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall disburse the same for the purposes of the State according to law, upon warrants drawn by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and on checks countersigned by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and not otherwise. The Treasurer or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall take receipts for all moneys paid from the Treasury Department; and receipt for moneys received by him shall be endorsed upon warrants signed by the Comptroller, or such deputy as may be authorized to do so by law, without which warrants, so signed, no acknowledgment of money received into the Treasury shall be valid; and upon warrants issued by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, the Treasurer shall make arrangements for the payment of the interest of the public debt, and for the purchase thereof, on account of the sinking fund. Every bond, certificate, or other evidence of the debt of the State shall be signed by the Treasurer, and countersigned by the Comptroller; and no new certificate or other evidence intended to replace another shall be issued until the old one shall be delivered to the Treasurer, and authority executed in due form for the transfer of the same filed in his office, and the transfer accordingly made on the books thereof, and the certificate or other evidence cancelled; but the Legislature may make provisions for the loss of certificates or other evidences of the debt; and may prescribe, by law, the manner in which the Treasurer shall receive and keep the moneys of the State.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the aforegoing sections as amended, shall be, at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, nineteen hundred and thirty, submitted to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State, and at said general election the vote on the proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the following synopsis of said amendment, under the caption of:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
AMENDING SECTIONS 2 AND
3 OF ARTICLE VI."

"This amendment confers upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury of the State under regulations prescribed by the Legislature."

Approved: April 2, 1929.

CHAPTER 348

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Legislative Department," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of fifteen dollars per diem for every day he shall attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of ten dollars per day. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election for Members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against the said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: April 11, 1929.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ALBERT C. RITCHIE, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that this proclamation containing full, true and correct copies of the text of said Chapters 133 and 348 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1929, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months next preceding the general election to be held in the State of Maryland on Tuesday, the 4th day of November, 1930, at which election the said proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be submitted in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

The Great Seal of Maryland

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland. Done at the City of Annapolis, this 14th day of July, in the year nineteen hundred and thirty.

ALBERT C. RITCHIE.

The undersigned announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of Member of the House of Delegates and respectfully solicits the support of his friends at the primary election to be held in September.

With my former experience in this office I feel that I am qualified to give the people of Garrett county more efficient service than if I were unacquainted with legislative procedure.

Very respectfully yours,
ARTHUR LAWTON.
Election District No. 14.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County, Md.:—

At the solicitation of many friends, I announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of member of the House of Delegates, subject to the result of the primary election, and most respectfully solicit the support and influence of my friends in the county.

If nominated and elected a member of the General Assembly I will endeavor to render to the people of the county efficient service.

Very respectfully,
OTHO S. FIKE.
District No. 15.*

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of Delegate in the State Legislature, subject to the result of the Republican primary election.

I feel that my previous experience as a member of the House of Delegates should be taken into consideration when the Republicans cast their ballots at the primary election, and I solicit the support and influence of my party associates in all parts of the county, pledging my support to legislation of a character that will be beneficial to the people of the county.

Very respectfully yours,
ARTHUR H. GREEN.
Swanton, District No. 1.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the Republican nomination for member of the House of Delegates, subject to the result of the Republican primary election.

In making this announcement, I stand upon my past record as a member of the House of Delegates, and if nominated and elected I promise to give to the people of Garrett county the best service I possibly can.

I am not aligned with any faction, but I am seeking this nomination upon my own merits.

Soliciting your influence and support at the primary, I am,
Very respectfully yours,
ALBERT MARKLEY.
Oakland, District No. 14.*

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I hereby announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for member of the House of Delegates, subject to the result of the Republican primary election, and most respectfully solicit the support and influence of everyone at the polls.

I am an ex-service man and a former deputy sheriff of Garrett county and am now serving as a Justice of the Peace in District No. 13.

If nominated and elected I promise to execute the duties of the office to which I aspire conscientiously and to the best of my ability.

SAMUEL J. COLE.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE NAMES LOCAL CANDIDATES

Name William Miller For State Senate, with B. F. Schroyer and George M. Pool for the House

THREE MEMBERS RESIGN

Following a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee for Garrett County held Tuesday evening at the office of A. T. Matthews, Democratic candidate for State's Attorney and also candidate for re-election as a member of the local governing committee of his party, when candidates for State Senator, two members of the House of Delegates and a candidate for the office of Register of Wills, Messrs. W. R. Browning, Robert Sheckells and U. O. Blocher, for several years past members of the committee, insisted that their resignations as members of the governing body, tendered at the Democratic convention held at Accident last Wednesday, be accepted, which was done, thus leaving the committee composed at present of A. T. Matthews, Miss Frances Hamill and Norval Speelman.

Candidates Named by Committee

The candidates named by the committee at Tuesday night's session prior to the withdrawal of the three members above cited, were:

For State Senator, William Miller, of Accident, who has been a leader in Democratic councils for many years.

For House of Delegates, Benj. F. Schroyer, merchant of Friendsville, and George M. Pool, of Kitzmiller.

For Register of Wills, Bernard I. Gonder, of Oakland, employed as a secretary in the office of Mr. Gilmor S. Hamill in Oakland.

At the Accident convention Mr. C. A. Bender, of Grantsville, was nominated as a candidate for County Commissioner.

In addition to resigning as a member of the committee, Mr. Blocher withdrew his name from the list of delegates to the State convention and the remaining members of the committee named the following composing the delegates to that body: John W. McCullough, W. A. Gonder, Wm. Miller. J. Frank Browning had filed his certificate as a candidate with the Supervisors some days prior to the time for closing the list.

It has been stated by good authority that the committee does not intend to file its nominations with the Board of Election Supervisors until at the last moment on the evening of the primary election, as it may be expedient to replace some of those named with candidates that will be more acceptable to certain elements of the party.

The Democratic ticket as now composed is Mr. Miller, for Senator; B. F. Schroyer and G. M. Pool, for House of Delegates; Gilead Broadwater, Louis A. Morgart and C. A. Bender, for County Commissioners; B. I. Gonder, for Register of Wills, and for Sheriff the voters at the primary election on Monday will choose as between C. R. the ewill etaoin mm mm m m mm Welling and Walter H. Haenftling.

Final Performances of Byron King School Well Received

The Byron King School of Oratory closed its presentations last Saturday evening at Mt. Lake Park with the play, "Applesauce," after delighting quite a number with their plays, lecture recitals, and characterizations.

For the performances on Thursday, Friday and Saturday quite a number attended, all of whom were loud in their praise for the way in which the different characters were portrayed. Especially well liked were the performances on Friday afternoon and evening, composed entirely of children and young people. Included in the performances offered by the Junior Players of the Byron King School, was the dance recital of the Bolgiano dancing class for the benefit of the Oakland Free Public Library.

An attempt is being made to have the Byron King school return to the Park next year for its summer session of six weeks.

Mr. Giessman and Mrs. Brewer Win Weekly Golf Tourneys

William Giessman won the men's tournament and Mrs. Brewer won the ladies' tournament conducted Monday evening on the Miller midget golf course, Oakland, and received a bill fold and vanity case respectively. Mr. Giessman and Mrs. Brewer both shot a 55. Par on the course is 50.

A. T. Matthews was presented $2.50 in gold last Saturday evening. A similar contest will be held this Saturday and a $5 award will be presented.

APPROXIMATELY 1,000 MORE VOTERS IN COUNTY

Nearly That Number Added Tuesday To Registered List

Names of approximately 1,000 persons were added Tuesday to the registered list of voters of Garrett county, at various points in the county, according to an estimate of Wade H. Hinebaugh, president of the Board of Supervisors of Elections.

Although official returns will not be made until after the primary election next Monday, it is estimated that the number registered ran 3 to 1 in favor of the Republicans.

In the three Oakland precincts, which includes Crellin, approximately 300 were registered. The number of Republicans eligible to vote in the Primary Election on September 8, is about 6,300, while the number of Democrats eligible totals about 2,200.

A facsimile of the Republican and Democratic ballots are appearing in this week's Republican and show 51 are aspiring for nomination on the Republican side, and four on the Democratic side.

OVER 6,000 PRESENT AT ANNUAL K. OF P. PICNIC

Eleventh Yearly Affair Said To Be Greatest Gathering—Parade In Morning Opens Activities

With an estimated crowd of between 6,000 and 7,000 people present, the eleventh annual Labor Day picnic, under the auspices of the local lodge of Knights of Pythias, held in Helbig's Grove, on the north edge of town, was said to have been one of the largest gatherings assembled there in some years. Ideal weather prevailed during the day and the immense crowd lingered until after the fireworks display at 9:30 o'clock in the evening.

The day's festivities was officially opened at 10:30 o'clock, when a parade with the Mayor and Town Council, of Oakland and Marshalls A. R. Martin, Guy Yutzy and Dr. H. W. McComas at its head, passed over the selected route covering the business section of town. The officials of town and marshalls were followed by Olin Hardesty with the officers of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, the American Legion, Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts, Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland, Terra Alta Fire Department, Oakland Fire Department, comic attractions and about 35 decorated cars and floats.

Hon. S. A. Kendall Speaks

In the afternoon at the picnic grove the principal address was made by Hon. Samuel A. Kendall, of Meyersdale, Pa., a well known former resident of Garrett county, and now a Representative in Congress. A. Elwood Martak, Grand Keeper of Records and Seal, and C. Thomas Summers, Grand Prelate of the Knights of Pythias, also gave short addresses.

Weaver's Park Attractions and other amusements and entertainments held the greater part of the picnicking and the Gilbert-Brown Band entertained with concerts throughout the day. The Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts directed traffic and the parking of cars.

Although no figures as to the financial success of the picnic are available at this time, it is thought that the receipts will be slightly more than in the past several years.

R. R. Gilbert Gets Automobile

The award of the automobile, an annual event and chief attraction at the picnic, was made to Mr. R. R. Gilbert, of Oakland. It was a pleasant surprise to the recipient of the car and was equally pleasing to his host of friends in the community when it is recalled that he has devoted many hours of his time every week with work among the boys of the community.

A silk quilt, made by Miss Myrtle Clark, of Mountain Lake Park, went to Mrs. Walter Hardesty.

Awards for attractions in the parade were as follows: Most comic attraction, Charles Pysell and sons, $5; best comic group, William and Paul Frazee, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Frazee, and the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Trickett, $5; best clown, Al. Fulk, $5; Freeland Pugh and Frank Pugh, as Amos 'n' Andy, $5 each.

Olin Hardesty, Chancellor Commander of the local lodge, wishes to thank all those who attended the picnic and assisted in making it such a success, and also to thank those members of the lodge who worked so faithfully.

Messrs. Joseph Gonder, Milton Sincell, and Edward Lawrence returned Sunday from the State Legion convention and succeeded in having Neil C. Fraley named as a member of the State executive committee. George R. Henderson, Western Maryland, was elected state commander, and the convention next year will be held at Frostburg.

PLANNING MAMMOTH ROAD CELEBRATION FOR SEPT. 20

To Be Held at Kitzmiller—To Mark Opening of Highway Between Oakland and That Town

A mammoth celebration, to mark the opening of the highway between Oakland and Kitzmiller, is being planned for Saturday, September 20. This was decided last evening at a meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmiller, and members of the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire department.

The road, which was completed on Tuesday, will connect Kitzmiller, the second largest town in the county, with Oakland, the county seat, and is considered the most important connecting link in Garrett county to be completed in some years. It also will open up a short route between routes 40 and 50, branching from route 37 at Sand Flat, six miles north of Oakland.

Governors of West Virginia and Maryland are being invited to attend, and also the State Roads commissions of both states. All organizations and business men of Oakland, Deer Park, Kitzmiller, Blaine, and surrounding communities are urged to participate.

Mayor Grover C. Stemple, of Oakland, who was present at the meeting, was made chairman for this section, and he pledged the support of the Oakland people. He is asking for cooperation and it is his plan to form a caravan of automobiles from Oakland and vicinity and parade to Kitzmiller on that day.

There will be speaking at 1 o'clock, a ball game in the afternoon, and Carnival and Park attractions on the Kitzmiller High school grounds. Plenty of parking space will be provided. Lunch ean be procured on the grounds and will be in charge of John A. Shore, of the Kitzmiller Fire department. Three or four bands are expected.

The distance to Kitzmiller from Oakland, since the completion of the highway, via hard surfaced roads, is now 17 miles instead of 40.

TO PRESENT CHARTER TO LOCAL LEGION AUXILIARY

Meeting in School Auditorium, September 9, Open to Public

At a joint meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary and Proctor Kildow Post of the American Legion, to be held Tuesday, September 9, at 8 p. m., in the new auditorium of Oakland High school, Mrs. Emma Giles Parker, the State president, will present the local unit with its charter.

The meeting will be a joint one of members of the local post and ladies' auxiliary and the public in general is invited to be present.

A program suitable for the occasion is being arranged. Mrs. Parker will be accompanied by Major George E. Parker, U. S. Marines, who is well known as Maryland's hero of the late war. Among his decorations are the Congressional medal of honor, the distinguished service cross, the French croix de guerre with palms, and other ones from Belgium and England. He is also a member of the Legion of Valour. Major Parker will deliver a short address.

Members of the legion are urged to be present in a body and meet at the City hall at 7:45 o'clock.

Brotherhoods of Lutheran Synod Meet In Aurora

More than a hundred people ate their evening meal on the lawn at Mount Carmel church, Aurora, W. Va., last Sunday and attended the vesper service held by the Brotherhoods of the Lutheran churches of the West Virginia Synod. The churches at Grafton, Clarksburg, Morgantown, Aurora, Red House and Oakland were largely represented.

The vesper service at seven o'clock, held in the church, was led by Pastor E. F. K. Roof, of Grafton, and Rev. W. E. Waybright, of Red House. The sermon was preached by Pastor C. A. Shilke, of the Oakland church. Before the adjournment of the conference it was decided to have a similar gathering next year.

County Chairman for Horseshoe Tournament Is Chosen

W. E. Spoerlein, Gortner, was named county chairman for the promotion of the County Horseshoe tournament, to be held on Thursday, September 18, at the Fair Grounds, Oakland. The election took place at a meeting of interested people last Thursday evening at the City Hall.

All those desiring to enter the tournament should communicate with him. A final meeting for those interested, will be held on Thursday, September 11, at which time complete arrangements will he made. The county winner will particlpate in the State tournament, to be held in Baltimore on October 15, under the auspices of the Baltimore Evening Sun and the Playground Athletic League.

OFFICIALS OF ALL TOWNS TO BE ENTERTAINED HERE

Mayors and Councils of Incorporated Towns in Garrett County to be Guests of Oakland

All the mayors and twon councils of incorporated towns of Garrett county will be entertained with a banquet and program in Oakland on Wednesday, September 17, it was decided Tuesday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the Oakland Mayor and Town Council, held in the council chamber.

This will conclude the good-will meetings between officials of various towns, which were held druing the summer when the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland visited Kitzmiller, Grantsville, and Friendsville communities and were entertained.

The banquet will be held at the Manhattan hotel, and Mayor W. F. Broening, of Baltimore, is to be asked to make the principal address following the dinner. Other features are being arranged for the entertainment of those present. A number of business men of Oakland will also be in attendance. R. T. Thayer, R. C. McComas and Grover C. Stemple, mayor, compose the committee in charge of arrangements.

Still A Water Shortage

The water situation of the town was also discussed by the council and it was found that the low condition of the town's wells still prevailed. It was urgently requested that all citizens continue to conserve the water until conditions improve.

Several citizens appeared before the council asking for revision of their taxes. The passing of the monthly bills and other routine matters occupied the remainder of the meeting. The next regular meeting of the council will be held on October 6.

ADDITION TO GRANTSVILLE SCHOOL NOW A CERTAINTY

Bids for Erection Are Asked in Today's Republican

That Grantsville Hi school would receive an addition, and that Shallmar would receive a new school building, was announced this morning by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, in an advertisement, appearing in today's issue of The Republican.

Bids for the erection of the structures will be received at the offices of the Board of Education until noon on Tuesday, September 16.

The addition to Grantsville will be 36 feet by 79 feet 4 inches, of brick construction and two stories in height. The building at Shallmar will be 35 feet by 47 feet six inches, will be one story in height, and of frame construction.

The addition to Grantsville will be especially gratifying to the people of that section, as they have been holding classes in overcrowded quarters for several years. It is supposed the work will be completed before winter.

NO SUCCESSOR NAMED TO HEALTH NURSE POSITION

Miss Martin Tenders Resignation, Effective September 13

No successor has been named yet to succeed Miss Ruth Martin, public health nurse, who tendered her resignation to the Board of County Commissioners, the resignation to take effect the middle of September.

Miss Martin, who has been doing public health work in this county for the past year, expects to go to school this year at Shenandoah college, Dayton, Virginia.

Miss Martin did similar work in Kitzmiller and Keyser, W. Va., before taking up her duties here, and succeeded Miss Rhesa M. King, who is now in Greensburg, Pa.

Barn Destroyed by Fire.

The large two-story frame barn of Thomas McKenzie, well known farmer of Finzell, Garrett county, six miles north of Frostburg, was destroyed by fire at six o'clock Sunday evening. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Quantities of hay, oats and wheat stored in the barn, farm implements and three calves stabled in the structure were consumed. Members of Mr. McKenzie's family saved two horses from the blaze. The loss is estimated at over $3,000. The loss of the hay and grain, this year's crops, is a very heavy blow to the owner.

Members of the family with the help of neighbors endeavored to combat the fire by forming a bucket brigade, but their efforts were useless. The farm was originally owned by Adam Rosenberger.

PLANS BEING COMPLETED FOR 14TH ANNUAL FAIR

Everything Points to Successful Fair, Manager Says

"Now that the K. of P. Labor Day Picnic is over, people should turn all their thoughts and energies toward the fourteenth annual Garrett county agricultural fair," Mr. Henry Speicher, general manager, stated this morning.

"The attractions are going to be greater, the carnival is going to be of the best, the premium list has been revised, and everything points to the greatest fair in history, notwithstanding the continued drought during July and August."

A number of men are at work getting the Fair grounds in shape according to Mr. Speicher, and the exhibit buildings will be in excellent condition this year. Mayor Broening, Baltimore, is expected for one day of the Fair, and he will probably deliver a short address.

The dates of the Fair, September 16, 17, 18, and 19, were chosen after a careful study of weather conditions for the past 15 years and it was found that the week of September 15 was the best.

Anyone desiring to offer speical premiums is requested to get them to Mr. Speicher so that they may be published in next week's Republican.

RESULT OF FARMERS' DAY AT PARK IS ENCOURAGING

More Than Sixty Persons Attend Morning Conference at Mountain Lake Park on Saturday

Farmers' Day, Saturday, August 30, at Mountain Lake Park, while not well attended by farmers of the vicinity, was productive of results that should have an important bearing on the future development of the Allegany tableland. This tableland, reaching from the northern parts of Somerset and Fayette counties, Pennsylvania, through all of Garrett county, Maryland, and including most of the counties of Preston, Tucker and a part of Mineral and Grant counties, West Virginia, has been designated as a typical region of like characters and having similar objectives. Therefore, in the estimation of over sixty persons attending the morning conference at Mountain Lake Park, representing all parts of this region, it was voted upon and agreed to set up a temporary committee of one man and one woman with the county agent of each of these seven counties, who are to meet October 15 at Grantsville, Md., or Addison, Pa., for further study and discussion of a joint plan for the development of the region in all its phases.

Attending the meeting at the Park on Saturday, in addition to the agricultural extension men of the three states and the forestry delegates of Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, was a group of men and women from Pittsburgh representing the largest and most powerful organizations of that district.

The afternoon meeting was addressed by W. D. Grimes, acting as chairman, and by the principal speakers of the day, including Hon. Gray Silver, of Martinsburg, W. Va.; Nat T. Frame, director of the Agricultural Extension Division of West Virginia and by Hon. David J. Lewis, former member of Congress from this District, and former member of the Tariff Commission. All the speeches were instructive and technical, but were greatly appreciated by those present.

Frostburg Youth To Try Deep Creek Lake Swim Sunday

Francis Blake, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Blake, Frostburg, who was to have attempted swimming the full length of Deep Creek Lake last Sunday, did not appear for his try on account of a strained ligament in his leg, but will appear on next Sunday, September 7, and attempt to go the entire length of the lake, according to information received by The Republican from Frostburg yesetrday.

Young Blake already holds a record of a continuous ten mile swim in the James River at Old Point Comfort, Va., making the distance in six hours. He also holds the post championship for the 220-yard dash and a 100-yard dash at Fort Eustis, Va., made while a member of the Citizens' Military Training Camp.

Many people were along the shore of the lake last Sunday expecting to see the swimmer in action.

The Oak street circle of the M. E. Ladies' Aid Society will conduct a food sale at the C. & A. Gas office Saturday, September 13, beginning at 10:00 a. m. The patronage of the public is solicited.

ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF SHOTGUN KILLS MAN

Life of Martin Hughes, Crellin, Snuffed Out Monday Night Investigating Noise in Hen House

Martin J. Hughes, aged 69 years, of Crellin, three miles west of Oakland, was accidentally killed Monday night about eleven o'clock when a shotgun he was carrying exploded from some unaccountable cause, the charge of shot entering his chest just above his heart, death being instantaneous.

Mr. Hughes, is was stated by a brother, Mr. John A. Hughes, had gone to the henhouse on his property to investigate a commotion made by a house watchdog, and it is supposed that he stumbled and fell or had suffered a heart attack with which he had been afflicted for several years, and in falling it is presumed the gun was discharged, although there were no powder burns upon his clothing and when found the firearm was lying across his body. Mrs. Hughes had retired and was not disturbed by the report of the gun, but a family living nearby was aroused and thinking the report was that of a gun fired in an opposite direction, did not make an investigation.

Later in the evening a young man residing back of the Hughes place and who used the driveway of Mr. Hughes as a shortcut to reach his home, discovered the body and called a neighbor to the scene. Immediately a brother of the deceased, Mr. John A. Hughes, residing at Hutton, was notified and with other relatives went to Crellin where an investigation was made by Sheriff W. D. Casteel and other officials, who deemed an inquest unnecessary.

The remains were brought to Oakland and prepared for burial at the undertaking establishment of the Bolden Company, later being taken to the Hughes home in Crellin.

The deceased is survived by his wife, two brothers, John A. Hughes, of Hutton, and Thomas J. Hughes, of Terra Alta, W. Va., and by three sisters, Mrs. Michael Garrett, of Baltimore; Mrs. James Clark, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Miss Delia A. Hughes, also of Pittsburgh, and by a large circle of other relatives and many warm friends in Oakland and other parts of the county where the deceased was so well known and liked for his genial personality and exuberent spirits.

Funeral services were conducted at 9 o'clock this morning from St. Peter's Catholic church, Oakland, with interment in the Catholic cemetery, Rev. Fr. McVeigh officiating.

Teacher Appointments Nearly Completed.

Appointments of teachers and principals of the schools of Garrett county for the present school year, have been completed with one exception, according to an announcement made this morning by County Superintendent of Schools Rathbun.

E. S. Smith, former head of the commercial department in Washington Irving High School, Clarksburg, W. Va., and who for the past two years has been principal of the commercial department of the West Virginia Business School at Bluefield, W. Va., has accepted the position as head of the commercial department of Oakland High School.

The following named schools, by an order of the school officials, have been closed: Painter, Frazee's Ridge, Harris-Bennett, Elder Hill, Myers, Seboid and Bishoff. Pupils belonging to these schools will be transported to centers yet to be announced.

Vacancies which have existed in the teaching forces of various schools until within the past two or three days, have been supplied, the appointments being as follows as announced by the County Superintendent:

Friendsville, third assistant, Leona Nicklow; Kempton, Flo Helmick and Veronica Rafferty: Red House, Margaret Manley; Deer Park principal, Marshall Brown. Another teacher is yet to be appointed for Oakland Grammar school and one for Lake Ford

Falls From Barn; Breaks Rib

David Deming, of Swanton, suffered a broken rib and general shaking up recently when he fell from the roof timbers of a barn he was assisting in building on the farm of Truman Sweitzer, near Swanton. Mr. Deming is advanced in years and his escape from more serious injuries is rather remarkable, according to those who were at work with him on the structure.

GRANTSVILLE

Joel Miller Annual Family Reunion.

The descendants of the late Jeol B. Miller family held a reunion and picnic in Brenneman's Grove, near State Line, on Labor Day. There were over 500 relatives and friends present, coming from Nebraska, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

The retiring officers are: G. D. Miller, chairman; Alvin Yoder, secretary; Mark Bender, treasurer. The officers for next year are: Simon M. Yoder, chairman; Norman Miller, secretary; Glenson Bender, treasurer. The association voted to make this an annual affair and for the reunion to be held on Labor Day in the future. The day was ideal for a picnic.

Legion Outing.

The members of the Earl H. Opel Post of Salisbury, the Auxiliary and members of the families of the Auxiliary organization enjoyed a picnic at Brenneman's Grove, Grantsville, on Sunday afternoon. A large number were present. Games were enjoyed and a delicious lunch was served. A number attended from Grantsville.

Closing Program.

The eight little boys—James Beachy, Edgar A. Bender, Robert Davis, Jack Gnagey, Cecil Edwards, Verl Edwards, Bayard Keller, Jr., and Claude Stanton, Jr.,—who have completed a five weeks' course in art, handcraft, rhythmics and physical training at the Holmes-Wallace studios, gave an exhibition of their work on Friday evening last, which was greatly enjoyed by the parents and friends.

The art work in water colors, oil and crayon and the handcraft in paper, cardboard and wood displayed remarkable merit, amounting in some cases to genuine talent.

The program consisted of marching, gymnastics, interpretive work and tests of skill in balancing, spinning and throwing.

Isaac and John Miller Reunion.

Descendants of the late Isaac and John Miller held a reunion and picnic at Flat Rock Park, on the National Highway, Sunday. A large number were present. Those who attended from Grantsville were Misses Gertrude Hone and Helen Miller, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Osborne and Clyde Miller.

George Miller Family Reunion

The family of the late George Miller and Mrs. Margaret Miller held a reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Durst on Sunday. There were two hundred persons present. A table was spread with a bounteous supply of food, which all enjoyed and the afternoon was spent in singing and socially.

CHARLES F. WHITE, Clerk.

What Your Telephone Dollars Buy

The money you spend for your telephone does not buy the actual instrument. What then, DO you buy?

You buy service—constant, twenty-four hour service. Whether you are calling across the street or across the continent, the service is waiting for you—always ready.

You buy knowledge and experience that have taken years to acquire, and directed toward the single end that you may pick up your telephone and get the one other telephone you want out of more than 29,000,000 throughout the world.

You buy human devotion—loyalty that never wavers no matter what the emergency. The history of the telephone is filled with stories of men and women who have performed far beyond the line of duty, that the service might not falter.

These are the things your telephone dollars bring to you, things that cannot be measured in terms of price.

A Citizen and Taxpayer of Garrett County Advocates the Nomination of Dr. Henry W. McComas as the Republican Candidate For State Senator, But Not from a Political Viewpoint,as He Well States In His Communication Addressed to the Voters of the County.

Tuesday The Republican was in receipt of the following communication from a well known citizen, voter and heavy taxpayer, in fact being one of the largest tax payers in the county, and addressed—

To the Voters of Garrett County:—

It affords me great pleasure to advocate the candidacy of Dr. Henry W. McComas for the office of State Senator.

The writer never has and never will be able to view the qualifications of candidates for office from a partisan standpoint. The qualifications of a candidate for office should be judged on merit possessed by the candidate to properly fill the requirements of the particular office and not, at this enlightened age, upon whether he has a "D" or an "R" back of his name upon the ballot. However, at this time, this question is not so much involved at the primary election on the 8th of this month, except that many good Democrats and Republicans do have the privilege of speaking to their friends of the opposite faith and discussing the merits of the several candidates for office and using their influence in behalf of the candidate whom they think possesses the personality, ability and qualifications to best serve the interests of the State and County.

Dr. McComas needs no introduction to the voters of Garrett County, he having becn a successful practitioner of medicine for the past forty years or more. His fame as an outstanding physician being known, not only locally, but in the larger cities and adjoining States. His devotion to his practice, his self-denial and his willingness to sacrifice his comforts and travel far and wide over the hills of Garrett County in summer and winter, regardless of weather conditions, to administer to the sick, and frequently without charge, is also well known.

Dr. McComas, aside from his profession, has always been public spirited, has been a successful business man; has taken an active interest in all civic matters and has contributed liberally of his time, talents and money for the promotion of all things which may lead to the betterment of the people of Garrett county. He is a lover of Garrett County and you will always find him ready and willing to do his best for Garrett County in all endeavors which may promote the interests of the county and its citizens. He has studied the county; he has its interests at heart; he knows its needs; he knows the ills of burdensome taxation and the protection the people need and he is willing to be guided by the wishes of the people and go along with them in insuring the bright future of this infant county to the end that it may continue its road of progress, advancement and achievement.

Spacc will not permit me to say more than that most of the people are aware of the fact that Dr. McComas has practically been drafted to accept this office and has very reluctantly submitted to the wishes of a great many citizens and taxpayers in doing so. The writer has heard numerous expressions from citizens from all parts of the county endorsing Dr. McComas's candidacy for the office of State Senator.

He has made a success of his profession; he has made a success as a business man; he is thoroughly acquainted with Garrett County and its needs and the writer and all others who know Dr. McComas feel that he is worthy of and merits this nomination and election.

Respectfully,
VOTER AND TAXPAYER.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR 32 BUS LINES IN COUNTY

To Transport a Thousand School Children Daily, Being a Quarter of the Elementary Enrollment

AWARDS MADE ON FRIDAY

At a meeting of the Board of Education of Garrett county, held last Friday afternoon, contracts were continued or awarded for thirty-two bus lines in the county for the transportation of elementary and high school children, as announced by F. E. Rathbun, County Superintendent, an increase of seven lines over last year.

Provisions have been made for the transportation of children living along the routes of all those listed below.

It is the estimate of school authorities that there will be about one thousand children transported each day during this school year, which is about one-fourth of the total number of children in the elementary schools of the county.

The bus lines contracted for by the School Board, along with the contractors, are as follows:

From Long Stretch school to the Grantsville school, with two busses, Casselman Motor Company.

From Kimmell's gas station at the junction of the Swanton and Sand Flat-Kitzmiller road to Oakland by way of Sand Flat, A. Gorman Thayer.

From Buffalo Run to Selbysport and Friendsville, Yough Motor Company.

From Harris-Bennett school to the Kempton school, Wm. Bennett.

From Keyser's Ridge to Grantsville, Albert G. Reichenbecher.

From Silver Knob school to Swan Meadow, Harry A. Nicholson.

From Bray school to Rileyville and from Rileyville back to Bray school, Hubert E. Martin.

High school children from Swanton to Kimmell's gas station at the junction of the Swanton road with the Sand Flat-Kitzmiller road, and the elementary children of the Painter school to the Swanton elementary school, Leniel F. Friend.

High school children from Vindex to Kitzmiller, the bus to be operated under the County Board of Education.

From Swan Meadow school building to Oakland, Stanton's Taxi Service.

From the top of Little Backbone Mountain to the Loch Lynn school building and the Mountain Lake Park postoffice building, Warren Rathbun.

The pupils of the Sebold, Bishoff and Elder Hill schools and high school students nearby, to Friendsville, Paul Friend.

From Round Glade school to Bray school, R. Helms, Jr.

High school children from Chestnut Grove school community and the elementary and high school children of the Myers school to Bloomington, with all of the elementary school children transported to Bloomington elementary school only, and all of the high school students transported to the Bruce high school in Westernport, Edgar A. Barnard.

From Hutton, Crellin and Loch Lynn Heights to Oakland, Cecil Ramsey.

From Gnegy church to Oakland, Ernest Gortner.

From Thayerville to Accident, Earl T. Glotfelty.

From Jennings to Grantsville, J. Louis Ross.

From Bittinger to Accident, S. Homer Beachy.

From Swallow Falls to Bray, Wm. P. Lee.

From the Meese school neighborhood to the Baker school in Pennsylvania.

From Green's neighborhood to the Avilton school building, James H. Green.

From the Steiding and Chadderton schools to Deer Park, Levi Glotfelty.

From Meadow Mountain school to Black Hawk, Amos Bittinger.

From John Friend school to Friendsville, Foster Friend.

From Pennsylvania State line to Keyser's Ridge to Accident, Dwight G. Speicher.

From Thayerville to Oakland, A. Gorman Thayer.

From Cove to Accident, Dwight G. Speicher.

From Firm Rock and Aaron's Run schools to Westernport, Edward S. Moran.

From Weir to Lonaconing, David W. Weir.

From Shield's Run to Red House, Greely Janoske.

Henry M. Speicher, Candidate for Nomination for County Commissioner, States His Position

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

On Monday next you will choose the Republican candidates for County Commissioners. Being one of those who seek that position, I take this method of soliciting your support at the polls.

In the campaign just closing, I have endeavored to see as many voters as possible, but on account of my work for the County Fair and other demands upon me I have not been able to call upon all. However, my candidacy has been before you and I trust it has received your favorable consideration.

I have made no extravagant promises, and if nominated and elected will go into office free to work for the best interests of our County. Every section will receive the same consideration from me and I shall be happy to serve you. I pledge to you a faithful, honest and efficient administration of county affairs and assure you that the welfare of our county will be my chief concern. I shall endeavor at all times to merit the confidence you may place in me.

I thank you for your consideration and respectfully and earnestly ask your support.

Cordially yours,

Henry M. Speicher,

Republican Candidate for County Commissioner.
District No. 5.

Mrs. Ellen I. Lee, Republican Candidate for County Treasurer, Rests Her Case With The Electorate of the County.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

By the time you read this, my last appeal to you for your support, the Primary Campaign will be nearing its end. I have had the greatest encouragement and the kindest treatment from the people whom I have met and I am very sorry that it has been impossible to meet and greet each voter.

I have endeavored to present my cause to you in a fair and honorable way. I belong to no clique or combination, but to all of the people.

I stand upon the present record of the office, of which I am a component part.

I feel confident of meeting the requirements and performing the duties of the office to which I aspire.

In closing this campaign and making this, my last appeal to you for your support, with full knowledge that I have not said a harmful word about any of the candidates, I now commit my cause into your hands for your final judgment on Monday, September 8, and will be perfectly satisfied with your decision.

If I am your choice at the primary election, I have but two promises to make: First, an active campaign in the general election for the entire ticket; second, to conduct the office impartially and render the best of service possible.

I now rest my case with you.

With malice toward none and goodwill to all, I am,

Mrs. Ellen I. Lee,

Republican Candidate for County Treasurer.

William M. Frazee, Republican Candidate for Commissioners' Clerk, Asks For Support at the Republican Primary Election.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

Finding that it will be impossible for me to personally call on all the Republican voters of the county before the primary election on Monday, I am taking this opportunity to ask the support and influence of each one at the polls.

Thanking you in advance for any favors, I beg to remain,

Very respectfully yours,

William M. Frazee,

Republican Candidate for Nomination for Clerk to the Board of County Commissioners.

A Statement by Mrs. Nina O'Brien Riley, Candidate for Nomination for Register of Wills

To the Voters of Garrett County:—

I find that it will be impossible for me to see all the voters of the county before the primary, and therefore I take this opportunity to ask the support and influence of each Republican voter at the polls.

My opponent has been in this office for 28 years and I believe it only fair to have a change.

I find some who are wondering how I will manage the home if I am nominated and later elected. Will say that part is provided for as I have a very efficient mother who is capable and willing to see after the home the few hours I would be away.

Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,

Mrs. Nina O'Brien Riley,

Republican Candidate for Register of Wills.

Notice To The Republican Voters of Garrett County.

During the last few days of the primary contest for the nomination for Sheriff, some of my opponents are not only spreading a lot of propaganda concerning myself, but also about my family.

I feel that no man should make one's innocent children the implement with which to gain their ends.

It is impossible for me to see all the voters in the short time yet remaining before the day of the primary election, and I therefore ask that you give my candidacy the consideration which you think it justly deserves.

Thanking you in advance for your support at the election, I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,

E. W. ADAMS,

Republican Candidate for Nomination for Sheriff.

Thomas E. Bishoff, Candidate for Judge of the Garrett County Orphans' Court

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I find it impossible to see all or the majority of the people in the county, and therefore I take this opportunity of asking the support of all the voters who may think me capable of filling the office for which I am a candidate.

I was born and have lived in Garrett County all my life; have been a taxpayer for about thirty-five years. Now give me your consideration and vote as you think best, but first inquire as to the character and ability of the candidate.

Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,

Thomas E. Bishoff,

Republican Candidate for Judge of Orphans' Court.

A STATEMENT

—BY—

N. R. SELBY

Republican Candidate for State Senate

To My Republican Friends:—

As a private citizen I have always advocated any movement that tended toward the development of Garrett County and promised the betterment of the condition of its citizens. The official record of the 1906 and 1918 sessions of the Legislature of Maryland, when I had the honor to represent Garrett County in that body, furnish absolute proof of the sincerity of my interest and my loyalty to the citizens of this county.

Now, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the honor of State Senator for Garrett County, I take this means of making known to all my Republican friends my position with reference to certain important matters which will engage the next session of the Maryland Assembly.

I am unalterably opposed to the passage of any and all measures which may be proposed for the issuance of bonds for Garrett County for any purpose whatsoever, and pledge myself to consistently and persistently oppose the passage of any law or proposition to authorize the issuance of bonds, with or without a referendum, or to countenance any proposal to increase the burden of taxation of the people of Garrett County.

I shall never cast my vote or use my influence for the enactment of any law to exempt any corporation or company doing business or holding property within the county or State from the payment of their just and equitable share of public dues and taxes..

I shall, at all times, advocate the strict and persistent enforcement of all laws, including the Eighteenth Amendment, and all general and local laws in reference there to, and, if elected, I shall represent all the people of the County and every section thereof, and shall always be found at my post to protect and safeguard your every interest.

I shall always regard myself as your servant, ready and willing with all my energies, to serve your highest interests so far as they may be made known to me.

I therefore earnestly and respectfully solicit your vote and support at the primary election in September, with the assurance that your favorable consideration will be sincerely appreciated and that, with or without your support, I shall always be your faithful fellow citizen ready at all times to do you service.

With sincere thanks for your past support and again soliciting your vote at the coming primary, I have the honor to remain,

Sincerely yours,

NATHAN R. SELBY,

Republican Candidate for the State Senate.

Mr. J. C. Myers Asks For Support At the Primary Election

To the Voters of Garrett County:—

I find that it will be impossible to see all the voters of the County before the primary, and therefore I take this opportunity to ask the support and influence of each Republican voter at the primary election.

Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain,

Very respectfully yours,

J. C. MYERS,

Republican Candidate for Nomination for County Commissioner.

—Political advertisement authorized by the candidate, J. C. Myers.—2t.

Notice to the Voters

When you vote for me on September the 8th I want you to distinctly understand that I am in favor of all Law Enforcement, and that if I am nominated and elected to the office of Sheriff I will show no favoritism or partiality to any lawless element or individual.

It is possible for you to obtain reasonably accurate information concerning the reputation and character, habits, sentiments and qualifications of every candidate.

In their desperate attempt to defeat me, certain politicians are circulating the "deceitful lie" that I have already picked a man for Deputy Sheriff.

I am confident that you are capable of making your own decision without being influenced at the last minute by rumors and political propaganda.

I want you to give every candidate your fair and unbiased consideration. Then let your conscience be your guide, and may the best man win.

Very respectfully yours,

J. S. TEATS

Republican candidate for nomination for Sheriff.

—Political advertisement authorized by the candidate, J. S. Teats.—28-2t.

E. E. Friend, Republican Candidate For Register of Wills, Addresses the Republican Voters.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:

As this will be the last issue of the county papers before the primary, I wish to again place before you my candidacy for renomination to the office of Register of Wills.

Because my duties as Register of Wills require my attendance at the office every week day I have not been able to see all of those who will take part in the primary and present my candidacy in person. I regret that I could not visit every section of the county.

I have greatly appreciated the confidence heretofore reposed in me by the people of this county and have endeavored to perform the duties of my office faithfully and honestly. With the experience I have acquired I feel that I am more able now than ever to render you efficient service.

If nominated and reelected I shall give to the office my best attention and to all the people of the county who may have business to transact there the highest possible type of service.

I wish to thank you for the support given me and respectfully solicit your vote on next Monday.

Respectfully yours,

E. E. FRIEND,

Candidate for Register of Wills.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

By SCOOP--HIMSELF

Seoop In Danger!

This may be Scoop's last column. He has been threatened, right in the midst of the Labor Day picnic. And the fellow was evidently in sympathy with the bootleggers because at the time he was "three sheets in the wind," and didn't seem to like it because he said I had written about two of his real good friends in last week's paper.

In looking over last week's column, I find that I mentioncd no names of bootleggers whatever, but that a couple paragraphs hit them pretty elosely.

The fellow "Fim Fickle" who accosted Seoop at the picnic first asked that he be given a write-up and then said if he did, it called for a fight, and didn't mind telling mc that I would be on the short end of the stick at the conclusion of the engagement. That's where drink gets one's mind all mixed up.

Anyway, here's his write-up. Scoop has called on the town militia and national guard forces to prepare to declare martial law in Oakland Thursday evening, Friday, or in the future, and to see justiee carried out. Ringside seats are not available at any price. Everything is frcc. Over in this cornor we have "Battlin' Booze," while in this eorner—(hasn't decided on a name yet.)

Copied Prayer

Charlie Ream, proprietor of Table Rock Inn, dug this one up and printed it on the back of his cards, and Seoop likes it so well he is also passing it on.

"Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces a pound, and 100 cents a dollar. Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear eonscience and unhaunted by the faees of those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it I may do unto others as I would have them do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money. Blind mc to the faults of other fellows, and reveal to me my own. Keep me young enough to laugh with little children and sympathetic so as to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkening shades make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple: "Here lics a man."

Lutheran Brotherhood to Have Corn Roast

The men of St. Mark's Lutheran ehureh, under the auspiees of the Brotherhood, will hold their first meeting next Tuesday evening in the grove at the farm of Wallace Bowser, south of town, where a corn roast will be enjoyed, with weiners and marshmallows. ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Emma Catharine Cresse vs. Gilbert Sthempson Cresse.

No. 2976 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrctt County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divoree a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states:—

That the plaintiff was married to the defendant March 3, 1920, with whom she resided until June, 1921, at which time the said defendant deserted the said plaintiff while they resided at Bayard, Grant County, West Virginia; that, although the conduct of the plaintiff toward the said defendant has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said Gilbert Sthempson Cresse has, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her; that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that there was one child born of said marriage, Russell Dale Cresse, eight years of age, who is in the custody and care of your oratrix; that your oratrix has been a resident of Garrctt County, Maryland, for more than two years next preeeding the filing of this suit, but the defendant is not a resident of Maryland, his last known address being Camden, New Jersey, but his present place of residence being to your oratrix unknown.

The bill then prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii of the plaintiff from the defendant, for the guardianship and custody of the said infant child, Russell Dale Cresse, for general relief and for an order of publieation.

IT IS THEREUPON, This 27th day of August, 1930, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiff by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 27th day of September, 1930, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 13th day of October, 1930, to show eause, if any he has, why a deeree should not to be passed as prayed.

PROCLAMATION

Proposing Amendments to the Constitution of the State, 1930.

WHEREAS, at the January Sessinn of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1929, two Acts were passed, to-wit: Chapter 133 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, titie "Treasury Department," to authorize deputies in the Treasury Department to sign checks and watrants; and Chapter 348, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 133.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, titie "Treasury Department," so as to confer upon the Legislature power to authorize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants, and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the State Treasury under regulations prescribed by the Legislature; and providing for the submission of said amendment to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoptio nor rejectioin.

Section 1. Be it cnacted hy the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all of the Members of both of the Houses concurring), That an amendment to Sections 2 and 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, titie, "Treasury Department,"be and the same is hereby proposed, the said amendment, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become a part of said Constitution, and the said Sections as amended to read as follows:

2. The Comptroller shall have the general auperintendence of the fiscal affairs of the State; he shall digest and prepare plans for the improvement and management of the revenue, and for the support of the public credit; prepare and report estimates of the revenue and expenditures of the State; superintend and enforce the prompt collection of all taxes and revenue; adjust and aettle, on terms prescribed by law, with delinquent collectors and receivers of taxes and State revenue; preserve all public accounts; and decide on the forms of keeping and stating accounts. He, or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature, shall grant, under regulations prescribed by law, all warrants for money to be paid out of the Treasury, in pursuance of appropriations by law, and countersign all checks drawn by the Treasurer upon any bank or banks in which the moneys of the State may from time to time be deposited. He shall prescribe the formalities of the transfer of atock, or other evidence of the State debt, and countersign the same, without which such evidence shall not be valid; he shall make to the General Assembly full reports of all his proceedings, and of the State of the Treasury Department within ten days after the commencement of each Session; and perform such other duties as shall be prescribed by law.

3. The Treasurer shall receive the moneys of the State, and, until otherwise prescribed by law, deposit them, as soon as received, to the credit of the State, in such bnnk or banks as he may, from time to time, with the approval of the Governor, select(the said bank or banks giving security, satisfactory to the Governor, for the safekeeping and forthcoming, when required of said deposits), and he or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall disburse the same for the purposes of the State according to law, upon warrants drawn by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and on checks countersigned by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, and not otherwise. The Treasurer or such of his deputies as may be authorized to do so by the Legislature shall take receipts for all moneys paid from the Treasury Department; and receipt for moneys received by him shall be endorsed upon warrants signed by the Comptroller, or such deputy as may be authorized to do so by law, without which warrants, so signed, no acknowledgment of money received into the Treasury shall be valid; and upon warrants issued by the Comptroller, or his duly authorized deputy, the Treasurer shall make arrangements for the payment of the Interest of the public debt, and for the purchase thereof, on account of the sinking fund. Every bond, certificate, or other evidence of the debt of the State shall be signed by the Treasurer, and countersigned by the Comptroller; and no new certificate or other evidence intended to replace another shall be issued until the old one shall be delivered to the Treasurer, and authority executed in due form for the transfer of the aame filed in his office, and the transfer accordingly made on the books thereof, and the certificate or other evidence cancelled; but the Legislature may make provisions for the loss of certificates or other evidences of the debt; and may prescribe, by law, the manner in which the Treasurer shall receive and keep the moneys of the State.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the aforegoing sections as amended, shall be, at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, nineteen hundred and thirty, submitted to the legally qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State, and at said general election the vote on the proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the following synopsis of said amendment, under the caption of:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT AMENDING SECTIONS 2 AND 3 OF ARTICLE VI."

"This amendment confers upon the Legislature power to authnrize deputies, employed in the Treasury Department, to sign, countersign and grant warrants and to sign, countersign and issue checks for the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury of the State under regulations prescribed by the Legislature."

Approved: April 2, 1929.

CHAPTER 348

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring). That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title, "Legislative Department," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

15. The Generni Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of fifteen dollars per diem for every day he shnll attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shnil also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of ten dollars per day. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election for Members of the General Assembly of Maryland, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against the said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: April 11, 1929.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ALBERT C. RITCHIE, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that this proclamation containing full, true and correct copies of the text of said Chapters 133 and 348 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1929, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months next preceding the general election to be held in the State of Maryland on Tuesday, the 4th day of November, 1930, at which election the said proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be submitted in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

The Great Seal of Maryland

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland. Done at the City of Annapolis, this 14th day of July, in the year nineteen hundred and thirty.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County, Md.:—

At the solicitation of many friends, I announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of member of the House of Delegates, subject to the result of the primary election, and most respectfully solicit the support and influence of my friends in the county.

If nominated and elected a member of the General Assembly I will endeavor to render to the people of the county efficient service.

Very respectfully,
OTHO S. FIKE.
District No. 15.*

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of Delegate in the State Legislature, subject to the result of the Republican primary election.

I feel that my previous experience as a member of the House of Delegates should be taken into consideration when the Republicans cast their ballots at the primary election, and I solicit the support and influence of my party associates in all parts of the county, pledging my support to legislation of a character that will be beneficial to the people of the county.

Very respectfully yours,
ARTHUR H. GREEN.
Swanton, District No. 1.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the Republican nomination for member of the House of Delegates, subject to the result of the Republican primary election.

In making this announcement, I stand upon my past record as a member of the House of Delegates, and if nominated and elected I promise to give to the people of Garrett county the best service I possibly can.

I am not aligned with any faction, but I am seeking this nomination upon my own merits.

Soliciting your influence and support at the primary, I am,

Very respectfully yours,
ALBERT MARKLEY.
Oakland, District No. 14.*

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I hereby announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for member of the House of Delegates, subject to the result of the Republican primary election, and most respectfully solicit the support and influence of everyone at the polls.

I am an ex-service man and a former deputy sheriff of Garrett county and am now serving as a Justice of the Peace in District No. 13.

If nominated and elected I promise to execute the duties of the office to which I aspire conscientiously and to the best of my ability.

The undersigned announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of House of Delegates at the Republican primary election to be held on September 8, 1930, and respectfully solicits the support of Republicans in all seetions of the county.

If nominated and later elected to this important office I shall conscientiously discharge the duties of the office to the best of my ability.

Very respectfully yours,
ARTHUR G. CULLERS.
District No. 8.*

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:—

I hereby announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination as a Member of the House of Delegates, subject to the result of the Republican primary election. This is my first announcement for public office and I do not have time to go out to see all the voters of the county, so I earnestly solicit your support and thank you for what heip you can give me at the primary election. Thanking you, I beg to remain,

Very respectfully yours,
WILLIAM ALBERT GROVES.

CRABBE SPEAKS BEFORE ANNUAL DRY CONFERENCE

Anti-Saloon League Leader Flays Wet Newspapers of Maryland at Mt. Lake Park On Sunday

ABOUT 200 ARE AT MEETING

"The hardest job of the prohibitionists of today is getting facts about the increasing success of enforcement before the people, because of alliance of a number of wet newspapers on the wet side and their failure to publish the real truth," George W. Crabbe, Baltimore, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, said in his address Sunday morning at the annual meeting of the League held in Mountain Lake Park.

Mr. Crabbe, in bringing before the gathering some of the alleged methods the organized force against the Eighteenth Amendment used, offered data taken from the report of the investigation of lobbyists in Washington.

"The organized force," he said, "comprise a number of rich men, who primarily want the Eighteenth Amendment repealed and the liquor traffic restored so that the income tax of the millionaires would be decreased. They thought that anything in America could be bought if enough money was offered for it, and they have set out to buy America. But thank God, there aren't enough millionaires in the world to purchase America, because there are too many decent people who are not for sale.

"The organized forces have in the past few years attempted to purchas a number of magazines, newspapers, etc., and are beginning to delve into the country newspaper field."

He pointed out Baltimore newspapers as aiding in the wet cause, and also a certain magazine, he said, had gone over to the anti-prohibitionists because of the offer of too much money. He was of the opinion that country newspapers in general could still be relied upon.

"The wettest man I have to deal with," Mr. Crabbe said, "admits that the Eighteenth Amendment is here to stay. Those who are defending the anti-prohibitionists and fighting for the repeal of the Amendment are building up anarchy."

Discusses Literary Digest Poll

Mr. Crabbe touched on the Literary Digest poll and cited one instance of the alleged unfair method of taking the poll of clergymen in Washington. "Out of ninety-eight ministers of the Methodist church in Washington, only ten received a ballot, while a personal ballot among themselves showed that eighty-eight were for prohibition," he said. The 234 clergymen in Washington who were in favor of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment were mostly from one organized body.

School teachers showed overwhelmingly in favor of prohibition, he pointed out, and he said that he cared for their opinion more than the entire organized force against the Amendment. "Let's not be guided by headlines in "wet newspapers," he concluded, "but be guided by our own heads and the thoughts that are in them."

The Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland played for the afternoon service with about two hundred present at the meetings.

Yard and Garden Contest

A visitor in Oakland the other day gave expression to his admiration of the town, saying it was truly beautiful, and commented also upon the well kept and neat appearance of a number of the yards about the homes, so it pays to keep things neat and clean. Another visitor from Frederick, the head of the largest banking institution of that staid old town, said that there was more green vegetation on one acre of Garrett county land than there is in all of Frederick county, closing his remarks with the expression: "You people up here in Garrett county should be truly thankful; this is heavenly to me."

All of which leads up to the subject: work for the rewards offered in the Yard and Garden Contest. If your are not fortunate in securing first prize you may get one of the lesser ones, for a number are being offered, any one of which is worth working for. Your efforts will attract the attentions of passers-by. They see a well kept home and they know at once good citizens proud of their town and community are living there—people one would wish to know, for they care how their homes look and they are REAL citizens.

DIED.

HOMER WILT

The remains of Homer Wilt, who was aged 38 years, and who died in a Baltimore hospital following an attack of pneumonia, were brought to Oakland Monday morning and taken to the home of C. M. Glass, east of Altamont, from whose residence the interment occurred yesterday afternoon.

Scouts To Begin Fall Program and Competition.

The fall and winter program of Oakland Troop, No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, will get under way tomorrow evening at the regular meeting of the troop in the City Hall, when the monthly inspection will be held.

The winner of Friday's inspection will get a good start toward winning the prize to be presented to the best patrol during the next three-month period. Points will be awarded for inspections, advancement in tests, passing of merit badges and general scout activity.

SCHOOLING IN COUNTIES LIMITED BY LACK OF FUNDS

Antiquated Buildings and Methods Shown In Communities of State Having No Bond Issues

REPORT OF STATE BOARD

A summary of the school bond issues authorized by the Legislature of Maryland since 1918, discloses that in those counties where the capital outlay has been limited, the progress of school consolidation and modern teaching methods are either prevented or hindered, according to a report issued Monday by the State Department of Education in Baltimore.

The result is antiquated buildings and lack of equipment which must continue until parents are aroused to the conditions under which their children are doing their school work, the report continued.

Bond Issues in Four Counties.

Since 1918 Carroll, Garrett, St. Mary's and Somerset are the only counties which have had no bond issues for land and school buildings. Except for the 1929 issues in Charles and Prince George's counties, the later issues have lower interest rates than the earlier ones.

Nearly all the new bonds are serials and in general run over a period of from twenty to forty years. Carroll and Garrett have had bond issues authorized by the Legislature four and three times, respectively, in the period from 1918 to 1929.

To Finance Crisfield Project

Following the promise of the County Commissioners of Somerset to the Crisfield Rotary Club to levy $10,000 and to recommend subsequent annual levies up to a total of $50,000, the Crisfield High School Holding Company was organized to finance the cost of erecting a high school building. The company will hold the title to the building until it has been paid for by the county.

The title will then be transferred to the Board of Education.

AGRICULTURAL FAIR IS IMPORTANT COUNTY EVENT

County Agent John H. Carter Discusses Outlook For Fourteenth Annual Show.

"A county agricultural fair is and always should be one of the most important events on any county program, especially so when the county is depending almost entirely upon agriculture for its resources," John H. Carter, county agent, stated, in discussing the outlook for the fourteenth annual fair, to be held at Oakland on September 16, 17, 18, and 19.

"This is applicable to Garrett county. The time is near for the annual fair, and it is the duty of every farmer and business man in the county to contribute and do all he can to make the Garrett county fair a success and one of which he will be proud," he continued.

"A county fair is the means of bringing together the people socially and in a common frame of mind to study local problems and to work out a program to bring about needed development of the county agriculturally. Team work is needed not only in athletics but in all kinds of organizations, especially those of a rural type.

"The county fair brings out the best products that can be provided by the home or the farm and is indirectly a review of the year's work. The competitive spirit is an educational stimulus for greater achievement rather than winning prizes in money. Prize money is not given to reimburse one for exhibiting at the fair, but is given as a token of appreciation for the spirit people have in promoting their county.

"Everyone in the community, and the community includes the entire county, is counted upon to participate in this fair. Everyone may not be competing for prizes, but the program is arranged to entertain and benefit everyone.

"The value of comparing by sight can hardly be determined financially. A fair should be an educational institution calculated to raise the standard of the county, to encourage the production of better crops and better livestock, and to promote the highest standards of living.

"It is true the drought and frost has caused considerable damage in this county but the county can show just as much quality and quantity as in the past. It will require just a little more effort and work on the part of each citizen. Are we going to arise to the occasion and meet the test as all Americans and Garrett Countains do? Yes we are! IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

The names of agents who were authorized to receive subscriptions throughout the county for The Republican and which were printed at the head of the local page included J. E. Gnagey, Accident; Thomas B. Wiley, Bittinger; George W. Moon, Gorman; A. L. Gangey, Grantsville; William A. Smith, Hoycs; Charles F. White, Hutton; George W. Blocher, Johnson; D. W. Fraker, McHenry; James A. Enlow, Mt. Lake Park; C. J. Otto, New Germany.

Mr. David S. Custer and Miss Minnie M. Friend, daughter of Judge D. H. Friend, both of Garrett county, were married by Rev. B. Ison, on August 25.

Mrs. G. W. W. Amick, Johnstown, Pa., was visiting her mother and other relatives near Oakland.

Will Ravenscroft, teller in the Fairmont bank, resigned his position and returned to his home in Oakland.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Shirer and son Scott were spending the week in Atlantic City.

Misses Edith and Leah Bolden left for Meyersdale and Johnstown, Pa., where they visited friends and relatives.

Senator Harvey J. Speicher, and Mr. William Goehringer, Accident, and Earl Smith, Hoyes, came to Oakland Sunday afternoon and remained here until Tuesday when they returned to their homes.

Only by the timely discovery of a fire in the basement of the large auditorium at Mt. Lake Park, caused by crossed electric wires, was the building saved from total destruction.

NORTHWESTERN HIGHWAY MAY BE MADE BEAUTIFUL

Plans to be Made for the Historic Highway at Meeting Sept. 4.

Plans for beautifying with trees and shrubbery the route of the historic Northwestern grade from Winchester to Parkersburg, W. Va., are to be shaped at the annual meeting of Northwestern Turnpike, Inc., September 4, at the Van Myra camp grounds, a mile from Burlington, W. Va., according to an announcement received by members of the society in Oakland.

Cities and towns along the route are expected to send delegations and an attendance of 20,000 is expected.

It is planned to advertise the scenic beauties and easy grades of the famous old road, surveyed and party built by Major Crozet, a French engineer, who came to America with General Lafayette.

An Interesting Fact

WILLIAM WIRT, ANTI-MASONIC

Since the Civil War, while several of Maryland's favorite sons have been prominently mentioned as candidates for the Presidency, yet none have attained that distinction, except two.

The one with which this thumb-nail sketch has to do, was William Wirt, a native Marylander, distinguished as a lawyer, a statesman and an author. Coming into national prominence as the leader in the prosecution of Aaron Burr, charged with the crime of high treason, occupying the high position of Attorney General of the United States for twelve consecutive years, participating in some of the most important litigation ever argued before the Supreme Court of the United States, William Wirt ended his days disappointed and disallusioned.

In the early 1830's there was injected into politics one of those remarkable issues which frequently seals the fate of prominent aspirants for high office.

Much romance and fiction have been woven about the story of William Morgan, a bricklayer of Batavia, N. Y., who in 1826 had written a book purporting to expose the secrets of Freemasonry. Passing over the known facts as well as conjectures surrounding the whole matter, it is sufficient to state that the outcome was the formation of an anti-Masonic party, of which Wirt became the nominee for the Presidency in 1832 against Jackson and Clay. The issue in this campaign shattered political organizations and forever blasted Clay's hope of reaching the Presidency.

So rapidly did the anti-Masonic agitation spread that it gained headway in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Connecticut and Ohio, so that when the party delegates met in convention in Philadelphia in September, 1831, twelve States were represented by 112 delegates.

In the campaign that followed, bitter and acrimonious, a serious effort was made to cement the opposition to Jackson, Wirt evidently believing that Clay would withdraw as the Whig candidate, but the latter refused to treat with the anti-Masons. All candidates for the various offices were approached and made to declare whether they were Masons or anti-Masons. Jackson himself was a member of the Masonic fraternity.

There were three tickets in the field and the elements hostile to General Jackson were hopelessly divided. The result was a foregone conclusion. Out of 286 electoral votes cast, Jackson received 219; Clay 49 and William Wirt received 7.

Wirt died in 1834 while attending a session of the United States Supreme Court in Washington.

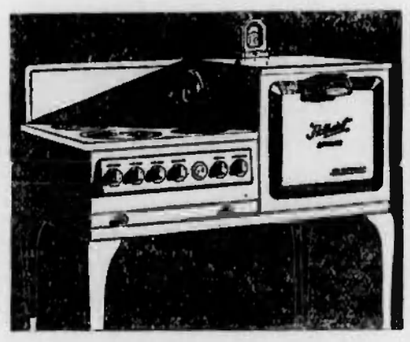
THESE FOUR IMPROVEMENTS

now remove every obstacle to owning an electric range

~~3¢~~—1¾c
New rate cuts electric cost almost in half after first 150 kilowatt hours.

~~$500~~—$0.00
Now the company provides all wiring connections for your electric range.



~~$150.00~~—$129.50
Material reduction in range prices.

~~100%~~—129%
29% faster cooking than in any previous model.

At only 1¾c for every kilowatt hour over 150 a month, electric cookery is a real bargain. You can enjoy the supreme convenience and cleanliness of an electric range without feeling a bit extravagant.

Choose your range now. You can get an ultra-modern, all-white enamel electric range for as low as $129.50 installed. Other beautiful models are proportionately low.

We will put in adequate meter entrances without charge to the customer as part of our equipment. As a result, you save $50 or more when your range is installed and every time you move. This offer holds good no matter from whom you purchase your range or how long you've had it.

Still another great improvement in owning an electric range is faster cooking. Every new model heats up quicker and cooks more rapidly . . . comparing favorably in cooking time with any other fuel range. Come in and let us show you how the four new improvements make it economical to cook by electricity.

VOLUME 54. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, SEPTEMBER 11, 1930. NUMBER 30.

2ND DAY TO BE FEATURE DAY FOR ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Parade of School Children Schedule for Wednesday, September 17—Other Features

BROENING TO BE PRESENT

Wednesday, September 17, the second day, will be the feature day of the fourteenth annual Garrett county fair, according to Henry M. Speicher, general manager. The day will be known as School Day, and a parade of all the school children of the vicinity will be held, which will also include a number of other attractions, floats, etc. This will be the only day on which a parade will be held, the manager stated.

A letter from W. F. Broening, mayor of Baltimore, received this morning by Grover Stemple, mayor of Oakland, stated that he would be very happy to accept the invitation to be present in Oakland on Wednesday, September 17, both for the Fair and for the banquet in the evening.

The other features for Wednesday, September 17, are the presence of Mayor W. F. Broening, of Baltimore, Republican candidate for Governor, and the banquet in honor of all the mayors and town councils of incorporated towns of Garrett county, to be held in the evening at the Manhattan hotel. They will be guests of the Oakland Mayor and Town Council. Mayor Broening will be asked to speak at the banquet, and other features are being arranged for the entertainment of those present.

Determined to make the Garrett county fair superior to any in the past Mr. Speicher has contracted with the company of Hilbert and Dorothea to furnish a program of free acts featuring Miss Dorothea's sensational "slide-for-life" down a five hundred feet incline wire.

This young lady has been presenting this act at many of the big events on the west coast and in the middle west, this being her first season in the east. Patrons are promised a real thrill when she makes her flight through five hundred feet of space to be caught in nets at the lower end of the wire. She will also be seen in another aerial act which is said to be a very artistic but hazardous offering. Peerless Hilbert, the other member of the company, in the make-up of clown, is said to be a sure cure for all forms of blues.

Secure Entry Blanks

Entry blanks for making exhibits at the County Fair are ready for distribution and may be seeured from Mr. Speicher, John H. Carter, or at the office of the county agent.

If the exhibitors will secure the blanks and fill them out properly it will save considerable time and trouble at the time of entering the exhibit, Mr. Carter, county agent, stated.

Active Interest Necessary

"Everything possible is being done to give people plenty of entertainment and provide adequate space for all of the exhibits, but without the people's presence, their exhibits and their whole-hearted assistance and cooperation, the fair is bound to be a failure."

Harry Helbig Loses Valuable Riding Horse

A valuable riding horse, "Duke", owned by Harry Helbig, had his leg broken last Saturday evening when he was run into by Fred Alexander, Accident, on the State highway, just north of town, and it was necessary to kill him, as the injury would have rendered him useless for the remainder of his life.

The horse had broken from the field and jumped in front of the automobile as it was passing. The accident was unavoldable, according to witnesses.

Drum and Rugle Corps Begins Practice

With almost a one hundred percent attendance the first practice session of the drum and bugle corps of the local post of the American Legion was held last evening. The next practice will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Legion Hall and Naylor's hall.

Car is Wrecked Pursuing An Alleged "Bill Skipper."

While in pursuit of a man alleged to have failed to pay a bill for gasoline which he purchased and had put in car at one of the local garages on Sunday afternoon, William Lane, colored, wrecked the Essex coupe, owned by David Hardesty, at King's Hill, four miles north of Oakland when it skidded on the wet roadway and plunged into the woods bordering the highway. It is said that the machine turned completely over.

While one of the employes was giving the customer some motor oil, Lane was filling the gasoline tank, and it is said he told each of the men that he had "paid the other fellow." When it was discovered that he had paid neither, Lane set out in pursuit and trailed the man to King's Hill where the accident occurred. The body of the car was badly smashed but the frame and motor were not injured.

OAKLAND WILLHAVEPART IN HIGHWAY CELEBRATION

Local Organizations Plan to go to Kitzmiller September 20

Plans have been progressing for the road celebration which will be held at Kitzmiller on Saturday, September 20, to mark the opening of the new Oakland-Kitzmiller highway, according to Grover C. Stemple, mayor of Oakland, and one of the members of the committee.

At a meeting of the Oakland Rotary club it was decided to attend in a body, and the Crellin Band, the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland, and the Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts are also planning to go. The caravan of motor vehicles will leave Oakland at 10:30 a. m., from the City Hall, and busses are being provided for transportation of the organizations and for anybody else who wishes to go who has no method of transportation.

"We want to show the people of Kitzmiller that we appreciate the fact that they are in Garrett county and will now be in closer touch with the county seat," Mayor Stemple said. "I am sure the people of Oakland are getting behind the celebration and will be in the parade when the time comes."

The details of the celebration, the entertainment, speakers, etc., are all being taken care of by the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmiller and the Kitzmiller Fire department. There will be a ball game, and carnival and Park attractions in the afternoon besides the speaking which will take place immediately after dinner.

It is hoped to make this the greatest road celebration in the county to be held in several years, as the road is an important connecting link in the county and also between two national routes.

CHARTER IS PRESENTED TO AUXILIARY OF LEGION

State President Makes Presentation on Tuesday Night

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Proctor Kildow Post No. 71, American Legion, received its charter Tuesday night at a joint meeting of the members of both the auxiliary and legion, held at the High school auditorium. Mrs. Emma Giles Parker, the State president, made the presentation with appropriate remarks.

The meeting was open to the public and a number were present besides the organizations. The American Legion members attended the ceremony in a body.

Major George E. Parker, U. S. Marines, who is known as Maryland's hero of the late war, gave a short address with "preparedness" as his main thought.

Entertainment was furnished by William Gibson, who rendered several piano selections, and by Reeves Blandford, who gave some vocal solos. The singing was led by Wade Hinebaugh. Following the ceremony in the high school auditorium, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Neil Fraley.

The Legion auxiliary is giving a card party in Fraley's hall on Tuesday, September 23, beginning at 8 o'clock, and everybody is invited to be present.

Mrs. Arthur Michael and son returned to their home in Detroit, Mich., last Friday after a visit of several weeks with friends and relatives near town.

770 STUDENTS ENROLLED IN SCHOOLS OF OAKLAND

High School Opens With 375 Present; Grammar School Has 325 and Parochial School 70

With an enrollment of 770 pupils, the three Oakland schools opened for the nine-months' term on Monday, the 8th inst. The enrollment in each of the three schools is larger than in previous years.

Oakland High School opened with an enrollment of 375, an increase of 63 over the same period last year, with the probability of several more coming in who are usually delinquent in the beginning of the term.

Oakland Grammar School opened with an enrollment of 325, an increase of 56 over the same time last year. The enrollment at St. Peter's Parochial school was 70, showing an increase over last year.

While crowded conditions in the high school have been relieved by reason of the recent addition of a number of class rooms and the enlargement of the assembly hall, the Grammar school remains crowded beyond capacity. Classes are being conducted on a temporary schedule until a more complete and permanent one can be arranged.

One hundred forty-three of those enrolled in the high school are freshmen; 104 are sophomores; 82 are juniors and 46 are seniors.

Fifteen Instructors in High School

There are fifteen instructors in the high school this year and include F. D. Bittle, principal; W. W. Jenkins, mathematics; Miss Rose Rice, English and Latin; Miss Edna Kraft, French and English; Miss Martha Engle, biology; Miss Margaret Kochenderfer, English; Foster Speicher, history and general science; W. K. Whitcraft, mathematics; Calvin S. Warner, history; Miss Mary Louise Thomas, English; Nathan B. King, history; Miss Eva Falkenstein, home economics; Oren T. Graser, agriculture; Miss Monna Bland, music; E. S. Smith, commercial.

Two new teachers are on the staff of the Grammar school instructors. Morris L. Stier, Glenelg, Md., is the principal, while Miss Virginia Casteel, Oakland, has charge of part of the first grade pupils. The others include Mrs. Ernest C. Liller, Edwin Elias, Mrs. Mabel Sollars, Miss Lucille Mitchell, Miss Beulah Loughridge and Miss Marion B. Leary.

This is the first year that the Grammar school has required eight instructors on its staff, and this has been made necessary, it is stated, through transportation of pupils from the outlying districts. The heavy increase in the high school enrollment was also attributed to transportation of pupils who would otherwise not be able to attend.

STATE OFFICER CURRIE IS BADLY INJURED IN MISHAP

Found In Unconscious Condition Along Highway Near Havre de Grace—Well Known Here

Corporal Thomas Currie, of the State police, is in a critical condition at the Havre de Grace Hospital from injuries reeeived Monday while he was attempting to overtake a truck which figured in an accident on the Philadelphia road. He had recently been granted a six-month furlough to visit his widowed mother in Scotland and had planned to sail on October 1.

Dr. Charles J. Foley, who is attending the officer, said he had concussion of the brain, a fractured right collar bone, a fractured right shoulder, four or five broken ribs and internal injuries.

Women and Boy Aid

Shortly after he had been called from the Wilna substation to assist in the investigation of the accident Currie, near Churchville, stopped a car driven by Mrs. Myrtle Parsons, of Havre de Grace, and warned her to stop at the nearest garage and have the tail light of her machine fixed. The officer then continued up the road.

About half a mile farther on Mrs. Parsons noticed a motor cycle tangled in a barbed wire fence beside the road. Accompanied by a small boy, who was riding with her, Mrs. Parsons investigated and found Currie unconscious in a field at the bottom of an embankment. Aided by the boy, she dragged him back through the wire fence to the road, put him in her car and drove to the hospital.

State police, investigating the case, believe that Currie was forced from the road by an automobile which he met coming toward him.

The furlough granted Currie to visit his home in Scotland would have been the first opportunity to see his mother since the death of his father six months ago. He had the furlongh with him when he was injured.

Another officer, State Policeman Gilbert A. Wollenburg, received the first call concerning a collision between a truck and a sedan on the Philadelphia road near the Gunpowder river bridge.

When he arrived at the scene he learned that the truck driver, enroute to Philadelphia, continued on when occupants of the sedan said they were unhurt. A call was sent to the Wilna substation and Currie was assigned to overtake the driver of the truck near Aberdeen.

The truck could not be located.

Well Known Here

Corporal Currie is well known in Oakland and nearby towns, having been in charge of State Police work in this section for about two years.

Miss Benthien Injured in Automobile Accident.

Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent, was badly bruised and shaken up Monday night when the Packard automobile owned and driven by Sheriff William D. Casteel went down an embankment on the Mountain Lake-Deer Park road and turned over several times. The driver was badly shaken up but was not seriously injured.

Miss Benthien was thrown from the car as it went over and suffered an injury to her back and severe bruises. Mr. Casteel and Miss Benthien were brought to Oakland where the latter has been bedfast since. No bones are broken. It was at first feared that she had suffered internal injuries, but fortunately this is not the case.

LOCAL YOUTHS ARE BEING HELD IN PRESTON COUNTY

Said to Have Stolen Automobile From in Front of Sheriff's Residence on September 3

D. A. DeWitt, 24, and Alfred Weimer, 15, both of Oakland, are being held in the Preston county jail, Kingwood, W. Va., after an exciting chase in which Sheriff W. W. Williams succeeded in running down two young men who had stolen one of the county's Ford sedans at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning, September 3.

They were overtaken by the sheriff on the Monongahela river bridge at Morgantown, West Va., In explanation of their escapade before Magistrate E. C. Everly Thursday afternoon, DeWitt told that they had walked to Kingwood from Oakland and were on their way to Morgantown to visit with relatives. Being somewhat tired when they reached Kingwood he says they decided to take the automobile and leave it in Morgantown upon their arrival there.

But when they learned that Sheriff Williams was after them they decided to get away, so he claims, with the result that they were overtaken and taken back to the Preston county jail.

DeWitt is being held for the action of the Grand Jury in November and Weimer, who maintains he is but 15, is being held for an appearance before Judge A. G. Hughes, in juvenile court.

Officers feel certain that Weimer is much older. His action at the time of the runaway and since his arrest indicate that he is much past the age ho has admitted.

Sheriff Williams overtook but could not pass the fleeing car at Indian Rocks, Masontown, and at the Walnut street bridge in Morgantown, and each time was almost wrecked by the runaways. He fired a number of shots at the car during the chase which failed to have any effect.

Horseshoe Tournament Date Set for September 18

The championship horseshoe pitcher of Garrett county will he chosen at the Fair grounds, Oakland, on Thursday, September 18, according to an announcement received this morning from the Playground Athletic League and the Sunpapers of Baltimore, under whose auspices the tournaments are being held. Play will start at 10 a. m.

The county champion will receive as a prize a silver cup and will also represent his county in the State championship contest which will be held at Patterson Park, Baltimore, on October 15.

A P. A. L. referee will be in Oakland on September 18 and officiate at the contest. A final meeting of those interested will be held this evening in the City hall. All those desiring to enter the tournament should communicate with W. E. Spoerlein, Gortner, county chairman.

Library Debt Cleared

About $25 was cleared by the Garrett County Free Public Library at a card party held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Traver, Mt. Lake Park, which liquidates the debt remaining after $90 had been realized from the benefit dance recital and sale of tags, held recently.

About 28 attended the card party. Refreshments were served and a number of prizes awarded. Miss Emily Bolgiano gave two readings. The committee in charge included Mrs. James Willison, Mrs. H. A. Loraditch, Mrs. Ralph Kercheval, Mrs. Charles J. Bolgiano, Mrs. W. J. Traver.

DR. M'COMAS NOMINATED; MAJORITY OF NEARLY 1200

Official Returns Show Local Physician Led Ticket With 2,385 Votes—Balloting Heavy

W.W. DAWSON,PROSECUTOR

Official returns of the primary election, held by the Republicans in Garrett county Monday, give Dr. Henry W. McComas nearly a two to one majority in the race for the nomination for State Senator over his opponent, N. R. Selby. The majority accorded Dr. McComas by the county people is 2385, and he leads the ticket by several hundred. The fight between the opposing candidates was clean-cut from start to finish.

More than 3600 votes were cast in the primary, which shows that about 75 per cent of the registered voters in the Republican party participated. Interest ran high at all of the polling placcs, but as far as can be learned everything was done in an orderly manner.

Arthur G. Cullers, Otho S. Fike and Albert Markley were nominated for the House of Delegates by comfortable majorities, Markley being the only succesful candidate for the House who was re-nominated.

George D. Browning, up for renomination as a member of the Board of County Commissioners, received 1948 votes and was one of the high men on the ticket. James A. Fitzwater and George W. Harvey were the two other succesful nominees.

W. M. Frazee won out over W. G. Meyers for nomination as Clerk to the Board of Commissioners by a 75 majority.

Jesse J. Ashby, Jr., had a comfortable lead in his race for the Treasurer's office, although Cheston H. Browning and Mrs. Ellen I. Lee both pulled heavy votes.

Guy O. Yutzy was the succesful candidate for the nomination for Sheriff, but was closely pressed by J. S. Teats, who was only 110 votes behind. Martin L. Groves and Lester Bittinger were in the running, but Bittinger was 70 votes behind Teats and Groves was fourth in the race with 438.

Thomas E. Bishoff, Truman W. Casteel and Homer Friend were successful in the race for Judges of the Orphans' Court, with Truman W. Casteel high man with 2100 votes.

E. E. Friend was easy winner in the nomination for Register of Wills, with 1961.

E. R. Jones, with 2154 votes, led the ticket for members of the Republican State Central Committee, which committee contemplates an early organization and will then functlon. Other members of the committee are Neil C. Fraley, Henry P. Miller and Benj. H. Sincell, all of whom received substantial majorities.

Republican Ticket Filled.

With the filing on Monday afternoon by the Republican Committee with the Board of Supervisors of Elections of certificates of candidacy, the Republican ticket, in which there were two vacancies, was filled.

Mr. Walter W. Dawson, Oakland, was named as the candidate for the office of State's Attorney, and Mr. C. Milton Sincell was named for County Surveyor.

Mr. Dawson is associated in the law practice with Mr. E. R. Jones, having been admitted to bar some time ago. The candidate, has already shown great ability in pleading and practice before the Court. He is a man of pleasing personality and is a natural-born speaker, ready at all times to respond upon occasion for an address and always leaves a good impression.

Mr. Sincell has been County Surveyor for a number of years and is unopposed for re-election.

Other nominations made by the Republicans were W. H. Smouse, L. C. Bray, C. N. McIntire and L. M. Fraley as delegates to the Republican State convention.

Mr. Miller Withdraws Candidacy.

Mr William Miller, of Accident, who was nominated for State Senator by the Democratic committee at its recent meeting, withdrew his candidacy this afternoon by filing with the Board of Supervisors the necessary papers.

Fuller Barnard, Jr., lost to David J. Lewis for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Democratic primary. Lewis had 610 votes to 115 for Barnard.

In the only other race on the Democratic side, Walter H. Haenftling defeated Charles R. Welling for Sheriff 521 to 208.

The official returns, by districts, will be found on page eight of this issue.

GORTNER

All are most cordially invited to attend services in the church here on Sunday morning and evening.

TYPHOID MAY BE AVOIDED BY BOILING WATER USED

Possibility of Contamination Is Increased By Drought

"To avoid typhoid fever and other intestinal diseases, boil your drinking water unless you are sure that your water supply is free from contamination," is the advice of Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, gives to all who depend upon private water supplies. He gives the same advice to campers, hikers, motorists and others who are tempted to quench their thirst at springs or at streams.

"Because of the drought," Dr. Riley said, "the possibility of contamination from surface drainage is much greater than it is during a normal season. Even a long, rainy spell would not decrease the danger. A heavy rainfall following such a prolonged drought is likely to wash accumulated filth into water courses and unprotected water supplies.

"Largely from this cause there has been an increase in typhoid all over the country. We have had one severe outbreak in Maryland this season, but it was due to contaminated milk, not water. Through the early discovery of the sources and their correction, the outbreak was brought under control and was confined to one section. In connection with it, all users of milk from unprotected sources were urged to boil their milk. And that advice holds good at any time. It is equally important for drinking water from questionable sources to be boiled.

"Typhoid fever is one of the diseases that leaves a trail of danger to others. Persons who have made a good recovery may continue to discharge the germs and so be a source of infection to others. We call such persons "carriers." If they are careless and not clean in their personal habits, any food they prepare for others may become contaminated. Consequently such persons cannot be employed with safety to others as food handlers, in dairies, packing houses, public eating places, or in any other occupation where food is prepared for sale or for the table.

"Persons who have had typhoid at some time—even a number of years ago—may be carriers without knowing it. The only way by which they can safeguard others is by cultivating personal habits of the strictest cleanliness and by always washing their hands thoroughly before preparing food for the table.

"We can be protected against typhoid by vaccination. If you have not been vaccinated against typhoid within the last year or two, go to your doctor for the three inoculations that are necessary to protect you against the disease. If you can't reach your doctor, go to the nearest health officer and have it done."

Sheriff W. D. Casteel, of Oakland, was here Sunday morning en route to Grantsville.

The story is told of two very brave fellows who, wishing to frighten some of their timid neighbors in this community, secured some sort of instrument with which they imitated the call of a wild cat, and then concealing themselves in the woods near the neighbor's home, used the instruments lustily. The imitation wild cat calls continued for some time, but none of the neighbors appeared. However, two wild cats, attracted by the calls, came stealthily through the woods and so frightened the brave jokers that they hastily fled from the scene, calling for some one to bring forth a gun and rescue them. No proof of the yarn is at hand at this time.

Mrs. Oliver C. Buckle made a business trip to Cumberland last Saturday.

The completion of the painting of the O. C. Buckle residence in town has greatly enhanced the appearance of the building.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1930

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Rev. G. W. W. Amick, then on a visit to Oakland friends and relatives, preached in the Lutheran church Sunday morning. He had been pastor of the local church previously to that time.

Harry Hinebaugh was injured by having his hand caught in a machine at the Scherr woolen mill near town.

Joseph E. Harned was at Wheeling, W. Va., where he visited the West Va. State Fair.

The Oakland Hotel closed for the season.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Tuesday night at Mountain Lake Park, Samuel J. Slabach met death suddeny and painlessly when he grasped a fallen telephone wire which had become crossed with a live electric light wire.

With the first section of the new State road leading north from Oakland nearing completion, residents and property owners on Second street pledged one thousand dollars and the City Council pledged the additional amount necessary to build two blocks of roadway between the State road to connect with the brick pavement on Second street.

The remains of Michael Carney, 27, of Hutton, were discovered on the B. & O. tracks, where he had been run over and killed by a westbound train of freight cars.

H. R. Laughlin spent several days at his home in Deer Park, returning later to Grafton, where he was superintendent of the Monongah Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Harvey H. Miller, of Grantsville, assisted in rescuing a party of three Philadelphia balloonists who were forced own on Negro Mountain and became lost in the woods of that section.

MT. LAKE PARK

Mrs. William Skyles and daughter, Mrs. Walter W. Pollard, Jr., have returned to their homes in Philadelphia and New York, after spending the summer at the Park.

Mrs. John L. Brenneman is in Gormania visiting relatives.

Mr. Curtis B. Fleming, a prominent oil man of Fairmont, a brother of Fred V. Fleming, was a week-end visitor at the Park.

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. L. T. Yoder, at her home in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Yoder was one of the pioneer residents here, her husband having installed the present water system.

Mrs. Frank Morgan motored to Baltimore Tuesday morning, where she will be the guest of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Clark and children, Scranton, Pa., are at their cottage for a short stay.

In keeping with the spirit of the construction of the new road to Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Lipscomb have lately repainted their residence.

Mr. William Burch, New York City, is the guest of his mother, Mrs. Wm. T. Burch, at her home in Loch Lynn Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Bushrod Grimes and daughters returned to their home in Morgantown, Sunday.

The Oakland Library Association gave a benefit bridge Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Traver. Quite a number were in attendance and a nice sum was realized. Miss Emily Bolgiano, of Baltimore, pleased with a number of splendid readings.

The Misses Bonnie and Gertrude Calhoun, of the Park, and Miss Alma Calhoun, of Cumberland, spent several days the past week motoring through the Shenandoah Valley, visiting the Endless and Shenandoah Caverns and other points of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Graef, of Ft. Atkinson, Wis., who have been visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Enlow, have returned to their home. Mrs. Enlow and Miss Helen Enlow returned with them at Ft. Atkinson, where they will remain for some weeks. Mr. F. R. Utterback motored with them to Connersville, Ind., where they were met by Mr. Graef, who had returned home some time ago.

The membership of the U. B. church, Loch Lynn, are rejoicing that Rev. Jessee was returned for another year to that charge by the late General Conference. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jessee are deservedly popular, both with the congregation and friends of the church.

Miss Vivian Clary is visiting friends and relatives in Grafton, W. Va., this week.

Mr. A. W. Clary, Washington, D. C., formerly teller in the Garrett National Bank, has been visiting relatives and greeting his many friends here and in Oakland during the past week.

Mr. Charles S. May, who has been quite ill at his home, we understand is somewhat improved.

Capt. Hayden, who is also seriously ill, is slowly improving in general health.

Mrs. Chas. B. Johnson and family have closed their cottage and returned to their home in Clarksburg.

Clothing for Children of School Age Needed at Once.

It will be impossible for some children to enter school this year unless they are supplied with clothing. There is sufficient clothing stored away in some homes for this purpose which will become moth eaten if not made use of soon.

Many summer homes are being closed and clothing may be packed away and eaten by mice before next year, that is so much needed in homes where children cannot enter school unless the clothing is furnished them.

The health nurse, Miss Martin, will know how to place any clothing you may have if she is called at the Court House before Saturday.

She wants dresses, underclothing and shoes for girls, and for boys of school age suits, underclothing and shoes.

Championship Series Arranged

A series of games has been arranged between the Shallmar baseball club and the Crellin A. C. for the championship of Garrett county, also between Oakland and Crellin. The first of the games will be played next Sunday at Crellin. The game will get under way at 2 o'clock with Shallmar, and will be followed immediately by a game with Oakland. All persons are invited to attend these games. Shallmar will present a strong lineup, having played with some of the best teams in Western Maryland.

DIED.

MRS. SUSAN HARVEY

Mrs. Susan Moon Harvey, aged 87 years, widow of the late Simon Harvey, died Tuesday at the home of her son, Scott Harvey, near White Church in the Ryan's Glade section. She will be buried this afternoon at 2 o'clock with services at the White Church and interment made at the White Church cemetery. She is survived by one son, Scott Harvey, and one daughter, Mrs. Alice Zimmerman, of Mt. Lake Park.

To the Voters of Garrett County

As the nominee of the Republican party for the office of State's Attorney for Garrett County I hereby solicit the support and influence of all citizens of the County.

If elected State's Attorney at the November election I promise a faithful, honest, and just administration of the duties of this office.

Respectfully yours,
WALTER W. DAWSON.

Republican Senatorial Candidate Appreciates Large Vote Given Him.

To the Republican Voters:
Accept my heartfelt gratitude and deep appreciation for your wonderful support at the recent Republican primary election.
Sincerely yours,
HENRY W. McCOMAS,
Republican Candidate for State Senator.

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF GARRETT COUNTY.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—
I want to extend my sincere thanks to the Republicans thruout Garrett county for the splendid support they gave me in the primary election on last Monday for the nomination for Member of the House of Delegates. I shall now make an aggressive canvass for election in November, and if elected I will energetically and conscientiously serve in the county and State.

Hoping to have a continuation of your favors at the general election, I am,
Gratefully yours,
ALBERT MARKLEY,
Republican Candidate for House of Delegates.

H. M. Speicher Expresses His Appreciation

To the Republicans of Garrett County:
I desire to express to the Republican voters of Garrett county my appreciation for the fine vote given to me in the primary on Monday.

While I naturally regret the fact that I was not one of the successful candidates, all could not win and believing that it was a fair and free primary and expression of the voters' wishes, I am entirely satisfied to accept the result. I thank those who voted for me and have no ill-will for those who did not.

Now that the primary is over, I think that it is the duty of all loyal Republicans to support the ticket that has been nominated. I shall give all the candidates my heartiest support and trust that all other defeated candidates and their friends will join me in this.

Every candidate on the ticket, from the Governor down, should be elected. Let us all get behind them and see that this is done.

Respectfully yours,
HENRY M. SPEICHER.
Accident, September 10, 1930.

A Card from James A. Fitzwater.
